British House Suspends Sitting Amidst Uproar

Eden Refuses to State If War Declared on Egypt

LONDON (Reuters)—The House of Commons broke up in an excitedly uproarious session today as the opposition attacked the government's Middle East intervention policy.

The session was suspended for half an hour.

The international action by the Speaker of the House William Morrison, came after the emotional and tumultuous scene lasting 30 minutes.

During it the government was pressed unavailingly by the opposition to say whether it had actually declared war on Egypt.

Repeatedly the Speaker tried to get the House to deal with the censure motion which Labor has put forward on the government's military intervention in Egypt.

DEMAND ANSWER

But the opposition bellow "no, no," — insisting on a governmental answer to their question.

The police pressed by the opposition was that if no state of war has been declared servicemen involved had no protection if they fell into the hands of those they were attacking.

Morrison said "I am certainly not going to have the Chair put in the position of not being heard in this House. Sitting suspended for half an hour."

Members of the opposition stood in their seats and shouted "resign, resign" to Sir Anthony Eden and his government ministers.

Eden and the other members of the government present immediately rose and joined out in tremendous barrage of shouts and cheers from the Labor benches, equally strong cheers from Conservatives.

SEEMS ASHAMED

A few minutes earlier Labor leader Hugh Gaitskell said that many of British people are deeply shocked and ashamed—British aircraft are bombing Egypt.

Evening his point about the legality of British position. Gaitskell said about Eden that "if he has any doubt about the situation left at all, he should make a statement."

Eden said that the government has made no declaration other than that it was called upon to defend Israel to quit fighting, to keep clear of the Suez Canal and to enable British and French forces to take over control of the waterway.

Eden's reply touched off the pandemonium.

Frost Names Duncan Hydro Chairman

TORONTO (CP)—Two new cabinet appointments and a new chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission were announced Wednesday night by Premier Frost of Ontario.

He said William Warrender, who has been first vice-chairman of the hydro commission and acting municipal affairs minister, has resigned from Hydro and will take over municipal affairs full time.

Thomas Ray Connell, Progressive Conservative member for Hamilton-Wentworth, was named minister without portfolio and will join the commission as second vice-chairman.

Toronto businessman James S. Duncan was named Hydro chairman, succeeding Richard L. Hearn whose resignation becomes effective today.

The new appointments were to be sworn in today by Lieutenant-Governor Breithaupt at Queen's Park.

HEARN IS CONSULTANT

Mr. Hearn will remain with the commission as a consultant, Mr. Frost said. Mr. Warrender succeeds William Goodfellow, who recently was appointed agriculture minister.

Two other executive changes at Hydro were also announced in what Mr. Frost said is an attempt to make the commission's organization more like a business corporation.

W. Ross Strike, a commissioner, was named first vice-chairman succeeding Mr. Warrender. Mr. Duncan, Mr. Connell and Mr. Strike are to form a three-man executive which will carry on the commission's day-to-day business.

David P. Cliff of Dundas was named to a non-executive portion of the commission. It is to meet at regular intervals with the executive to discuss policy and long-range planning.

Albert A. Kennedy remains a member of this group, but a third position will remain vacant at present, Mr. Frost said.

An advisory board of private citizens from across Ontario, now made up of Hydro employees, is to be re-organized, he said, but no details were given.

CLARIFY TITLES

Legislation clarifying titles is to be presented at the next legislative session, Mr. Frost said.

Mr. Duncan, 61, was one of several persons mentioned as a possible successor to A. M. Hearn, whose retirement has been expected.

Today's Chuckle

Some husbands are wonderful. Take Bill, for instance. He's been married ten years and has never stopped being romantic. Of course if he finds out I told you about it, she's going to break his neck.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synoptic: Fine from coast to coast except for ragging mild moist air from over the Atlantic is now overspreading the entire Maritimes, will push inland today. Colder air, which now covers the Prairies, will push eastward into the northern regions Friday.

Canada Makes No Decision On New Crisis

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson left a cabinet meeting today and said he can make no official comment on Canada's attitude to British and French armed intervention in the Middle East.

The cabinet meeting is expected to break up momentarily.

Mr. Pearson said he plans to leave Ottawa at 1:30 p.m. for the extraordinary session of the UN General Assembly in New York.

As the cabinet met, Mr. Pearson left word reporters no decision had been reached on Canada's stand in the Middle East crisis.

In reply to questions, he said he has no criticism or commendation of the stands taken by other governments. He has been asked about Australia's and New Zealand's support for Franco-British armed action.

It was not definite whether Mr St. Laurent would announce the government's position after the meeting or wait for Mr. Pearson to do so at his afternoon press conference session of the UN General Assembly.

External Affairs Minister Pearson plans to fly to New York today. He will represent Canada at the special emergency session of the United Nations General Assembly, called to meet at 5 p.m. EST today to consider the Middle East crisis.

The cabinet met at 10:30 a.m. EST. They were expected to decide not know when the meeting would end.

A reporter, opened the questioning by stating the position taken by Australia in support of the British and French moving in on the Middle East.

"That is official affair," Mr. St. Laurent said. "We have no criticism or commendation to make of what other governments choose to do.

We have made no decision where Canada stands."

U.S. Looks to Canada for Support In Its Clash With Britain, France

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States is looking to Canada for support in the diplomatic clash with Britain and France over their decision to intervene in the Middle East fighting.

There have been no direct overtures to the Canadian government but it can be said authoritatively that the state department hopes that Canada, in this instance, will throw its moral and diplomatic weight behind Washington rather than London.

The U.S. hope for Canadian support is based in part on the fact the Americans always have regarded Canada as their strongest supporter and ally, next to Britain and France, in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. There is a real fear here that the Suez tangle might lead to the break-up of NATO.

Both the White House and the state department are represented as profoundly shocked and dismayed by the Anglo-French decision to occupy the Suez Canal zone. They are also surprised by the British decision, especially, to take such a step without prior consultation with Washington.

Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden's promise that the occupation will be only "temporary" is brushed aside as diplomatic double-talk.

Here is an outline of the American position, as stated by a high U.S. official who declined to be identified:

Ike Pledges No Involvement By U.S. But Depends on UN

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower, having ruled out use of United States armed forces in the present Middle East fighting, looked to the United Nations today to find a way of solving "this tormenting problem."

"In the past," the president declared in a radio-television broadcast Wednesday night, "the United Nations has proved able to find a way to end bloodshed.

"We believe it can and will do so again."

He did not suggest specific steps the U.S. might take to carry out a policy which he defined as "to do all in its power to localize the fighting and to end the conflict."

Eisenhower said the UN General Assembly — now in session — called into special session, this afternoon—should be the forum for "the opinion of the world" to bear on the situation created by Israel's attack on Egypt and the British-French intervention.

The president chided Britain, France and Israel—and added that all had been provoked by Egyptian actions.

Eisenhower said he has no plan to call a special session of Congress. He promised a bi-partisan close contact with congressional leaders.

He arranged a full-scale review of the Middle East crisis with his National Security Council Wednesday, today. Civilian and uniformed chiefs of the armed services were asked to sit in with the National Security Council.

Eisenhower described the tangled situation in his speech, and then said: "In the circumstances of the present crisis there will be no United States involvement in these armed hostilities."

Eisenhower declared that the Israeli, British and French decisions to attack Egypt were decisions "taken in error."

Soviet Troops Quit Budapest But Ire Against Nagy Rises

VIENNA (AP)—Battered Budapest was virtually free of Soviet troops today, but the Russian-cast Hungarian capital's streets were reported forming a cordon around the Hungarian capital.

Reinforcement mounted against Communist Premier Imre Nagy's regime.

By Wednesday night most of the Soviet tanks, artillery and foot troops had cleared out of the city under threat of bombardment by the Hungarian air force.

Travellers returning to Vienna today from Hungary said, however, that Soviet tanks and infantry troops appeared to be taking up positions around Budapest.

Budapest radio said Nagy's government had sent Moscow a note demanding that Soviet delegates be named to confer with Hungarian officials on withdrawal and withdrawal of Russian troops from the whole country.

Despite this announcement and Nagy's promise of free elections and other reforms, demonstrations grew against his regime. Nagy himself did not take over control of the rebellion, it said.

"Out with the government of murderers" shouted a crowd of 2,000 demonstrators in Kossuth Square outside parliament.

Radio Budapest today said a move was afoot to make Cardinal Mindszenty Hungarian premier, but there was no confirmation of the report.

The Roman Catholic primate, freed by a Hungarian army task force Tuesday night from a castle at Tapiobicske, was aided in a tumultuous welcome when his release was announced. Hungarian tanks and troops threw a protective ring around his palace in the Buda district.

The Cardinal scheduled a press conference for Friday.

Hungarian troops, bolstered by armed civilians, were seen carrying out on the outskirts of Budapest. It was believed they were out to flush out the last units of pro-violent Communists and spembers of the hated Hungarian secret police.

Budapest radio said the former Hungarian Communist party chief, Erno Gerne, and former premier Andreas Hegedus, who were ousted by the revolt against Red control, have left the country. Presumably they fled to the Soviet Union.

Street fighting was reported still on in the Csepel district between the victorious rebels and members of the state police near the Csepel Island radio transmitter station. Secret police officials also were hunted down in other parts of the city and their bodies burned in the streets.

In Pecs, Russian a mob of teenagers drenched the bodies of about 40 policemen in gasoline and set them afire.

Nehru Declares Asia, Africa Not Going to Tolerate Action

HYDERABAD, India (Reuters) Prime Minister Nehru declared here today that self-respecting Indian countries in Asia and Africa are not going to tolerate "clear and naked aggression" by Britain and France in Egypt.

Nehru also sent a message to Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold calling on the United Nations to take "effective action" on the Anglo-French and Israeli attacks on Egypt "to prevent the world plunging into war" and to demand the immediate withdrawal of all foreign troops from Egypt.

Nehru called the Anglo-French attack "not only an affront to the Security Council and violation of the United Nations Charter, but also likely to lead to the gravest possible consequences all over the world."

Before leaving New Delhi for Hyderabad earlier today Nehru said at the airport: "I do not remember any grosser case of aggression than what is happening today against Egypt."

India's K. Krishna Menon meanwhile described Anglo-French military intervention in the Middle East as "acute bestiality."

Menon, India's chief delegate to the United Nations, said in a public address here the "whole world must record its protest against this action directed against a nation and people who have committed no crime apart from their insistence on their national sovereignty."

"This action of two great imperial powers has created a situation in which everyone of the nations is threatened. What has happened to a nation today may happen to another tomorrow."

Non-Stop Raids Carried Out By British And French Planes Against Egyptian Airfields

Israel Declares Egyptian Troops In Sinai Desert Soon Will Be Trapped

LONDON (CP) — British and French planes from land and carrier bases carried on non-stop attacks on Egyptian airfields today, and the Egyptians claimed allied aircraft sank an Egyptian warship in the Suez Canal—blocking traffic and cutting off oil shipping to Europe.

Egyptian armed forces headquarters in Cairo issued a communique saying British and French warplanes raided Egyptian troops at crossing points along the canal and in the operation sank the Egyptian warship Akka in Timsah Lake just south of Ismailia, midway point of the canal.

Britain and France launched military operations Wednesday night with the declared purpose of protecting the waterway from fighting swirling between Egyptian and Israeli forces in the Sinai desert.

The Egyptians released no official information today on the fighting with Israeli troops. But the Israelis claimed Egyptian troops were in retreat and would soon be cut off in the Sinai Peninsula.

AVOID CANAL

Even before Egypt claimed blockage of the canal, shipping was reported turning back from the Mediterranean because of danger from military operations.

Egypt asked other Arab states to block Canada-bound oil from Middle East oil—the pipelines from the main production centres to Mediterranean ports.

Egypt broke off diplomatic relations with Britain and France; Jordan broke relations with France.

Cairo dispatches said five air raid alarms sounded in Cairo up to late afternoon and Egyptian military headquarters claimed six British planes were shot down over the Nile delta.

But Allied Forces Headquarters in Nicosia, Cyprus issued a communique saying that no losses have been suffered by the British and French aircraft.

NO GROUND ACTION

There was no word from Western nations had not shown up in the area of operations, but their landing craft were reported off Egypt.

RAF planes with cannon and rockets blasted Egyptian airfields, official announcements here and at Cyprus, their base, do the striking said. It was the Egyptian airfields in the Suez zone and Nile delta in which the RAF claimed 6 Russian-built MIG air force on the ground.

RAF pilots said they had destroyed 14 Egyptian planes on the ground, including Soviet MIG-15 fighters. The pilots said resistance was limited to ineffective anti-aircraft fire and an occasional fighter which attempted to intervene.

The reported sinking of the Egyptian warship in the canal followed the British announcement that another Egyptian warship had been sunk in the Red Sea off Suez, at the southern approaches to the canal. An admiralty spokesman for the Egyptian frigate Domiat went down under the guns of the British cruiser Newfoundland.

"The Domiat was carrying mines with the apparent intention of laying them in the area," said the admiralty announcement. It added 69 survivors from the Domiat had been picked up by British ships.

MARTIAL LAW

Nasser proclaimed martial law throughout Egypt and bestowed military governor-general of the country.

In a speech to his people, Nasser promised "we will fight from village to village, from place to place," until Egypt was victorious.

In the ground fighting, the Israelis claimed the capture of Rafa, at the southern end of the Gaza Strip not far from the Mediterranean. This suggested that the Israelis also had encircled the Gaza Strip area adjoining Sinai.

EGYPTIANS RETREAT

They may also have cut off the special Gaza Strip army of Palestine Arabs, trained and led by Egyptian officers. The Israeli army spokesman said Egyptian forces were "retreating in disorder," but declined to elaborate.

Israeli and Egyptian troops had been believed battling for the vital main highway stretching from the Israeli border across the Sinai Peninsula to Ismailia — midway point on the Suez Canal.

In the air action, the British spokesman said attacks against Egyptian airfields were ordered to go on throughout the day. He gave this picture of the raids:

British bombers dropped delayed action bombs with fuses of different lengths on Egyptian fields Wednesday night. He said these devices were used to give Egyptian personnel a chance to get away safely.

Fighters, on the ground, hangars and service installations were destroyed. Pilots said they met ineffective anti-aircraft fire. One pilot reported an attempted interception by an Egyptian fighter last night fighter.

Egypt claimed that six British planes were shot down, but the RAF in Cyprus said all planes on the clockwise number of planes sent on the Egypt raids had returned safely.

The London reports said the fighter-attack planes pounded the Egyptian fields in low-level runs using both rockets and cannon fire, Israeli observers reported hit at Abu Sueir, Fayid, Inchas, Kastreet and Cabrit.

A high command announcement from Cyprus said: "Allied aircraft have been operating in action over the Egyptian delta and Suez Canal zone since dawn. The following operation looks till now to be successful."

Eskimos Baffled by Ways of White Man in Arctic Says Winning Pilot

QUEBEC (CP) — An award-winning air pilot says the Eskimos are baffled by the ways of the white man in the Arctic.

"Why spend eight hours cutting a hole in the ice when you're not going to fish?"

Gerald Lester MacInnis, native of Mary River, P.E.I., told this anecdote Wednesday night while describing DEW radar line operations.

He received the McKee Trophy during a closing banquet of the Air Industries and Transport Association. He was honored for outstanding work on DEW line Arctic flying.

Mr. MacInnis, a captain with Maritimes Central Airways, explained that the ice-hole-digging by men — fishing white men — through 10 feet of ice—was necessary to determine whether the ice would bear the weight of fourengine aircraft.

Another speaker, John Fisher, executive director of the Canadian Tourist Association, said that less than 27 per cent of Canadians ever crossed a provincial border.

Canadians are the world's most travelled people on a per capita basis, he said. Last year, he said, we spend nearly five times more in visiting other countries than the Americans do. Canadians go to other lands and really do not know their own country.

J. G. Notman, president and general manager of Canadair Limited, Montreal, was installed as president at the closing meeting of AITA's 22nd annual convention. He succeeds E. H. Moorcrief of Winnipeg.

CAIRO (Reuters)—An Egyptian communique said Egypt claimed all navigation in the Suez Canal had been stopped as a result of the sinking of an Egyptian warship, the frigate Akka, by Anglo-French aerial bombing of the canal zone.

The communique said:

"British and French aircraft raided our land forces while they were crossing the Suez Canal at different points and especially near El Kantara (Ferdan) and bombarded the Egyptian warship Akka while passing through the Suez Canal near Timsah Lake.

"The ship was sunk in the canal and as a result navigation was stopped in the waterway."

El Ferdan is 10 miles north of Ismailia, midway point of the Suez Canal. Ismailia was one of the targets of British-French bombardment Wednesday night. Lake Timsah lies just below Ismailia.

The Egyptian statement added: "Britain and France stopped navigation in the Suez Canal by action at a time when they shook the world claiming they were protecting it from the danger of war.

"Air raids continued throughout the day on our cities of Cairo, Alexandria, Cairo and in the Suez Canal zone."

Egyptian military headquarters claimed six British planes shot down over the Nile delta.

Another British plane was damaged, a communique said. Four of the British planes failed to have been shot down over Alexandria, Egypt's second largest city.

Cairo's alerts lasted from 20 minutes to more than an hour each, but no air attack fire sounded here.

Police warned that the shells were potential killers if they were handled improperly and urged that they be turned over to parents to prevent and forestall possible injury.

Driver Leaves Scene of Crash

City police are seeking the identity of the driver of an auto which early after midnight ripped out two guide rail posts and struck a hydro pole on the Bay Bridge Road and then disappeared, leaving the car at the scene.

Police said the car apparently had been northbound and as it crossed the tracks knocked over two railway guard posts and loosened the hydro pole. Damage to the 1947 model car was about $200. Police are checking for the ownership.

Evidence Shows Fatal Shooting Climaxed Series of Squabbles Among Members of Family

BRIGHTON (Special) — Conflicting testimony was brought to light at the preliminary hearing here Wednesday into the murder charges against two youthful Warkworth farmhands involved in a family feud that resulted in the fatal shooting of farmer Roy Rogers, 30, on the night of August 27th.

Clifford Brough, 25, and Robert Wesley Hall, both worked on a farm run by the slain man's brother, Wesley Rogers.

Presiding was Magistrate R. B. Baxter of Cobourg. The witnesses were questioned by Crown Attorney H. R. Dyman of Cobourg.

The fatal shooting climaxed a series of squabbles among members of the Rogers family. Witnesses said Roy Rogers was shot on a farm owned by Wesley Rogers, had leased, from a brother Tom. Wesley in turn had rented the farm to Roy. He testified he had consulted a solicitor and was of the opinion he had a right to possession. Wesley said he had been in payments of a $500 mortgage on the farm held by his sister Mrs. Marjorie Page.

Mr. and Mrs. John David Lindsay, neighborhood farmers, were attempting to rent the place and had gone to see Roy Rogers to settle the matter the night Roy was shot.

Coroner Dr. Whiteside testified Rogers died from a bullet that entered the left side of his back, pierced his left lung and went through the lower part of the heart. His examination disclosed another bullet had hit the victim in the abdomen but the damage it caused would not be fatal.

AGREEMENT REACHED

Wesley Roger, older brother of the victim, was the first witness to testify. He told of a rent agreement that existed between Tom and his brother-in-law Tom's farm. I rented the place to Dr. Simon West at Campbellford because a doctor (veterinary) was needed in the locality. I went over to Tom's place to see who was snooping. The witness said machines had been smashed, telephone wires cut and hay and straw stolen while he'd been away on the farm. One day the witness continued, Marjorie (Marjorie Page was Roger's sister before her marriage to Robert Page) said to me 'I want to see my grain threshed.' I went to go downtown and have whom you like.' But after, what you've done to me you can't stay on this place. Then she started crying and I said 'I said you don't have to do this, there is a solution to the problem.'

Other incidents between the Wesley Rogers and Pages led up to the fatal shooting of Roy Rogers in a farmhouse on a lonely concession road one mile west of Warkworth on the night of August 27, evidence revealed.

Mrs. Wesley and his wife Edna went to the farm they rented from Mrs. Page. Wesley found the Robert Pages plowing in a field north of the house where they later died from gunshot wounds. When I told the Pages to get off the land Roger's uncle raised the plows and backed within two feet of my wife. I said don't touch her or there'll be real trouble.

Another time Wesley said he picked up a 10 gauge shotgun he had at a garage for repairs and when he found the Pages plowing on his place he fired two shots in the air when they wouldn't leave on his order.

HAD QUICK TEMPER

Under questioning by Kenneth Ross, defence counsel for Clifford Brough, Rogers described his brother Roy, as short stout and strong with a quick temper. "He was tantalizing to his wife," he replied to Mr. Ross's question. He was more apt to get me but violent with smaller people. "I had occasion to intercede because my brother was flogging Tommy" boys, he testified. "Then you'd say your brother had the reputation of a bully?" Mr. Ross asked. "Yes" answered Wesley Rogers. Bloody thicker than water I've gotta tell the true story."

Wesley Rogers returned to the witness box after recess he carried a four and a half foot green basswood stick. He explained to Crown Attorney H. R. Dyman, his sister's son, Howard, had threatened to beat him with it if Marjorie Page's son Ross Page family, a few days before the fatal shooting.

Regarding events of the night of Aug. 27, the witness said he was sitting talking to Mrs. McCubbin's in a house on Percy Partridge farm, some distance from the Tom Rogers' place he also rented.

"There was a knock on the door and I went to answer it," Bob (While) stood there. "Roy got it," he told me. He went to take a gun away from me. The gun went off and shot him in the stomach." I told Mrs. McCubbin something had happened and to call my other place. The wife asked Bob to take anything he had in the gun out of it.

"We saw the Lindsays when we pulled into the road and they met Cliff (Brough). He said 'I think Roy is dead. This is awful.' Lindsay (presumably the witness meant John Lindsay) turned and said, 'this is my place.' I said 'your place is on the road. You've caused enough trouble and you'd better get there'."

TALKED FOR MINUTES

"Then I thought Bob (White) and Mrs. I didn't want to involve your brother.' I said 'if you didn't mean to shoot him then don't have anything to worry about.' Then we stood there a few minutes and talked. I went back in the house, in the front, in the back and upstairs. I said: 'Maybe he's still alive and need help.' I went alone to Campbellford for the doctor and met Dr. Dick Burgess' car on the road and kept on going for Campbellford. I ran out of gas at Merrickville and after getting some continued to Campbellford. There I saw Dr. West and told him what had happened. Then I went back to the farm."

The witness said he never went into the house because when he heard noises all over the place he turned to his wife and said, 'That's him — he's threatening around in there trying to get up. My wife said 'If you go in there you'll be in serious trouble'."

The witness answered in the affirmative when Mr. Ross asked him if there was a telephone at a farmhouse midway between the Tom Rogers' farm and Mrs. McCubbin's house. He said he passed the door on his way to Campbellford.

Mrs. Wesley Rogers corroborated her husband's testimony. She said that the day Marjorie Page attempted to run her down with the tractor her son Ernest came along and threw a pail of water on Marjorie.

WENT TO FARM

John David Lindsay, who had been offered Dr. Wesley West's farm for $10 a month last spring by Wesley Rogers and then by Page said that was told he would have to pay $72 a month rent, testified that on the night of the shooting he, his wife, Marjorie, and Robert Page, Mrs. Page, Mrs. Rogers and Howard Page had gone to the West farm to speak with the doctor about getting the farm from him. Arriving at the farm house in Dr. Burgess' absence everyone got out and walked through the gate into the front yard. The group proceeded across the yard Brough and While met them. While carried a pointed rifles told the party of seven "don't come any closer."

However, Mrs. Rogers succeeded in getting Brough to lower the muzzle of his rifle. While, still keeping the group at gun point, backed into the house. Everyone but the Lindsays followed him in. Lindsay testified that he and his wife remained outside talking to Brough for a minute or so and then, leaving Brough alone, joined the others in the house just in time to hear Roy Rogers say to Bob While "Put down that gun." At the same instant Roy made a lunge for the rifle barrel.

"There were two shots. Roy turned around and fell against his face. I thought he was only kidding until I saw blood coming from his mouth. I was the only one who fired the shots. Brough didn't come into the house until they were fired. "After he shot Roy, While backed against the wall looking as if he was going out of his wits; then he ran into the dining room, but came back out to where we were in a few minutes. He kept saying 'Wes, told us it.' Then he said he was going to get Wes, and not anyone of us was to follow him."

STANDING ON LAWN

The witness said that when Wesley Rogers arrived with While the group of seven people were standing on the front lawn in front of the house where the shooting had taken place. Brough was still holding onto his rifle as was While. They did not relinquish the weapons until the provincial police arrived.

"When Wes came he asked me what I was doing there. I told him I had come to see Doc West. Wesley said for me to get in my car and beat it for home. Then Bob While said 'Yes, beat it before you get shot, too.' I don't remember anything about the ride home but I know I got out

$500 Damage In School Caused By Pranksters

Thanks to Hallowe'en pranksters, 45 pupils at Plainfield public school, are having a holiday today.

Garnet Denyes, member of the Plainfield school board 10 miles north of Belleville, said windows had broken into the school and had turned over every one of the 45 desks in the room. Instructional books valued at $500 were strewn about the room with many of them being ripped and torn, while ink was spilled on the books and on the blackboard. A mantle radio, also the property of the school, was missing.

The break-in at the school was discovered by Mrs. Ida Chumbley, caretaker. Mrs. Chumbley had visited the school just after midnight and found two or three seats had been overturned.

Later the pranksters returned in the early morning and the wholesale damage was discovered.

About half a dozen people are working all day today to clean up the mess so classes can be held Friday.

Wrestling Show Swells Coffers Of Centre Fund

TRENTON (Special) — A preview of things to come for the new Trenton Community Centre was held in December turned out to be a tremendous success here last night.

The first show staged by centre manager Ted Steadman attracted a full house. Some 1,350 people crowded into the drill hall on No. 6 Repair Unit to see a thrilling card featuring the TV midgets at their best. Referee Hec Dunlop added to the riotous exhibition but the mighty mites needed no help when the time came for laughmaking — which was almost without interruption throughout the entire 30-minute contest. Little Beaverbrook Kid Reed Lattimook won this match over Fuzzy Cupid and his equally diminutive partner, Tiger Tim Terrible.

Introductory boors went to Ski Boy Dan Dwyer and Chief. The result was a no-contest decision because both wrestlers were cautioned by the referee for more than the count of ten.

Bouncy Eric and Mr. Moto each took a fall but Moto lost the match when he persisted in attempting to beg lumberjack after the referee ordered him to stop.

Cliff Baker, chairman of the Community Centre committee, and Legion commanding officer of the Repair Depot for permitting the show to take place. It proved profitable for the centre to realize the proceeds for addition to the gymnasium.

LAKE CARGOES DOWN

CLEVELAND (AP) — For and strong winds delayed Great Lakes freighters last week and cut the week's shipment of iron ore to 3,971,108 tons, the Lake Superior Iron Ore Association reported today. That brought the season's movement to 68,133,292 tons, compared with 78,959,529 a year ago.

of there fast."

"Brough didn't have a thing to do with the shooting. I knew his gun was loaded because Mr. Page told him to empty it before they got there or else he would be implicated," continued Mr. Lindsay.

"When asked by While's lawyer, Mr. Stuart Ryan, why While had shot Roy Rogers in front of so many witnesses "if he were laying for him," Mr. Lindsay said, "the kid was scared out of his wits" of Roy.

'Doc' Card Ends 45 Years Of Service With Railroad

A 45-year railroading career was ended Wednesday when Edward "Doc" Card, Herchimer Avenue as he completed his duties on the Montreal-Toronto passenger run for the last time.

Now a C.N.R. passenger train No. 5 stopped at the north station Wednesday afternoon as in regular locally-run railway officials, friends and relatives of Mr. Card gathered to congratulate him on his final run as conductor and to express best wishes for his retirement.

Assisting Mr. Card on his final run was his son Donald Card, also a conductor with the C.N.R. Donald normally is a freight conductor working out of Belleville but railway officials at the Belleville station arranged for him to assist his father on his final run.

D. W. Flindall, president of the Belleville local of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, on behalf of members, presented Mr. Card with a wallet during the Belleville stop before the train steamed on to Toronto.

BORN NEAR KITCHENER

Born at Doon in the Kitchener area of Western Ontario, Mr. Card was raised at Hamilton where he early life he assisted his father in his trade as a painter.

But brickmaking was not for him and in 1911 he started with the old Grand Trunk as a brakeman at Hamilton. Five years later he was classed as a conductor and was based at Brantford from 1911 until 1926, then went to Stratford as conductor where he remained for a short time until 1941. That year he was moved to Belleville and has been continuing to live in this city, for the past seven years he has worked out of Toronto on the Montreal - Toronto passenger service.

CREWS RUN THROUGH

Differing from the schedule of operating crews which changed three times between Toronto and

"DOC" CARD

Montreal, for the passenger train crew it is a through ticket between the two metropolitan cities.

Conductors and trainmen work four through trips in succession, then have a two-day leave and repeat the schedule until at the end of seven days they have six days' leave.

Mr. and Mrs. Card are quite happy to retire in their adopted city and expect to remain in Belleville. Card is an enthusiastic woodworker and expects, following his retirement, to devote a great deal of his time to making jewelry commercially. Mrs. Card's hobby is her plants, the stately Card residence showing definite evidence of her interest in housepl ants.

The Cards have two sons, Donald, who has been in railway service since 1941, and Victor, a member of the Belleville 77th Depot band, and three grandchildren, all girls.

Hallowe'en Hooliganism Deplored By Principal of Albert College

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer,

Through the medium of your paper, I want to voice the strong feeling of disgust that I and the members of the Junior School at Albert College, have with the behavior of a large number of young hooligans that call themselves such this feeling is supported also, by the members of our Board of Governors, and all citizens who are interested in Belleville being a community of which we can be proud, and which others can respect.

We suffered a considerable amount of damage; our goal posts were torn down, several about eight panes of glass were broken; a bottle of paint was thrown into the Junior School, and a table and dishes. In addition, we had to go to a great deal of trouble and expense this "onslaught" by removing our signs, floodlights, etc.

The crowd of young people who came on our campus, and at the Manor, before and after our building is being erected, were not considered there for fun, but "friendly call." It is obvious that their intent was to do as much damage as they could get away with. It seems to me that this is an intolerable situation, and one which every right-thinking citizen would wish to see corrected and at once.

I want to emphasize that, as we have been the victims of college for a good many years, we had a planned program of recreation for all our students, and not any of them left our campus last evening. Some of the "big shots" in the gang of boys always try to take advantage of this situation by throwing taunts at our students, as if to say: "Why don't you come out and fight?"

I can answer for the college that we want no part of this hooliganism.

This report would not be complete if I failed to mention the personal indignity suffered by our Dean of Women, and a good number of our girl students. Moreover, I wish to repeat that we made thorough preparations for this expected, but unwelcome visit; had we not done so the damages to property and insults to persons would have been far greater.

I feel that the citizens of Belleville should know the facts in relation to this kind of behavior, and that they should let these young people know, in no uncertain terms, that it will be neither condoned nor tolerated.

E. MacKenzie,
Principal, Albert College.

IN MEMORIAM

COOK. — In loving memory of our dear brother, Fred Cook, who passed away October 31st, 1955.
A silent thought, a secret tear,
Unseen by many, ever dear;
Time takes away the edge of grief,
But memory brings it back every year.
Sadly missed by sister Ruth and Donna.

COOK. — In loving memory of our dear sister and brother, Fred and Clifford Cook, shot down over Belgium on October 31st, 1918.
There are many hallowed graves you see,
And flowers are strewn on them we know;
But the tears that are shed are in the heart,
And we treasure a sigh of regret,
For you were ours and we remember
Though all the world forgets.
—Sadly missed by Mum, sisters and brothers.

Four Members Expected to Run For Leadership

OTTAWA (CP)—At least four sitting members of Parliament are now expected to be in the running at the national leadership convention of the Progressive Conservative party here Dec. 10-15.

A high party source, who asked to remain unnamed, said Wednesday George Nowlan, 59-year-old Conservative Commons member, will be a candidate for the post vacated through the resignation of Hon. George Drew because of illness.

The source said the results of Tuesday's Nova Scotia election, when the Conservatives won power after 23 years of Liberal rule, will add weight to the "considerable pressure" being built up by supporters of Mr. Nowlan.

He said a delegation from Nova Scotia will meet him today and soon that Mr. Nowlan pose his candidature and that the Wolfville, N.S., lawyer will agree to do so.

THREE OTHER LAWYERS

He would join three other Conservative lawyer-MPs who had declared their candidacy or said they would allow their names to be proposed at the convention.

They are John Diefenbaker, 61, member for Prince Albert, Sask., who made unsuccessful bids for party leadership in 1942 and 1948; Donald Fleming, 51, member for Eglinton, who ran a third behind Mr. Drew and Mr. Diefenbaker in 1948; and Davie Fulton, 44, member for Kamloops, B.C.

Hon. Alvin Hamilton, Leo Balcer, 39, member for Trois-Rivieres, Que., and national president of the party association, has told a group of supporters he will announce later whether he will be a candidate.

Earl of Dundee Says Major War Not Probable

REGINA (CP) — The Earl of Dundee says British and French interests in the Egyptian-Israeli fighting is unlikely to provoke a world war.

Lord Dundee said in an interview Wednesday:

"So far as avoiding a world war is concerned — and that is probably the first thing — would have been better if we had acted three months ago. At that time there was practically no possibility of a major war."

In another three months it probably would be impossible to intervene without striking the match to blow up the powder keg which would result in a world-wide explosion.

The object of British policy was to prevent the whole Middle East and North Africa from going the same way as China.

Radioactivity Over New York At High Level

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Governor Averell Harriman reported today that the New York state health department had detected "a remarkably high" level of radioactivity in the atmosphere over New York City.

The governor said in a statement that the United States Atomic Energy Commission two days later ordered the department, without explanation, to stop its radioactivity monitoring program.

Harriman linked the high-level incident of Sept. 24 to a reported explosion of a Russian H-bomb on Aug. 30.

Hallowe'en Revelry by Teen-agers Brings Disorderly Conduct Charges

Over-enthusiastic Hallowe'en revelry on the part of a large group of local teen-agers who failed to obey a police order to move on, resulted in six of their number being arrested last night on charges of disorderly conduct.

The youths were taken to the police station where it was said they would be formally charged. They were later released and allowed to go home.

Police stated that earlier a group of teen-agers had stoned a police cruiser as officers went to check on a crowd at the Belleville Collegiate campus.

Inter-school rivalry between students at city high schools and Albert College apparently had something to do with the exuberance which ended with the apprehension of the six youths.

Early in the evening a large group of teen-agers had raided the campus at Albert College where goal posts on the football field were toppled and carried away.

Police said also that bottles filled with paint had been thrown through dining room and kitchen windows at Albert College, spilling glass and paint over floors and tables and ruining a special Hallowe'en dinner which had been prepared for college students. About $100 property damage was done in the college, it was stated.

Police said Albert College students were not involved. They said college students had been confined to the college for the evening with school officials preparing a special program and Hallowe'en dinner to compensate for any loss of outside fun.

The pilfered goal posts were carried downtown by the raiding teen-agers and a group estimated at about 400 later congregated on the Belleville Collegiate campus.

Fearing trouble over what appeared to be an argument over which particular group was to have custody of the Albert goal posts, police moved in to disperse the crowd. It was at this point that stones were heaved at the police cruiser.

Later the crowd moved downtown and when police orders to move were not complied with the six youths were taken to the police station.

Stevenson Harshly Critical Of U.S. Policy in Middle East

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Adlai Stevenson told a press conference Wednesday night that because of "pressures" the Eisenhower "disastrous" foreign policy in the Middle East, "the world is on the brink of war again."

Asked for comment on the president's broadcast on the Middle East crisis, the Democratic presidential nominee repeated a statement he had made in New York earlier in the day, accusing Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles of responsibility for the troubled Middle East situation.

Before leaving New York, Stevenson had wired Eisenhower asking for assurance that American troops would not become involved in the fighting in Egypt.

"I am glad that in his broadcast he assured us that he has no present intention of calling Congress into session or involving the United States in these hostilities," he said here.

DISASTROUS POLICIES

"I am not gratified, though, by the fact that the president failed in his broadcast to acknowledge that his foreign policies in the Middle East have been disastrous:

"That we have not won, by this erratic, vacillating policy, the confidence of Egypt which is dealing with Russia and the Arab states;

"That we have lost the confidence of beleaguered Israel surrounded by hostile neighbors and now evidently desperate;

"That thanks to our bewildering appeasements and provocations the Russian Communists have obtained a foothold in the Middle East the czars could not get in centuries;

"That we have alienated our allies, our oldest and staunchest allies, Britain and France;

"And finally, that the world is on the brink of war again, and we find ourselves on the side of Col. Nasser, the Egyptian dictator, and the Soviet Union, when Communist policy has for years been trying to divide the great Western allies."

Trying to Get Canadians Out Of Danger Area

OTTAWA (CP)—No Canadians other than those on official government business will be permitted to go to Egypt, Israel, Jordan and Syria.

An official of the external affairs department Wednesday night said no formal ban has been placed on travel to the Middle Eastern countries. However, he added, the government is trying to get Canadians out of the danger area and it would not be reasonable at the same time to permit travel to the four countries.

In Washington, the United States state department banned travel by Americans into Egypt, Israel, Jordan and Syria except where a trip is judged to be "in the best interests of the United States."

Two of Four Fugitives Caught

CAMPBELL'S BAY, Que. (CP) Two of four prisoners who escaped Wednesday night from Pontiac County jail here were recaptured early today when they were found at a farmhouse in the Shawville, Que., area, about 20 miles from the jail.

Farmer Bob Chamberlain phoned police when Albert Patry, 27, of Danford and Lucien Renaud, 23, of Ottawa showed up at his farmhouse in search of food. Patry was serving 10 months for breaking, entering and theft and Renaud six months for theft before the escape.

The other two prisoners were Donald Stewart of Great Village, N.S., serving three months for breaking and entering and theft and a month for theft, and Ferdinand Vaillancourt, 46, of Wolf Lake, Que., awaiting sentence after pleading guilty Wednesday to breaking jail last May.

PORT HOOD, N. S. (CP)—Two Halifax hunters were fined $100 and costs for hunting deer with lights. This brought to eight the total convicted on this charge in Cape Breton in October.

Marshal Badoglio Dies in Italy

GRAZANO BADOGLIO, Italy (AP)—Marshal Pietro Badoglio, who conquered Ethiopia for Mussolini and eventually signed Italy's unconditional surrender in the Second World War, died early today in obscure retirement. He was 85.

In failing health for months, the old soldier left his home in Rome last August to return to his native village. It had been named Grazzano d'Asti but was restamed in his honor.

United Appeal Over the Top

TORONTO (CP)—Canada's biggest community fund-raising campaign, the first Toronto United Appeal, topped its $7,198,511 goal Wednesday after a month-long campaign.

Campaign officials announced $7,280,640 collected or pledged and more contributions still to be received.

The target was 20 per cent more than the total amount raised by all the member charities in their 1955 campaigns. The amount raised was 1.1 per cent more than the target.

Officials said 27 individual campaigns were eliminated this year through the united campaign.

OTTAWA (CP)—Mrs. Florence G. Taylor, mother of Toronto industrialist E. P. Taylor, left an estate of $397,000. Her will was filed for probate Wednesday. Mrs. Taylor died here Sept. 12.

Residue is to be divided among Mrs. Taylor's grandchildren after several specific bequests. Including one of $50,000 to another son, Montreal artist Frederick B. Taylor.

E. P. Taylor, who had requested that nothing be left to him, was bequeathed $25,000 to give to charity.

Fleeing Police, Man and Woman Die in Accident

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—A 100-mile-an-hour flight from police ended in a car crash which killed a man and a woman and injured another couple early today at nearby Stamford.

Dead are Sharon Huggins, 18 and Herbert Priddle, 23, both of Niagara Falls.

In serious condition in hospita are the girl's mother, Mrs. Mary Melman, 37, of Niagara Falls and the driver of the car, Edwan Kolonny, 28, of Toronto.

Police said they chased the car for a mile after it sped out of a motel parking lot before it missed an S-turn, plowed through a field and crashed into a tree.

Downtown Hallowe'en Parade Biggest Seen in Some Years

Elvis Presley was here!

And so were several thousand other kiddies, youths and teenagers, who took advantage of Hallowe'en to parade Belleville streets in almost every conceivable costume and masquerade.

There were goblins, witches, clowns of all descriptions and hundreds of others just "clowning." But all were armed with chalk, and all made good use of it.

In bold soap printed letters the name of the teen-agers' popular singing star appeared on dozens of windows, with personal love notes such as "Ida loves Harry" lending a bit of variety to the general haphazard soap markings.

The downtown onslaught commenced shortly after the supper hour and rose to a peak about nine o'clock as the parade threatened to block traffic on Front St.

The house-to-house canvass of the younger kiddies got underway just before six as timid knocks on front doors revealed candy and apple seekers of every description.

Mild weather brought the masqueraders out literally in droves. One Bridge St. householder reported over 80 groups of callers with the candy and apple stock running out early in the evening, and it was general throughout the city.

Police reported there was little actual vandalism in the city, although officers of the law did have a run-in with a group of teen-agers, six of whom were arrested for disorderly conduct.

SIGNS SMASHED

A few rush hour route no parking signs were smashed, the odd stop sign was uprooted and park benches were found in the middle of the street. Some damage was reported at Albert College, and also at Plainfield public school.

But generally speaking the kiddies were out for innocent fun.

The window soaping brigade resorted to a bit of originality and several businessmen must have been chagrined at the messages which appeared on plate glass windows this morning.

Underneath big sale signs on furniture store windows appeared the words "Don't - be a Sucker" with accompanying arrows directing would be shoppers to opposition stores.

On windows of auto sales rooms the merits of opposition makes of cars were emblazoned.

A few Hallowe'en house parties undoubtedly kept a few of the youngsters off the street but from the number parading the downtown area they must have been negligible.

To sum it up, it was the biggest night to howl. And howl they did.

OPPOSES INCOME TAX

The overwhelming majority of the citizens of the United States will vote for a presidential candidate standing on a Communist plank. That, at any rate, is how the picture appears if we view the political scene through the glasses of Mr. T. Coleman Andrews of Richmond, Va. Mr. Andrews is himself a candidate for the presidency and Mr. Andrews is not standing on any Communist plank. He wants to abolish the income tax, which he says is "straight out of the Communist manifesto." Mr. Eisenhower and Mr. Stevenson haven't mentioned abolition of the income tax, so it follows that they are supporting a Communist-inspired tax.

There is a grain of truth in Mr. Andrews' theme-song for Karl Marx did look on the income tax as one of the most potent weapons which could be wielded in the revolt of the proletariat. To denounce it as Communist, though, may strike some people as a little far-fetched.

But let's get back to Mr. Andrews. Perhaps few have heard of him, but he is no johnny-come-lately to the political scene in the United States. He was formerly a Democrat—so influential a Democrat that he swung the Virginia Democratic state organization behind Dwight D. Eisenhower when Eisenhower ran for president on the Republican ticket in 1952. Eisenhower, of course, was elected and Mr. Andrews received certain rewards in important job in the administration. The job—collecting income tax for the entire U.S.

Mr. Andrews, after three years, was overcome by remorse and left his job. He now calls income tax "the worst thing that ever happened to our country." He is not the first man to denounce this tax in these, or similar, words. Almost of the opponents of income tax have never seem to be able to suggest a substitute. Mr. Andrews is no different. He would leave the task of deciding what would replace the income tax to a commission.

Mr. Andrews, running for the presidency on the Independent States Right ticket, has the support of a number of other groups which The Canadian Press describes as "right-wing splinter parties." Besides opposing income tax Mr. Andrews is also an opponent of foreign aid, federal aid to education and the union shop in industry. He favors racial segregation, high tariffs, suspension of immigration and "descolalization" of agriculture, whatever that may mean.

Mr. Andrews' handicap appears to be that he has too many ideas. In a list of controversial issues he seems to be certain to be on the wrong side of the fence on one of them, in the opinion of most voters. And being on the wrong side in one issue is going to be enough to lose him a vote. Opposing ideas like that he will have difficult in winning the votes of paupers, Negroes, the foreign-born, educationalists, union members, possibly farmers if they interpret "descolalization" of agriculture to mean the end of price supports, importers and internationalists.

Looks like the income tax law in the U.S. is fairly safe.

ARE WE AFRAID?

One of the rather amazing developments of the past decade has been the nonchalance with which most people appear to have adjusted themselves to walking with the possibility of death, not merely for themselves but for all they have and are, for all their children's future, to paraphrase Kipling.

There are people who live in dread of cancer, or ulcers, or T.B. or a heart attack, but we hear few stories about people living in dread of atomic dust. An exception must be made for the people in Japan, but there the circumstances differ; not only have two atomic bombs been exploded over them but ever since the end of the war Japanese people have been the victims of radioactive fall-out from nuclear tests.

Here in Canada, though and in the United States, too, the apparent unconcern of people with the possibilities of being killed by blast or radio-activity has been amply demonstrated. Consider the apathy with which all efforts to encourage civil defence training have been met by the majority.

Are the people really as unconcerned as they appear to be, or have they just decided that there is a danger about which they can do nothing, that no amount of preparation is likely to do much more than slightly lessen the casualty list if bombs are ever dropped, and that they might as well eat, drink and be merry, in case tomorrow they die?

If the reason behind this nonchalance under the shadow of the bomb is indifference rather than hopelessness, that may be revealed when the results of the U.S. presidential election are counted next Tuesday. For the Democratic Party's candidate, Adlai Stevenson, has advocated an end to the testing of nuclear weapons, has made it possible for U.S. voters to do something about the danger threatening them. It may be argued that Stevenson's approach is unrealistic, but that is beside the point if many people are really terrified by the fear of radio-activity. Terror does not listen to reason. If, on the other hand, Eisenhower wins the victory which is being widely predicted for him, we shall have convincing proof that people are just not worrying about the possibility of their world being blown to smithereens, or turned into a desert on which no living thing could breathe or grow.

Perhaps the true horror of the danger is too big for the human mind to grasp. The other explanation would be that most people believe the assurances of some scientists that the danger from radio-activity is not acute. That, however, is hard to accept in the face of opposite views from other scientists, just as well qualified by training to pass judgment on such matters. If this were a matter about which people were really worried, they could not afford to gamble on the accuracy of the happier prophets.

DOING WHAT COMES NATURALLY

According to Charles H. Crutchfield, vice-president and general manager of stations WBT and WBTV, Charlotte, N.C., Russian teen-agers have fallen head-over-heels in love with Elvis Presley and American rock 'n roll music—yet admit that they do not understand the lyrics "they like the way he does it."

Since these young Russians are by training taught to worship anything that kinds of twisting, disturbing and wiggling—their ability to "like the way he does it" comes naturally.

Swamped by Paper

Los Angeles Times

The time has come to put in a plea for the relief of the public from the menace of paper.

Paper constitutes a threat to health, comfort and peace and is, in 90 per cent of its uses, an unmitigated nuisance. It is the scourge of the greater part of the litter in public places.

The Chinese, as everybody knows, were the first to make paper, but it was the Egyptians who first released the paper flood upon the world. They defeated the Chinese in a battle at Samarkand in the middle of the eighth century and unhappily captured some Chinese papermakers.

Learning from them the manufacture of paper, they spread the knowledge through Europe. Paper mills were established in Italy and Spain in the 14th and 15th centuries, using machinery in the early stages of manufacture, and the deluge was on.

* * *

Now every household in America receives a daily freshet of publications of living are further vexed by the problem of what to do with it all.

Let us consider the sources of this paper. Much of it comes immediately that a major source is the neighborhood grocery or delicatessen, both for wrapping things, though that mania now is a deeply rooted American fetish.

Take for example a packet of cigarets. The cigaret comes entirely wrapped in its own packet. It is surrounded, first of all, by a liner of tinfoil. Around this is a paper wrapper, presumably to protect the tinfoil which is covering the cigarets. This leaves the outside paper wrapper unprotected against vicissitudes of the world. So this is swaddled in the cellophane wrapper.

Three coverings then protect this cigaret which is not to be passed on as an heirloom to one's grandchildren, but is to be set alight and burned at the first opportunity. But this is not all.

Ask for a package of cigarets, and a fourth covering, a cardboard box, is provided. And you will not be allowed to leave the grocery or drugstore without the cardboard box being put in a paper sack. No infant was ever so swaddled against the contamination of the world as the cigaret.

* * *

In my neighborhood I have achieved the reputation of being unsociable because I refuse to take paper bags from grocery stores in order to bring them in my own home. A package of cereal, already sealed in wax paper without an outer covering of cardboard, does not have to be packaged further. A newspaper paper bag to be carried through the streets. It is not, after all, a package of whiskey of a brand that would not normally be served with.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

November 1st., 1936

The City of Belleville Coal-Carriers have the following motto in Latin: "Magnum est Parsimonia Vectigal" — which being freely translated means "Economy is the Best Revenue". The coal-cart-arms may be seen on the glass in the doors to the main entrance to the city hall.

A cat which is enjoyed as a member of the mouse and rat catching brigade at Bishop's Falls desired to get out and see the sights last evening. It came through the cellar and succeeded in reaching the iron grating in front of the store; in its attempts to get out it caught its head in the grating and there it was was stuck. A crowd gathered and many suggestions were made as to the best means to release the cat, but none were successful until Police Constable Bill Perry arrived. As he knew all about cats and procuring a piece of card board he gently shaved the cat's head down through the grating thus releasing it. It passed out of sight quite unconcerned. The cat made a hasty retreat down the cellar and no doubt decided that it would be better after all to remain on the job than rest at the cat brigade and pass up the chance of a free bite.

Need to Alter Plane Control

Montreal Gazette

If there were any doubt about the need for an entirely new principle for aircraft controls it should now be dissolved. The story was released on Friday of the speed of a rifle bullet, coupled with the shells fired from its own cannon.

The speed of aircraft can exceed the speed of a bullet, it is understood, but the mechanical control and problems of traffic will arise. When it is recalled that the bullet is flying in opposite directions double this speed, the seriousness of the problem is apparent.

Human reflexes have been carefully timed. It takes so many seconds for an image, reflected in the human eye, to be translated into thought, then a decision, then a muscular action. When two planes are flying toward each other at 600 miles an hour, each one has combined speed of 20 miles a minute — those two or three seconds can mean the difference between safe flight and disaster.

The aviation industry has been working on the problem for years. As aircraft have grown larger and faster, more complicated they have sought to simplify the mechanical controls of the pilot, a losing fight. Today, the instrument dials of the largest aircraft in the world number only a dozen, the ceiling of the flight deck and out scanning is more rewarding.

With the introduction of jets into civilian air transport it is inevitable that it will be overtaken enough. An entirely new principle is needed.

This principle will be based on automation, on the lightning-fast reactions of an electronic "brains" which will do the great part of the calculations needed for him. His will be the decision, but the data given to him on which to arrive at his decision will be simple visual pictures.

Such data will be from the ground or from another aircraft are too slow. The pilot's own instruments are too complex, a hundred instruments, are too many. Instruments must somehow be evolved which will assemble the data now shown on the dials, with the results of observation, so be shown immediately on "picture dials" before the pilot.

These instruments can't come too soon. Last week's story stressed the fact that when cars fly faster than bullets it is time they found a way to eliminate bullets.

Shrink Sahara Of New World

Christian Science Monitor

With the pressure of a finger on a golden telegraph key the President has set in motion a huge project, which may help to shrink the "Great American Desert" into one of the curiosities of history.

A century ago maps portrayed this supposedly worthless World Sahara, extending roughly from the southward sweep of the Missouri to the Rio Grande's delta plain. And it was accepted among the school-learned as a fact that this land was unfit for human habitation.

The cowboy and then the "dry farmer" slong a 1,200-mile battlefront began, by their determination into the realm of the myths. And indefatigable Mormon pioneers achieved an oasis outpost amid the presumably unconquerable solitudes of the Great Basin.

It is for this latter region — this vast area whose winds have been wrung dry by the Sierras on the west and whose mountains on the east shut off the moist, melting snows toward the Mississippi that the golden key has signalled a new day. That signal was two simultaneous blasts between Nevada and Utah, one from dams at Glen Canyon on the Colorado River and at Flaming Gorge on the Green.

That new day will likely take decades in full dawning. But it should bring crops for men's nutriment and power for men's use in step with the increase of the nation's people.

Guinea Pig Atomic Plant

Windsor Star

The world's first atomic power plant to come into operation in Calder Hall, Eng., and when complete will have an output of 100,000 kilowatts, so it has a capacity one third greater than that of the Ontario Hydro power plant here.

Public interest has been attracted by this "first," but scientific interest inevitably is greater. For all atomic power plant in the blueprint stage this British project is a guinea pig and probably is obsolete already.

The Ontario Hydro, co-operating with the Canadian atomic energy specialists, has at least a pilot A-plant on the drawing board. It's not so long since atomic power in Ontario was foreseen as something 10 years in the future, but passing time and research probably has advanced the date to about five years.

The British plant shows atomic power is not only scientifically but commercially feasible. Much can be built on that.

The Weather and Joint Disability

Let's drop our dispute about the nature, cause, and prevention of chronic joint disability for today and talk about the weather, the climate, and the season, the wind, the rain, the sunshine, the altitude, the latitude, the humidity, and the mean temperature as factors or comfort or discomfort for persons with chronic joint disability.

That's as far as I can go in that direction. I will even go so far as to say that the influence of these environmental conditions on the comfort or discomfort of one with joint trouble. For instance I like comfort, but not the sort. If it is comfort, that I like to get sleeping under an electric blanket. A sufferer with rheumatic, however, gets a lot of comfort sleeping under an electric blanket.

Now with chronic joint disability, be it rheumatic (insidious physical degeneration of joint tissue), or actual arthritis (inflammation of joint, due to infection, or trauma (effects of strain or injury), is actually more sensitive to changes of weather than is the healthy joint. But such sensitivity is common in many other conditions besides joint disability. Take as an example persons with chronic bronchitis (winter cough), or chronic kidney disease (Bright's disease) or perhaps some vague neurosis are just as sensitive to changes of weather.

When the barometer is falling, advises Clarence A. Mills, M.D., in his interesting book Climate Makes the Man (Harper, $3.), "avoid your most difficult undertakings. Your clinatory may change climate without leaving home. It's a good trick, and I'll tell you later how to do it.

DONT PUSH TOO HARD

We speak sometimes about giving young people their head, meaning letting them have their way.

Some of this is good and some is bad. Certainly every person comes to actual maturity, he is helped by being compelled to discipline. This naturally increases as the years advance, but the parent who believes that the boys and girls are able to take care of themselves without any parental guidance is just whistling in the dark. Young people today are quite mature, but they are not yet mature.

But it is a good thing to let young people have their way in the choosing of a life work. The calling they are pressed or forced not please you and may go entirely contrary to certain plans you have for them. But remember that it is their life not yours which is under consideration. Advise, advise, and indeed should, but any parent who does more than that is fulfilling the dictates of wisdom. History is full of accounts of people who made conspicuous successes after having chosen careers which brought grief and disappointment to their parents.

Exhaust every means of helping your children find out what they are suited to do and what they really want to do. Then help them in their decision, support them in their decision. But nothing can more delay the ripening of a young person's life than that dictation about life work which leads one to choose something for which he does not fancy.

Folly and tyranny combined.

TODAY'S TALK

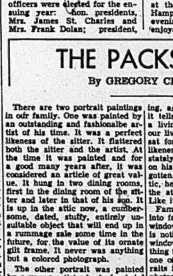
By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

STAMPS AS EDUCATORS

I thoroughly believe the collecting of stamps is a wise and very interesting hobby. I would advise any boy, girl or grown person, I started to collect when a small boy and a few years ago developed the idea. Then I started up and for many years have devoted long hours to my stamps and albums. This has gone on for years in a modest way.

Stamps carry the story, in brief, of the great men and women of each country, such as the rulers, the warriors, writers, poets, statesmen, and so on many of the stamps you will learn of the things that each country produces, and much about the country, such as its heroes, its birds, flowers, noted buildings, and the head it holds as educators. They teach in a silent school that could not possibly do not have to be forced to attend!

The late President Roosevelt was a noted collector, as are James Farley, Cardinal Spellman, and hosts of others. I found information on the stamps I have collected that I didn't get in school. Some of the stamps in countries show rare works of art in their colorful printing, and with beautiful designs.



I have collected a very interesting group of stamps at a very small cost. Many stamps are cheap, and then those that have women's pictures on them, or railroads, bridges, flowers, or noted birds of the United States has been printing interesting issues lately. All-mail stamps have appealed to me, and so have those showing writers, artists, and poets.

Stamp collecting is a fascinating hobby and one rude shock to the investment as well, if intelligently pursued. Mint stamps, of course, are more, but often the cancelled ones are more valuable by a good deal than mint ones. Here is a hobby that I do not think will ever wear out or die away!

Australia Backs British-French Action in Egypt

CANBERRA (Reuters)—Prime Minister Robert Menzies told parliament tonight that Australia supports the Anglo-French action in the Middle East dispute.

Menzies said Britain had not consulted with other Commonwealth countries before taking joint action with France, but the British government was not at fault in this because the circumstances were those of great emergency.

In the opinion of the Australian government it was a great misfortune that differences of view should have occurred between Britain and France on one hand and the United States on the other.

"Such differences, which proceed from honest divergencies on matters of judgment, can easily be fanned into bitterness by intemperate statements by observers in both continettes," he said.

In Wellington, New Zealand's Prime Minister Sidney Holland said he has full confidence in British intentions in moving forces into the Suez Canal zone.

However, in the event of Anglo-French occupation of the Suez zone, New Zealand would not be sending garrison troops.

During the morning the members visited the Seaway Project, and in the afternoon were entertained at a tea, following which, a panel discussion was held when Miss M. Clee, from Kingston Library; Miss J. Wilson, of Victoria County Library, and Miss R. Kelly, of the Lennox Library, discussed the merit of having more copies of good books rather than many mediocre ones, and on obtaining outstanding Canadian books, thus encouraging Canadian authors and Canadian culture.

Last Wednesday a conference was also held in Galt, preceded by a luncheon, when over 100 attended, including the mayor. Miss Isabel Laird, assistant professor of psychology was guest speaker, with Miss Delaney presiding.

WEDDINGS

COURNEYEA—LLOYD

Brodie chrysanthemums and ferns adorned St. Gregory's church, Picton on Saturday, October 27, at 9.00 a.m. for pretty autumn wedding, when Margaret Elaine Lloyd of Picton, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Graham of Wellington, became the bride of Wilfred Ambrose Courneyea, of Wellington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Courneyea. The Rev. J. G. Clancy officiated.

Mr. Charles Dudley, soloist, sang "Ave Maria," and "Panis Angelicus."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her grandfather, Mr. J. W. Graham, was charming in white Chantilly lace and net over taffeta, featuring a fitted, strapless bodice with Chantilly lace jacket having molded sleeves pointed over the wrists. The bouffant skirt of net over taffeta was accented by lace inserts dotted with rhinestones. The nylon net headdress which held the fingertip veil, was studded with rhinestones and sequins, and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses mingled with white pom pom 'mums.

Mrs. Jean Williams of Picton, as matron of honor, was gowned in floor-length blue pink nylon tricot; Mrs. Vernon Smith of Hillier, in yellow nylon tricot; and Miss Ida Dendis of Picton, in lavender nylon tricot, were senior and junior bridesmaids. All attendants wore matching headdresses and mitts, and carried yellow 'mums.

The flower girl, little Linda Laver, cousin of the bride, was sweet in her floor-length frock of white taffeta with yellow sash. Her yellow rose headdress, she carried a basket of yellow pom pom 'mums.

New Canadian Ballet Will Be Performed Here

One of the most interesting items on the programs of the National Ballet of Canada, which comes to the city of Toronto November 10th, promises to be the new all-

MISS CELIA FRANCA

Canadian jazz ballet "Post Script" Danced to music by the well known Montreal composer Arthur Morrow, and choreographed by Brian MacDonald, a former dancer with the National Ballet, "Post Script" lifts the curtain on what might happen after any ballet performance, when the audience has left and the stagd crew is busy "striking" the set.

It starts as one of the electrifians and one of the girls looking for her dancing shoes begin a little private "jive"session. The haughty ballerina forgets the fatigue of dancing "Giselle" and joins in. The "blues" music entices other members of the company on their way home, and soon the whole group is having a gay time in the rhythmic beat of the orchestra which has joined in the fun with an impromptu jam session.

The part of the ballerina will be danced by Miss Celia Franca, the company's artistic director, under whose inspired direction the National Ballet has made such swift strides to reach an enviable position in the international theatrical world. It may come as a surprise that her classically-trained dancers should take with such earthy abandon to the jitterbugging and mambo of "Post Script", but after all jazz music is a hobby with many of them, and after founding the Can-Can in such ballets as "Offenbach in the Underworld", which delighted Belleville audiences last year, the chance as it were to portray themselves on stage cams as a challenge they were glad to accept.

Tickets for the November 10th performance at the Collegiate Auditorium are going well, but good reserved seats at all prices are still available from Mrs. Thomas' Cigar Store or by mail from Box 91, Belleville.

Lands, Forests Experts Advise on Cooking Vension

Hunters! Don't spoil your venison when you get it home. Ontario Department of Lands and Forests experts advise. They point out that deer meat can be cooked by the same methods used for beef of a similar grade.

"Some prefer to remove the fat from venison before cooking," they say. "Suet, pork fat or bacon may be mixed with ground venison or strips of bacon or salt pork may be placed over the outside of roasts to keep meat from becoming too dry.

Tender cuts of meat are cooked by dry heat and the less tender portions by moist heat. While young bucks and does furnish the more tender meat, the meat from an aged animal can be made appetizing and tender if cooked correctly.

"Tomatoes, onions, spices and herbs often are added if the venison flavor is objectionable to anyone. A tablespoon of vinegar may help destroy the 'wild' flavor.

OVEN-BROILED

"Tender cuts, such as rib and loin chops, round steak and leg roasts, can be pan or oven-broiled or roasted. The less tender cuts such as neck, shanks, chuck and breast, should be cooked with moist heat or ground for 'deer-burgers' or meat loaf. They make particularly good mincemeat."

Since Christmas is not too far off, here is a tried recipe for venison mincemeat:

Two pounds of lean venison from the neck, one pound of beef suet, six pounds of apples, two pounds of currants, one pound of sultana raisins, two pounds of raisins, ½ pound citron, six cups brown sugar, two teaspoons nutmeg, one tablespoon allspice, one tablespoon cinnamon, one tablespoon ginger, one tablespoon salt, two oranges, eight cups cider or grape juice.

Bake the venison in the oven for 40 minutes, using moderate heat—about 350 degrees—then cool and chop. Mix with chopped suet, spices, cored and chopped apples, currants, raisins, citron, salt. Add sugar, spices, juice of two oranges, finely chopped rind of one orange and the cider or grape juice. Simmer for 30 minutes.

TO PROCESSING

Pack hot into jars, seal and process—60 minutes for a pint jar and 70 minutes for a quart jar at 15 pounds pressure, or three hours in a boiling water bath. The quantity shown makes enough for ten or 12 pint jars.

For roast venison—the loin or rump—the experts suggest that it be sprinkled with salt and pepper over all sides of the meat. Place on a rack in an uncovered baking pan and put in a preheated, slow oven at 300 to 325 degrees. Do not add water and do not cover. (That is most important.) Allow 20 to 25 minutes to the pound.

During the evening Miss Carol Woods led in the singing of many familiar choruses, among them a 'Hobby' favorite, namely "I do here's often are added if the venison flavor is objectionable to anyone. A tablespoon of vinegar may help destroy the 'wild' flavor.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

GO SLOW OR YOU WILL "MAKE A POOL OF YOURSELF"!

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I'm very much in love with a man who is not interested in girls. He has never been married.

I'm really in love with him, so can you tell me what I can do to let him know how I feel without making a fool of myself?

— Miss M.O.

Dear Miss M.O.:

Surely you don't want to be so foolish as to let this man know you think you're in love with him. That would certainly be making a fool of yourself, and also be the quickest method to send him scurrying.

If you know anybody who is a friend of this man, see if you cannot figure out a way to find out what his interests are, then make it your business to learn something about those subjects. If he's a sports fan, bone up on sports. If he's especially fond of music, learn something about it, if you're not already an authority on that, and so forth. The idea, of course, is to get yourself on the famous things he likes, so that he will enjoy talking with you. Then he might be sufficiently interested in you to see you again. If he's not interested in girls, you'll not get far unless you can meet him on his own ground.

Once you know more about him and his interests than you do now, and are prepared to be an intelligent listener and talker, then perhaps you might give a little party and invite him to come. It would be smart, also, to invite some people who already have interests similar to his, so he will feel on coming forward with some of the other guests.

Or, instead of giving the party, you might get a couple of tickets for a concert or some sport event or something else that you know would interest him, then call him up, or write him a note, and say someone has given you two tickets—a little while ile of this kind is permissible in such a case—and you thought he might like to go with you since the event is up his alley.

Try one or the other of these ideas, but be sure to do it diplomatically. And if he doesn't follow up afterwards by asking you for a date, I'm afraid you had better look for someone more friendly.

P.S. Will you please send me a stamped self-addressed envelope so I can return the enclosure you sent to your letter?

HAS THIS MAN ANY RIGHT TO BOSS YOU?

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

There's a man I like very much, but he's horribly jealous and doesn't trust me. So far I've given him no reason to feel that way.

Now there is another man who would like to have a date with me, and I'd like to know if I should tell the first man before any one else does, or should I wait to date the other man without telling him.

Another thing I'd like to know is, do you think it's all right for girls to go out with boys who are shorter than they are?

— In 18 years old. — Miss A.

Dear Miss A.:

Why in the world would you give your jealous friend any reason to feel he has the say about anything you do? Haven't you a perfect right to date anyone you like? My advice to you is date just as many young men as you like, and in that way learn more about people, so you'll develop better judgment about them than you have now.

As for your second question, of course go out with a boy who is shorter than you are if you want to, and do all you can to keep him from feeling self-conscious about your being taller than he is.

WINTERTIME REALITY BEGINS WITH CLEANLINESS

The old notion that hot baths in wintertime causes colds has been proven a fallacy.

Winter social life and sports events are coming up, with extra demands on your appearance. How was it last winter? Were you laid up with a cold at holiday time? Did your skin kick up a fuss through-time to time? Take some sensible precautions this season and go through the bad weather with more assurance. Let neither rain nor snow nor sleet stay you from your appointed rounds!

It's not true that taking hot baths in cold weather will make you more prone to catch cold. Exhaustive scientific tests have proven that this old fallacy is "all wet." So there is absolutely no reason for not being as clean in winter as in summer. Hot baths and plenty of sudsy scrubbing are your best assurance of a lovely, glowing skin—from top to toe. Regular baths have a lot to do with the way your complexion looks.

Many people believe that they perspire less in winter and can therefore take it often. This, too, is a fallacy. Even though you may not notice perspiration, it is a normal function of the skin, the body is constantly throwing off oils and secretion that soon quickly turn rancid in steambeated rooms.

Therefore, the wintertime bath is a must. One interesting fact: a cool-off shower or sponge in tepid to cold water, after your hot bath, will close the pores and keep in body heat. With this cool-off system you can go outdoors without delay. It's especially good to know that you can take a hot bath before important social occasions and not have to wait hours before you're turing out in your best bib - and - tucker.

There is no good reason to neglect the hair in winter. It's an old wives' tale that hair-washing in cold weather "weakens" you so you'll start to have the sniffles. The same system that works after the hot bath can be used for your regular shampoos—but rinse the hair under a cool spray or shower. As a matter of fact, shampooing wintertime hats and caps will often cause extra scalp perspiration that needs to be soothed out quickly. City - dwellers get an extra dosage of coal dust and grime, and the hair is a favorite place for this dirt to lodge. Be regular with your hair-washing and avoid the cold season. Zero weather outside is no excuse for going around with oily, dulled hair. A dirty scalp may cause skin irritations on the face. Again, it's the all-over cleanliness that counts for comfort, health, and appearance.

Cold weather brings on sweaters and woolens. Many persons who are meticulous about putting on fresh clothes in the summertime, think nothing of wearing soiled sweaters and dark woolens without washing or cleaning them frequently. But because dirt doesn't show as plainly as on a white summer dress, doesn't mean it isn't there. So keep your wardrobe spotlessly clean, and suds sweaters after only a few wearings. Wool is favored for sports because it absorbs perspiration well—all the more reason to keep winter sports clothes washed.

By the same token, wintertime lingerie deserves nightly sudsing. That lacy slip may not show under a wool dress or suit, but dainty freshness—or lack of freshness if you're sensitive—has a direct lingerie washing—will be just as apparent in slips or vests.

Wintertime health depends on a sensible program in which work and play are kept without stealing too much sleep from your schedule. If you're worried, catch up. Take a long, hot soak in the tub at an early evening hour, and then to bed with a good book immediately afterwards. Lights out and you are sure to get restful drops, and ten hours sleep will restore you more than pills and tonics.

When colds begin to flourish around you, at the office or home, remember that the extra precaution of washing your hands helps prevent germs from settling on you. Keep your hands clean too with extra tooth-scrubbing sessions.

See you at the skating rink—in the pink of condition!

CHRISTMAS PRESENTS FOR GIRLS IN HER HUSBAND'S OFFICE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am making up my Christmas-presents list, and I have one special problem on which I would very much appreciate your advice. Last January my husband's company promoted him to a position where part of his duty is to head an office where several young ladies are employed. They are fine girls, I have met them several times, and my husband has asked me to think of appropriate presents for us to give them together. What type of present would you suggest?

— W.M.

Since you are joining your husband in giving these presents, you can appropriately select ones that are more or less personal, ones you feel quite sure they would welcome, find useful. My first suggestion would be, I think, a purse or a handkerchief or, if you're a flat envelope-type, perhaps of satin or brocade, for general evening wear. Or a scarf for each, or perfume. Or, always welcome, one or two pieces of small white sheer linen handkerchiefs, perhaps lace-edged, with a lace inset of the initial of the first name. Or a comb-in-case, for a day or evening purse. Or a pen or pencil, or both, imprinted with the name. The cards enclosed should be of course signed with your name as well as your husband's.

THE QUESTION THAT SHOWS SPECIAL CONSIDERATION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it rude for a woman having luncheon in a restaurant where the waiters are all men to neglect not to ask the woman seated at her table "Do you mind if I smoke?" — Reader

Today this polite question is not very often asked, and it is not considered rude not to ask it. But when it is asked, the person's courtesy appeals, not only because of the consideration, but also because nowadays this consideration is unusual.

Join The Parade With Your Favorite Fish Dish

By Mary Moore

Because it is national fish week we want to be in the swim. The Department of Fisheries tells us that the varieties expected to be in good supply are: Maritimes and Quebec: soles, flounders, smelts, haddock, ocean perch, scallops and oysters. Central Canada: pickerel, pike, whitefish, lake herring and sturgeon (never heard of sauger—if I asked the fishman for that I would not be surprised if he handed me a football). West Coast: soles and flounders, chum salmon, herring, gray cod and oysters. So don't complain about choices.

It is twenty years since I saw Mrs. Spencer of the Department of Fisheries cook fish by her famous method (see below). Besides a well-learned fish lesson I remember her habits with cooking utensils.

She did not like the sink and counters to be piled with pots and pans when she finished a demonstration. If a bowl and spoon were used for her and she needed a bowl for another step, she would rinse out and dry the used one and use it again. She felt it was the efficient way to do cooking work. To this day I remember her advice and copy it for I too hate the sink and counters to be cluttered with great big bowls and pots and pans.

Here then is

SPENCER METHOD FOR FISH FILLETS

Two lbs. fish fillets, 1 cup milk, 2 teaspoons salt, ¼ cup fine dry breadcrumbs, butter. Cut fillets in individual portions for serving, and soak three minutes in milk to which the salt has been added. Drain, coat with the dry breadcrumbs. Place on greased baking dish and dot with butter. Bake at 500 deg. Fahr. allowing ten minutes per inch thickness of fillet. Heat may be reduced for large fish toward end of cooking time.

If you would like to prepare your fish on the top of the stove without odor cook your

FISH IN PARCHMENT

This method is ideal for a piece of salmon or salmon trout to be served with egg sauce. Two lbs. fish fillets or piece of fish, 1 tablespoon salt, 1 tablespoon each chopped onion and celery. Wipe fish with damp cloth, sprinkle with salt, add chopped onion and celery. Wrap fish in dampened parchment paper. Tie. Plunge into rapidly boiling water. (A metal ring or two placed on bottom of kettle will prevent parchment paper sticking.) Boil, allowing 15 minutes per inch of thickness for fresh fish; 30 minutes for frozen. Save juices left in parchment paper for making sauce. My favorite is Egg Sauce: Make a medium white sauce by melting in top of double boiler 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, then stirring in 2 tablespoons flour, then 1 cup milk until thick. Add 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1 chopped hardcooked egg, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley. Served over a piece of salmon on a platter garnished with lemon and tomato wedges. This is food for the colonel's lady.

LEAVES LONDON

LONDON (Reuters)—Mrs. Ruth Khama, white wife of Seretse Khama, former chief of the Bamangwato tribe, left London by air Tuesday with her two children to rejoin her husband in Bechuanaland. Seretse returned to Africa earlier this month after six years of exile, imposed by the British government following tribal protests against his marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Cory Happily Wed for 60 Years

The advent of the motor car has meant little difference to the commercial traveller in the territory which he covers—all it has meant is that he covers his territory more often and with a bit more comfort.

That is the opinion of a lifetime travelling salesman, Mr. Fred A. Cory, 80 Bridge Street West, who with Mrs. Cory this weekend is celebrating 60 years of married life.

"Years ago salesmen used to travel by train between main centres, and then hire livery rigs to do the smaller centres before moving on to the next main point," Mr. Cory recalled.

"Cars have meant that the traveller covers his territory a bit more often."

Mr. Cory started as a salesman about the turn of the century selling farm implements. Off and on since then he has sold most everything from hardware to stocks and bonds and still works as a salesman.

He has gone modern with the times, however. Mr. Cory now sells aluminum doors and windows.

Born at Consecon 79 years ago, Mr. Cory lived across Consecon Lake from the girl he was to marry. Mrs. Cory was the former Euretta Jane Lynch. Both are of United Empire Loyalist stock.

The couple was married on November 4th, back in 1896, at the home of the bride's parents, then just outside the small village to Consecon where they set up housekeeping.

"That was our honeymoon," commented Mrs. Cory.

MEMBERS OF CHRIST CHURCH

A few years later the couple moved to Belleville and with the exception of ten years at Frankford, where Mr. Cory operated a hardware, flour and feed business, they have been here in this city.

During his lengthy career as a salesman Mr. Cory has worked for firms such as W. W. Chown, of Belleville, and Frothingham and Wortman, wholesale hardware.

Members of Christ Church both Mr. and Mrs. Cory were regular attendants until two or three years ago when Mrs. Cory suffered an illness which kept her at home. Mr. Cory, however, attends church regularly every Sunday morning.

At one time he was active in Sunday school work and taught a boys' class at St. George's Church.

"We had the best ball team in the city," Mr. Cory recalls.

A Christmas present of a desk with folding front given to him by his Sunday School class almost 50 years ago is one of Mr. Cory's most prized possessions.

Mrs. Cory is still spry and active and does her own housework.

FAMILY TO STAGE PARTY

Family members are staging an anniversary party for them on Saturday. "We don't know too much about it—only that there is to be a party," Mrs. Cory said.

Mr. and Mrs. Cory have five children, two sons and three daughters. A third son, David, died four years ago.

Their sons are Harold of Port Arthur and Charles of Toronto. One daughter, Mrs. James (Onita) Lorimer, lives in Belleville; Mrs. George (Rhea) Spencer resides at Frankford, and a third daughter Mrs. Kenneth (Emma) Clarke, lives at Kingston.

There are seven grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

Today Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Cory received a letter of congratulation from Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent, personally expressing best wishes on their anniversary. The letter from the Prime Minister was signed personally by Mr. St. Laurent.

SIX BEATITUDES

IVANHOE — The regular monthly meeting of St. Andrew's WMS, held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Lindsay Sills, was well attended.

Mrs. Harry Benson presided. Following the singing of "Blest Are the Pure in Heart," the Rev. W. H. V. Walker led in prayer. Psalm 70 was read by Mrs. John Hassall.

A study of the 8th Beatitude, Matt. 5: 11, "Blessed are ye, when men shall revile you, and persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely, for My sake," was given by Mrs. Barton Haggerty.

"This Beatitude is called the 'Beatitude of Persecution.' It may be looked upon as closing the number of general Beatitudes. Our Lord taught His disciples to expect persecution.

"In order to be a disciple of our Lord we must be ready to endure persecution and sacrifice.

"The Beatitudes begin with the kingdom, they end with the kingdom; they contain the law of the kingdom, and describe the character of its citizens.

"There is persecution still. It exists in some households, schools and communities. The cold looks, the misrepresentations, the taunts, and sometimes ill treatment, and bearing false witness. Such modern forms of persecution cause unnecessary suffering. But the blessed joy which are persecuted for righteousness' sake, for they belong to Christ and should rejoice and be exceeding glad. If we suffer with Him we shall also reign with Him."

The chapter, "Test Tube and Beaker" in the study book was reviewed by Mrs. Wm. Donnan.

This chapter tells of the lives of L. Yellowlis Subbarow, who after years of research, discovered a cure for sprue, and also discovered teroptecin used in treatment of cancer. Dr. Roberta Gonzaga, after years of study, today is recognized as the outstanding eye surgeon in all the central Philippines and the dedicated young scientist Robert Williams, who found a cure for beriberi. Their contributions in the name of Christ have brought life and health to millions the earth around.

Mrs. "Blessed Saviour," was given by Mrs. Milton Shaw. Readings were given by: "Timmy, the Tell-Tale," Mrs. J. McInroy; "Leave the Miracle to Him," Mrs. Harold Thompson; "What Will the Harvest Be," Mrs. John Wright.

After the meeting closed refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants.

Spring Designs Now Being Shown To Buyers

MONTREAL (CP) — If you're looking for something different to wear next spring, 13 Canadian couturiers are eager to help you choose one of their original creations. It may cost $250 or more, but you'll have the satisfaction of knowing no one else has another just like it.

The couturiers showed a sampling of their spring designs in Montreal Wednesday to a group of buyers and manufacturers. It was the first unsponsored showing for the couturiers, nucleus of the youthful Canadian Association of Couturiers. Previous shows have always been backed by Canadian textile producers in a double-edged promotion of home-produced fibres, fabrics and design.

This time couturiers had a free hand in materials.

LIKE SOFT SHADES

They showed that they liked soft, neutral shades even for spring, sheath dresses, balloon coats, wide lapels, draped skirts, and the costume look of a dress and jacket, styled like a suit.

They use some romantic labels: Renaissance silhouette, pavilion, tumulte, sucre, melange and fur frost. But the styles were eminently wearable.

A beige suit — short-jacketed — could be changed in several ways by a complicated arrangement of belting. Two or three black wool dresses, teamed with fur-and or stone-colored accessories, had tie necklines to be worn high or low. One perfectly simple lightweight black wool gained interest—and much applause—from the row of buttons sewn in vertical panels on the skirt. Perhaps the most romantic creation was a summer evening costume consisting of an ankle-length strapless and figure-moulded—of imported embroidered cotton, over it a billowing cotton coat of soft ochre with a two-way neckline.

Later, several buyers indicated they were seriously interested.

School Days

By TRACY ADRIAN

Study periods could be greatly enlightened by any young miss who is smart enough to choose a school dress as chic and pretty as the one pictured here. It's a dress that will delight teen-agers as well as their mothers and will stand them in good stead through many a semester.

The fabric is a dark gray brushed rayon flecked with bright slubs of royal blue, red and green and feels and looks tall the world like wool. The skirt is full, via a series of unpressed pleats and the bodice, buttoned to the waist is nicely fitted and accessorized at the collarless neckline with a self scarf edged with bright red fringe.

FLORSY ULTRA-WET

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Enough rain to cover one-quarter of the United States with one inch of water was dumped by Hurricane Flossy in its five-day passage across the southeastern states last month. That estimate was made Tuesday by the weather bureau here. The rain weighed about 30,000,000,000 tons, and energy released in forming the rain equalled about 1,000,000 atomic bombs of the Hiroshima type.

Canadian-Born Persons Moving To U.S. Increasing

OTTAWA (CP) — The flow of Canadian-born persons to the United States has increased, reaching between 25,000 and 30,000 a year in the last five years.

By mid-1955, the bureau of statistics reported Wednesday "well over" 1,000,000 Canadian-born persons were living south of the border compared with 990,085 in 1950.

In 1950, more than 88 per cent of them were over 40 years of age and more than 71 per cent were naturalized American citizens. But since then more than half of the movement to the U.S. has been of people between 20 and 40 years of age.

These figures were reported by the bureau in a special study of Canadian-born residents of the United States.

In a speech at Chicago earlier this month, Fisheries Minister Sinclair said the U.S. "has a debt to pay back to Canada" in the matter of immigration, and he urged skilled young Americans to move to Canada and find their fortunes.

Later, it was announced here that two immigration officials will visit the United States to study the possibilities of increasing the flow of U.S. immigrants to Canada—now about 10,000 a year.

NEW WATER ROUTE?

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP)—Senator George D. Aiken (Rep. Vt.) predicts that the Lake Champlain cut-off will become a reality within the next five years. Aiken said the fact that Canada has so much manpower and capital tied up in the St. Lawrence Seaway project is the chief reason why the cut-off will have to be delayed. When completed it will permit large vessels to go from New York City to the Great Lakes via the Hudson River and Lake Champlain.

River Valley Sponsors Annual Hallowe'en Party

STIRLING—River Valley Women's Institute, under the direction of the president, Mrs. Roy Bush, and her committee sponsored a Hallowe'en party at the River Valley Public school, on Friday evening with approximately 75 adults and 65 children in attendance.

The Hallowe'en parade came first and all children of pre school age received a balloon.

Prizes were given for best dressed in any kind of attire and were awarded as follows: Grades 2, 3—1st prize, Christie De Bruyn; second, Allan Carr; Grades 5, 6—1st Cheryl Utman; 2nd, Dennis Heasman; Grades 7, 8 and teen-agers—1st, 'Truce De Bruyn; 2nd, Bob Vandervoort.

Three comic prizes were awarded as follows—Bob Morrow, Roger Coombes, and Betty Hamilton. Betty was dressed as "Miss River Valley".

Sixty-five bags of candy and an apple were handed out to the children.

Mr. Jack Bush was master of ceremonies and welcomed the capacity audience. Mrs. Bruce Morrow presided at the piano for the sing-song of old favorites.

The River Valley pupils in massed formation sang 13 songs under the direction of the music director, Miss Grace Pitman. The songs were "Hallowe'en" and "Autumn", and were in a nice arrangement. The Juniors, Intermediates and Seniors, each sang three selections and then the complete group rendered three choruses.

The teacher, Mrs. Reg. Coombes assisted the music director.

Sharon Scott gave a piano selection.

Five boys, under the direction of Mr. Doug Ingles, who resides in the Valley, delighted with two humorous skits which depicted a lot of merriment with local hits. The boys in the group were—John Sager, Ralph Park, Kenneth Sager, Billy Conley, and Douglas Kane.

At the Sidney township public speaking contest held at Wallbridge on the evening previous, two girls from River Valley school won second and third prize. They repeated their speeches at the Hallowe'en party so all could hear them.

Elaine Plainfield came second and spoke on "The Gypsies." Linda Ann Morrow came third and spoke on "Diabetes"; Jim Park read a gruesome tale and five ladies had a part in the presentation of it. They were Jean Utman; Nora Scott, Grace Ingles, Marion Richardson and Gladys Conley.

The president of RVWI moved a vote of thanks to all who had made the evening a success.

Sandwiches, doughnuts, apples and coffee were served by the committee in charge and the group consumed 20 dozen doughnuts.

A silver collection was taken at the door to help defray expenses. Each Institute member was asked for sandwiches or cash to purchase doughnuts. This was the usual Hallowe'en party which the Institute sponsors annually for the boys and girls of the Valley.

DESERONTO

Laff-Orama Receives Ovation

DESERONTO — The presentation of the local fire department "Laff-orama," was given in the Bayview Theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights of last week.

The general opinion of the viewing audience was that this year's performance was not equal to the standard of that of last year, but withal, was a lot of fun.

The highlight of each evening was the performance of the pupils of the Barbara Dimont School of Dance, from Belleville. The acting of the children was of a calibre not often seen in these localities. The easy, nonchalant perfection of the children in their many parts evoked round after round of applause from the audience each night, and was a perfect example of the results of proper instruction.

The local members of the cast were also a credit to the presentation. The girls ably presented their routines and provided a spot of beauty for the show. The clowns were properly cast and evoked many rounds of laughter with their antics and, as a climax, the bareback beauties were excellent.

Al Fraser took the part of the ringmaster, and the specialty acts of Beverly Burley, the square dancers, Garry Moon, Jane Oliver rounded out the performance.

RAWDON

'Open House' Held at Allan School

RAWDON — On Thursday evening Mrs. Burton Morton and the pupils of S.S. No. 3, Allan School, Mount Pleasant, were "at home" to everyone in the school section and a few visitors. Over 75 people attended the party. The school was decorated with Hallowe'en streamers and Jack-O-Lanterns. The first half hour was spent in looking over the pupils' work books and note-books which were nicely displayed, also their Conservation scrap book. They recently received first prize for their scrap book and will receive three lovely books for their efforts.

They have already received the book entitled "Conservation and Nature Activities," and this was on display. The other two books are: "A Guide to Mammals," and "Slim Green," a story of snakes for Grades 5 to 12.

A little Black Witch told fortunes at the front of the school and handed out wonderful advice, such as "eat less between meals."

During the evening a silver collection was taken to defray expenses.

At 8.30 p.m. Mac Sharp was master of ceremonies and the music director, Miss Betty McConnell, presided at the piano for the parade of costumes and the other music. Various prizes were awarded and the judges were: Mrs. Maurice Bell, Stirling; Mrs. W. G. Fletcher and Mrs. Burton Sharpe.

Under 6 years — Original, Larry Jeffs, "Witch"; fancy, Brenda Campbell as "Bo-Peep," and comic, Brenda Williams, as "Night." All the other children in this class received a balloon.

Over 6 and under 12 years—Original, Lois Morton, "Queen of Hearts"; fancy, Allan Wrightman, "Indian"; comic, Kenneth Smith, "Ball Player." The others received all-day suckers.

Over 12 years—Original, Kenneth McConnell, "A Ghost"; comic, Miss Ruth Linn, "A Man"; fancy, Gail Scott, "Witch."

PROGRAM

The chairman spoke briefly and welcomed everyone on behalf of teachers and pupils. The children sang "A Morning Hymn" and "The Witch's Ride." Brenda Williams gave her memory work selection entitled "Brenda's Bath." The juniors delighted with two motion songs, "Cats" and "The Princess."

All the songs were those which the children practise in their regular music period at school.

Monologue, Gail Scott, entitled "Gail, Sit Still!" Grade IV presented an "Indian Dance" which they had learned with their literature lessons.

Bob Bell, Stirling, gave a musical selection on his "horn", and Allan Wrightman a monologue, "A Mysterious Message"; the juniors contributed a "Hallowe'en Chorus"; vocal duet, Gail Scott and Judy Cooney. Several pupils presented a dialogue entitled "Hallowe'en Parade"; Lois Morton, Wellman's, contributed piano music; Grade IV girls sang "Look Out the Window."

The entire school took part in a memory selection in the form of choral reading and this was called "A Hallowe'en Fantasy." This was followed by another chorus on the same theme.

The pupils then stood and repeated the oath of allegiance to the flag, which they do every morning at school, and then the audience joined in the rendition of "God Save the Queen".

QUESTION-ANSWER GAME

Sixty people took part in a hilarious "question and answer game," and then there was an "apple nibble game" for the pupils.

The older pupils served apples and candy to the guests.

The chairman voiced thanks to Mrs. Morton and the pupils for the delightful evening.

Mrs. Morton, in her reply, paid tribute to the music director, also to the caretakers, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McConnell.

Mr. G. W. Nelson, Tweed, school inspector, visited the school that afternoon but was unable to attend the "at home" at night.

The parents were delighted to have the privilege of visiting the school and viewing the new improvements as well as the work of the pupils and they were loud in their praise of the work of the school.

QUIETNESS REIGNS

"Say Mom, look at this for sheer concentration and enjoyment."

"Yes, there are two occasions when children are quiet—one when they're asleep and the other when the Star Weekly comics arrive."

"I glanced at them comics myself before the kids grabbed 'em and by George they're in new clear type and in beautiful coloring."

"And four more pages—twenty-four pages of colored comics now. Just look at position and attitudes—draped all over the place."

"Say kids, hurry up, I want those Star Weekly Comics."

RELYING ON RED HELP, NASSER RESISTS INVASIONS

Moving under a smoke screen Israeli infantry advance into Egypt's Sinai peninsula. Spokesmen for their forces claim they are close to the Suez Canal and that all Egyptian resistance met has been overcome.

UN General Assembly Called In Emergency Session to Try To Halt Fighting in Egypt

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — The United Nations General Assembly gathered today for an emergency session late this afternoon to try to halt the fighting in Egypt.

The special session, first since the beginning of the Korean War, was called Wednesday after two days of virtually fruitless debate in the veto-bound Security Council. The General Assembly originally had been scheduled to meet Nov. 12.

Britain and France opposed the move, and a British spokesman later said the decision was "illegal both according to the procedure and to the rules." He said he did not know whether Britain would attend the special session of the full 76-member body.

The Western Big Three split for the third time in two days when the Yugoslav resolution for the special session came to a vote. It was passed 7 to 2 (Britain and France), with the United States and Russia lining up behind the resolution along with Cuba, Iran, Peru and Nationalist China. Belgium and Australia abstained.

The vote came at the conclusion of a tense session in which:

Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjold informed the council he could no longer remain neutral since the principles of the UN charter were involved.

Russia urged that Britain and France be condemned for aggressive acts in Egypt and ordered to withdraw their forces.

And British delegate Sir Pierson Dixon gave a lengthy outline of what lay behind the Anglo-French invasion of Egypt.

Hammarskjold, reported angerco by the Anglo-French action against Egypt, told the council in a carefully worded statement that the principles of the charter are far greater than the organization, and that he must be a servant of these principles. He reminded member countries of their obligations under the charter.

He voiced no specific criticism of any power, but made clear that if any member felt he was in the wrong in refusing to remain neutral "it is their obvious right to act accordingly."

This was taken as an offer to seek his resignation if they disagreed with his stand. All members hastened to pledge their confidence in the secretary-general and to declare their continued confidence in his integrity.

Soviet delegate Arkady A. Sobolev did not put the request for condemnation of Britain and France into a formal resolution, apparently believing that it would be vetoed by the two Western countries.

There is no veto in the General Assembly. The Yugoslav resolution invoked a procedure known as "uniting for peace" by which the UN members, stymied in the Security Council, can obtain a moral judgment the General Assembly in severe cases.

Under the Yugoslav resolution, the special session will consider recommendations to UN members for collective measures, including "the use of armed force when necessary."

Less-drastic steps could include a condemnation of Britain, France and Israel, a cease-fire call, or a request that UN members punish the three with diplomatic and economic measures.

Any action the assembly takes must be approved by two-thirds of all present and voting.

Dixon, outlining the British stand in the explosive situation, said the Anglo-French aim was to stop the Israeli-Egyptian fighting, to enforce a separation of the belligerents and to protect the Suez Canal for the free passage of the ships of all countries.

Dixon declared, he said, "is not aimed at the sovereignty of Egypt, still less at the territorial integrity of Egypt."

He thought nobody would take seriously British charges that the Anglo-French action was part of a plot with Israel to stir up trouble in the Middle East so as to restore "old colonial empires." Russian delegate had said in an earlier speech that Britain and France "assumed heavy responsibility for a serious aggravation of an international situation by committing armed intervention against Egypt at a time when Egypt alone is their attitude of handling the crisis.

Tanks led the Israeli thrust into Egyptian territory. With the advantage of massing their troops on the Egyptian border, the Israelis advanced quickly with little opposition. Occupation by the British and French of the Suez Canal zone would stop their push into Egypt at the Egyptian border. (Central Press Canadian).

Fleming Says Canada Should Not Enter Issue

HAMILTON (CP) — Canada's attitude toward the Middle East crisis should be that of a member country of the United Nations and no more, Donald Fleming, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Toronto Eglinton, said Wednesday night.

Mr. Fleming, a contender for the national leadership of the Conservative party, said in an interview:

"Canada has not had any part in the conferences preceding the present Middle East developments nor are her interests directly involved.

"Her obligation, therefore, is that of another member nation of the UN, no more, no less."

Mr. Fleming criticized statements by the United States on the Middle East situation.

"I think the administration in Washington should refuse to condemn others until it itself has brought forward some workable, worthwhile contribution to the solution."

Mr. Fleming said there is little likelihood of a permanent cleavage between Britain and France and the U.S.

Forty Years of Violence, Bloodshed Lie Behind New Outbreak in Middle East

EDS Note: Forty years of violence and bloodshed stemming from the rival passion of Jew and Arab for Palestine lie behind the new outbreak of fighting in the Middle East. Here Pulitzer Prize winner Reiman Merin, who knows the area well and has observed many of the happenings there, outlines the milestones leading up to the attacks.

By RELMAN MORIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

In Jerusalem one night during the Second World War a Jew said:

"Nobody but a Jew can realize how we feel about this land. It is beyond thought, deeper than reason, in our very blood."

Her voice shook with emotion.

Two days later the late Emir Abdullah, King of Jordan, said in an interview: "We will resist a Jewish state with all our power. This land is ours. We shall keep it."

In these two statements lie 40 years of tragedy.

FIERCE EMOTIONS

They contain fierce emotions embracing religion, politics, economics, culture and a love for the land that it has to both the Jews and Arabs. "If I forget thee, or Jerusalem, let my right hand forget its cunning."

They explain, in part, why this region has run red with the blood of many people front many lands. They are the rock on which every effort to find a solution to the "Palestine problem" has shattered.

And they lie behind the fact that, today, real war has come to the Sinai Peninsula and the Suez Canal zone.

Here, in brief, is the background story. It does not include the 2,000 years of Jewish exile, hope and striving.

GOT ARAB HELP

In 1915, Britain, at war with Turkey, asked the help of the Arabs, who were subjects of the sultan. The Arabs negotiated for Arabs said, they were offered independences after the war.

Britain did not keep this independently of these actions, the British foreign secretary, Lord Balfour, issued a statement in a letter to Lord Rothschild which contained this passage:

"His Majesty's government view with favor the establishment in Palestine of a national home for the Jewish people and will use their best endeavors to facilitate the achievement of this object, it being clearly understood that nothing shall be done which may prejudice the civil and religious rights of the existing non-Jewish communities in Palestine or the rights and political status enjoyed by the Jews in any other country."

This became known as the "Balfour Declaration," and in Jewish eyes, the foundation of Britain's responsibility to them.

When the war ended the area became a mandate of the League of Nations, with British administering.

Trying to find a solution to the "Palestine problem" took many forms—a proposed constitution, a legislative council with both Jew-lish and Arabic members, etc. All were shortlive.

Far worse, fatal disagreement developed over boundaries. Blood soon flowed.

Meanwhile, Jewish immigration was increasing. By 1940 the census showed the population of Palestine to be 1,529,599, of whom 458,743 were Jews.

During the Second World War Britain limited immigration. Riots broke out when the five-year period London specified came to an end.

With peace came the drive for a Jewish state, an independent nation with all the prerequisites.

VOTES PARTITION

In 1947 the United Nations voted for partition.

Then, in the summer of 1948 in Tel Aviv, the words were proclaimed: "We hereby proclaim the establishment of the Jewish state in Palestine to be called Israel."

In a matter of hours, President Truman extended American recognition to the new state.

War with the Arabs erupted immediately.

At the battle of Falujia, an Egyptian officer led several attacks and was wounded several times. His name was Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Out of this war came the terrible problem of the displaced persons—Palestinian Arabs who became refugees. They numbered 922,000 in a UN count last June.

They live in miserable camps in various Arab countries. They are wards of the UN, fed and clothed by the organization. Over 200,000 of them are children born in the camps.

REVOLT IN EGYPT

The scene now shifts to Egypt, 1952. That summer a few Egyptian officers revolted and forced King Farouk to leave his throne. One was Lt.-Col. Nasser.

He soon became head of the government. In 1954 he told this correspondent "we would never start any aggression unless provoked." In that same year Nasser got the agreement by which Britain pulled her 83,000-man garrison out of the Suez Canal zone.

Then, this year, the United States and Britain withdrew an offer to help Egypt finance the long-planned "high dam" at Aswan on the upper reaches of the Nile. There had been reports that Nasser was aligning off the West against the Russians.

Nasser's answer was to seize the Suez Canal.

Israel, Britain and France now have reacted.

No Justification For Increases Says MacDonald

TORONTO (CP) — CCF leader Donald MacDonald of Ontario says Premier Frost's Progressive Conservative government is giving distilleries "genteel treatment," and should tax more of their profits away from them.

Commenting in a statement on increases in the price of liquor in Ontario he said the increase is an abject acceptance of the distilleries' action in raising their prices.

"In view of the profit levels of the distilleries, there is no justification for these increases to the consumer," he said. "Indeed, the price fixing by the distilleries by the Ontario Liquor Control Board should be reduced, not increased."

He said Ontario's revenue from liquor sales was 18.3 per cent compared with 22.8 per seat in Quebec.

out of the Suez Canal zone.

Meanwhile, border incidents, raids, killings, ambushes and general bloodshed took the lives of men, women and children in the Gaza Strip and on the Jordan border.

Then, this year, the United States and British withdrew an offer to help Egypt finance the long-planned "high dam" at Aswan on the upper reaches of the Nile. There had been reports that Nasser was aligning off the West against the Russians.

Nasser's answer was to seize the Suez Canal.

New York Papers, Columnists Assail U.S. Move to Condemn Israel in UN as Aggressor

NEW YORK (CP)—A new and strong atmosphere has transformed the United States election campaign as a result of the Middle Eastern crisis. It has virtually obliterated all other issues in the closing days of political debate.

The fighting between Israel and Egypt and the policy split between the United States and her Western allies have jolted participants of both sides out of their customary pre-election histrionics. And there have been widespread second thoughts as to the wisdom of the campaign policy in the months before the outbreak.

New York newspapers are almost unanimously supporters of President Eisenhower's bid for re-election. But several of them have voiced criticism of the actions of State Secretary Dulles and of the recent U.S. move in the United Nations to condemn Israel as the aggressor in the Egyptian attack.

Joseph and Stewart Alsop, columnists writing in the New York Herald Tribune, have labelled Dulles' Middle Eastern policies "a dismal and disastrous failure."

The Daily News, a strong Eisenhower supporter which seldom has a good word to say for Prime Minister Eden, has come out in support of British-French intervention in the dispute as the best method of averting large-scale war. "despite President Eisenhower's well-meant objections."

The World-Telegram, taking the view that "there is generally more than enough blame to go round" for the policy-split, says "it will take far greater statesmanship and diplomatic skill than has been displayed in the West-ern capitals in recent days to restore any semblance of an alliance."

David Lawrence, another Herald Tribune columnist, traces the history of the Palestine dispute to come to the conclusion expressed by Eden in opposition to the official U.S. view—that Israel's move against Egypt "is more than a case of self-defence than it is of aggression."

Still another Tribune columnist, Walter Lippmann, feels that the U.S. attempt to label Israel as the aggressor "was a grave mistake of policy, indefensible in principle and in fact entirely [illegible] impracticable" because it made the UN veto [illegible] and France inevitable.

The bulk of this opinion comes from sources which previously have been united in hailing Eisenhower's administration for its contributions toward peace in the world peace.

The Suez issue is particularly sharp in their criticism. Reviewing Dulles' repeated efforts to dissuade Britain and France from taking action against Egypt's President Nasser since he nationalized the canal, they conclude that the shooting has started "under the worst conceivable conditions."

"Thanks to Dulles' delaying tactics, there has never been a time since the war when this country's relations with its two major allies, Britain and France, were nearer the breaking point," they add. "Altogether, the failure of our Middle Eastern policy is about as complete as it is possible to imagine."

Eight Canadians Get $324,000 On Horses in Cambridgeshire

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Eight Canadians came into $324,000 Wednesday on horses finishing second and third in England's Cambridgeshire Handicap.

Four Canadians who held Irish Hospital Sweepstakes tickets on Hafiz II, which finished second, will collect $54,000 each. Four others with tickets on Equalette, Irish-bred bay mare, will get $27,000.

No Canadian had a ticket on the winner, Loppylugs. One would have been worth $135,000.

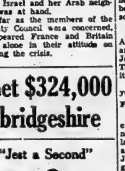
An official correction, placing Equalette third instead of Hafiz, figuratively whisked more than $25,000 out of the pockets of 58-year-old Cecil Lamport of Stoney Toronto. For a few minutes he thought he had clicked on a double. Now he will get about $1,150 for holding a ticket on a starter.

The four who held Irish bets on Hafiz II are Michael Rodgers and Fred Gordon of Montreal, R. A. Bellamy of Brantford and Margaret Delaney, a Vancouver stenographer.

The four with tickets on Equalette are Warren Burton and E. R. Sills of Toronto, Evelyn Hall of Sarnia and Mrs. Kathleen Pottery of Hamilton.

Mike Rodgers had a partner in his ticket, Bing Crosby, president. Both are employees of the Canadian Celanese Company in Montreal.

Mr. Bellamy, who moved to Brantford from Toronto a few months ago, said he had no idea what he would do with his $27,000, but it would come in handy—he has two small sons.



Cecil Hall is a 34-year-old advertising woman with the Sarnia Observer.

"The race had been in my subconscious mind all along," she said Wednesday. "I've been dreaming it. Twice I dreamed I had won and was all red-eyed."

Mr. Burton is a $3,600-a-year employee with Lever Bros., in Toronto. He drives a taxi at night. The Burtons have two children.

Mrs. Pottlery, a Hamilton housewife, said, "I'm so happy I could cry," on learning her horse had finished third. She has been in hospital three times since her husband died three years ago.

Cairo Declares Israeli Raid On Syria Foiled

CAIRO (Reuters)—Cairo radio today quoted a Syrian military communique as saying that an Israeli raid carried out an armed raid on objectives on the south-eastern Syrian-Israeli border during the night.

The attack was foiled by Syrian armed forces who chased the Israeli back into Israeli territory, and the Syrians returned safely to their bases, the spokesman said.

Cairo radio added that air raid sirens were sounded in Damascus twice Wednesday night.

Israelis Claim Gaza Strip Now Virtually Sealed Off

TEL AVIV (CP)—The Israelis today claimed the capture of the desert town of Rafa, and said their army units were close to—but not within 10 miles of—the Suez Canal Wednesday night.

Today's communique telling of the capture of Rafa, at the southern end of the Gaza strip near the coast, said Egyptian forces in the area had been routed and were "fleeing in disorder."

They said this virtually sealed the fate of the remaining Egyptians in what could now be called the "Gaza pocket," although there have been no reports of the Israeli drive reaching the sea and completely cutting off the line of retreat to Egypt.

An Israeli spokesman said two Egyptian divisions were fighting against an undisclosed number of Israeli troops in an area east of the Suez Canal.

Britain and France, in their cease-fire demand to Egypt and Israel, had asked that forces of both countries should withdraw to a distance of 10 miles from the canal.

Government sources said nine Egyptian jet fighters, including at least one Russian - built MiG-17, have been accounted for. This is apparently the first reference to Egypt having such a modern Russian plane, which is faster and better equipped than the well-known MiG-15.

An authoritative Israeli government source said the MiG-17 was brought down over Sinai by a French-made Ouragan jet piloted by an Israeli. This source claimed that in most aerial engagements the Israelis are outnumbered by the Egyptians, but had lost no jet planes in the fighting.

A big battle was reported to be raging for the second day at Abu Ogaila, major Egyptian desert base some 16 miles from the Israeli-Egyptian border in a key junction on the El Auja-Ismailia road through the Sinai Peninsula.

A battle of tanks was reported at a point along the Abu Ogaila-Ismailia road, where Israel said Egyptian armored forces engaged in bitter fighting after an Israeli column raced towards Suez after by-passing the Egyptian divisional headquarters in Abu Ogaila itself.

There was still only a vague picture here of the deployment of forces in Sinai, since Israeli authorities furnish meagre reports.

According to unofficial reports, casualties have so far been relatively low for the scope of operations.

Magistrate Had No Power to Reverse Order

KITCHENER (CP)—The stipendiary-general's office ruled that Magistrate J. R. H. Kirkpatrick had no power to reverse his conviction of Jesse Bricker last month on a charge of lashing his 17-year-old daughter when she refused to let her household chores.

Subsequently, the conviction was dismissed because, the magistrate said, he did not wish Briscoe, a Jehovah's Witness, to go to jail.

A spokesman for the attorney-general's office said a conviction can be reversed, but not after it has been formally noted. Magistrate Kirkpatrick entered the conviction then crossed it out somewhat.

The spokesman said it is now the crown attorney, or the daughter, to appeal the decision, if they wish to.

Cabinet Meets Again Amid Concern Over Middle East

OTTAWA (CP) — The cabinet met again today for the second consecutive day amid concern over the world concern over a Middle East crisis that may leave its mark on Canada's military and economic future.

Grain prices have strengthened in the wake of the strife and the vulnerability of petroleum to demand for Canadian base metals likely will rise as countries look to Canadian supplies as normal trade officials said.

Stock markets, on the other hand, have dipped nervously and this may have some reaction on investment projects as businessmen fear the spread of Israeli-Egyptian fighting will depress some commercial shipping. This could react on Canada's export trade.

And over reports of Israeli air bombings in Egypt lies the question of Canada's official views on the plans of Britain and France to move troops into the Suez area and the split of the United States and Britain-France on the Middle East issue.

The Canadian government has already made clear it does not plan to get involved in the fight. In an extraordinary cabinet session Wednesday, it banned all shipment of arms to Israel and Britain and Egypt and set no arms either if she applied.

Prime Minister St. Laurent also told reporters the government does not intend to send ships or aircraft to the area at this time.

He had thought of the possible need of calling a special session of Parliament to place the government's new powers into effect but later decided this was unnecessary.

Today the cabinet likely will attempt to take up routine business, possibly to place proposed government expenditures for the next fiscal year and make plans for Parliament's final session before a general election, expected in June, 1957. The session may open in January. The chatter of Middle East gunfire may disrupt the routine, however.

External Affairs Minister Pearson said he stated the Canadian government regrets Britain and France found it necessary to present Israel and Egypt with an ultimatum to withdraw.

Canada's ban on arms shipments to the Middle East is of particular concern to Israel which had ordered 24 Sabre jets from Canadair, Ltd., Montreal.

The ban appeared to imply a criticism of Israel's invasion of Egypt. But Mr. St. Laurent, met by reporters after the cabinet meeting Wednesday, declined to get involved in a discussion on that point.

Lawyer Drinks Two Bottles Scotch To Prove He Can Still Navigate

NEW YORK (AP) — Edward Bobick, a big man with a large capacity for scotch whisky, was the happiest lawyer in Town Tuesday.

He drank two bottles of scotch and wobbled into court to prove that a man could down that much and still navigate.

Bobick's client, Robert D. Burns and William J. Cleary, are on trial in general sessions court on charges of kidnapping a young aviation engineer in Boston last June 19. They testified that they quaffed 40 glasses of beer and a bottle of whisky between them in an 18-hour period before the alleged kidnapping.

A prosecution witness, Dr. Meyer Teaser, said that anyone who drank that much in that time would be out like a light.

Not so, said lawyer Bobick, and he set about to prove it. He contended that his client could have drunk as much as they said they did and "not know the nature of their act."

The 30-year-old lawyer, who weighs 260 and stands six feet, 3½, began drinking scotch with water in his office Monday afternoon, with his partner and a private detective as witnesses. He drank until 1 a.m. and slept until 6 a.m. Tuesday.

Then he got up and washed down the second bottle in time to go to court.

BOTTLES IN COURT

His face flushed, he marched into court with the two witnesses and the two empty bottles.

"Am I in a stupor or unconscious?" he asked the witnesses.

"No," they answered.

Then he picked up the bottles and waved them before Judge John A. Mullen and the jury.

Speaking in slow, measured tones, he said:

"I now offer these two exhibits as evidence on behalf of the prosecution—I beg the court's pardon. I mean on behalf of the defence."

"Mark them as being in evidence," Mullen ruled.

Both sides rested their cases after Bobick's dramatic testimony.

Bobick's home telephone was answered by his partner Tuesday night.

"Mr. Bobick is in repose," he announced.

Conservatives Poll 49 PC of Nova Scotia Vote

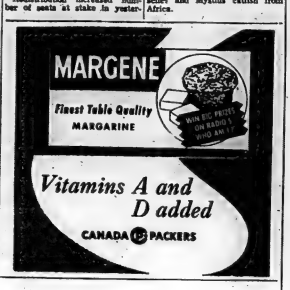
HALIFAX (CP)—With the count all but complete tabulation by The Canadian Press of the popular vote in Tuesday's Nova Scotia election shows that the Progressive Conservatives polled 49 per cent of the vote in electing 25 members and ousting the Liberals from office.

In the last election in 1953 when they elected 13 members, the Progressive Conservatives received 44 per cent of the vote.

Liberals received 46 per cent of the vote Tuesday, electing 19 members. In 1953, they got 49 per cent of the vote and elected 32.

The CCF, which elected one member compared with two last time, dropped to three per cent from six.

Redistribution increased number of seats at stake in yesterday's election by six, to 43 from 37. Progressive Conservatives and Liberals entered candidates in every seat as they did in 1953. The CCF had 11 candidates compared with 18 last time.



With tabulation almost complete (1,179 of 1,183 polls) the figures were as follows (percentages bracketed):

	1956	1953
PC	139,249 (49)	150,480 (44)
Lib	130,642 (46)	159,118 (46)
CCF	9,898 (3)	23,700 (7)
Others	513 (—)	8,065 (—)
Totals	227,301	345,363

(These figures, however, do not indicate total number of voters but number of votes cast. In this election there were three two-member constituencies in which each voter could mark his ballot for two candidates. There were five two-member constituencies in 1953 and 1949.)

COLORFUL FISH

VANCOUVER (CP) — Sixty brightly-colored fish have arrived at the Vancouver public aquarium first of a new salt-water tropical collection. They include clown fish, Blue Devils, Blue Demoiselles and Myaitus catfish from Africa.

Isn't that just like a man? You can be sure this spilled water won't get wiped up till morning. ♦ But take heart, ladies! With Stride—a magnificent new Johnson's Wax—on your floors, a damp cloth whisks away spill spots, even if left for hours!

SPILL ON IT, SPLASH ON IT, PUNISH IT —JUST AN EASY ONCE-OVER RESTORES THE LUSTRE, WITHOUT RE-WAXING!

No wonder the swing is to Johnson's Stride! For in Stride women have found at last a self-polishing wax that actually protects like paste wax. You just spread Stride on—it dries to a rich wax lustre. And from then on, spills wipe up without a trace, even after they've dried. A little buffing erases scuff marks.

Your usual damp mopping actually brightens the lustre... brings back Stride's beauty again and again, without re-waxing! So you wax less often. That means fewer of those back-breaking scrub-ups before waxing, too...that's what Stride can mean to you! Why don't you join the swing to Johnson's Stride?

IKE PLEDGES

Yet to say that the U.S. government considered the British, Israeli and French actions wrong was "in no way to minimize, our friendship with these nations, nor our determination to maintain their friendships."

"For we are fully aware of the grave anxieties of Israel, of Britain and of France. We know that they have been subjected to grave and repeated provocations."

CRITICISM TEMPERATE

The president's criticism of the British and French operation seemed moderate against the background of anger and shock which characterized initial reaction in official quarters here Tuesday.

(By Wednesday night there were indications that the U.S. was looking to Canada for moral support in its stand against Britain and France, reported George Kitchen, Canadian Press correspondent in Washington. He quoted informed American officials as saying that the U.S. government already had received encouragement from External Affairs Minister Pearson.)

Eisenhower said while the Middle East situation is "somber" and "invites our most serious concern," it is not a situation "that calls for extravagant fear or hysteria."

BREACH OF UN IDEALS

After saying that Egypt had provided "repeated provocations" to Israel, Britain and France, Eisenhower continued:

"The present fact, nonetheless, seems clear! The actions taken can scarcely be reconciled with the principles and purposes of the United Nations to which we have all subscribed. And, beyond this, we are forced to doubt that resort to war will serve over the permanent interests of the attacking nations."

He presumably had in mind the concern felt by State Secretary Dulles that there is grave danger of prolonged and widespread Arab resistance, with hostilities soon bloodshed spreading throughout the Middle East and North Africa.

"There can be no peace—without law," said Eisenhower. "And there can be no law—if we were to invoke one code of international conduct for those who oppose us—and another for our friends."

NON-STOP RAIDS

The first word of the break in Egypt's relations with British came from Cairo. Egypt's foreign office took similar action against Egypt a short time later, and a similar move was expected from France.

An official Egyptian government announcement from Cairo said Egypt was "studying the question of withdrawing from the United Nations because the UN has allowed its flouting of its charter in dealing with my colonial countries' ambitions."

SUGGESTS SABOTAGE

Besides the diplomatic breach, the fast-breaking Middle East developments brought these results:

1. A call by Cairo radio that "the time has come" for workers in the Arab states to carry out last August's decision to meet aggression by stopping the flow of oil to the allies "even if it means blowing up all pipelines."

2. A declaration from President Eisenhower that the United States will not become involved in the present hostilities.

3. An order for a special emergency session this afternoon of the United Nations General Assembly next week to stop the fighting.

4. Widespread criticism of the attacks on Egypt from across the world. Prime Minister Nehru spoke of "clear and naked aggression."

5. A call by Prime Minister Eden for a vote of confidence in the House of Commons here today.

6. A declaration of martial law in Iraq—up to now one of Britain's strongest Middle East allies —and a protest to Britain and France from the Baghdad government.

DENY CITY BOMBED

The air ministry in London said four-jet Vickers Valiant bombers and twin-jet Canberras had plastered airfields and other military targets in the vicinity of Suez and Cairo. It flatly denied Egyptian reports that high-explosive bombs and incendiaries were dropped on the Egyptian capital itself.

Meanwhile a great debate raged in Britain over the whole question of whether this use of force in the Middle East was morally, legally or practically justifiable.

The Labor opposition called a vote of censure against Eden. Eden staked his government on the vote on the censure motion today; but was expected to win because of the Conservative majority of more than 60.

ERROR, SAYS EISENHOWER

President Eisenhower, in a radio-TV speech, termed it an "error" for British, France and Israel to have launched their attacks on Egypt, although he said they had "grave and repeated provocations." He said the U.S. will strive to localize the fighting and end the conflict.

Eisenhower said the UN in the past had proved able to find a way to end bloodshed and "we believe it can and will do so again."

The British and French forces went into action after Egypt rejected a demand from the London and Paris governments that their troops be admitted temporarily into the canal zone to protect the waterway and end the Egyptian-Israeli fighting.

Britain and France said their forces would occupy positions in Port Said and Suez, the terminal points of the canal, and Ismailia, the major military base midway along the Suez. Both governments insisted that their stay would be only temporary.

Egyptian Army headquarters in Cairo had said Wednesday night that British jet bombers dropped high-explosive bombs and incendiaries on Cairo, the big seaport of Alexandria and the canal cities of Port Said, Ismailia and Suez.

SAY SEVEN KILLED

The communique said seven persons were killed in this raid on Cairo and "slight damage was caused." It said the city's three airfields and a military academy were hit.

The air ministry in London announced RAF planes had attacked Egyptian airfields, but asserted that no other targets had been hit.

The British spokesman reported no British losses and no opposition to the raids.

The pilot of a British bomber who returned to his Cyprus base after a raid on an unnamed Egyptian airfield said the operation surprised Egyptian ground defences, and there was no fighter plane opposition.

NAVAL ACTION

In naval action, the British cruiser Newfoundland sank the Egyptian frigate in the Gulf of Suez at the Red Sea end of the canal. An admiralty spokesman said the 8,800-ton cruiser carried out the action while on "shipping protection duties in the Gulf of Suez." He said the frigate "failed to answer a challenge or to stop when signalled upon to do so."

"Shots were therefore sunk and survivors were taken on board the Newfoundland."

The frigate was the second lost by Egypt in the day. The escorted frigate Ibrahim Awal was towed to drydock at Israel's port of Haifa after succumbing to Israeli naval units. There were many casualties among the foreman crew, but no figures were announced.

REFUGEES ON MOVE

Earlier reports said Israeli forces had partly encircled the Gaza strip, 26 miles long by eight wide between the Mediterranean coast and Israel's Negev desert.

Unofficial accounts said thousands of the 250,000 Arab refugees from the 1948 war living in the Gaza area were fleeing today along coastal roads in Egypt.

The flight of Americans and other foreigners from Egypt, Israel and surrounding countries went ahead. The U.S. state department announced that more than 1,800 Americans had been taken out by units of the U.S. 6th Fleet, the air force and commercial ships, with evacuation still being pushed by plane, ship and sedan.

The U.S. Maritime Administration advised American merchant ships to avoid the Suez Canal area "until the situation clarifies."

NEHRU URGES "STEPS"

Nehru dispatched letters to President Eisenhower, State Secretary Dulles, Prime Minister Eden, President Nasser and Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold. Indian government sources said the message to Eisenhower expressed hope that the U.S. president would be able to use his influence to help the situation.

Nehru's letter to Hammarskjold appealed to the UN to take "strong step" to "prevent the world from plunging into war."

President Tito of Yugoslavia termed the moves by Israel, France and Britain "in fact one single aggression." He accused Britain and France of threatening "to capture the Suez Canal under a pretext of protecting the zone."

A Moscow statement said the Soviet government "holds that the Security Council must take immediate steps to stop aggressive action by Britain, France and Israel toward Egypt and secure immediate withdrawal of the aggressors' troops from Egyptian territory."

CEYLON PROTESTS

Another Commonwealth premier, Solomon Bandaranike of Ceylon, said he had cabled Eisenhower, Eden and French Premier Guy Mollet urging that foreign troops be withdrawn from Egypt before the situation worsens.

Leaders of various political parties in Pakistan strongly condemned the action against Egypt and called for country-wide protest demonstrations. Prime Minister H. S. Suhrawardy told reporters he considered Israel the aggressor, and called a cabinet meeting to consider the situation.

But support for Britain came from Australia and New Zealand, where prime ministers Menzies and Holland said they would support the Anglo-French action.

Communist China demanded in a statement broadcast by Peiping radio that Britain and France "immediately put an end to their aggression against Egypt."

Much of the comment in the world's press also was critical of the moves against Egypt. Even in Britain editorials ranged from praise for the Eden government's strong stand to a condemnation of "unjustic aggression."

CANAL BLOCKED

Despite claims that Cairo had been bombed, eyewitnesses and rooftop watchers here said the air strikes appeared to be directed northeast of the city. The capital's two international airports and a military airdrome are located there. A red glow could be seen in the area. Some residents in suburban Cairo were reported leaving their homes.

All universities and primary and secondary schools were closed in Cairo, Alexandria and the Suez Canal zone. Egyptians carried out general mobilization orders affecting all classes 21 to 27.

Newspapers said 25,000 volunteers who had completed training in guerrilla warfare in the national liberation army and national guard, had reported to base camps.

A communique charged French planes joined Israeli air force in strafing Egyptian military forces in the Sinai desert. It claimed destruction of a fourth of the Israeli air force. The communique made no mention of the fighting with Israeli ground forces in the desert.

The Egyptians said nine persons were killed during Anglo-French air raids on Cairo during the night, and claimed to have downed six British planes in raids on Alexandria and Cairo.

(The RAF denied having bombed anything but military targets, and said all its planes had returned safely to their bases on Cyprus.)

A government announcement broadcast by Cairo radio said this morning that Egypt had broken diplomatic relations with Britain and France, and was considering leaving the United Nations in protest against the British-French attack.

WOULD CUT OFF OIL

Another broadcast appealed to the Arabs to stop all oil to Britain and France. Even now it means blowing up all the pipelines in the Middle East."

Egypt mounted for Egypt throughout the Arab world. The Iraqi government — a loyal ally of Britain in the pro-Western Bagdad pact — proclaimed martial law against the British-French attack.

LOOKS LIKE A THRILLER!

Indications at the moment are that the McFarlands will play to another packed house here tomorrow night when they clash with the leading Whitby Dunlops for the first time this season. The Dunlops, who treated the Belleville club rather mercilessly as far as scoring goes, last season, will face a club that has no fear of records, reputations or league standings.

It rounded something like a flashback yesterday when the news came that the Dunnies had shellacked the supposedly powerful Kingston Kicees to the tune of ten goals to one. Gad, what hoppen? The Kicees had three wins and a tie tucked under their collective belts and gave all indications of being one of the strong contenders for group honours. Then came the 10-1 shellacking—and raised eyebrows around the circuit.

Comparisons are odious at all times—and the "dope" is not what it is cracked up to be, most of the time. Wren Blair, the Whitby impresario, admits in his Oshawa edition that the Belleville McFarlands have given evidence they will be tough onions in the loop race as they held the Ottawa Canadiens to a 4-4 tie." They didn't hold 'em. Wren, they had 'em beaten—then came that strange hockey rarity of scoring a goal with six attackers in the last second of play. And they whomped Whitby 7-5.

However, tomorrow night's battle looks like a thriller-diller. Blair has been served notice with two defeats lacked against him already, that the league will be no runaway for his senior "B" champions as was the case last year. The going is getting tougher all the time and there should be some spine-tingling battles when the boys round into full form again.

The Pembroke Observer quoted Blair as saying it was "impossible for the Lumber Kings to beat Whitby in Whitby"—and what happened? They did just that, sinking the winner a few seconds after the 3-all overtime had started.

Coach Bep Guidolin is taking no chances. He wants to win the game—and he is driving his charges at top speed through nightly workouts. The boys at this writing are in good shape with no injuries and should come up with another of their driving, hard-hitting performances against the Dunlops tomorrow.

Meanwhile, down Cornwall way, things do not look so rosy for the Chevies of the riverside city. Players are being cut, with Manager Ray Miron seeking desperately for the right type of reinforcements. The Chevies came through with their first point against Pembroke the other night and their record is one tie and six setbacks.

Talk from Cornwall has it that Gerry Devaney may be on the block. It is charged that the starry goalie, one of the best, if not the best in the league last year, has not been playing up to snuff and may be traded if a suitable replacement is available. The Lumber Kings, it is charged, whipped five goals in six shots in eight minutes past Gerry the other night and that did not sit so good with the management. True, the Chevies charged right back to slam home four markers in a row but the damage was done.

Manager Miron has cut Bill Bougie, one of his 1956 stars, and also Jim St. Louis for alleged indifferent play. Devaney, he is reported in his local newspaper as saying, "has lost confidence in himself . . . and has let the thing get the best of him. That is why a replacement is being sought."

Whitby, too, is fighting desperately for a player replacement. The feud between Blair and the Windsor Bulldogs' management over Ted O'Connor, husky defenceman, has reached the point where the matter is being taken to the OHA tomorrow night. Blair will protest the $1,000 price placed on O'Connor's services by Bulldog manager Georgie Gee. After all, Gee wants to get back some of the $3,000 he paid the Toronto Maple Leafs for one Joe Kinkay.

JUNIOR HOCKEY

A long-needed Junior "B" hockey league has been formed in this district and for Belleville at least it should serve a dual purpose.

The league consists of the Belleville Lamberts, Kingston, Gananoque and two other teams from Kingston, Queen's University and the Royal Military College.

The Belleville squad, sponsored by the Charles Lambert Construction Company, has been working out for the past week under coach Speedy St. Louis. This team will give the younger players of the district a place to play hockey, somewhere to go after finishing their juvenile stint. Secondly, it will help provide senior players for the future.

St. Louis isn't looking for a championship club here this year. It has been two years since junior hockey has been played in Walt Gerow's ice palace but things appear to be headed in the right direction again. .

Some 20 odd candidates have been out to the early workouts, all local boys, mostly from last season's juveniles. St. Louis will try to fashion a fast, hard-skating group before the initial game on November 20.

Billy Harris Halts Demotion Bags Two in Scoring Splurge As Club Moves Into Top Tie

By RON ANDREWS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Sophomore Billy Harris looked from the bench at an untried rookie on New York's opening night and knew he had to produce. He did.

Harris, lightweight centre with Toronto Maple Leafs scored two goals in Leafs' 7-2 rout over New York Rangers before 13,006 National Hockey League fans. On these goals the immediate danger of Harris' demotion to the minors disappeared.

The newcomer was centre Mike Nykoluk, elevated from Rochester Americans of the American League to help the injury-struck Leafs. There is no doubt Nykoluk is big-league material. And there was talk that he probably would get that job unless Billy scored some goals.

PICTURE GOALS

Although he was one of three Leafs to score a pair of goals, Harris' two were the most colorful. They were his first two of the season.

Centre Rudy Migay and right winger George Armstrong got two apiece, as did defenceman Allan Stanley and left winger, added the other.

Defenceman Larry Cahan, Leaf standout last year, and Lou Jovanelli scored for Rangers, who were victims of the richest score they've run up on a team this season.

Before the game—at Toronto and the attendance was the night—Toronto coach Howie Meeker expressed his confidence in Harris' play. He also said Nykoluk, formerly with Winnipeg Warriors of the Western Canada Senior League, "could become a regular Leaf if he shows well."

WAS BELOW PAR

"Harris has been a disappointment to me," Meeker said. "He either can't, or won't, check the way I ask him to check. If he won't check he's not going to be different. But he isn't scoring or checking."

Harris' comment after the game: "That performance by Harris was long overdue. I'm happy to see him score a couple of goals. Now if he can only keep it up I'll be happy."

Meeker was also impressed with Nykoluk, though he was unable to get in the scoring. The Toronto-born forward fitted in well, he played a total of 10 minutes and 17 seconds of good hockey. Harris looked better, though.

BEST NHL SHOW

For Harris, who scored 37 goals and 39 assists in 67 games while leading Toronto Marlboros to a Memorial Cup championship in 1954-55, it was his best NHL scoring performance in a single game.

The 155-pound native of Toronto scored nine goals and 13 assists last season in his rookie year with Leafs. But he didn't get two goals in one game.

The visiting stretched Leafs' undefeated streak to seven games, including four wins, and moved them into first place with Wings, each with 12 points.

Miceli Wins

CHICAGO (AP)—Veteran welterweight Joe Miceli of New York Wednesday night hacked out a 10-round unanimous decision over unseasoned, and blooded, Carlo Sarbo.

Miceli, 10th-ranked contender of his division, left-booked the wild-swinging, stampeding Chicago truck driver into a gory mess from the fifth round on in the nationally-televised bout at Chicago Stadium.

Miceli weighed 146½ and Carlo, making his first main event appearance on TV, came in at 148.

Eddie Machen Selected as Boxer of Month

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The National Boxing Association, in its monthly ratings Wednesday selected heavyweight Eddie Machen as the boxer of the month and gave former middleweight champion Bobo Olson a pat on the back for "recognizing he has reached the end of the fistic trail."

The NBA, through its rating committee, also said it will recognize the winner of the Nov. 30 bout in Chicago between Archie Moore and Floyd Patterson as the heavyweight champion.

Machen, who comes from Redding, Calif., stopped Johnny Holman of Portland, Ore., recently for his 10th consecutive victory. Olson was awarded honorable mentions in the boxer of the month category for stirring Machen was rated sixth in the heavyweight division.

Gordon Wallace of Brantford was ranked No. 1 in the light-heavyweight division.

Metras Has Quarter Problem Against Gaels

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A quarterback problem is bothering coach Lindsay Metras as he tries to whip up his University of Western Ontario Mustangs for a "prestige" victory over Queen's Golden Gaels here Saturday.

It is the 1956 finale for Western in Senior Intercollegiate football this year. The Mustangs are in the cellar with one win against three defeats, with no playoff chances.

It was Queen's that started the Mustangs on their losing streak three weeks ago, whalloping a 35-0 victory in Kingston.

The Mustangs lost both their top quarterbacks, Art Turner and Bruce Hyde, last Saturday when they took a 41-7 beating from Toronto in London. End John Girvin was pressed into the quarter spot and did a fair job, but Metras still wants him at the end position because he is the team's best pass receiver.

Metras hopes Turner's ankle injury may mend enough for him to start Saturday's contest.

The local coaching staff says its big concern is to try and stop the Gaels' spirit - running attack, sparked by import quarterback John Mourhide. It stopped the Mustangs cold in the game at Kingston.

Patterson Wins Russel Trophy Cats' Grant Named Top Rookie

By BERNARD DUFRESNE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Hal Patterson, Montreal Alouettes' brilliant pass-catching end, today was named 1956 winner of the Jeff Russel Memorial Trophy, awarded each year to the most sportsmanlike and valuable player in the Big Four Football League.

Ted Workman, league secretary also announced that halfback Tom Grant of Hamilton Tiger-Cats has been chosen as the best rookie to come up this year from high school or junior football ranks.

Brown said Patterson was chosen by a clear majority in the voting of the five league governors and staff of 14 game officials. He was among eight candidates—two from each team—chosen by the players themselves.

HAS THREE RECORDS

Patterson, 24, in his third season with the Alouettes, has often been described by his coach, Doug (Pucksie) Walker, as the best all-around football player in Canada.

In 13 games so far this season, he has caught 88 passes for a total gain of 1,314 yards, both records. Twelve of the passes were good for touchdowns. Patterson also scored a touchdown on a blocked punt return, a record, to give him a total of 78 points, one short of the immortal Pat Abbruzzi's 102 points.

THIRD AL TO WIN

The former Kansas University end, whose home is in Rozel, Kan., also plays defensive halfback for Alouettes and was chosen at that position on last season's Eastern all-star team. On defence, he has intercepted five passes so far and is high up among the kickoff receivers.

Patterson becomes the third Alouette to win the trophy. The others were quarterback Sam Etcheverry in 1954 and Virgil Wagner in 1947. Wagner retired in 1954 after nine seasons in the Als' backfield.

The trophy bearing the words "courage . . . true sportsmanship . . . fair play", was put up for competition in 1928 by friends of the late Jeff Russel who was accidentally electrocuted in 1926. Russel was captain and star player with the old Montreal AAA Winged Wheelers.

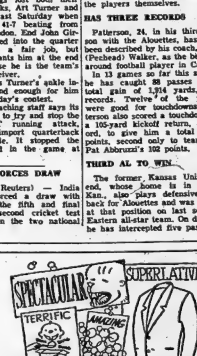
Last year's winner was Avatus Stone of Ottawa Rough Riders.

BEAT OUT SEVEN

Other players nominated for the trophy were: fullback Cookie Gilchrist and guard Vince Scott of Hamilton; centre Ken Vargo and tackle Kaye Vaughan of Ottawa; fullback Dick Shatto and halfback Bobby Kunic of Toronto Argonauts and Ed Etcheverry.

Grant, 21-year-old halfback from Windsor AKO juniors, was one of four players from junior ranks to make the grade in Big Four company this season. The others were half Gerry Apostolatos, Montreal; guard Marv Bevan, Ottawa; and half Bart Moll, Toronto.

Grant is one of the best kickoff receivers on the Hamilton team. Last year's top rookie was end Ed Mularchyk of Ottawa.



Four Canadians Win Round

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Four Canadian golfers were among the favorites who advanced through the first round of the Mexican National Amateur golf tournament Wednesday.

Jerry Magee of Toronto defeated Leonardo Temacelli of Mexico City, one-up. Doug Silverberg of Red Deer, Alta., scored a 5 and 4 victory over Carl Bolces of Mexico City. Joe Leblanc of Montreal defeated N. M. Wilson of San Antonio, Tex., 6 and 5 and Robert Kidd of Vancouver beat J. Escalante of Mexico City, 8 and 4.

Two other Canadians entered did not play Wednesday.

Doug Bajus of Vancouver withdrew and returned home. George Knudsen of Winnipeg drew a bye for the first round and will play his first match today.

Other Hopes Not Rosy

Canada May Win Gold Medals Through Water Sports Stars

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Canada has a fair chance of winning two or three Olympic gold medals this year, mainly through the strength of its athletes in the water sports. The paddlers and women swimmers are rated the country's top prospects.

Some dark horses could be aboard the special Olympic planes leaving Vancouver Nov. 10 and 13 for the games at Melbourne, but Canada doesn't rate in the overall picture against the world's best. Canadian records in sports where time, distances and heights are a yardstick for comparison are, in most cases, far below world standards.

Apart from the paddlers and carnaids and in such sports as shooting, gymnastics, boxing and wrestling where comparisons can not be made, Canada's hopes of improving its 24th place over the final olympic standings aren't too rosy.

POOR 1952 SHOWING

Canada picked up only three points in track and field—the glamor sport of the games — in 1952 and some observers aren't too optimistic that the Maple Leaf cinder - track hopefuls will have improved on that when the games close Dec. 8. Canada hasn't won an Olympic track and field gold medal since Winnipeg's Dune McNaughton won the high jump in 1932.

The paddlers, with 22-year-old Don Stringer of Sudbury, Ont., in the lead, could be the big point-winners, Stringer, who switched to steel-reinforced blades two years ago when it was found the hard-digging 22-year-old broke the conventional wooden paddles, is the top canoeist in North America.

He has been beaten Frank Heavens of Washington, D. C., 1952 Olympic Games champion and his performances in Canada and the U. S. give him world rating in his specialities—the 1,000-metre and 10,000-metre events.

This is the first time he has been chosen to represent Canada in world competition. In the 1952 Olympic trials he failed to qualify when his blade broke. The same thing happened in the 1954 British Empire Games trials.

Other paddlers rated highly are Bill Stevenson and Tom Hodgson, both of Toronto, in the single-blade tandem 10,000 metres.

UBC's CHANCES

Some experts figure the university of British Columbia eight-oared crew and four - oared crew without coxswain, have better-than-even chances of taking everything. Both crews have broken the Olympic records but times are not a true yardstick in sport where water conditions are variable from day to day.

Canada's mermaids—Toronto's Ginny Grant; Sara Barber of Brantford, Ont.; Beth Whittall of Montreal; Lenora Fisher of Ocean Falls, B. C. and diver Irene Macdonald of Hamilton—have shown tremendous improvement in the last couple of years. None is likely to win a first place in individual events but the 400-metre relay team of Misses Grant, Barber, Priestley and Sherman conceivably could give Canada its first gold medal in the history of women's swimming at the Olympics.

Olympic trials track and field standards were based on the times, distances and heights of ninth - place finishers in the 1952 games and few were equalled or beaten. With the world athletic - breaking records all over the place, the picture for Canadians in this sport is black.

Durocher Out As Manager For Indians

LOS ANGELES (AP) —Leo Durocher bowed out Wednesday for Cleveland Indians.

Hank Greenberg, Indians general manager, said in a statement:

"Leo Durocher has advised me he cannot be considered a candidate for the manager's job."

Greenberg's statement added:

"Leo has a television contract for 1957 which he feels duty bound to fulfill."

Durocher previously had said he would not return to baseball on a salary alone, but would want a financial interest in the club. There were indications Greenberg offered a full managerial salary but backed away from a club interest deal.

Riders, Bombers May Stage Pass Battle

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Western Interprovincial Football Union semi-final likely will develop into a battle between the passing of Saskatchewan Roughriders and the running of Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

On the basis of their 3-1 edge in games through the regular schedule, Riders will enter the two-game, total-point series as favorites. They already have been installed as about eight-point favorites for the first contest Saturday at Regina. Second game is billed for Monday at Winnipeg.

Riders won both their home games against Bombers 29-16 and 26-14 and one at Winnipeg 24-7, but they suffered a humiliating 45-0 setback at the other away contest.

Except for that one triumph, the Bombers have been unable to solve the passing of Rider quarterback Frank Tripucka who has set league records this season for most attempted passes, most completed passes and the most yards gained in passing.

BETTER ON GROUND

Meantime, Bombers ran the ball a record 664 times and moved the yardstick a record 338 times mainly on the running of halfbacks Bob McNamara and Buddy Leake and fullback Bob Davenport.

Despite the records, Riders can put up a pretty fair running attack of their own while Bombers have more than adequate passing. To offset the brilliant throwing of Tripucka, Bombers can go to the air with either quarterback Eagle Day or scoring champion Leake.

Besides the halfbacks, Day or Leake can throw to such sticky-fingered ends as Bud Grant and Al Brune, third import end, Tom Miner, likely will take over at flying wing for the first game of the playoffs to replace homebrew Ron Kelly, who still is recovering from pneumonia.

On the other hand, Riders can present a formidable running attack with backs as Ken Carpenter, Bobby Marlow, Alex Bravo and Solly Glasser when Tripucka is not throwing to Stan Williams, Jon McWilliams, Harry Langman or Larry Isbell.

Rowland Heads 'Angels' Club

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Clarence Rowland Wednesday was named president of the Los Angeles baseball club and Gene Handley the new manager for 1957.

Rowland, who served as Angel president in 1942-43 later as president of the Pacific Coast League, recently resigned as vice-president of the parent Chicago Cubs.

He was elected at a stockholders' meeting and immediately named Handley an Angel scout and long a local baseball figure, to succeed Bob Scheffing. The latter stepped up to manage the Cubs.

War Situation Could Have Drastic Effect on Olympics

MELBOURNE (AP) — Whether the Olympic Games will open here tiyhes weeks from today is scheduled is a question that has all Melbourne talking and organizing officials obviously worried.

The point is, if Australia lines up with Britain as she did in both of the world wars, will the International Olympic Committee cancel Melbourne's charter to stage the Games starting Nov. 22?

Two top organizers, Wilfred S. J. Kent Hughes, chairman of the Olympic organizing committee, and Lieut.-Gen. Sir William Bridgeford, chief executive officer conferred this morning on possible effects the military action in the Middle East will have on the Games.

Both told The Associated Press they think the Games will go on as scheduled.

But there is a feeling among Olympic officials that the IOC might ask Great Britain, France and Israel to withdraw their teams. Traditionally countries at war do not take part in the Games although Otto Mayer, chancellor of the IOC, said in Lausanne, Switzerland, there is no Olympic rule preventing countries at war from competing.

Kent Hughes, trying to keep separate his role as a member of the Australian house of representatives and chairman of the organizing committee, decided not to go to Canberra to see Prime Minister Menzies' report on the Middle East situation.

Melbourne people are talking of the apparent jinx on this city's attempt to stage the Games. First they ran into organizational trouble and then the IOC transferred the equestrian events elsewhere because of slow progress in erecting the physical properties.

But today Melbourne's arenas are ready.

"We have already had to jump several high hurdles and we have been successfully negotiated" said Kent Hughes. "Now we hope and pray there will be no crash at the last hurdle."

Bridgeford said: "We are confident the Games will go on and be a great success. We have a charter from the IOC to stage the Games and that's what we are continuing to do."

So far as the organizers are concerned 74 countries will compete in the Games.

Already several hundred athletes are stationed in the Olympic village and more are arriving every lay. The first Russians are scheduled to arrive by ship Friday.

VICTORIA (CP)—Helen Stewart, 18, member of Canada's Olympic swim team, plans to retire after the 1958 Games in Australia this month.

The holder of the unofficial 200-yard world free-style record of 67.6 seconds, said Wednesday during training the Olympics will be her last competition.

After that she will devote her time to swimming for relaxation only and to her physical education course at the University of British Columbia.

Miss Stewart won a Gold Medal for Canada at the 1955 Pan-American Games and was a member of the 1954 British Empire Games team.

Dream Defence Had Origin In Canada

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)— Jack Hennemier, defence coach of the North Carolina football team, had a dream the other night.

It came after a long day during which the university coaching staff tried to devise a defence that would stop Tennessee Saturday. The dream provided a sure stopper.

It wasn't until Hennemier, head coach of Calgary Stampeders until early this season, started diagramming the formation that the bubble burst. He used 11 men a la Canadian football rules.

National League Marks Increase In Attendance

CINCINNATI (AP)—A whopping total of 6,649,387 persons paid to see baseball games in the National League this year, Dave Grote, manager of the league's service bureau, announced Wednesday.

The league attracted 975,155 more spectators than in 1955. The 1956 total was the highest since 1948, when 9,484,718 fans turned the turnstiles.

Four clubs — Brooklyn, Cincinnati, Milwaukee and St. Louis — played to more than 1,000,000 fans on their home grounds. Milwaukee Braves enjoyed all other teams, with 2,046,331—the third successive year in which Milwaukee passed the 2,000,000-mark in attendance.

Cincinnati Redlegs drew 1,125,-098, bettering the million mark for the first time in history.

Pittsburgh's early rush to the top in the pennant race, and its determined playing against the flag contenders in the final days, gave it a total attendance of 963,-878, as compared with 469,397 the season before.

NEW YORK (AP) — Tommy Henrich, former New York baseball star fielder, Wednesday was named a coach with New York Giants.

Officiating Is Good if Team Is Winning

NEW YORK (AP) — Whether officiating in the National Football League is good or bad apparently depends on a team's position in the standings.

It all started with Tony Morabito, owner of San Francisco 49ers, expressed dissatisfaction with the officiating after his club lost to Chicago Bears 35-21 Sunday for their fourth setback in five games. Morabito said he would try to get commissioner Bert Bell fired when the league meets in January.

But then Morabito was joined by coach Paul Brown, whose Cleveland Browns also have lost four of their five games.

"It isn't only Tony," said Brown, "where it is a general feeling around the league that the officiating has to be improved. The thing that irks Tony is that you can't do anything about it. But something has to be done and I think Bert Bell himself agrees that something must be done."

BELL DISAGREES

To which Bell replied:

"The officials are doing a great job. They have to do it by judgment plays a game and naturally everyone doesn't see them the same way. We have the best officials around. I don't say they don't sometimes make mistakes. We all do. But they do a great job in a tough situation."

Lining up with Bell in the argument were executives of Chicago Cardinals and New York Giants, whose 4-1 records give them a tie for first place in the Eastern Conference.

General manager Tex Schramm and coach Sid Gillman of Los Angeles Rams (1-4), said: "We feel there should be a continuing program to survey the work of the officials with an eye to improving the officiating and keeping it abreast of the game as played in the NFL."

Walt Kiseling, coach of Pittsburgh Steelers (2-3) said there have been times when it should be thought the officiating was bad. "And at other times I thought it was good," he added. "Officiating is a matter of judgment. Officials are human and you have officials making judgment plays you can expect some errors."

Guelph Whips Barrie 8-5; Hop to Top

BARRIE (CP) — Guelph Biltmores walloped Barrie Flyers 8-5 Wednesday night to move atop the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A standings. The loss was the second consecutive for the Flyers, in last place without a point.

Dan Belisle and Doug Robinson, each with two goals, led the Biltmores who now have won both their starts for four points, one ahead of Toronto St. Michael's College Majors.

Other Guelph marksmen were Don Jensen, Ed Shack, Bill Sweeney and Bill Robinson. Dick Rogers and Rolfe each bagged a pair for Barrie with Jack Kane getting the other.

Barrie, who outshot Guelph 39-27, replaced starting netminder Bruce McKechnie with Walter Adair in the third period and the substitute goaltender allowed only one goal. McKechnie was injured early in the second period when he was crashed into the net during a scramble but finished the period.

Hat Trick Wins For Buffalo

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — Sam Bettio's "hat trick" Wednesday night sparked Buffalo Bisons to a 6-4 win over Hershey Bears in an American Hockey League game.

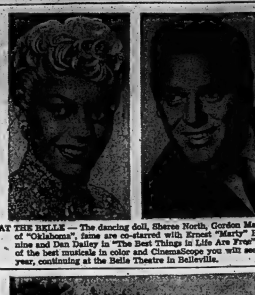
Al Nicholson and Obie O'Brien scored to give the Bears a lead in the first period. Pete Conacher came through at the start of the second period with a quick Bisons goal. Then Dune Fisher tallied for the Bears on a fast passing attack, but Ken Wharram and Bettio scored in quick succession to tie the score.

Bettio scored twice at the start of the third period. Lorne Davis pulled the Bears' hopes when he scored with slightly more than a minute to play and Hershey begged an insurance marker when Larry Wilson scored into an empty net.

ROSEWALL ENTERS

TORONTO (CP)—Ken Rosewall, Australian tennis ace, has tentatively agreed to play in the 1957 International Invitation tennis tournament in Toronto, Doug Philpott, tournament chairman, said Wednesday. Rosewall has requested agreement on payment of his expenses by the committee so he may include the event in his 1957 schedule.

Maglie Named National League Comeback Star

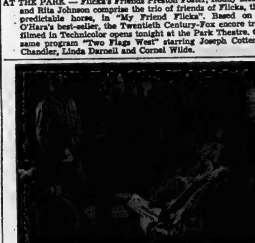


NEW YORK (AP)—Sal Maglie of Brooklyn Dodgers, who pitched a no-hitter and won a world series game in his 19th season of professional baseball, made the National League comeback-of-the-year in the opinion of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Maglie, 39, received 139 of the 160 votes cast in the annual Associated Press poll. Brooks Lawrence, a surprise 19-game winner for Cincinnati, was second with 12 votes.

Although he did not start his first game with Brooklyn until May 30 and did not pick up a victory until June 4, Maglie, a native of Niagara Falls, N.Y., won 13 games and lost only five. He had an earned run average of 2.87, fourth best in the circuit, struck out 109 batters and walked only 33.

On Sept. 25 against Philadelphia Sal pitched the first no-hit, no-run game of his career.



Others to receive votes for comeback honors included Don Newcombe of Brooklyn, Johnny Antonelli of New York Giants, Warren Spahn of Milwaukee and Bob Gilmore of Philadelphia. They had three apiece.

Little Benny's Notebook

Shorty Judge's grandfather Mr. Peevy was smoking his short pipe while he sewed a button back on his blue coat out on the front porch, and I said, Do you believe in flying saucers with funny little men from outer space?

Well, that's a question, Mr. Peevy said. I think the answer is, you got to be a little crazy to believe in that stuff. Captain Hiotis believed in flying saucers, full of funny little men, and it's no exaggeration to say he was a little crazy. He was as strong as a goorilla and not much better looking, and the time I'm thinking of he had tied the crew hand and foot and was about to set the ship afire.

G, why? I said, and Mr. Peevy said, He was crazy, that was reason enough for him. The only reason he hadn't tied me up too was because I kept my head and begged him to let me file the match ends while he poured the oil. Then I ducked out of sight down one of the hatches. We were carrying a cargo of cups and saucers from the Pottery Islands, and I broke open a crate of saucers and started to juggle them high in the air. It was a trick I remembered from my circus days, he said.

Did the captain think they were real flying saucers? I said, and said Mr. Peevy said, You bet he did, and he was scared stiff. And to make it more realistic I used a voice like a ventriloquist and made squeaky sounds like men from outer space saying, "We're watching you, Captain Hiotis. You better untie those men and behave yourself."

And did he? I said, and Mr. Peevy said. You bet he did, as meek as a lamb, begging their pardons in fear and trembling. I guess he's well believe that not a one of us ever enjoyed under him again.

Which no wonder.

Egypt's Air Force Reported Out Of Action

Pearson Suggests UN Military Force To Guard Borders

U.S. Sponsored Cease-Fire Resolution Given Approval

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — An emergency session of the United Nations General Assembly called early today for an immediate cease-fire in Egypt and then listened to a Canadian suggestion for establishment of a UN military force to guard the Egyptian-Israeli border.

External Affairs Minister Pearson termed the force a "truly international peace and police force" and said his government would recommend Canadian participation in such a UN force.

Pearson was obviously disappointed that the United States-sponsored cease - fire resolution was pushed through in such a hurry.

His suggested UN force won immediate U.S. support from State Secretary Dulles, who said he would like to see the Canadian delegation prepare a resolution embodying the suggestion.

RESOLUTION APPROVED

Approval of the American resolution, which also urged that Britain, France and Israel get out of Egypt, came shortly after 2 a.m.

The voting: delegates of the 76-nation assembly then continued in session until almost 5 a.m. to permit members time to give an explanation of their vote.

Canada was one of six countries abstaining on the vote. Sixty-four favored the resolution and five were against it. Luxembourg was absent.

Australia, France, Israel, Britain and New Zealand opposed the resolution. Others abstaining besides Canada were Belgium, South Africa, Portugal, The Netherlands and Laos.

Among those favoring the resolution were the Commonwealth countries India, Pakistan and Ceylon.

Pearson, who flew here Thursday from Ottawa for the session which lasted nearly 11 hours, said after the vote that his delegation is "inadequate to achieve the purposes we have in mind at this assembly."

Those purposes are defined in the resolution as the creation of a UN under which we are meeting—"Uniting for peace"—and peace is far more than ceasing to fire, though it certainly must include that essential factor."

FINDS LACK

But the resolution did not contain, he said, instructions to the UN force "to reconcile a peace settlement without which a cease fire will be only of temporary value."

Pearson should have used this opportunity to link a cease fire to the absolute necessity of a political settlement in Palestine.

"So I would have liked to see in this resolution a provision authorizing the Security Council to make arrangements with member governments for a UN force large enough to keep the borders at present and prevent the shooting and forays across them while a practical settlement is worked out, as it must be."

Canada's Plan For 10,000-Man UN Police Force

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada has in mind an international UN police force of 10,000 men to police the borders between Israel and the Arab states, a high government source said today.

External Affairs Minister Pearson proposed in the United Nations General Assembly Thursday night formation of an "adequate" international peace force to ensure that any ceasefire in Palestine is observed.

His proposal was immediate support from the United States but it has not yet been placed before the UN as a formal resolution.

The source here said the Canadian government thinks a force of some 10,000 men would be "adequate" for this task.

It is considered possible here that the Canadian government might be willing to provide an infantry battalion—about 900 men.

Think Two Men Died From This Area Burned in Truck

BULLETIN

One of the occupants of the truck which overturned and burned near Brockville early today has been definitely identified as Alf. Tyrell, owner of Tyrell Cartage Co. He left Belleville at 1:30 this morning with the truckload of scrap metal.

BROCKVILLE. (CP) — Two unidentified men burned to death this morning in the wreckage of their overturned truck after the vehicle upset when it missed a curve a mile west of here.

Provincial police identified the truck as one owned by the Tyrell Cartage Co., of Belleville.

The men were burned beyond recognition when the truck flipped over on its roof and caught fire. The victims were found, burned to death before witnesses could extinguish the flames.

The accident, said to have occurred at about 4.40 this morning, was investigated by Constable Provincial Police at Brockville.

The truck, carrying a load of scrap metal picked up yesterday afternoon at National Steel at Belleville was enroute to Montreal.

Possibility that the second occupant of the truck was a member of the RCAF, who had probably been picked up by a hitchhiker, was being investigated by provincial police. It was reported that airforce buttons were found in the burned cab.

BANK OF CANADA ANNOUNCES NEW POLICY ON RATES

Will Help Prevent Inflationary Rise

OTTAWA (CP)—The Bank of Canada has decided on new policy designed to keep it automatically one step ahead of the short-term money market and help to curb any inflationary rise in the country's money supply.

Under the new set - up, announced Thursday night, the central bank's interest rate on loans to chartered banks and securities dealers will be fixed at one-quarter of one per cent above the average weekly tender rate for 91-day government treasury bills. This action will mean another increase in the central interest rate—to 3.59 per cent from 3.5 per cent—within 13 months and incidentally plugs a hole through which borrowers sometimes could make a profit by borrowing from the Bank of Canada and investing in Treasury securities short-term treasury bills.

The bills, of short-term government bonds maturing anywhere from 90 to 180 days, are considered to the money market as about the next best thing to cash.

If a province, bank or other institution has funds lying idle for a short period, the likelihood is that the cash will be invested in treasury bills since they draw fairly good interest and mature quickly.

Batches of the bills are usually offered for sale once a week, under a tender system with the government accepting the lowest. Announcements of acceptances are usually made on Thursdays. Since the average tender Thursday was 3.34 per cent for the 91-day bills, the central bank rate will be 3.59 per cent until next Thursday.

The bills' tender rates vary in relation to the funds available for the investment. If money is scarce, the rate likely will climb, pushing the central bank rate up.

The Bank of Canada, however, can influence the rate through its open market operations. The bank rate has been rising steadily since the government announced in March an "easy money" policy early in 1955 to "tight money" in 1956.

The bank rate is the bank's interest charge appeared to follow the treasury bill tender rate closely. The last bank rate rise on Oct. 18, to 3.5 from 3.25 per cent, came after the tender rate on treasury bills had climbed to an even higher 3.5 per cent.

Such a situation might have made it practicable for chartered banks and dealers to borrow from the central bank and invest the funds lent in bills, thus making an interest-rate profit on the deal.

"It would be clearly undesirable," said the Bank of Canada Thursday night, "that banks and dealers should be able to borrow from the central bank at a lower cost than the yield on the most liquid forms of government securities.

"Such an encouragement to borrowing from the central bank would be apt to induce an inflationary increase in the volume of money."

High Proportion of Hundred Planes Destroyed on Ground Russian-Built MiGs, Bombers

LONDON (CP) — Israel today announced occupation of the entire Gaza Strip and claimed other smashing victories in ground action against Egyptian forces.

The French defence ministry said Egypt's air forces had been "completely put out of fighting condition" by repeated poundings from British-French air forces.

There still was no word of a ground invasion by British or French forces, but a French spokesman in Paris said the combined forces on Cyprus was increasing steadily.

A spokesman at Israeli Army headquarters, in Tel Aviv announced the surrender of Gaza City, Egyptian headquarters for the Gaza Strip, after a tank-led Israeli task force smashed into the city.

The surrender put the entire strip in Israeli hands and ended a 24-hour fight for the region. Israeli troops Thursday captured Rafa, the only other major centre in the strip.

The Gaza territory, a finger of land separating Israel and Egypt's coast on the Mediterranean, has long been a centre of Israeli-Egyptian border troubles. Elimination of fedayeen (commando) bases in the area was one of Israel's announced objectives in its thrust into Egypt Monday.

The air ministry in London said RAF heavy and medium bombers today were keeping up their nonstop strikes against Egyptian air bases.

None of our aircraft has been reported m i s s i n g," a British spokesman said.

On Cyprus, an Anglo-French communique issued this morning said "photograph reconnaissance has established that a high proportion of the 100 or so Egyptian MiG jet fighters . . . have been destroyed or damaged on the ground by Allied air forces were MiG jet fighters.

"Raiding aircraft have also taken a heavy toll of Ilyushin jet bombers."

The communique added that an Egyptian blockade ship attacked by bombers Thursday had been stopped in its course by British warships.

Eden Refuses to Say if Britain Will Accept UN Resolution

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Eden refused today to say if Britain would accept or reject the call of the United Nations General Assembly for an immediate cease-fire in Egypt.

Answering a question in the house of Commons, Eden described the UN resolution as a recommendation and said: "I decline to study the text of the recommendation and the speeches before I am asked for any word to my statement."

He refused renewed opposition pleas for an immediate halt to the military intervention in the Middle East.

Opposition members asked him to give an undertaking to halt all further armed attacks on Egypt until he had considered the UN resolution.

"I can give no such undertaking," Eden replied.

Hugh Gaitskell, leader of the Opposition, had opened the discussion by asking whether the government would accept the decision of the UN General Assembly for a cease-fire.

Gaitskell contended that a resolution passed by a majority of 64 to 5 was one the British government "in all honor, in our opinion, is bound to accept."

Today's renewed clash in the house of Commons followed a wild session Thursday night which at one point had to be suspended in uproar for 30 minutes.

Thursday night's session produced a vote in favor of Eden's policy with members following the usual party line.

Eden's refusal today to commit himself at once on the UN actions touched off another angry debate in the House, with Labor members shouting for him to "resign."

Left-winger Aneurin Bevan, spokesman on the Labor party's foreign affairs, moved downstream after the attack into a position "partially blocking the canal."

In London, Suez Minister Anthony Nutting said the canal had been temporarily closed, with no ships moving through today. But "it will certainly be the government's intention to see that any closing is as short as possible."

A British admiralty communique issued today said 253 sorties were flown from British carriers, and an unreported number by French naval aircraft.

In these sorties 71 Egyptian aircraft were destroyed and 30 damaged.

With Egypt apparently near defeat in the fighting, the ramifications of the Middle East crisis continued to spread throughout the world. The United Nations General Assembly voted to call for a cease-fire, and a resolution came from Canada—who abstained on the vote—for the creation of a UN military force to guard the Israeli-Egypt border.

Prime Minister Eden caused another storm in the Commons today when he told the house that whether British would accept or reject the cease-fire call. Opposition members shouted angrily at the prime minister—who had won a resounding vote of confidence Thursday night — said he wanted time to study the resolution.

In Paris, a spokesman for the French defence ministry said that Egyptian planes were estimated to have been destroyed, shot down or damaged to such an extent that they would take a long time to repair.

These, he said, included 16 Soviet-built Ilyushin-28 medium jet bombers with a speed of about 650 miles an hour.

The spokesman said: "We consider that the destruction of the Egyptian Air Force has been completed."

As far as land operations were concerned, he said there was nothing to report, so far on the Sinai-Egypt front.

He announced that Thursday and during the night air action was extended to all Egyptian airfields.

RUSSIAN TROOPS OPEN ALL-OUT HUNGARY DRIVE

Trying to Wipe Out Revolutionary Forces

VIENNA (Reuters) — Reports reaching here today said the Soviet Army in Hungary is mounting a full-scale offensive to wipe out Hungarian revolutionary forces.

Their attack appears to be directed towards Budapest. Soviet troop units, including strong-armored forces, were reported pouring into Hungary from Russia and Rumania, with strong armored units thrusting from the Czechoslovak-Hungarian frontier.

Soviet forces were also said to be assaulting the towns of Miskolc, Tokay, Szolnok and Debreecn in Eastern Hungary.

Budapest radio announced total mobilization of the Hungarian Army, and the military revolutionary councils ordered introduction of the blackout.

The reports spoke of bombing attacks by Soviet Air Force units on revolutionary strongholds, and "bloody battles" in Eastern Hungary.

Strength of one Soviet drive towards Budapest from the south was estimated at two full armored divisions. The revolutionary forces were believed to have about the equivalent of one armored division in the capital.

Soviet airborne troops were said to have landed at an unidentified airfield.

Some reports said that "all Hungarian airfields were in Russian hands." But other reports spoke of Soviet bombing raids on Hungarian-held airfields.

The families of Soviet diplomatic officials in Budapest were sent away from the city by ship down the Danube on Thursday, and a French correspondent said the Soviet Embassy in Budapest appeared to be in "in a state of war."

A correspondent for the Yugoslav newspaper Politika said massive forces of Russian troops, including heavy tanks, heavy artillery and big infantry units, were pouring into Hungary in connection with the new Hungarian government.

Ferenc Erdel, a member of the Hungarian cabinet, said in Budapest Thursday night that "considerable Soviet forces crossed the eastern frontier of the country and occupied a large territory."

Speaking to a meeting of revolutionary workers in the name of the new Nagy government, he urged Hungarian workers to go back to their jobs "in spite of the presence of the Soviet forces in the country."

Erdel said the declaration Thursday of Hungary's neutrality was the result of the short-term withdrawal of the Soviet troops—for the moment.

People gathered around radios with grim set faces that showed gloomily that Hungary would become "another Korea."

Rescue Attempt Right After Blast Brings Death to Two Draegermen

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP) — I talked with Springhill draegerman Ed McCormick just after he came out of the blasted No. 4 Colliery here early today. He and his buddy Fred Gaguicki are members of a five-man rescue squad.

"I was at home when I heard the explosion," he said in reply to a question. "I had my gear ready and set to go."

Ed member of the five-man team. Fred and I joined the draegermen about the same time —eight months ago.

"This is our first big rescue job.

"The five of us entered the mine together. There was some smoke but not a lot.

"Bill Ferguson, a draegerman in my crew, was about 100 feet when he dropped from the effects of the gas.

"About the same time we found Benny Roy and Alex Spence unconscious. They're draegermen too.

"Benny is in hospital now, near he's in fairly good shape. Bill and Alex are dead.

"Benny was about 20 feet further down the slope than Alex when we found him. He didn't have his mask on.

"We dragged them to the surface.

Ed McCormick's brother Leonard was among the trapped miners. There was no word of him.

"When I left home my wife had just fallen asleep," he said. "She tossed and turned all night and I guess I did too.

"When I got home she was almost frantic with worry. She'd heard rumors about the draegermen being killed in the gas."

Then he said as an afterthought, "You know, we're a volunteer outfit."

Little Hope Seen For 113 Miners Trapped In Pit

Known Dead Number 13 Including Two Rescuers

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP) — The fate of 113 coal miners trapped more than a mile inside a blast-shattered colliery here grew darker by the hour today.

Harold Gordon, Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation coal chief, announced a section of the shaft leading to the trapped men would be sealed off for "two to three hours" to control a fire burning there. For at least that period there should be no hope of rescue.

Meanwhile the toll grew. A burned body found near the 3,200-foot level raised the number of known dead to 13. Five other men are in hospital.

STOPPED BY FIRE

Mr. Gordon said rescue crews found a fire at 3,200 feet. They could go no closer to the point where the men were working.

"We are going to seal off the workings where the smouldering fire is located," he said.

"When we have done this we will leave the pit for two or three hours just to make sure no explosion will follow."

"Then we will go into the deep where the men are located.

"I know what the rescue men can see there is very little damage, but they could see only as far as lights would go."

NUMBED BY GRIEF

Grief and numbing fear gripped this colliery town as nearly 20 hours passed without word from the men trapped after a great explosion in the deep underground mines of the Cumberland Railway and Coal Company's No. 4 pit.

The dead and injured accounted for so far were taken from the higher levels of the pit, one of the deepest in the country.

This town of 4,000 still would not concede there were no survivors of the blast and poisonous gases that swept into the mine workings.

There was still a faint hope, said mine manager George Calder.

But others, company officials and veteran miners, were not optimistic.

RESCUERS DIE

The dead, whose numbers rose slowly from one in the immediate explosion at 5 p.m. AST (4 p.m. EST) Thursday to 12 early today, included two rescue workers—courageous draegermen killed by coal gas after entering the mine to search for the missing.

Secret Crematory Used by Hungary Police Shown to Western Newsmen

GYOER, Hungary (AP)—Western newspapermen today were led by anti-Communist rebels to have been used by the state police for executions and secret burials and interrogation methods.

The crematory was discovered by insurgents after Gyoer, capital of this western province, had fallen into the hands of the rebels. It was set up behind the central heating installation of the state police headquarters in the city's most modern building and was well equipped with technical facilities Hitler's Gestapo would have admired.

Besides a shortwave transmitter, the building housed listening installations which enabled the state police to overhear any phone call in West Hungary and to record conversations on 20 tape recorders at one time.

In the cellar of the building reporters were shown tiny cells—only three steps long and two steps wide—where prisoners apparently had been held before their bodies were hearried to the crematory.

Hearing on Murder Charge Against Two Warkworth Men Adjourned Week for Argument

BRIGHTON (Staff) — The preliminary hearing of two Warkworth farmers charged with murdering Roy Rogers, 30, a Warkworth farmer, on the night of August 31, was held in Police Magistrate R. B. Baxter, of Port Hope, asked the defence and prosecution to meet with him this afternoon to set a date for next week at which time they will conduct legal argument as to whether or not the two young men should be committed for trial.

Robert White, 18, believed from Fort William, and Clifford Brough, 25, of Bloomfield, were arrested by O.P.P. Corporal Archie Eadie, of the Campbellford detachment, about an hour after the fatal shooting. Both men denied any side, of Campbellford, told the magistrate Monday that Rogers died from a bullet which entered high on the left side of his back, took a downward direction, and tore through his lungs and heart and lodged in his abdomen.

The first shot fired entered Roy Rogers' abdomen, tore through his body and came to rest in the back and lodged in the kitchen wall.

Brough was employed by Kenneth G. M. Ross of Belleville.

RCMP Constable A. Champagne, from the criminal investigations branch at Ottawa, testified Thursday that both .22 calibre bullets had been fired from White's rifle. However, he said, his detailed inspection of the dead man's clothing did not reveal indication that Roy Rogers had been shot at from behind as there were no powder burns on the clothing.

Evidence given yesterday in some cases conflicted with evidence given at the inquest into Mrs. John Lindsay told the court that on the night of the disturbance and her husband walked into the kitchen of the farm house rented by Dr. Stewart West by Wesley Rogers, brother of Roy, behind Clifford Brough. She said that of the hearing John Lindsay testified that he and his wife were the last to enter the house. He said they remained outside talking to Brough for a few minutes and when they did enter they left Brough alone outside.

DID NOT LEAVE PARTY

Mrs. Lindsay said that at the time of the shooting Brough was outside, just inside the door and did not offer to take part in the incident. John Lindsay said Brough entered the house immediately after the shooting.

The Lindsays lived on a farm near the Rogers and Pages. They had rented the disputed farm from Mrs. Hattie Page, brother-in-law of Roy, last March for $20 a month. Last Friday said that in July she went to see Wesley Rogers because she was uncertain as to what to do. She had rent the farm, Marjorie or Wesley, and the latter said, Wesley told her that Marjorie's claim to rightful ownership was based on offered to rent the farm to her for $10 a month. However, she said, "I didn't accept Wesley's offer because I had already signed an agreement to rent the house from Marjorie." Mrs. Lindsay returned to Wesley's farm on August 14 after she learned he had rented it to Dr. Stewart West, brother-in-law of Marjorie Page. She went there a month, because they were to take possession of the house on September 1.

Marjorie Page yesterday told the court that Roy Rogers had bequeathed the disputed farm to her on November 16, 1955. She was aware a $5,000 mortgage went with the property which also subjected the property to a one-year lease. She did not know the duty on a crop grown on the place for some time. Then, when she did find out, Wesley Rogers told her he had it and also said he held a five-year lease on the farm with the option of leasing it for two other five years. "This latter lease," said Mrs. Page, "was a forgery."

She said it had been drawn up by Wesley's wife and signed by Tom and Wesley.

Mrs. Page told the court of incidents which had happened a few days before the shooting when one of Wesley's sons threw five buckets of water on her when she went to Wesley's farm to count the number of grain bags. She said her father-in-law will stated she was to get one-third of the 1958 grain crop.

Wesley said he was not entitled to any share. He ordered his sister off the premises and told her that if she refused to comply with his orders Wesley instructed one of his boys to throw water on her.

KICKED UP DIRT

Another incident identified Mrs. Page, Wesley had fired a shotgun at her while she was hitting a hoe in the garden, playing a field near Dr. West's house. "The pellets," she said, "kicked up dirt about 3 yard from me." When she failed to leave the field, Wesley, four or five years ago, Mrs. Page testified. After returning home from Oshawa, Roy registered collecting the Lindsays, Pages and Vosboroughs (Mrs. Vosborough, Wesley's sister-in-law to Mrs. Page), to go to the West farm that night and evict him.

Arriving at the contested farm, Marjorie said, she saw Brough and Roy in a window. She thought Wesley would be in the house with Dr. West. Marjorie testified that she led the expedition across the front lawn and "as I reached for the door the window opened and I saw the boys (Brough and White) standing there with rifles pointing at us. Brough had his rifle pointed at Roy. I said to him 'You wouldn't shoot me; would you Cliff?' And he said, 'No, Marge.' Then I called him 'You son dog'." Brough put the rifle down and went into the house." Mrs. Page said she entered the house with the others. Roy Rogers, her father-in-law, Howard, and husband, Robert, returned in the car.

A few minutes later Roy ran into the house and stopped in front of Brough. "I heard a shot. Roy said, 'Cwl On me don't'. Brough he clutched his stomach and took a few steps forward. Bob White then I heard another shot and Roy fell to the floor."

STATEMENTS VERIFIED

Mrs. Page verified statements made by other witnesses that after the shooting White had said, "Wes told me to do it. I'm going to get Wes. Don't anyone follow me or you'll get the same."

After White dashed out of the house Mrs. Page said she went to a neighbor's house where she met her husband, Robert, who had already called a doctor and the shooting occurred. He was in Campbellford.

Mrs. Page told the court of an incident a few days before the shooting when she was in company with her father-in-law, Leo Molmer, 19, and Wesley's wife being followed by Wesley's car. Leo Molmer, 19, threw stones through the windows of Dr. West's house and cut the telephone wires. Wesley's house "only to scare him out." Later Wesley came to the Page farmband took a load of straw from the top of Wesley's stack. This incident with the straw he had already sold the straw and if it should rain, Wesley would lose through the straw and ruin it. It rained.

Mrs. Page corroborated his wife's statements, although he said he was not in the room when the shooting occurred. He was standing in the doorway and "saw the flash from White's gun." He thought he heard a second shot. He saw Brough leaning near the door with the muzzle of his rifle held toward the floor.

"We went to Doc West's house to see if we could get him to come but he wouldn't we would have to put him out." Page told Wesley's lawyer, Mr. Stuart Ryan of Port Hope. The previous day Wesley Rogers testified he had gone to the Lindsay farm to Dr. West's house Sunday afternoon Wesley Rogers instructed him "to hold the fort." However, although he knew the two had rifles in the house he did not think to use the firearms against intruders. He had told the boys in the house to see if they could find out who cut the telephone wires and broke the windows.

Robert Page admitted stealing a quiet girl straw from Wesley's stack at about midnight the day before the shooting. He wanted the straw for "my pigs."

REMAINED IN CAR

Howard Page, father of Robert, said he had remained in the car with Roy Rogers and Robert Page while the women went in the house. Roy he said, yelled "they (Brough and White) are shooting!" Howard jumped in the car and raced into the house. Howard Page said he did not hear the shots. He saw White leave the house mumbling about going to get Wesley.

The day Wesley shot his shotgun at Marjorie Page, Howard said, he nearly field with Wesley, his boys, White and Brough drive up to where Mrs. Page was plowing, he ran toward them and called to Wesley to stop the commotion. Wesley, he said, held up his hand and said to his boys, "OK. That's enough." Then Wesley walked toward Howard, bent over, picked up some stones and began throwing them at the man. Cursing as he approached Howard, he said, "I'll kill you" for interfering.

Mrs. Betty Vosborough, Robert Page's sister, corroborated Marjorie's testimony and said she heard the first shot but, although she heard White slide the bolt on his rifle to put another cartridge in the breech she did not hear a second shot. Mrs. Vosborough told the court Brough had told her father, Howard, "I did not fire the shot." After the shooting she approached Brough outside the house and said, "I didn't think you (meaning both men) would shoot," to which Brough replied, "I didn't think so either."

She further testified that as the group approached the front door prior to the shooting she saw Brough leave the house and stand on the stoop. White, she said, stood in the doorway. "Brough was in the house standing near the built-in cupboards when the shooting happened," she told Crown Attorney Harold Deyman of Cobourg.

All witnesses heard yesterday testified that Brough took no part in the shooting. He did not attempt to interfere one way or another. After the shooting he told White he had shot Roy. Later Brough threw away his own rifle after being instructed to do so by Howard Page, who did not want Brough to see Brough implicated.

This morning Constable Evans was on duty but he received a holiday of time back to 1821 he would without hesitation again marry Rose Mary Bailey.

His wife was born and raised in Belleville. Constable Evans was born in England and came to Canada in 1920 after serving during the First World War with the Imperial Army.

Since joining the Belleville police force on November 8, 1920, Constable Evans said, "there have been a lot of changes around here." He recalled the days before the Ontario Provincial Police had set up a detachment here. "A few weeks after I started on the force a provincial police inspector and a constable came to Belleville. We (the Belleville police force) worked hand in hand with the provincial police."

Constable Evans has served under two chief constables since his enlistment as a rookie policeman. Deputy Chief Ben Bennett, the present time to a hospital bed. Mrs. Evans Thursday in London denied it. British government sources tended to discount it.

I wish to sincerely thank the many friends, relatives and neighbors who so kindly remembered me with cards and flowers during my recent illness in the Belleville General Hospital. I also wish to express appreciation to Dr. Hall and to the nurses who looked after me.

Mrs. J. M. Dafoe, Frankford, Ontario.

Better Clothing Pick-up Service By Salvationists

Commencing Monday, November 5th, the Salvation Army in Belleville has decided to give better service in connection with the need clothing project. A telephone has been installed in the Station Street branch and citizens are advised that there will be someone at this number from 9.00 a.m. to 5.00 p.m., Monday to Friday and 9 to 12.00 a.m. on Saturdays.

The number is WO 8-9540.

The Salvation Army truck will be available for clothing collection and the lady answering the telephone will tell anyone who calls when this would be. In the past, volunteer help has been enlisted for this work and appreciation is here expressed to those concerned.

In this new endeavor, the continued generous support of the citizens of Belleville is anticipated and appreciated. Residents are reminded that this clothing is passed out to needy families free of charge and periodically Rummage Sales are held when the proceeds are passed into the Salvation Army Welfare Fund. Therefore, if you have used clothing in your home that would be suitable to others, please call WO 8-9540. Thank you!

ROME (AP)—A Middle East diplomatic source reported today that President Nasser of Egypt has resigned, but several hours of checking brought no support of the rumor.

With strict censorship operating in Egypt, the AP bureau there apparently was unable to comment on the report. The Egyptian Embassy in London denied it. British government sources tended to discount it.

IN MEMORIAM

LALONDE.— In loving memory of our dear Daddy, who passed away November 2nd, 1955.

Gone, dear Daddy, gone forever;
How we miss you, words can't tell.
But you left us to remember,
Those we can love you part place,
A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory,
But death has left a void.
That none but God can fill.

Sadly missed and remembered by daughters Ruth and Mary.
—Lovingly thy daughter Betty.

LALONDE.— In loving memory of a dear husband, Ernest Lalonde, who passed away Nov. 2, 1955.

I have lost my companion,
I am lonely since you went away,
Day by day I miss him more,
As the years go by,
I've had many a heartache,
Since he died,
I have missed you more,
Than any one knows,
Time may take away the edge of grief,
But memories turn back every hour,
And sadly missed by your wife, Sadie.

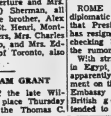
WHITE.— In loving memory of my dear son, Lloyd James White, who passed away November 2nd, 1955.

Two years have gone since that sad day
Our home was called away,
God took her home, it was His will,
But in our hearts she liveth still.
Ever remembered by Mom and Dad,
Sister Lois and Brother Joe.

REESE.— In loving memory of Mr. John Weese, who passed away two years ago on Nov. 3rd, 1954.

Memories in our hearts today
Are sweeter than in days gone by,
Although we miss you more each day,
Hoping for love, but all in vain;
Memories are all we have left us now,
It is true God gave him eternal rest.
Sadly missed by his wife Mary.
With only memories for us to keep;
We think of him in silence deep,
One of the best dad the world ever contained,
Fondly remembered by wife and family.

KENT.— In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Ethel Kent, who passed away November 2nd, 1954.



Sweet memories come and go,
Sweetly tender, fond and true;
There is not a day, dear mother,
That we do not think of you.
—Ever remembered by the family.

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — Slaughter steers and heifers were easier to as much as 50 cents lower this week at the Ontario public abattoir yards. Dryfed yearlings were steady. Cows were 50 cents to $1 lower for the week.

Bulls and calves were steady. Hogs were steady to 50 cents lower. Lambs were firm to 50 cents higher.

Cattle receipts were some 200 head more than last week and about 1,000 head more than the same week in 1955. Western cattle receipts were 2,678 head, compared with 2,253 head last week. Western stock calves were 2,011, an increase of 298 over last week.

Shipments to Eastern Canadian slaughterers were three loads, compared with four loads last week. There were no exports to the U.S. An estimated 4,000 cattle will be unsold at the close, consisting of low grade butcher cattle and replacements.

Large shipments of comparatively cheap beef from Western Canada coupled with heavy numbers of low quality Ontario cattle had a depressing effect on the trading here. Common and medium grades of steers and heifers were too numerous for the trade to absorb resulting in record daily carryovers.

Mixed loads of good and choice steers sold at $19-20.50, several loads at $21; medium $15-18; common $12-15; good heifers $17, sales to $18; common $14-16.50; canners $11-14; boner steers and heifers $8-10; dry-fed yearlings were active and in short supply with choice grades selling $23-24; good $22-23; medium $17-21; good cows closed to a top of $10; medium $9-9.50; canners $8-9; cows and cutters $6-8; good heavy bologna bulls $13; common and medium lights down to $8.

Replacements cattle: Selling replacements by auction this week was improved in demand and about steady in price. The outward movement for the week was heavier with most sales ranging from $14-17, odd picked lots up to $18; prices include stockers, feeders and stock calves.

Calves: Veal calves were actively firm with heavy fat calves slow and hard to sell. Good vealers were $23-26, choice to a top of $28.70; medium $16-22; common $10-15; calves sold for the slaughter $9-12.

Hogs Grade A $30.50; sows $19; stags $13 a hundredweight on a dressed-weight basis.

Sheep and lambs were firm to 50 cents a hundredweight higher. Chamber Vacates Offices Used At City Hall

It was moving day for the Belleville Chamber of Commerce which is leaving the second floor offices at city hall to take up quarters at the Kiwanis Centre.

The new offices of the Chamber at Kiwanis Centre on Dundas St. will be on the lower floor where renovations have been completed for their occupancy.

The local Chamber of Commerce has had its offices at city hall since the Jamieson Bone building immediately south of the city hall was gutted by fire some years ago. At that time the Chamber moved into what is the department of health office on the first floor of the city hall. Later renovations were made upstairs and the Chamber moved into the second floor quarters, which it is now vacating.

Tentative plans at city hall are to move the mayor's office and the property manager's desk there ring to the space formerly occupied by the Chamber of Commerce. First, suitable alterations to the quarters would have to be made to accommodate the mayor's and city manager's offices, but the move first will relieve congestion in the city council.

The Chamber of Commerce's five-year lease for rental of quarters at city hall was up this year.

"I don't like to see the Chamber of Commerce leave city hall as liasion between the city and the chamber could be carried out more satisfactorily if the two offices were in the same building," noted the city manager.

However, the Chamber of Commerce will continue to be on the mailing list and telephone switchboard, Mr. Herring added.

Speed Limits Changed West, North of City

TORONTO (CP) — Highways Minister Allan Grossy announced that the speed limit for cars and buses on super-highway 401 from Pickering to Newcastle has been raised to 55 miles an hour from 50. The speed limit for trucks will remain 50 miles an hour, Mr. Allan said.

The speed limit for buses on Highway 400 from Toronto to Barrie has also been increased to 55 miles an hour. The limit for cars on that highway was raised to 55 in July.

At Belleville a 35-mile-an-hour limit has been set for Highway 14 for 1,000 feet west of the city limits, immediately west of Belleville on Highway 2, limits of 35 and 40 miles an hour have been set replacing the previous limits of 30 and 50 miles an hour.

Nehru Calls Edep's Statement Unconvincing

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Prime Minister Nehru today said he found Sir Anthony Eden's explanation of Anglo-French intervention in Egypt "totally unconvincing and unsatisfactory."

Nehru was asked if India and the United States will make a joint approach to Britain and France to stop fighting.

He replied "We will work with anybody. We are very much concerned about all these things. The very first thing is obviously to stop the war."

Asked if India would apply sanctions to Britain, France and Israel, Nehru said "certainly not —we do not think in terms of sanctions."

In Calcutta today thousands of chanting left-wing demonstrators marched on the British high commissioner's office and the French consulate, but no serious incidents were reported.

SHRUGS OFF QUESTION

Nehru shrugged off questions as to whether Britain's action had split the Commonwealth.

Political circles Thursday said British intervention in the Suez-Egypt conflict is likely to raise the question of India's continued membership in the Commonwealth.

Demands that India break her link with Britain are expected from all sides when Parliament reassembles Nov. 14.

Few political observers believe Nehru would wish to take India out of the Commonwealth, but it is felt he must do so to make some gesture. Political circles believe that if India did leave the Commonwealth, Ceylon and probably Pakistan would follow suit.

Sunken Vessel Blocking South Entrance of Canal

CAIRO (AP) — Egyptian Army headquarters announced today a fishing vessel sunk by British-French air bombardment has blocked the southern entrance to the Suez Canal.

It was the second vessel reported sunk in the 103-mile waterway causing obstruction to navigation. The Egyptians said Thursday the Egyptian warship Akka was sunk near Lake Timsah, midway in the canal, by British-French planes.

(The British continued their bombs—duly damaged the Akka and that it was later scuttled by the Egyptians athwart the canal.)

Today's communique said three British planes were shot down during 42 raids in the 24 hours up to 8 a. m. today "on thickly populated towns."

Louis Molnar Being Deported To Face Charge

OTTAWA (CP) — Louis Allan Molnar, listed as one of the RCMP's most wanted men, will be deported to Canada Saturday by the Mexican government to face an espionage charge.

The 33-year-old husband of the former Ellen Ann LaBine, daughter of Toronto mining executive Charles LaBine, was arrested Wednesday in Mexico City by officers of the Mexican interior ministry.

The former Brantford resident is wanted by Ontario police for the armed robbery of a Cornwall chain store last November.

He is charged as one of the men who robbed the store at gunpoint of $15,784. Another, Irwin William Slate, is serving a 10-year sentence for the crime.

Court of Appeal Asked to Review Case of Chief

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — An order-in-council has been passed by the Ontario cabinet, requesting the court of appeal for Ontario to review the case of Grimsby's former Chief Constable William Johnston, it was learned here today.

The court is to decide whether Lincoln County Judge T. J. Darby was right in his decision given last July, that Grimsby town council was justified in dismissing the 58-year-old police chief.

Chief Johnston was dismissed from his post last May 4. The officer refused to quit his job and argued that the council did not have the right to dismiss him in the manner in which it did. In July, Judge Darby ruled in the town's favor.

Leave to appeal was denied by Mr. Justice F. H. Barlow of the Ontario Supreme Court.

Cardinal Wants Western World To Aid Hungary

BUDAPEST (AP)—Joseph Cardinal Mindzenty today pleaded for the Western world to support Hungary's fight for freedom from Communist dictation.

The cardinal, who was liberated by freedom fighters in the anti-Soviet revolution, told a press conference: "We have many heroes in our country now and thousands of wounded in our hospitals. We ask the West—and especially the big powers—to support us politically, and also to aid us materially in this grave situation."

Asked whether he was hopeful regarding Hungary's future, Cardinal Mindzenty pondered a moment, then replied: "Of course, of course. . . ."

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — Slaughter steers and heifers were easier to as much as 50 cents lower this week at the Ontario public stockyards. Dryfed yearlings were steady. Cows were 50 cents to $1 lower for the week.

Bulls and calves were steady. Hogs were steady to 50 cents lower. Lambs were firm to 50 cents higher.

Cattle receipts were some 200 head more than last week and about 1,000 more than the same week in 1955. Western cattle receipts were 2,278 head, compared with 2,253 head last week. Western stock cattle were 2,011, an increase of 208 over last week.

Shipments to Eastern Canadian slaughterers were three loads, compared with four loads last week. There were no exports to the U.S. An estimated 4,000 cattle will be unsold at the close, consisting of low grade slaughter cattle and replacements.

Large shipments of comparatively cheap beef from Western Canada coupled with heavy numbers of low quality slaughter cattle had a depressing effect on the trading here. Common and medium grades of steers and heifers were too numerous for the trade to absorb resulting in record daily carryovers.

Prices

Mixed loads of good and choice steers sold at $19-20.50; several loads at $21; some at $15-18; common 312-15; good heifers $17, sales to $18; medium $14-16.50; common $11-14; boner steers and heifers $8-10; dry-fed yearlings were active and in short supply with choice grades selling $23-26; good $22-23; medium $17-21; good cows closed to a top of $10; medium $9-9.50; common $8-9; canner and cutters $6-8; good heavy bologna bulls $13; common and medium lights down to $8.

Replacements cattle: Selling replacements by auction this week was improved in demand and about steady in price. The outward movement for the week was heavier with most sales ranging from $14-17, odd picked lots up to $18; prices include stockers, feeders and stock calves.

Calves: Veal calves were actively firm with heavy fat calves slow and hard to sell. Good vealers were $23-26, choice to a top of $28.70; medium $16-22; common $10-15; grass calves sold for slaughter $8-12.

Hogs: Early A $20.50; sows $19; stags $13 a hundredweight on a dressed-weight basis.

Sheep and lambs were firm to 50 cents a hundredweight higher. Choice spring lambs sold to $21, choice long-bauls to $21.25; lambs were discounted $1 a hundredweight, heavy lambs discounted as much as $3 a hundredweight, odd lambs down to $15; feeder lambs $15-17.50; sheep $3-9; yearlings up to $14.

HALLOWE'EN - THREE ASPECTS

Not every city celebrates Hallowe'en in Belleville fashion.

One would like to be able to say that this statement was to be interpreted as a compliment, without reservations.

Unfortunately this is not the case.

Our Hallowe'en celebrations appear to be divided, like Gaul, into three parts.

One of these is traditional and enjoyable. The youngsters' "trick and treat" brigade warms more hearts than it damages fences and casualties are more likely to arise from a surfeit of treats than from a surplus of tricks.

In common with many Ontario centres, Belleville has noted a decline in the senseless damage to property by roving small bands which once used to be the unfortunate accompaniment of the fall season.

A second part of our Hallowe'en revelry is unusual, perhaps unique, and involves the participation of an unusually large number of adults in the Hallowe'en celebration, with a maximum of fun and little harm.

The third, and unfortunate, segment of the observance of Hallowe'en here is the deterioration of what was probably ordered as inter-school rivalry into organized raids which reflect no credit on the teen-agers who participate. Since, at other periods of the year, our teen-agers as a class conduct themselves in a manner to earn our approval and admiration, it is difficult for an adult to explain this Hallowe'en madness.

Belleville citizens will regret such Monday evening's senseless destruction of property at Albert College and we suspect that, on Thursday morning, nowhere was the regret more sincere than among the majority of the teen-agers responsible for the damage. It is to be hoped that the memory of their shame lives through the year and leads them to conduct themselves next year in a manner more worthy of their city—and of themselves.

UNIVERSITY NOT FOR EVERYONE

"Industry," the publication of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, makes a plea in its November issue for young Canadians to complete their schooling, and says that "denied the opportunity to function at good money to be earned in a tight labor market even without a 'finished' education."

The appeal is worthy of approval and the Canadian Manufacturers' Association deserves applause for voicing it.

Many, though, will receive with reservations some of the implications of statements contained in the article.

"No less than one in every three of our high school students quit school sometime before graduation," the article says. "Of those who do graduate, no less than one in every three feel they cannot afford to go on to university. These two, we fancy, will shock many a good Canadian."

Shock them if we suggest, is rather a strong term, particularly if we are expected to be "shocked" by the number of young Canadians who do not go to university.

If we interpret these figures aright, every nine students who commence their high school studies six complete them and four of these six could go to university if they wished. If all four of these students seriously graduated, it would mean that about half of the rising generation walking around with university degrees. Now this would be an enviable state of affairs. We could convince ourselves that these half of the people possessed the natural ability and the required determination to derive the full benefits from such a lengthy period of study, almost two decades from kindergarten to graduation. Unfortunately there would be many who will doubt that the incidence of high intelligence and industrious habits is as high as this in Canada, or in any nations.

"There has never been any substitute for an advanced education and there is none now," says "Industry." "It goes far beyond the mere inculcation of knowledge, important though that is. It develops intellect, but it also molds character. It equips a man to face the worst the world can do to him. Above all, it awakens that basic appreciation of the great values of life which is latent in every man, but which must be released if it is to be made articulate."

This expresses the ideal of a university education as well as could be wished.

Unfortunately that is not what a great many university students are looking for. They are not seeking a liberal education, but advanced training for a profession.

We ought not, however, to confuse this need for technical training with the function of a university education in its true sense.

"Industry" complains that a good number of young Canadians are denied the opportunity to go to university, through the fault of their own. This result could not be achieved without dragging the standard of university training down to accommodate the lazier, dullee students. Perhaps the day will come when every man and woman will need technical training at a level which we now associated with universities. But we ought to retain some institutions for the elite, for the brilliant and industrious, where they will not be slowed by those below them in intelligence or industry. The selection of the elite, though, should be on the basis of their own merit, not the fullness of their father's purse.

MAN OUT WITH HIS WIFE

I know he was arrayed to be
His tailor's chief delight.
His broadcloth coat was good to see,
His linen spotless white.

The best of everything he wore,
As only rich men do.
I thought to see him near the door
Now there's a happy man.

There was no doubt that he was dressed
In fashion's latest style;
Though he was in his party best,
His tie was in a perfect knot,
With pearls his shirt studs shone.
Man should be happy with his lot
Such splendid things to own.

I watched him as he passed me by
And saw his face was grim.
He looked as though he'd like to die
Or murder some of them.

The crowd moved forward to the hall,
To sit the concert through,
But he was doing, after all,
What husbands oft must do.
Said I: "You surely have a care
To mar the joy of life."
He frowned and said: "This stuff I wear Costs me a wife."

Return of the Soul

Montreal Gazette

Whatever the outcome may be of the uprisings in Poland and in Hungary they have served to revive the faith of humanity in itself. That faith needed reviving.

For it has been claimed — with a certain gleefulness of truth — that Russia had developed a formula, a technique for dealing with persons as though they were no more than things. The idea was a sinister one: something within them that no force could reach or subdue, was held to be an ancient myth.

Under Russian rule any person and any nation, could be so conditioned and trained, and processed that it lost its own will. In this way, it could be made to perform according to whatever the masters might dictate.

Such a doctrine had its apparent justification in the researches of the Russian scientist, Pavlov. He had worked in laboratories with animals. In his conviction, they were no different than machines, responding to anything whatever stimuli might be ordered by them.

The same theory could naturally be applied to humanity, under the belief that denied the very existence of the soul, and looked upon mankind as nothing but automatons. Even the noblest and upright, even as bears sometimes walk.

• • •

Out of this belief came the science of brain — washing. The brain — and beyond the brain there was no other force to reckon with — was held to be a slate that old impressions would be obliterated. Knowledge would remain of old loyalties, former beliefs. Such people might imagine they would always treasure and cherish.

But the brain washing process had been completed, people would become just as the state desired by those having authority over them. They would be like the machines, or the robots, could be processed as might be desired. Indeed, a complete new mind itself become not only one vast conformity, but a kind of Russian laboratory also. The processes of brain washing could there be applied to the individual could be extended to the mass.

And many have been the methods of such control. Religion, declared to be the opium of the nities beyond the brain, would be suppressed as a mere superstition, a heresy. Education would become itself an organized brain washing. It would be so with politics, where everybody would belong to one advance, and be told: "It was the only party that could ever soul.

But now there has burst upon the startled attention of the world a new declaration of human independence. It has come from inside the prisons, from inside the national laboratories. The people who were supposed to have no souls begin acting as if a soul were again in possession of them. The stimuli, carefully provided for a quarter of a year, now evokes a contrary response. The years of indoctrination, the suppression of religion, the secular instruction of the schools, the system that encouraged informational feeling — all these methods of standardization suddenly crash against and dissolve and shattering.

Even those last weapons for encouraging prudence — the machine gun and tank — fail to do their work. People are clamoring for independence as they fall. All the literal processes of conditioning seem somehow quite unable to smother this uncontrolled determination of people to declare what is deepest within them.

Whether this sign of freedom may yet establish the right to be free, or whether a new wave of coercion may yet sweep over it, none may yet say. But this rousing of the soul seems to be a symphony whose echoes will haunt every prison, now and in the years to come.

People who rattle their chains in their acquiescence are one thing, at least for that moment, free men. And the glorious defiance of that sound finds its deepest echoes — and its longest — not in the world's ears, or brain, but in its soul.

China's Role Not Yet Clear

Windsor Star

What is the exact attitude of the Chinese Communist hosts to current events in Eastern Europe? That isn't yet clear. Yet their attitude, in the near run, is of equal, and perhaps more, importance than that of the satellite peoples of eastern Europe.

Communist China is the Soviet satellite in the sense that Poland, Hungary and Czechoslovakia have become Soviet satellites as a result of their own Communist revolutions. Communism wasn't imposed on them by Russia, as it was on the Eastern European countries. Nor, for that matter, is Communism, even Russia, to make 600,000,000 Chinese Communists, etc.

China increasingly has been going her own way, even though Communist ideologies, policies, etc., have been busy there. There has been a split in the Communist bewteen the two countries but it never extended deeply enough to affect Communist theory and practices.

Concurrent with the "de-Stalinization" in Eastern Europe there has been a softer attitude by Communist China to its neighbors. Observers now believe the militarily aggressive tendencies of the Chinese Communists have been abandoned, for the time being. She now is trying a more subtle approach.

Instead of imposing a military threat to her neighbors, China now is using blandishments. She is encouraging the nationalistic spirit in them but not encouraging local Communist parties, as in Indonesia, Burma, Malaya or Indo-China.

Recently Premier Chou En-lai even told visiting missions from Malaya and Indonesia that best interests would be served by staying within the Commonwealth. Counter to this, however, it does seem troubles in Singapore and Hong Kong have been fermented by local Communists, with or without orders from Peiping.

In any case, if Poles and Hungarians gain any freedom from the Kremlin line, it would be unbelievable if the proud Chinese were to do it. If such things have caused such resentment in the European satellites, Chinese exist. Work would be organized as best suited the state, with everyone put into a prescribed place, without choice of regulation.

As the years have passed, those still living in free countries have been staggered by the very scope and success of such methods. Some might even have had their private doubts whether this might not be the pattern of societies of future. The time might be on its way when people have nothing within them that no force could reach or subdue, was held to be an ancient myth.

Under Russian rule any person and any nation, could be so conditioned and trained, and processed that it lost its own will. In this way, it could be made to perform according to whatever the masters might dictate.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

On the fringe of the downtown in the city in which I live there is a small area of old houses which led the Village. It used to be alum, which became too costly to be alum when a few handicrafters, shop booksellers and dealers in small, mostly good quality, antiques transformed the old houses into pretty little shops. But the most interesting shops, as The Village grew and took on character, were of craftsmen, silversmiths, those master makers of all manner of objects of art. You could go down into The Village with any problem and have it solved. For example, somebody in the local restaurant sold old chandelier for which half a dozen of the crystal pendants were missing. After hunting all over the electric fixture trade and the second hand shops, I finally took a pendant down to the Village and found a young man over in an undertook, for a couple of dollars, to turn out the missing pendants in a couple of days.

But times change. In wrenching an old mansion not over a block in the Village to make way for a new office building, the boys found the ceiling and walking sticks with round silver knobs for handles, and these they carried over to one of them was dated 1867. Who knows? Maybe a crony of old Sir John A. carried that stick when he went down to the post office to post a letter of consuccessful midwifery of the nation.

Anyway, since the sticks were practical and, like silver dentist, I took them down to the village to find some young craftsman who would repair the knobs and reapolish the ebony.

All through the Village I wandered. And not one craftsman could I find. On the smallest, oldest doors I rapped, and asked the most ancient indigenes for help in repairing my walking stick with lead hair and a thin beard who could, with love and cunning, restore my sticks.

There were no more makers of things in the Village. Only sellers of things. The shops I remembered as being full of dust and sawdust, iron dust and ebony dust, were filled with merchandise. Small merchandise, big merchandise, but made elsewhere, made in Africa or Czechoslovakia or Baffin Land.

So I brought the sticks back home and have undertaken to restore them myself, by my own handicraft.

So far, they look terrible.

Tired Driver Dangerous

Ottawa Citizen

At London, Ont., a jury recently found a motorist not guilty of criminal negligence in connection with the death of two passengers in a collision with another car. The judge instructed, but told the acquitted driver, I think perhaps it was a foolish thing for him to have attempted to drive so far without adequate rest."

According to the evidence in this case, the motorist left Montreal for London at 4 a.m. and preceding the accident and drove the last five or six daylight hours and all night. He took short periods of sleep, but not enough, but obviously not enough. About 9 o'clock the following morning his car swerved out of his own lane and the driver failed to get back in time quickly enough to avoid being struck by a vehicle coming from the opposite direction.

The incident points up one hazard of the road that could be eliminated with a little forethought. The tired driver may doze and drive into a ditch with serious results to himself or his passengers. But he may also endanger the lives of other users of the highway.

On the magnificently designed New York State Thruway, which is about 425 miles in length, motorists are provided with relief containing some simple instructions and advice. One paragraph draws the attention of the relaxation of special rest areas at intervals along the route, and these they are urged to use if they are travelling long distances. They should not be confined only to restaurants, which give the driver further opportunities to restore his energies.

The modern superhighways are as safe, in design, as the engineers can make them. But they require as much care on the driver's part as does an ordinary two-lane road. And a motorist

Have Those Bad Tonsils Out Again

Some readers may wonder what's ailing the crabbed cuss who conducts this column.

Well, I can tell you, not half, but this may give you a hint of the provocation I have to endure: Under the Tonsils index in my file are no less than thirty-four newspaper stories with pictures of the victims of wholesale tonsillectomies "performed" on from four to eight children in each of the 34 instances. Invariably the reporters or editors get a ton of humor and add a dash of it to the story or picture. But if a child dies soon after the atrocity, the incident that rated so much space in the newspaper is little while ago is forgotten, in deference to the ever-ready operator who perpetrated the atrocity.

What's biting me? anything biting me? Well, I'll tell you. I've got 'em, my own and my dentist's, to the tune of more than a lot of my esteemed colleagues, critics, and competitors can say.

Just listen to this:

Dear Sir:

I have a child are three years who cannot hear. Doctors agree them is nothing wrong with the structure of the ear. They suggested removing the tonsils and adenoids might help. This was done at a cost of $100 and improvement in the hearing. Will you please send me a monograph on deafness and instructions for taking vitamin B complex.

Thank you truly,
(Mrs. .....)

It would seem that some of the trick specialists and clinical technicians hand the medical profession today fall for the removal of the tonsils and adenoids when they can't find out or explain what ails the patient.

Sometimes they decide it is necessary to remove those bad tonsils even if some other operation has already removed them.

If the customer evinces astonishment at the suggestion of a second tonsillectomy, the resourceful charlatan need not be embarrassed, for as a rule more or less tonsil tissue remains in the throat after tonsillectomy, no matter who does the dissection, and the charlatan can ascribe any symptoms at present manifested by the patient to that tissue.

Now, indeed, I do become somewhat irked at times, I believe I could cope with most of the ailments that could "deal" with them in my own way. But the rumors, editors, and publishers reach in his own way, according to his personal knowledge of and experience with the "clinic" technicians. And as I have to settle for what amounts to little more than frustration, it won't be continued long that I can cripple the ways of health. And every night when I lay me down to sleep I say: "Thank Thee, O Lord, that I have lived another day. I thank Thee for the bowling green.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

LOOK RIGHT WHERE YOU ARE

A psychologist once asked several thousand persons "What have you to live for?" More than 90 per cent of these people mentioned that they were not living for anything in the present but were waiting for some future good. Some were waiting for their children to grow up, others were waiting for a legacy, still others were thinking only of retirement.

As a result they do get well in mind that so far as this world is concerned there is no such thing as future happiness. Happiness must always be thought of in the present tense. If we think of it only as something in the future, then behold, when the future "joy" arrives we are disappointed at its staleness. We have to learn how to be happy and live in the midst of everyday life.

Oh certainly, there are occasional celebrations. There are vacations and trips to distant places. Sometimes the curve of satisfaction does rise perceptibly. But it comes down again. For the most part happiness is a plateau and we go along at about the same level most of the time. The difference between people is the general level they attain and maintain.

Stop looking into the future. It is only a mirage of hopes and illusion. Happiness is right where you are, at this moment—or if it is not there, the chances are it is no where.

Tools and gadgets fascinate me. I can't pass a hardware or tool supply store without giving it my eye for a long time—and most always being snared by it. I have dear friends who have this same love and interest in gadgets.

It was the tools of bench and engines that led Henry Ford to the perfection of the lowcost automobile putting millions of wheels to work on new and beautiful highways. Mr. Ford started with the hobby of repairing watches for his friends.

There is a story behind every useful tool or gadget. I love to see a carpenter work with good tools and beautiful lumber what can't he do? One of the joys of my summer vacation retreat is that I had an ice house converted into a carpenter shop, where I can fuffy put into drawers and on the walls, are my many tools and gadgets that come to mind in any emergency.

Figures Show Warm October, Little Rainfall

Statistics are not required to remind Bay of Quinte residents that weatherwise the month of October was possibly one of the most agreeable on record.

But just for the record here are the figures.

High temperature for the month was a balmy 73 degrees while the low was 39 and the mean temperature 50 degrees — three degrees higher than the average for October. And the rainfall was but 1.38 inch.

A year ago saw a high temperature of 75 with a low of 27 and a mean reading of 51 degrees.

And you will be remembered October 1955 was the month of the big deluge. For what possibly was an all-time record for the area, no less than 11.70 inches of rain fell during the month.

Average rainfall for the month of October is 2.26 inches.

Dr. John Pearce New Commodore Of Yacht Club

PICTON — Dr. John Pearce was elected Commodore of the Edward Yacht Club at the annual meeting, Wednesday night. He succeeds Lawson Hutchings. Total Population Of 4,836 Less Than Census Mark

PICTON — While one-half of the population of Picton is between 20 and 50 years of age, nearly one-tenth of the population is 70 years and over. This is revealed in town assessor B. R. Baxter's census completed this week. Total population of 4,836 is slightly less than the total taken in the June census and accounted for by the fact that the assessor began his work in February and population fluctuates. There are 650 children 13 years and under, 311 in the 14 to 19 year age group, 2413 in the 20-59 group, 163 in the 60-64 year group, 156 between 65 and 69, and 431 who are 70 and over.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

By C. F. LEGGAT

A lovely farm miles away from the glare of the city was the scene of a very weird party. Ghosts, skeletons, black cats, Jack-o-lanterns glowing in the distance, and strange little figures people were there. The lights and shadows from a fire added mystery to this supernatural gathering.

A white rabbit, borrowed from "Alice in Wonderland," was handing out the orders, but without much effect. The little ghostly creatures were roasting hot dogs and appeared to be very busy. The white rabbit was Akela Kemp of Christ Church Wolf Cub Pack. Very deceptive to say the least. A wolf in sheep's clothing we have heard about, but the rabbit's clothing —well! The less said about this the better. Joan Bronskill, assistant to the rabbit, was disguised (?) as a cowgirl.

MOTLEY CREW

The Cubs were a motley crew of pirates and cowboys. One little chap was "dressed" as a skeleton, he sure looked all of this world. Wee Stephen Middleton was a pirate, sans. Cubs must never carry knives. The difficult job of picking prize winners was isolated on to Archdeacon Creegan, the leaders displaying a very great reluctance. To pick the best was not easy, they were all good. We are of the opinion the Venerable gentleman drew on his youthful imagination to help him. The winners are: Larry Lennox, clown; Warren Bongard, mountie; Wayne Green, one of the three little pigs and Glenn Rainberg, the old timer. Since the boys were covered very effectively with various paints, noses, ears and so on, names are not possible because they sure were disguised.

BUSY TIME

Adam Stalker, Bob Munro and Mr. Peden were kept hopping handing out apples, hotdogs, candies and lots of other treats. Mrs. E. Blaker and Mrs. Munro could be seen dodging around the fire attending to hungry Cubs. There were lots of helpers, all doing something. Mrs. Cramston (formerly Donna Fordyce) and a girl friend appeared with white sheets presumably to scare the boys, but the Cubs were too occupied to take much notice of a couple of ghosts. Two low-minded men, however, trailed the girls who quickly retreated. Names of men withheld.

It was at Mrs. Cramston's home the party was held. Thank you, Donna, for the kind invitation. Donna also made enough candy figures and other candy for forty Cubs. Thanks also to Mrs. E. Blaker and the Ladies' Auxiliary, committee men who supplied cars and the leaders and others who were responsible for giving the Cubs a wonderful Hallowe'en party.

REPORTS TO QUEEN

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Eden Thursday lunched with the Queen and reported to her on the Middle East situation.

Luscious Samples Of Strawberries Seen at Office

Reports of the last rose of summer once faded away returning to bask in the glory of the Nov, heat wave have been put in shade by strawberry plants which have shattered a record by bearing fruit at this late date.

The overtime strawberries in question belong to Jim Ketcheson, office manager of Coca Cola here.

Mr. Ketcheson dropped in with a couple of luclous samples which unfortunately he was unable to leave for further examination.

Mr. Ketcheson said the first berries planted on his acre property at 13 Purdy Street appeared in June and the fourth crop of the season is still full of blossoms, green berries and fully ripe plants which Mrs. Ketcheson is picking at the rate of one box a week.

Mr. Ketcheson's berries, which are imported from the United States, are large and succulent, we imagine.

Mr. Ketcheson, who has been growing strawberries for several years, said he never before had seen strawberry plants produce fruit after the end of September.

Future entrants in the "latest berry of the season contest" are requested to discount a rumor that they will prejudice their cause unfavorably by leaving a box for observation.

RAID CALLED OFF

LONDON (AP) — The RAF called off a raid on an Egyptian airfield Thursday to avoid killing or injuring foreign nationals, Defence Minister Antony Head said. Planes were in the air bound for one of Egypt's most important airfields called Cairo West when the operation was cancelled.

St. Joseph's C.W.L. Sponsors Colorful Hallowe'en Tea

A most successful Hallowe'en tea and bake sale was held yesterday afternoon, in St. Joseph's school, Bridge Street East, under the auspices of St. Joseph's Catholic Women's League.

Hallowe'en's mystic symbols, black cats, with arching backs and extended claws, meandered across the window; scowling witches' faces peered out from between the orange and black festoons which adorned the paneled walls and the refreshment tables; while little pumpkins, tiny brown jugs filled with candy, tiny pumpkins and miniature witches centered the white-covered guest tables.

The guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. T. Halloran, and the receiver of tickets, was Mrs. T. Hopkins with Mrs. H. Carr-Brainf the pourer at the tea urn.

The tea table was a picture of loveliness with its cloth of Scotch lace, centred with gold and bronze 'mums mingled with glistening gold sprays of British Columbia huckleberry, and flanked by tall tapers and gold candles in tri-branched silver candelabra; the silver services adding an accent of elegance to the bride and either end.

Those presiding at the service were, Mrs. J. Huck and Mrs. D. Whalen; Mrs. N. Campbell and Mrs. T. Halloran. Those who served included, Mesdames W. Lynch, R. Smith, Mrs. Jury, K. Silvey, J. Tatham, S. Klasek, B. Beirne, J. McCabe C. Nichols, J. McKenzie, E. Barrett, T. Black, J. Lee, J. McSherry, L. Kennedy, F. Meichior and J. Poirier.

Replenishing the trays of delicious sandwiches and tempting cakes were Mrs. R. Cooper and Mrs. T. Johnson.

Mrs. J. Kitchen and Mrs. R. Chipman were the conveners of the tea, and Mrs. Carr-Brainf the over-all convener, while Mrs. Poirier provided the delicious sugo tea.

There was a fine selection of religious articles, convened by Mrs. J. Bradshaw, those include pictures of the Lord and pictures of Joseph and Jesus as a child; rosaries and crucifixes; candles; prayer books in mother-of-pearl; New Testaments; figurines depicting the Biblical characters; story books; and a sacred necklace and bracelet in pearls.

A miscellaneous table, backed by Christmas stockings, and witches' faces and tiny pumpkins, was centred by a frosted Christmas tree embellished with globes of gold, blue, pink and blue, and silver, from the branches of which hung red and green Christmas stockings.

Convening the stuffed animal toys in red plaids and blue patterned materials; the glistening, white stubby Christmas candles; blue bootees; knit mitts, fancy hot dish holders, dainty white muslin dress for child; guest towels, spread; ruffled crocheted doily centrepiece, which was won by Mrs. L. Barlow and convened by Mrs. W. Dumble; tissel towels edged with yellow lace, convened by Mrs. H. O'Neill, and won by Mary O'Connor; baby bibs, ash trays, and cups and saucers, a basket of red apples, and many others, were Mrs. M. Panting and her assistants, Mrs. J. Doran, Mrs. T. Mavety, Mrs. L. Goyer, Mrs. L. Barlow, Mrs. A. Gibbons and Mrs. D. Dumble.

BLOSSOMS WITH MONEY

A beautiful, white chrysanthemum bud not only put forth blossoms, but a $50 and $3 bills. These would go to the holder of the lucky tickets, who chanced to be: Ernie Young, and Danny Whalin respectively. These were in charge of Mrs. J. Anton.

The home-cooking table convened by Mrs. O. Dufour, assisted by Mrs. R. Lynch, Mrs. T. Kelly, Mrs. B. Beirne, Mrs. Jury, Moore and Mrs. J. Thorne, presented a sumptuous array of the culinary art with its fruit cake and lemon pies; date and orange bread; tiny tarts; cocoanut custard buns, apple pies, chocolate cakes, and cocoanut cakes, tarts of several varieties, and cup cakes deliciously good. But the drawing card was a luscious looking witch's cake in delicate cream shade, decked with a chocolate witch's fence about the base, and topped with a tall, peaked witch's hat, adorned with bow and bright green buckle. This was won by Kathleen O'Connor.

A most successful and dainty tea worthy of much commendation.

BEST METHOD

Correct teeth brushing should be done up and down, not horizontally over the surface.

Weddings

IRELAND—PERRY

PICTON — Chrysanthemums and ferns decorated the altar of Picton United church for the marriage of Shirley Ruth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Perry, Picton and Kenneth William Ireland, Quinte Provincial Police, Picton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Ireland, 7 Nightingale Street, Hamilton, Ont. The Rev. F. J. Whiteley officiated.

Traditional wedding music was played by A. A. Benvie at the console of the organ. The soloist, Miss Barbara Ireland of Hamilton, sang "The Wedding Prayer", prior to the ceremony, and "Because", during the signing of the register.

The evening was spent in an enjoyable manner with the showing of movies and coloured slides, which had been taken by several of the family members. Dancing was also enjoyed, followed by refreshments, which included the anniversary cake cut by the bride and bridegroom of a quarter century ago.

Several toasts were proposed by various members present, wishing Mr. and Mrs. Tryon health and many, many more years together.

Riley, Bellville).

SINCLAIR—DICKEY

Lovely white chrysanthemums adorned the altar and chancel rail in Christ church, Bellville, on Saturday, October 20, at 2.30 p.m., for the pretty autumn wedding when Dorothy Mae Dickey, of Bellville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Dickey, became the bride of Donald Sinclair, also of Bellville, son of Mrs. M. Sinclair. The Rev. Archdeacon J. B. Sweeney officiated in the double-ring ceremony.

Mr. J. B. Herdman, church organist, rendered the wedding music, and accompanied the choir boys as they sang before the ceremony, "O Perfect Love", and during the signing of the register, "Love Divine, All Loves Excelling."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, Mr. Everett Dickey, was radiant in her bridal gown of mist white, imported Duchesse lace and tulle, fashioned with graceful bodice of lace with high, round neckline and long, sheath-like sleeves ending in "V" points over the wrists. The bouffant skirt featured alternating panels of pleated tulle and lace ending in a slight train. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was caught to a crown encrusted with seed pearls, and she carried a cross-shaped bouquet of white, snow-drift 'mums and white stephanotis centred by a white cymbidium orchid and showered with tiny orchids.

Miss Arlene Dickey of Bellville, attended her sister as maid of honor; while Mrs. Alma Crawford of Oshawa; Mrs. Shirley Stephens and Miss Helen Howard both of Bellville, were bridesmaids. All were gowned alike in waltz-length gowns of copper brocaded satin fashioned on princess lines with V necklines and three-quarter sleeves, and matching headdresses. They carried fans of copper brocade satin with tinted green snowdrift 'mums forming a cascade.

They wore headbands of coppertinted snowdrift 'mums and carried fans of apple green crystalette having cascades of coppertinted snowdrift 'mums.

Mr. George Dempsey of Toronto, attended the bridegroom, and the ushers were, Messrs. Ted Stephens of Belleville; Bill Phillips, of Corbyville and Tom Crawford of Oshawa.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held in Christ Church parish hall, where the bride's table was appointed with white damask, garlanded with loops of yellow and white chrysanthemums, and centred by a three-tier wedding cake, topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom, and adorned about the base with adiantum fern intermingled with white and yellow 'mums. Tall white candles in tri-branched crystal holders added their sparkle.

The bride's mother received, attired in navy blue crepe with navy accessories, and wore a white gardenia; a and feathered carnation. The bridegroom's mother received, wearing blue by the bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. Coleman; Picton; Trenton; Havelock; Wellington and Bellevue.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

THE WAY TO STOP IS — TO STOP!

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I'm 21 years old and have been going with a fellow 18. We've been dating steadily for about two years and are sure that some day we'll eventually get married.

Recently, we've had some heavy necking parties, and it's upset both of us. I love this boy very much and I'm afraid of what might happen if this continues. I don't want to hurt or disappoint him, but we both realize that marriage is definitely out of the question now, as both of us want to complete our college education first. So I feel what we have been doing must stop, or we'll both be sorry, yet I don't know how to go about it. — C.B.

Dear C.B.

When anyone feels that something—anything—must stop, there's just exactly one thing to do. It certainly aren't easy to indulge in them when others are around. So if you stay away from places that offer opportunities to let yourselves go, you'll have no trouble.

Nobody is going to make you get into a car and park, or drive to some secluded spot where you'll be all alone and without risk of anyone coming along and taking you by surprise. No one is going to force you to stay in a house where everyone else has gone out. In other words, each of you is his own boss, and whether son or daughter, intelligent and wise one, or an indifferent, irresponsible one, it's up to you.

To sum up—if you sincerely want to stop doing what you know is wrong, you'll stop it.

SAFETY LIES IN NUMBERS, SHERRY

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I'm 18 years old and date two boys, both 22.

Both of them are very handsome, have powerful charm, terrific personalities and are well-liked by all who know them. Both of them have proposed to me and I've refused, because I feel I love them both equally. I explained it was a big decision to make and needed much thought, and each said he would wait as long as I wanted.

Once, just teasingly, I asked what they would do if they found out I was a terrible housekeeper, and they both had the same answer. They said they would pitch in and help until I got used to things. Each of them average $90 a week take-home pay.

I know I'm making these boys sound too good to be true, but they're the most perfect boys I know.

Any help you can give me will be appreciated. — Sherry

Dear Sherry:

Are these paragons of all the virtues identical twins? You certainly make them sound so, and I'd think you might just abut everything you've said about them and be perfectly satisfied.

Seriously, if you can't see enough difference between these two so that one appeals to you more than the other, then you'll have very foolish to try and force yourself to make a choice. Usually, when any one is really in love, he or she hasn't eyes or thought for anyone else, and doesn't waste any time in comparisons.

You'd better date other young men as well as these two chaps, until you find one person who stands out in your heart and mind above all the others. When one is so confused and uncertain as you are, safety lies in numbers.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

NEW LOTION BALANCES MOISTURE AND VITAMINS IN THE SKIN

Applied with upward and outward strokes, new lotion is a deterrent to prematurely aging skin.

Men, referring to our present era, like to call it the "atomic age", but women, usually more concerned with glamour than with science, might well wonder why it couldn't just as well be known as "the age of beauty". It could happen, too, considering the giant strides which have been made in cosmetic research laboratories during recent years.

One of the latest "beauty discoveries", for instance, is a remarkable new two-in-one "vitamin moisture balancer" which is said to prevent wilting prematurely aging skin and to provide a glowing new lease on life for all complexions.

A creamy liquid, the "balancer" lubricates and maintains the vitality ingested moisture balance of the skin, while at the same time, Vitamins A, D and E, and a special lanolin derivative, penetrate deeply to nourish and promote the growth of new, younger-looking skin.

Normal skin contains 70 per cent moisture which under ideal conditions is maintained by nature. However, exposure to sun, wind, extreme cold and steam heat contribute to dryness and destroy the moisture equilibrium of the skin! The new lotion helps restore the oils and moisture. Quickly and provides an ideal skin "climate" for the healthfully beautifying effects of the vitamins it contains.

The lotion is available in two formulas—one especially designed for dry and normal skin, the other for oily skin. Both are free-flowing and spread easily, leaving no greasy residue. It is highly important, however, that either be applied to a thoroughly clean skin. Also, the manufacturers advise, best results are obtained when it is applied with upward and outward strokes, the liquid being gently rubbed into the skin until it disappears.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

NOT NECESSARY TO MENTION WORD "DIVORCE"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My mother and father are divorced, and I live with my mother. My father lives in California. I have just become engaged, and very soon we would like to send to the newspapers here the announcement of my engagement. I want my mother to "announce" this announcement. Should my father's name be mentioned in this announcement (we never have been very devoted to each other, but we occasionally do correspond)? If so, should there be any statement that they are divorced? — Dorothy L.

The beginning of the announcement of your engagement might read: "Mrs. Clark Leighton, of 1234 Park Street, announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Dorothy Leighton, to Mr. Charles Russell, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Allen Russell, of Columbus, Ohio/ Miss Leighton is also the daughter of Mr. Arthur Leighton, of San Francisco.

Not necessary to mention the word "divorce," since it is obvious that your parents are divorced . . . . In the very first place because of the form of your mother's name (her maiden surname preceded by your father's surname).

PAIR OF FORRINGERS, HANDSOME AND VERY USEFUL

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

For a wedding anniversary present recently, we received a pair of matching sterling silver trays, quite small and shallow, and each with a fairly wide border, one on one side. They are very handsome, but I have not seen this type of trays before and am at a loss as to just what they are to be used for. Can you tell me, please, from my description of them? (Or are they supposed to be merely decorative?) — M.

This pair of silver dishes are, I'm quite certain, forrings, frequently a favorite christening gift for a child, and now a favorite wedding gift and particularly a "pair" gift for a wedding anniversary. They are not merely decorative, as they have many uses, especially in today's buffet service. They are used for salted nuts or mints (on a dinner table or buffet table); for olives (one for green olives, one for ripe olives); for one of today's delicious packaged relishes; very often for a choice of dressing with a salad or seafood cocktail (for example, French dressing and Russian dressing); and, with a small ladle, for whipped cream or other sauce for the dessert course. You'll have a good time using these handsome dishes, planning ways to use them.

HERE'S THE FAMOUS RECIPE for CHILD-TRAINING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Have you ever heard of a "recipe" for child-training, which is written more or less from the point of view of etiquette? Yesterday in a meeting of our Club one of the members referred to such a recipe, but said she couldn't remember the exact "ingredients," and has lost her copy. She said it is a most amusing recipe, but still has a good deal in it. Since etiquette is your subject, we decided to write to you to see if you by any chance have a copy of this recipe. Any luck? — M.C.

I think so! I believe the reference was to a famous old Recipe for child-training: Take off on spring, beat the imp-of-the-perverse out of him, sift through the conventions, sprinkle with a generous handful of pleases and thank-you's, dot with the oil of persuasion, add enough of the milk of human kindness to pour into a mold. See that it is not half-baked. Turn out into polite society to cool." Does this sound as if it might be the one you're looking for?

As the member said, it is an amusing recipe, but thought-compelling too. And, as with most recipes, there are other ingredients that can be added "to taste"!

The sheath and coat costume continues on its busy way, an integral part of every collection at practically every level and for every type. Here is a beauty from the collection of Christian Dior, and a beauty it is, too. Coat and dress are of harvest red sheer basket wool, design, fabric and color handled without any distracting touch. The sheath is low-necked with draped folds at the bosom and the coat is cut on loose, easy lines and is slit on both sides from the push-up sleeves to the hem.

Women's Activities

ST. ANDREW'S W.A.

WELLINGTON — The monthly meeting of St. Andrew's W.A. was held recently at the home of Mrs. Joe Lavendar. Roll call, treasurer's report and general business followed. Reports were given by leader of the different groups, including G.A., Little Helpers, J.A., and Dorcas.

The Rev. C. R. Gale spoke briefly to the members, quoting from St. John and asking members to invite all mothers of Little Helpers to attend church regularly as an example to the children, also announcing a food sale to be held in the areas.

Mrs. Matthews had charge of the study book with questions being asked after reading from the story on Southeast Asia. The meeting was closed by Mr. Gale.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Lavendar, assisted by Mrs. Gair.

The November meeting is to be held at the rectory at 8 o'clock on November 27th.

As Conducted by Mary Moore

LETTER:

It was so kind of you to remember to send me the recipe for Club Chicken Casserole. It sounds awfully good. . . I have a recipe for pastry which I worked out myself. I always had trouble trying to roll out pastry and somebody suggested using lard . . . I found it easy to roll out but CLIFF didn't care for the lard flavor . . . . I experimented a bit and found a mixture of lard and shortening made a lovely short pastry and was easy to roll. Louise's Pastry:

Put six tablespoons lard in measuring cup and fill it up with shortening. Add 3 1-3 cups of flour and pinch of salt to it in a bowl and blend. Add just enough water to make it stick together in a ball. Roll out as thin as possible. While rolling sprinkle a little flour on both sides just to keep from sticking. Use egg lifter for turning. Fold it in half to lift it to the pie plate, then carefully unfold. Bake in 450 deg. oven for 13 minutes and then turn to 375 deg. for 20 to 25 minutes. I mix a little milk and sugar together and brush on top before baking. For a single crust I bake at 450 deg. for about 12 minutes.—Louise.

ANSWER:

Your handwriting brought back the delightful memory of the rollicking game of romol on the rug in your living room! Thanks for pastry.

QUESTION:

Would you please help me out once again? I had a recipe for sandwich spread which tasted exactly like. . .but I have lost it . . . I suppose you have tasted the creamy filling in confectioners' bake shops put inside their sweet rolls. I know it has a high quality shortening plus egg whites whipped to stiry lightness. . . I've made this at home but try as I may, still get that unpalatable taste of shortening.—Mrs. G. W.

ANSWER:

I can't guarantee that it will taste exactly like the brand you mention but it is good and popular. Add ground meat when spread is used.

SANDWICH SPREAD

Grind through coarse blade of food chopper enough cucumbers to make 2 cups when ground, 4 cups ground onions, 3 sweet red peppers, 3 sweet green peppers; add 1-3 cup salt, mix together and let stand two hours. Add sugar to hardly cover, bring to boil, drain and press dry in sieve. Mix together 1-2 cup butter, 3 cups sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, 4 beaten eggs, 1 teaspoon each celery seed and mustard seed, and when well blended stir in 1 cup vinegar. Add to vegetables and cook, stirring for five minutes after it comes to boil. Add 1 cup cream, boil up, pack into sterile jars and seal.

That icing-filling is made with half shortening only available due to the wholesale trade. I have the recipe for Butterscotch Icing which is a superior product taught to students in chef's school. If you would like it write to me again and enclose stamped envelope.

Colliery Where Men Trapped Opened 25 Years

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP) — The Cumberland Railway and Coal Company's No. 4 colliery, where 118 men were trapped at the 2,200-foot level following an explosion Thursday, was opened more than years ago.

The colliery, about half-a-mile from this town of 7,000, is actually No. 2 colliery, as 4,000 feet believed to be the deepest in Canada.

Its slope or entrance incline was driven to work two seams of coal.

The proximity of the slope to the older No. 2 mine allowed engineers to devise a common horseshoe shaped bankhead. The prongs of the horseshoe point into each slope. In this way coal can be transported from each mine, shunted into a central tipple for dumping into common storage.

Present mine workings angle downward. 6,700 feet from the surface.

Below ground there is a passage from the adjacent No. 2 colliery to No. 4. In the passage are explosion doors which enclose an air pocket much as in a deep-sea diving tender's compression chamber.

DEEP PASSAGE

It is believed that dragermen who attempted to rescue the trapped used the p.ssage to get into the 2,200 foot level. This level is commonly known as the trasfer bottom in No. 4 colliery.

Damage to surface workings probably makes the passage the only avenue of entry for rescue workers.

Both No. 2 and No. 4 use the slope to drive into their workings. A slope is an avenue of travel by man and coal cars going down at a degree. In the case of No. 4 colliery it is a 30-degree descent.

In shaft mines, descent is made vertically to the various levels.

PEARSON

Pearson said Canada regretted having to abstain from supporting Britain and France. "two countries whose ties with us are and will remain close and intimate."

Canada favored parts of the resolution but "I regret also that there was not more time, before a vote was taken, for consideration of the best way to bring the force of opinion—fire which will have enduring and beneficial results."

HAD THIS, PREVIOUSLY

Pearson said that, in the past, time had always been permitted for adequate examination of even the most critical and urgent resolutions. If more time had been allowed this time, "the result would have been a better one."

He implied that if more time had been taken, the major countries concerned might have pledged their willingness to comply with the resolution's demands before it was put to a vote.

The vote came after a round of debate in which Britain and France defended their action in invading Egypt, but were roundly criticized by most other speakers.

The British delegate, Sir Pierson Dixon, said in defending the Anglo-French action that in "our opinion" the Security Council "could have provided no effective remedy in time."

The hands of the council were tied by "the persistent misuse of the veto."

COULD NOT RELY

"The result has been that the world has not been able to rely on the United Nations for a collective security which it was designed to provide. Least of all, in view of the intransigence of the parties and the cynical misuse of their veto power by the Soviet Union, could be we expect swift, effective action from the United Nations in an emergency in the Middle East.

"It is precisely because of this unhappy limitation in the effective powers of the Security Council to deal with such an emergency that the United Kingdom and the French government were compelled to intervene at once, as they were fortunately in a position to do."

Dulles preceded his resolution with suggestion that if the General Assembly failed to resolve the Egyptian crisis the very life of the UN might be in danger.

"It seems to us imperative," he said, "that something be done because what has been done in apparent contravention of our charter has not yet gone so far as irretrievably to damage this organization or to destroy it."

UNABLE TO AGREE

Speaking slowly and gravely, Dulles said the U.S. "finds itself unable to agree with three nations with whom it has ties, deep friendship, admiration and respect, and two of whom constitute our chief, most trusted and reliable allies."

After the vote, Dulles returned to the rostrum to say he wanted to "emphasize my complete agreement" with what Pearson said — "not only my personal agreement but the feeling of President Eisenhower himself, who I talked to a few hours ago about this aspect of the matter."

The U.S. delegation, he said, would be "very happy" if the Canadian delegation would "formulate and introduce as part of suggestion along the lines which Mr. Pearson made."

OIL GROWTH COSTLY

BRISTOL, England (Reuters)—The world's petroleum industries will need about $130,000,000,000 to finance expansion for the next 10 years, C. M. Vicuoles, managing director of Shell-Mex and British Petroleum Ltd., said here. Speaking at a fuel and power exhibit, Vigueles said some 115,000,000,000 tons of oil lay untapped throughout the world, enough to meet needs "for many decades."

"Wow son, where in the world did you get that?"

"Well today at school, at lunch time—two of the teachers were looking over the NEW Star Weekly—and one of them said that."

"Oh—that's where you got it Eh! Well son, it's Latin and Ceasar said it after one of his conquests—it means "I came, I saw, I conquered".

"What's that to do with the new Star Weekly, Dad?"

"I guess it was the only way he could get it into the NEW Star Weekly is a winner. It came out this week—Millions saw it—and it is really a success!!"

"I see—well let me go and buy a copy right now, I want the comics."

Here's what keeps the price of gasoline low

Why have wholesale gasoline prices increased only one-third as much as wholesale prices in general — since 1935-1939?

Raw material and other costs have gone 'way up. Why not gasoline?

Gasoline prices have stayed down because a lot of companies are in the oil business—producing, refining and selling, more and more efficiently.

The consumer can shop around—looking for the best products at the best price.

Competition for the motorist's dollar keeps the price of gasoline low.

Sunday School Lesson

God Is in the Dark, Too

By Roy L. Smith

The great message of good religion is that God can be relied upon, even during the blackest and most terrible days. It is easy enough to have faith when all is going well, and when there are no clouds in the sky. It is when disaster impends, when the foundations of life have been shaken, and when all friends seem to have failed, that faith works its real miracles; that is exactly the promise that good religion holds out to all men — God is in the dark, too.

IT WAS A DARK DAY

The fifty-third chapter of Isaiah was written with the hope of steadying a nation in the midst of one of the blackest experiences through which any nation ever passed.

For nearly 200 years the affairs of the nation had gone badly. Kings after king had failed, and the nation had groaned under almost intolerable oppression at the hands of its various overlords.

In the year 586 B.C. the Babylonians breached the walls of Jerusalem, destroyed the city, and brought the beautiful dream begun at Sinai to an end.

The prophets had promised the people that day of restoration was coming, but as the captives camped along the irrigation canals of Babylon their confidence utterly hopeless, and there was not one ray of light anywhere across the sky.

In that hour some unknown poet composed a magnificent song which has somehow been incorporated into the prophecies of Isaiah, in which the nation is assured that there is a gigantic purpose in their sufferings. All the centuries in past they are working out the redemption of the people, and of the world.

JESUS THE SUFFERING SERVANT

We can leave to the scholars the problem of deciding who the suffering servant may have been. There are those who say it was surely the nation that the singer had in mind. There are those others who say that it was a foregimpse of Jesus. Which of the two interpretations is the difference. History shows very plainly that, whether the author intended it or not, Jesus fits into the description. Every thing said about the suffering servant was true of Jesus.

GREAT PRINCIPLE HERE

Whatever the theology of the case may be, the facts — historical, psychological, spiritual, and actual — are all in agreement. Suffering has a way of working miracles.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for November 4: "The Suffering Servant." Isaiah 52:13—53:12; Matthew 1:18-21.

History is replete with the stories of mothers who have suffered for their sons, with the result that the sons have been redeemed. Leaders have suffered for nations, with the result that nations have been made secure. Friends have suffered for friends, and splendor has issued from the sufferings.

England is as you may, and regret it as you will, the effectiveness of the pain as a redemptive agent is one of the miracles of life. Without pain there can be no glory; without suffering there can be no triumph!

EVIL HAS TO WIN IN HURRY

The godly man need not be disturbed. He has time as an ally on his side. He can afford to wait. It is the forces of evil that have to win their victories before the night falls. They know that all the tomorrows belong to righteousness and to God.

"There is nothing that is true that will not sometime come to light," was the saying of a veteran lawyer who had lost many cases when it got into the banks of fiction, but who had never lost a case in time and truth.

"Heaven and earth shall pass away, but My word will not, Jesus said, and history has vindicated Him in every respect.

MARSH HILL

European Slides Enjoyed by Harmony Club

MARSH HILL— Marsh Hill Harmony club held its October meeting Thursday evening, in the Marsh Hill school house with the president, Mr. Ivan Clare presiding.

An invitation was read from the Halloway Kum-Double club to attend their church service on Sunday evening, November 4, when the Rev. Lloyd Shorten of Peterborough, will be the guest speaker.

Mrs. John Brown presided over the following program and read a verse "Let Me Be a Little Kinder."

The Scripture reading was taken from John 8:4-14. Following the singing of the hymn "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," Mrs. Brown led in prayer.

Mrs. Brown gave a paper on "Friendship" "How many times the neglect of a friend has caused us to lose him. We cannot expect to have friends if we, ourselves are not friendly.

"Everyone has his way of doing things. Some times the ways chosen by our fellow men make us displeased, but 90 per cent of all criticism comes from people who are jealous. Always respect her that people who are never criticized are idle people.

"There is very little difference between one man and another; but what there is, is very important. So it is, we need to give and take such a little to be a friend."

Mr. Frank Winder was introduced and showed slides on s trip which he had made in Europe, which were interesting and educational.

After the benediction, refreshments were served by the lunch committee.

HUNGARY'S CARDINAL MINDSZENTY RELEASED

Eight years of imprisonment ended for Hungary's Cardinal Mindszenty with the victory of the anti-Moscow patriots. Released by the new government's soldiers, Mindszenty was taken to Budapest, where he said he would not support the present government until it allowed representation by Christian Democrats. "I am not a Hasbitzist and have no hatred to anyone," he said to newspapermen. (Central Press Canadian).

Eisenhower Says U.S. Steering 'Path of Honor'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Middle East crisis eclipsed all other issues today as the Democratic-Republican struggle for the presidency and control of the United States Congress neared its climax.

President Eisenhower defended as "a path of honor" the course his administration is steering for the country in the situation growing out of the attack by Israel on Egypt and British-French intervention.

In his final major political speech of the campaign, Eisenhower said in Philadelphia Thursday night that "we cannot and we will not condone armed aggression."

Eisenhower, having pledged no U.S. military involvement in banding on moves in the United Nations to halt the Middle East fighting.

Adlai E. Stevenson, Eisenhower's Democratic foe, said in a television-radio speech Thursday night that the Republican administration has failed to take a firm position in the Middle East, and that this has helped bring on the present crisis, which Stevenson said threatens the Western alliance against communism.

NO FIRM STAND

"Had the Eisenhower administration taken a firm stand in the Middle East, had it aided Israel with arms and security guarantees, we might, I believe, have been able to prevent the present outbreak of war," he said. "At this government had not alternately appeased Israel and Egypt, I do think we would command more confidence there and in the Arab world."

Stevenson spoke from a studio in Buffalo, N.Y. His speech was advertised as a reply to Eisenhower's country-wide radio-TV talk on the Middle East crisis the night before.

Today, addressing an applauding rally in Buffalo's Memorial Auditorium, Stevenson said: "Whatever must move boldly to end the war, to restore the Western alliance and to seek new basis for our future relations with the Soviet Empire."

STUDENT VOICES

Eisenhower, also speaking over radio and TV, made no direct mention of Stevenson. But there was no doubt that the president was referring to his Democratic rival, among others, when he said he is "inflamed" by the ridiculous voices of those few who seem to be seeking to turn world events to political profit.

Eisenhower, who spoke before the convention of Future Homemakers of America, said that "as the people have risen, so have new governments—and so has new hope."

Leaders Fail In Efforts to Stop Fighting

NEW YORK (CP)—In the inventive debate which has followed the outbreak of fighting in the Middle East, both President Eisenhower and his government have fallen disappointingly short of saying things the Canadian people would like to hear.

Mr. Eisenhower has been eloquent and plausible in outlining the steps he says the United States and the free world in the past to avert the crisis.

Eisenhower has been forthright and emphatic in his view that his government proposes is to isolate the fighting.

But, in their lengthy addresses on the one subject, both men have been unable to come up with a long-range plan to clean up the explosive situation that touched off this week's hostilities—and they say little or nothing more and larger wars in the future.

EACH LACKS PLAN

Eisenhower, while pledging his best efforts to stop the shooting, has produced no proposal to ease the tensions which caused it. Stevenson, rebuking the president for his lack of planning, has suggested no plan of his own.

A pre-election atmosphere does not lend itself to the framing of solutions to world problems of the complexity of this one.

But the growing danger of the Middle Eastern situation has been apparent throughout the period reported in which Eisenhower has been president and Stevenson has sought the office.

And after four years, the president says he foresees "a bright new day of peace and justice in the world. The would-be president says the time has come to wipe the slate clean and begin anew."

And, particularly, that is the end of the speech.

Hungarian Insurgents Dig Desperately to Save Political Prisoners Said Buried Alive

Editor's note : This story of attempts to rescue Hungarian patriots from an underground prison was written by George Peter Boultwood, 17-year-old son of Associated Press correspondent George Boultwood, who has managed to join his father in Budapest. The elder Boultwood got through Soviet and insurgent lines in Budapest earlier in the week from Vienna.

By GEORGE P. BOULTWOOD

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP)—Hungarian insurgents Thursday night dug desperately to save political prisoners literally buried alive below the streets of Budapest.

They are entombed three stories below the city's Communist party headquarters in a secret prison.

The existence of this underground jail was revealed on Wednesday after the Red headquarters was captured by anti-Communist insurgents.

It is believed that about 400 people—secret police and their political prisoners—were in the building at the time it was crushed by armed rebels. But only 60 persons were taken out of the headquarters after the rebels machine-gunned their way into it.

Then they discovered that the building has an enormous underground section.

All attempts so far to get into it have been fruitless. The rescuers found themselves up against steel doors and concrete walls several feet thick.

They know that living people are down there because they have heard tapping. Thursday night a faint voice, speaking in Russian, said there were 130 persons in the cellar. The presumption is that some of the hated secret police took refuge down there along with their captives.

The secret police have been hunted and slaughtered mercilessly by the rebels. Their secret dungeon was an obvious refuge from the fury of the independence fighters.

Squads of workmen have been attacking the walls with jackhammers and pneumatic drills, but without success.

The city was being combed for workmen who had helped make the secret prison. The party headquarters had been closed for nearly 10 months, while "reconstruction" was carried out.

That was when the underground jail was being made. But it appears that construction workers do the job were employed for short periods and then others took over, so that none of them knows the complete secret of its construction.

Israeli Farmers Till Wheat Almost Within Rifle Range

GAZA STRIP (AP) — Israeli farmers made hay today while the sun battle raged.

Young sun-tanned farmers of the border settlements were out early to working with their guns by their sides—tilled their fields within earshot of artillery fire and almost within rifle range.

This was a strange sort of war where the farmers scarcely took out time to wave to their countrymen in uniform as they headed into combat.

The road to the front had been cleared by the Egyptians.

Here and there a burning vehicle could be seen by the side of the road—smouldering evidence of a land mine.

Occasionally, too, a military ambulance or truck passed with Israeli wounded headed for the front. Israeli casualties in this fighting were few.

"You go to war in a tank here. From Tel Aviv to the Gaza Strip is only two hours by car and certain amount of driving is getting there.

So far, the advancing Israeli Army under command of 43-year-old Maj.-Gen. Moshe Dayan has forbidden correspondents to move with the troops.

Radio can get within a few miles of the action and you can hear the Israeli farmers talking to their own mind, consider themselves soldiers of their country.

There was a joyous day for the Gaza Strip border farmers. They could see Israeli jet fighters roaring by. They got the news, too, that Israeli forces had captured Rafah, key town inside the strip, and had severed the strip from Egypt.

Although Israeli forces encircled the strip, citizens of Palestine Arabs were coming through and fleeing into Egypt. The Israelis appeared to be making no effort to prevent them.

Near refugees, as in all wars a sure sign of advancing troops, have been fleeing the Gaza Strip for the last two days. Some weird way or by intuition, they got advance word of the approaching Israeli troops.

And as in all wars they presented a pitiful sight.

This map shows the route of the two-pronged Israeli desert blitz into Egypt through the Sinai peninsula. The main column swung through the south, pushing towards the Suez canal, while the secondary thrust was in the north, cutting off Egyptian access to the Gaza coastal strip. Israeli troops are reported to have overrun the outposts of El Kuntilla and Nekhl, with a major battle under way at Themad, 38 miles inside the Egyptian frontier. Cairo radio reported Egyptian naval forces were reported off Haifa. Meanwhile, French and British troops from Cyprus began landing in Egypt to protect the Suez canal. Israeli and Egyptian sources said the Egyptian air force hit some Israeli supply points in air raids attempts to disrupt communications and troop movements. (Central Press Canadian).

London Herald Calls on Eden To Resign Post

LONDON (Reuters) — The conservative Daily Herald today called on Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden's decision to send troops into Egypt exploded with new fury in the power struggle.

The London Daily Herald, organ of the Labor party, called on Eden to resign. "He went to war without the nation's support," the paper said.

The tabloid London Daily Mirror, which has a circulation of 5,000,000 says "There is no treaty no international authority, no moral sanction for this desperate action." Eden's war can achieve nothing. It can settle nothing."

The Manchester Guardian (Liberal) says that in sending fresh tanks into Hungary the Soviet union was only following "Sir Anthony Eden's example."

The Times, which supports Eden's action, has some second thoughts about the way it was handled. Eden made a "grave" error if he did not keep the United States informed of his plans in advance, it says.

The Times recalls a wartime statement of Sir Winston Churchill that it is perfectly justifiable to deceive the enemy even if at the same time you deceive people are for a time misled. There is one thing, however, which you must never do, and that is to mislead your ally."

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express, supporting Eden's move, declares "the time for criticism" ahead are already being tempered." It mentions the Australian and New Zealand governments' support of Eden.

The tabloid Daily Sketch says "whether you like the Eden policy or hate it, there can be no doubt being back over Egypt." We are committed. Everything we have is at stake."

Billion Dollar Deficit Run up In Canada's Trade

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's trade with United States ran up a deficit of nearly $1,000,000,000 during the first nine months of the year.

That was the major factor behind the $973,300,000 deficit for the nine months of $873,300,000 reported Thursday by the Bureau of Statistics. It was the deficit in all-countries trade for nine months which caused concern.

The bureau's preliminary figures showed a $100,000,000 favorable deficit in trade with the U.S.—the excess of imports over exports for the nine months. That compared with deficits of $823,100,000 for the first nine months of last year and $892,800,000 in all of 1955.

Canada's imports from all countries in the nine months totalled $4,000,000 compared with $3,426,100,000 in a year ago, or an increase of 17 per cent or $2,104,900,000 came from the United States, a rise of $397,100,000 over the year earlier.

Total exports reached $3,570,000,000 for the nine months compared with $2,197,100,000 a year earlier. Normally 60 per cent of Canada's exports—$2,114,300,000 worth—went to the United States, a rise of $208,700,000.

Father Wounds Daughter Then His Heart Attack

HAMILTON (CP) — A 60-year-old man and his 40-year-old daughter were in adjoining beds in Hospital today; she with bullet wounds in her neck, arm and chest; he with a heart attack suffered soon after he was arrested.

The man was to be charged this morning.

Police say Daniel Kachenosky, brandishing a revolver, chased his daughter, Mrs. Mary Jargillo, into a grocery store, Thursday before the eyes of Louis Goldberg, the store's proprietor, and Goldberg's small son. Mrs. Jargillo, the daughter, who staggered out of the store, followed by Kachenosky, was shooting.

Mrs. Jargillo was found in a restaurant by police and was hysterically attempted to plug her wounds with paper towels after she collapsed on the floor. Doctors said she is in good condition.

The wounded husband, Andrew Jargillo, said the shooting started after he and his wife went to Kachenosky's home on York Street building they own in common with another tenant.

He said he had collected the rent from an upstairs tenant, who lives over Kachenosky, and upon descending was met by a shotgun blast.

He ran back up the stairs, he said, and looked out a window to see his wife, who had stayed outside, pursued by a man waving a revolver.

Canada's National Parks System Established in 1887 When Park at Banff Formed

OTTAWA (CP)—They come to swim, fish, hike, go horseback or just to gaze at the beauty. They come to the national parks for recreation, for their health, to escape the tensions and troubles of this modern age.

Whatever their reason for enjoying these simple but ancient pleasures, Canadians have to thank for the opportunity the idea that bubbled from some hot springs discovered in the Rocky Mountains during the horse and buggy era, when the atom still was unsplit.

On one of those "good old days" in 1883, some workmen building the CPR over the Rockies west of Calgary found hot mineral water gurgling out of Sulphur Mountain. They staked a claim to the area—for themselves.

With the same self-interest, so the story goes, a member of parliament in the dim past decided he didn't identify him—bought the workmen's interest in the natural hot springs and prepared to exploit it.

REMEMBERED FOR PUBLIC

But federal authorities heard of it and, perhaps motivated by the example of the U.S. which started 11 year earlier, moved to set aside the area for the public's use. The purchaser was paid $1,-600 for the road he built to the springs and a formal park was born.

Then, in 1887, parliament established Rocky Mountains Park — Banff — National Park, Canada's national parks system was born.

In its early days some commercial interests — particularly mining and timber companies could be given by the federal administration to mine operations within the parks.

But into the National Parks Act in 1930 was written a section saying that the parks be used so far as is consistent with that for the enjoyment of future generations. A halt to commercial exploitation had been thrown up.

Since Banff, the number of parks has grown to 29, covering a total of 29,000 square miles. They can be found from coast to coast except Quebec and Newfoundland.

BIG AND LITTLE

The newest is Fundy, established in 1947 on the New Brunswick bay of the same name. Wood Buffalo, straddling the Alberta-Northwest Territories border and covering 17,300 square miles, is the biggest. The smallest is Georgian Bay Islands Park in Ontario, with one unique feature in its 5.4 square miles is a high, circular stone pillar rising unexplained from Sloverpost Island.

Some of the country's finest beaches can be found in Prince Edward Island National Park extending 25 miles along the province's north shore. There are excellent beaches, too, in Point Pelee, six square miles on the shore of Lake Erie in Ontario.

Riding Mountain in Manitoba is possibly the most unexpected park of them all. It covers 1,148 square miles on the summit of the Manitoba escarpment which rises suddenly out of the flat prairies to 2,200 feet above sea level.

Lush forest is dotted by lakes and laced by streams in the 1,460 square miles of Prince Albert Park in Saskatchewan, and a cloistered beauty in eastern Ontario's St. Lawrence Islands Park enclosing 13 of the Thousand Islands in that lazy-moving section of the river.

Canadian Pilot In Command of Valiant Squadron

VALLETTA, Malta (AP) — The first operation against military airfields in Egypt Wednesday was carried out by a squadron of Valiants commanded by Canadian Wing Cmdr. W. J. Burnett, air headquarters here announced Thursday night.

Describing the operation, Burnett—who comes from Fredericton, N.B., and has 19 years' service in the RAF—said "our target was the airfield at El Mazr between Cairo and Heliopolis."

"We set out Wednesday evening and flew uneventfully on the 800-mile course until we came over target area at 2,000 ft. dead on time.

"We had picked out Alexandria route and although we saw the street lighting in Cairo we could make out the whole layout of the capital."

Burnett, 40, said the Valiants were in two over 12 minutes before their first bombing run Canberra marker aircraft had dropped flares which were spotted on the intersection of runways.

"Conditions were ideal for the attack and we recorded all the bombs in the target area," said the ex-Maritimer. "There was a certain amount of flying from light anti-aircraft guns but it seemed erratic."

of the river.

The most inaccessible is Glacier Park in the superb Alpine region of British Columbia's Selkirk Mountains. Only the CPR rail line west of Revelstoke serves it now, but the Trans-Canada Highway eventually is to pass through.

INTRIGUING CAVES

One of its most unusual features are caves on Makimu Caves, about a mile in length. They were discovered by a guide and a Swiss mountaineer named Deutchman, but as yet only a few have been widely visited by the public.

Glacier, Yoho and Mount Revelstoke are the only three in Canada's best-known parks, the fame of their attractions extending to the country abroad.

The earliest ghosts of Canada's history linger in the 200-square-mile confines of Cape Breton Highlands National Park. It is part of that island off the Nova Scotia coast where John Cabot, who discovered the North American mainland in 1497, is believed to have first landed.

"To be sure, there is value to Canada in the industries that derive benefits from the parks," Resources Minister Lesage told parliament, "but last session of Parliament, "but infinitely greater is the value our people derive . . . in happier minds and healthier bodies."

Israeli Regains City of Gaza Which Was Invaded by Egypt On Day New State Was Born

TEL AVIV (CP) — Gaza, the town the Egyptians occupied eight years ago when they invaded Palestine on the day the State of Israel was created, fell to Israeli forces in the Sinai peninsula Thursday.

An Israeli military governor entered the town with the victorious army and accepted the surrender.

An Israeli communique also claimed conquest of El Arish, 90 miles east of the Suez Canal at the apex of the Gaza Strip.

With the fall of these two towns the Israelis appeared to be in control of the whole Gaza Strip, the Egyptian corridor which illegally into Israel along the coast.

TROOPS ADVANCE

The communique added: "In Central Sinai advances are continuing."

Tens of thousands of Egyptian troops, consisting of two divisions, an armored brigade group and auxiliary troops, had faced the Israelis in Sinai, according to the Israeli Army spokesman.

Many of them today were fleeing westwards.

The Israeli government declared in a statement that no war would be started against any other neighboring state."

It was Israel's desire to live in "peace and quiet" with the Arab states bordering her.

"If attacked by another Arab state, Israel will fight back. But she will not be the first to attack."

BOMBED GAZA

According to observers on the Gaza Strip, Israeli airplanes Thursday night bombed Gaza town and harbor. Earlier the Israelis dropped leaflets on the Gaza Strip warning persons to stay indoors.

Earlier Thursday, the Israelis claimed they had captured Rafah at the southern end of the strip, which is some 25 miles long and eight miles wide, separating the southern end of Israel from the Mediterranean.

The armored columns driving into the Sinai desert peninsula in anti-built equipment captured only Thursday from the Egyptian army, which fled in panic, it was learned officially from inside the Sinai Peninsula. Among the equipment were tanks.

Gaza City's population makes up about half the 250,000 Palestine Arabs who live in the strip.

The city is the district capital of the area and the seat of Egyptian area headquarters. It was from here that Egyptian commandos, according to the Israelis, were sent into Israel territory to carry out acts of "sabotage and murder."

5 Ont. Cities Reach Objectives In United Appeal

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Five Ontario cities have reached their objective in current United Appeal campaigns.

First to hit the mark, more than a week ago, was Stratford, which achieved its $40,000 target.

London went over the top Tuesday, 29 days after opening its campaign for $680,000.

A total of $207,200—about 108 per cent of the objective — was donated or pledged. Last year the appeal brought $367,000 against an objective of $385,000.

Toronto's campaign committee reported success just before the noon deadline Wednesday. Seventy six separate agencies will benefit from the $7,198,811 objective and other donations which are still pouring in.

Brantford passed its $149,473 target by slightly less than $2,000.

Ottawa had collected $835,000, $7,000 more than its $827,000 objective several hours before the fund was due to close Thursday night.

Encouraging reports from other centres show that many other campaigns are nearing their objectives.

Sarnia has $5 per cent of its $120,000 objective, counting actual receipts and pay-roll deductions.

Peterborough has reached $70,-428 of its $130,000 objective with still two days to go. St. Catharines has $118,722 of its $218,000 objective, with the campaign in its third week.

Niagara Falls already has $30,000 towards a $65,000 objective.

Church Leaders Differ in Views On British Act

TORONTO (CP)—Britain's use ... in the Middle East crisis ... deplored, but she must ... military action only after due consideration, two of Canada's church leaders said Thursday.

Most Rev. W. F. Barfoot, Primate of the Anglican Church of Canada, said in an interview "Any resort to armed force in any part of the world today must be viewed with grave concern . . . but it is . . . unthinkable that those consequences have not been frankly faced by the British government."

Rev. H. H. Ziemann, secretary of the Baptist Federation said "It is difficult for the man in the street to understand just what is going on when men who are supposed to be in the know take opposite sides." However, the church does not believe that the British have taken action without very careful deliberation.

The secretary of the United Church's general council, Rev. E. E. Long, did not take as charitable a view of British action. He said his personal view is that the British are being taken in the Middle East question by the tactics of expediency, self-interest and denial of moral principles.

"Peace will come by the spreading of justice, not by words of anger or armed force," he said.

Cannot Convict Without Evidence Ruling of Court

TORONTO (CP)—Lawyer Stanley Smither said Thursday "probably thousands" of Toronto motorists have been illegally convicted of traffic offences by magistrates who heard no police or defence evidence before convicting them.

Mr. Smither made the statement after successfully arguing on an appeal to the Supreme Court of Ontario on behalf of Gordon Abbott, convicted of speeding and fined $9 and $2 costs.

Mr. Smither asked whether justice of the peace, James Murphy could have convicted Abbott without hearing any evidence from him or the police.

"Of course he can't convict without evidence," said Mr. Justice Spence, who went on to criticize the practice, frequent in magistrate's courts.

Magistrates frequently convict without hearing evidence from either side when the defendant does not answered a summons to appear in court. They say the number of cases make it impossible to call evidence on each one, since it would take up too much time and keep police in courts.

Queried on the decision, W. B. Common, director of public prosecutions in Ontario, said "existing legislation stipulates the magistrates must take evidence whether the accused is there or not."

Mr. Smither said "It is safe to assume that probably thousands of citizens have been convicted illegally of traffic offences by magistrates and justices of the peace."

LITTLE HOPE

The 12th victim died in hospital where five other men lie with critical injuries. They had been in the shattered surface buildings and workings above the 3,300-foot level where most of the other miners are believed to have been working.

Four of the injured, accompanied by two doctors, were flown to Halifax in navy helicopters.

Two more rescue crews entered the mine in mid-morning, relieving those who had been there through the night.

Ed McCormick, one of those who went down for the second time, and four buddies brought the bodies of their fellow dreggermen from the rock-strewn wreck.

Mothers, wives, sisters and children of the mining men clustered in quiet, tearful groups as close to the pithead as they could get. It was a scene all too familiar in Nova Scotia coal towns after a mine accident.

Blocking the way of rescue crews is a pile of fallen rock at the 3,300-foot level down the sloping shaft from the surface.

This area was said to be free of gas, but no one knew what lay beyond. Perhaps more gas and more fallen rock.

The Springhill mine, one of the deepest in the country, has lower workings more than 4,000 feet from the surface.

SLIGHT HOPE

Hope for survivors lay in the possibility the missing were in pockets of air. No one knew how long they could last if their air supply had failed.

Early today an exhausted rescue crew stumbled to the surface to report they found two bodies 3,400 feet below ground level but saw no sign of life.

"It looks bad, boys, mighty bad —yes, mighty bad," one veteran miner said.

Mine manager George Calder said sobrerly that he felt there was still hope—"though it may only be a faint hope."

"Every grim foot" was all the leader of one rescue crew would say.

RELATIVES WEEP

Hundreds of men and women, many sobbing, chattered around the wreckage of surface buildings shattered by the blast. Almost every family in this town of 7,000 had a relative in the mine.

As the hours passed with no word of survivors, fear mounted that this would be Canada's worst mine disaster since 1914, when 188 were killed at Hillcrest, Alta.

The explosion that rumbled through Springhill at 3 p.m. Thursday came from the slope of No. 4 colliery of the Cumberland Railway and Coal Company. It plastered the mine surface with the rubble of wrecked buildings and machinery.

The company's No. 2 pit, only yards away, was covered with debris but all its miners escaped.

Body of one man, killed in the blast, was buried several hundred yards. Four others died within hours from their injuries and seven others were in hospital with serious injuries.

Two of the dreggermen were overcome by gas and died in the depths of the mine. Another dreggerman, Ed McCormick, identified the dead as Bill Ferguson and Alex Spence."

FIND TWO BODIES

At 2:30 a.m. a rescue crew found two bodies at the 2,400-foot level—the area where most of the trapped men had been working.

As a bleak dawn spread over the mine-head desolation in this town near the Nova Scotia-New Brunswick border, automobiles formed an arc around the pits, waiting to serve as ambulances if survivors were located.

First-aid workers and all available nurses, regulars and volunteers, stood by hospital beds which spread from wards into halls and a nearby armory.

Extra doctors had been flown to Springhill. Blood plasma and other medical supplies came from all the Maritime provinces in RCAF planes and navy helicopters. Army troops joined volunteer rescue workers.

But only the highly trained dreggermen, wearing oxygen equipment, entered the dangerous, gas-filled shaft.

NOT THE FIRST

Thursday's explosion was not the first time Springhill has faced disaster. In 1891, another accident in the mines killed 125 Springhill men.

By this morning, hope that miners would be found alive was generally slight among the pithead crowd.

The dreggermen, who best knew the danger from seeping gas and from rock-falls, could say little about conditions underground. With grim faces they waited for their rescue missions, wasting few words. None would describe conditions below for newspaper men.

But the story of the night's development was well known.

The mine's shift changed Thursday at 3:30 p.m. Four hours and a half later the town was rocked by an explosion felt for miles. Flames shot up hundreds of feet. Windows broke by homes miles away. The rumbling pithead machinery crumbled.

SILENCE WAIT

Immediately the alarm sirens wailed. Groups of people ran to the mine.

Slowly facts became known. Mine officials announced that 118 men were down. Poisonous gas was filling the slopes.

Soon a score of dreggermen left Stellarton, N.S., by plane. Another group flew from Cape Breton. Cars lighted airport runways for night landings. Headlights of others lit the ball park where a navy helicopter landed a doctor and supplies.

Highway convoys of first aid workers, other volunteers and rescue supplies sped to the scene.

In a few hours, hospitals in Springhill said they had all the facilities and personnel needed to care for all the injured.

STAY AWHILE

Through the night lights burned in almost every home.

It was some time before the names of the trapped miners became known.

The usual method of finding the names of accident victims is to go into the lamp house and see what lamp pegs are empty.

This time, because of the danger of a second explosion, the area was cleared of spectators. Only the dreggermen were permitted at the pithead.

Gas explosions in the Springhill mine have always been feared because of the pit's recognized high gas content and memories of the 1891 blast.

HIGH PROPORTION

The airfield called Kharouba West, about 25 miles from Cairo on the main desert road to Alexandria, was "violently bombed" during the latest attacks, the spokesman said.

A communique from Anglo-French headquarters on Cyprus said an Egyptian destroyer was set on fire in the latest air attacks in the Middle East.

The destroyer, one of the 3,000-ton Skory class sold by Russia to Egypt last summer with arms and other war equipment, was set on fire at Alexandria Thursday, the communique said.

Most of the planes attacking airfields came from carriers, an RAF spokesman said.

PLANE TO CANAL

Col. Moish Pearlzman, an Israeli Army spokesman, said Egyptian forces in the Northern Sinai were "Deeing westward» to the Suez Canal, to get away."

He added that "tens of thousands" of Egyptian troops, comprising two divisions, an armored brigade group and auxiliary groups, had faced the Israelis in Sinai.

He conceded that some Israeli units closer to the canal were meeting stiffer resistance.

Pearlzman did not reply when asked about the Israeli drive in the southern half of the Sinai Peninsula towards the Enterprise Channel—the narrow strait linking the Red Sea and the Gulf of Aqaba.

Egyptian gun positions commanding the channel have for years blocked Israeli ships from reaching the southern Israeli port of Elath.

Prime Minister Eden's government survived one of its toughest fights Thursday night in winning a vote of confidence on its action in sending forces to the Suez. But increasing pressure was reported today from various parts of the population to find a face-saving way out of the hostilities.

ESTIMATE CASUALTIES

The Israeli Embassy in Washington estimated Egyptian casualties—killed, wounded and captured—at 1,500. "Israel casualties are relatively light," it added, "including less than 100 killed."

British and French naval units were reported closing in today on both ends of the Suez Canal.

Egypt said navigation in the strategic waterway already had been halted by the British-French sinking Thursday of an Egyptian warship in the channel. British-French headquarters denied this account, saying British planes had bombed and sunk an Egyptian blockship outside the ship channel. The spokesman asserted that Egyptian forces were towing the vessel into position for sinking to block canal shipping.

Ships earlier had been turning away from the canal because of the fighting in the area.

EDEN

Individual union members are also speaking of staging protest strikes which could seriously hamper the campaign to seize the Suez Canal zone. The scrabbling persist despite a statement by Sir Thomas Williamson, chairman of the giant Trades Union Congress, that the TUC "will not countenance unofficial industrial action."

After Thursday night's bitter debate Eden won four votes of confidence on the government's action in the Middle East. But the voting—ranging from 323-253 to 320-253—was on strict party lines, and some London newspapers say that at least 30 of the prime minister's own Conservative followers in the House of Commons believe he made a mistake in acting outside the UN.

Lord Altrincham, a Conservative who edits the monthly National and English Review, told reporters "there is a definite move in the party to get rid of Eden as prime minister."

SHOWDOWN NEAR

The Daily Express, which has strongly supported Eden's action against Egypt, commented:

"It is not thought that these dissidents-Tories will be held in check beyond the weekend. One senior Tory back-bencher put it this way: 'There has got to be a showdown very soon now.'"

A dramatic last-minute interruption came Thursday night as Bevan was calling for the government. Conservative back-bencher William Yates rose on a point of order and said:

"I have just returned from France and I saw the British government has been involved in an international conspiracy.

The Speaker ruled, before Yates could finish, that he was out of order. And despite Opposition protests led by the Labor front bench, the Speaker told Butler to continue.

SOLDIERS PROTECTED

Butler said British soldiers fighting in Egypt would be protected by international articles of war. And he emphasized that the government would willingly step aside if the UN would take over in the Middle East.

Former Prime Minister Churchill attended both afternoon and evening sessions. So crowded was the government front bench that at one stage he was unable to take his customary corner seat.

As Churchill waddled to his seat after the division on the censure motion, he was given a cheer from both sides of the House.

"We could do with you, mate," called out a Labor backbencher and Opposition benches started to chant "bring him back . . . bring him back."

Churchill gave no sign that he heard.

NO FLASH IN THE PAN, SURE

According to reports from a few of the centres in the senior "A" circuit, the McFarlands' two initial victories over the Cornwall Chevies, especially after the ex-Colts took it on the chin for six straight issues, were more or less flashes in the proverbial pan.

As Kingston's Doug Scutter puts it: "Last weekend's tie with the powerful Ottawa Canadiens rules out some speculation that the Maes' first two triumphs could be discounted. One of the peculiarities of the schedule had Belleville playing only three games in the first 13 days of action while most of the other clubs were engaged in a heavier period of action. Out of it the Bellas came up with two victories and a tie, good enough for five points and a third place in the six-team league."

That statement must have beenarranged on Mr. Scutter somewhat after the sorry exhibition put on by the Kingston Kiosse up to Wildfly the other night. Now the speculation grows in on the other hand. Circuit reviewers are raised in wonder after that 10-1 debacle at the hands of the Dunlops. The question is, have the Kiosse been playing suites ever since the season opening game—or did their form lay on say the other night?

On paper, at least, the Kingston squad is not much stronger than the Goodyears of last season. They have three or four imports, it is true, but the majority of the Kiosse are familiar faces to the Kingston fans.

For the information of Don and others who may be interested it might be stated there is no division of fans in this city. The "hail hit and kaboodle" are solidly behind the squad as a sell-out hosses tonight when Wildfly plays here will testify.

A win for Bep Guidolin's crew and a loss for Kingston, who tangle in their Community Centre with the Pembroke Lumber Kings tonight, will hoist the Maes into a second-place tie with the radio station gang. However a victory for the Dunlops, who play the Lumber Kings with third points, would strengthen their grip on top spot.

However, that can be figured out after the games. Right now the McFarlands are fit and ready to go and with the Dunlops a bit cocky after their romp with Kingston, tonight's battle should be a thriller. And it is expected nearly 3500 customers will be out there rooting the Guidolinmen home to their third victory of the season.

Tomorrow they make the long trek to Pembroke, leaving the city at one o'clock for the 170-mile bus safari. However the Lumber Kings will get a taste of travel too, for they journey to Kingston and home again tonight. The Kings pay the return visit to Belleville next Friday night.

Coach Bep Guidolin announced yesterday that Rene St. Hilaire, starry winger, will be out of action for a week. He suffered a dead-leg (a) in his leg in a practice tilt. Otherwise, naturally, won't be playing tonight. Guidolin said the rest of the club was in good shape.

CLEVELAND HERE WEDNESDAY

The Cleveland Barons, who have been flirting with the top spot in the American League since that loop's activities got under way, will be the guests of the McFarlands in an exhibition tilt in Memorial Arena on November 7, next Wednesday, that is. The Barons boast a high-scoring, hot-shooting squad headed by Boris (Bo) Elzik, an amazing rookie, who is setting the league scoring records afire. A linemate, Fred Glover, is tied for second spot with a teammate, Jimmy Moore, a point behind.

Jackie Gordon, the Barons' playing coach, is in his sixth season with the club and is one of the American League's most popular personalities. He formerly played with the New York Rangers. Last week in team play the Barons grabbed all the American League honors offensively, leading with 34 goals, and 53 assists. They also had the most penalty minutes with 134.

BASEBALL

A bit off-season, but baseball crops into the picture for the season. The Ontario Baseball Association's latest release announces the various championships with two provincial titlists hailing from this city and district. Awarded the Mail and Empire Trophy are the Belleville Juvenile, holders of the Lynch Maloe "A" championship. The to the Wellington powwow "C" champions goes the Jack Wakem trophy. Trophies and crests have been or will be forwarded to the winners.

President Tommy Thurow announces the site of the 1957 annual convention which will be held next year at Clinton, Ont. Amendments and resolutions should be sent in early to secretary Tommy Rowdon, St. Catharines.

There are some good sportsmen left, after all. Here is a note sent to OBA officials following a bantam game in which a Clinton team defeated Hamilton. "This was a no-hit, no-run game pitched by Dennis Roebuck of Chatham," the note read. "The only man Hamilton got to first base was on an error. Man, could that guy mow our guys down. Just for the record the two teams Hamilton had today are the only ones we suffered all season. Until today we had won 20 consecutive games and then . . . ROSENDUCK. That guy was really terrific to pitch that game against so considering our team batting average was .375. This note is not meant to sound like we are crying about losing. It is to show you we have a terrific ball player." -Signed, Ken Smith, Hamilton manager.

HABS BUY HORVATH

The deal between the two National League clubs was for the waiver price of $15,000.

RANGERS MANAGE TIE

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP)—New York Rangers came from behind twice Thursday night on Dave Creighton's two goals to gain a 3-3 tie with Trois-Rivieres Lions in a fast-paced exhibition hockey game before 2,000 fans.

Bev Bell and Jim Farelli scored for the Quebec League hosts against the National Leaguers.

Beliveau Sparks Hab Pack In Great Third-Period Rally; Bruins Wallop Chihawks 5-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

First there was Jean Beliveau, who in three seasons has soared to the heights of hockey greats. Then Bernie Geoffrion, laboring under the pain of an injured elbow. And Henri Richard, still bothered by an injured knee.

There were others, of course, but these three men were the firebrands Thursday night as Montreal Canadiens came up with a great third-period rally to beat Detroit Red Wings 4-3 and end the Wings' National Hockey League unbeaten streak at seven games.

Beliveau, the most feared centre in the game, scored two goals and assisted on a third. Geoffrion picked up one goal and an assist. And Richard, who didn't get off the bench until the third period because of his knee, scored one goal.

STILL FIFTH

The 14,519 Montreal customers almost went wild during Montreal's third victory in nine games.

The victory left Canadiens in fifth place, but moved them into a third-place tie with a two win over Chicago Black Hawks in the night's other game.

At Montreal, the Wings appeared to have the game in hand after the third period. They were riding with a 3-1 lead when Geoffrion scored at 4:37 of the third. Then followed goals by Richard and Beliveau, Jean Marc Reboul, left winger Ted Lindsay and rookie Billy Mathel.

INJURED RETURN

The return of Geoffrion and Richard added some zip to Montreal's attack. Geoffrion had been out with an elbow injury and may have to return to hospital for further treatment. Richard is just about recovered from a knee injury.

Canadiens ran into a bit more trouble. Centre Gene Achtymichuk got up from Queen Area of the Quebec League on a three-game trial, suffered a broken nose when checked by Detroit defenceman Warren Godfrey in the second period.

At Boston, 10,307 fans were on hand to see Bruins break out with goals in all three periods. They were led by left winger Vic Stasiuk, a former Detroit player who scored two goals. Singles were registered by rookie Larry Regan, Doug Mohns and Real Chevrefils. Forbes Kennedy and Ken Mosdell scored for Hawks.

Both goaltenders Al Rollins of the Hawks and Boston's Terry Sawchuk were busy. Rollins stopped 38 shots; Sawchuk 29.

McGill Hopes To Whip Blues

MONTREAL (CP) — Coach Larry Sullivan of McGill Redmen said Thursday night "the boys can do it" as McGill pointed for a Saturday tilt with Blues against the unbeaten Varsity Blues.

There's been nothing new injected into workouts, Sullivan said blaming mechanical errors, injuries and bad breaks for the McGill plight.

The Sullivan need a combination of events to keep alive in the Senior Intercollegiate football championship. They must knock off Toronto and Western in their last two games while Queen's is losing one game and doing no better than a tie in the other.

Sullivan said his club will be just about full-strength outfit that lost 30-15 here last Saturday to Queen's. Fullback Ricky Adrian has a bruised knee and may make the trip. End Gord Merritt will make his first start since punter Jan Sandzelius may get a chance to carry the ball.

Guard Buster Brows is still out along with halfback Jim Grant.

Marty Marion May Return To Cardinals

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Marty Marion has been out of a job only eight days and already there's talk about him managing two other major league ball clubs.

The 38-year-old Marion resigned as manager of Chicago White Sox after piloting them to a third-place finish in the American League last season.

One rumor has it Marion and Al Lopez, manager of the second-place Cleveland Indians, went to swap jobs. Lopez was named manager of the White Sox.

Leo Durocher's name popped into the Cleveland picture but he turned it down. Marion was back in front again.

The Cleveland Democrat says it has learned from a reliable source Marion might come back to St. Louis Cardinals with manager Fred Hutchison moving to Cleveland.

Marion, one-time "Mr. Shortstop" of McGrath said on a television show Thursday night: "I don't know anything about it." Greenberg has indicated he'd talk with Marion about the Cleveland job.

"I've talked to Marty briefly once on the phone and I'm going to meet him soon," he said, "but more thoroughly within a short time."

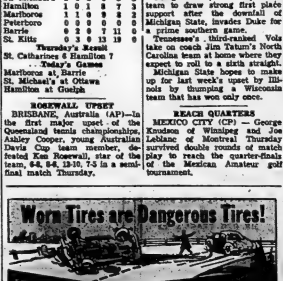
"I'm going to make the rounds and talk to everyone I regard as talented to handle the job. That, of course, includes Earthy Farrell (manager of Indianapolis of the American Association.)"

'Sooners', Tech And Tennessee Favored Teams

NEW YORK (AP)—Oklahoma, Georgia Tech and Tennessee, the 1-3-3 of U.S. college football clubs, are expected to hold tight to their honors through another heavy football weekend.

The String on the top 10 starts tonight at Miami's Orange Bowl where the University of Miami, ranked ninth, segrays in an interesting battle with Florida State. Boston will be the scene of another contest tonight between Boston College and Villanova.

Oklahoma is supposed to bowl over Colorado for its 36th straight in a Saturday game although it will be a fight for the lead in the Big Seven. It will take a Georgia earthquake to derail the No. 1 team.



Georgia Tech, the only other team with a strong first place support after the downfall of Michigan State, invades Duke for a prime southern game.

Tennessee's third-ranked Vols take on coach Jim Tatum's North Carolina team at home where they expect to roll to a sixth straight.

Michigan State hopes to make up for last week's upset by Illinois by thumping a Wisconsin team that has won only once.

BEACH QUARTERS

MEXICO CITY (CP) — George Knudson of Winnipeg and Jim Lebianc of Montreal Thursday survived double rounds of match play to reach the quarter-finals of the Mexican Amateur golf tournament.

The Big Seven

Ted Lindsay of Detroit is still clinging to the lead in the National Hockey League scoring race but two of the loop's top marksmen are closing in on him.

Lindsay picked up his fourth goal of the season and boosted his points total to 12 Thursday as the Red Wings bowed 4-3 to Montreal. But Jean Beliveau fired two goals and picked up an assist to move into a tie with Gordie Howe of the Red Wings for the runner-up spot at 11 points each. Howe had one goal and one assist.

'New' Argonauts Meet Larks Ottawa Needs Thirty Points

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Most valuable player and best rookie chosen, final standings all but decided, the Big Four Union plays out its string of scheduled games Saturday.

Two games are scheduled, but only one can conceivably change playoff positions. In Ottawa the Rough Riders can, by defeating Hamilton Tiger-Cats by 30 points, take over second place and thus open their two-game, semi-final series next week on home ground.

Toronto Argonauts, sporting six new directors and a new general manager who will try to build the team up from last place next year, will be in Montreal to meet the mighty Alouettes.

The final result looks like a foregone conclusion, but Argos, with nothing to lose and a chance to improve their new employers, might lick the Alos who have nothing to gain and have taken some fearful lickings this year, one of them a 57-38 defeat by Toronto.

OFFU UNDECIDED

First place in the Ontario Rugby Football Union senior series is up for grabs Saturday as Toronto Beaches, long last-place finishers, have a chance to end up on top of the heap if they can take Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen at home.

Dutchies now have a two-point edge on Beaches but the Toronto crew have a game in hand. If they beat Dutchies they will tie them for first. They decided Thursday night not to play their final game with last-place Hamilton Lords because it meant little to anyone.

Only four games are left in Senior Intercollegiate play, but each one could be big.

University of Toronto Blues, the league champs this year, are protecting an unbeaten string and first place against McGill Redmen, the league's perennial runners-up, while at London the University of Western Ontario Mustangs, whose 3-8 record matches McGill's, take on Queen's Golden Gaels, beaten only once.

LITTLE HOPE

Rough Riders have next to no chance of making that 30-point margin against Hamilton and will have to be at their peak to win. They haven't beaten Ticats at home for more than three years, and are 1-5 on them this year.

Furthermore, Hamilton rebounded from a 32-14 loss to Alouettes to take the same Als 39-14 last week, sending them to the triumph was broken - arm Tony Curcillo, the quarterback who seems to play best with his left arm in a cast. Hamilton also will be displaying injured halfback Tommy Grant, winner of the rookie award.

Argos have been the Big Four's most in-and-out team this season, a situation which the club's new executive, led by Lew Hayman, the new general manager, hopes to rectify in '57.

Alouettes will field the same smooth, colorful squad that has won its last 21 bonus games, sparked once more by Hal Patterson, the splendid end who was chosen the Big Four's most valuable player.

Larry Sullivan, whom his Redmen will "up" for their game against Toronto.

Shaw took a 15-13 squeaker from Redmen earlier and have improved in every game. If Saturday's game is any indication they should against Western, which had two quarterbacks last week, but two would be tied for first place.

Probe Status Of Cyclist

TORONTO (CP)—A move was under way today to have an official investigation into the amateur status of cyclist Pat Murphy of Delhi, to represent Canada at the Olympic Games in Melbourne this month.

Jack Scambler, president of the British Columbia Cycling Association, said Thursday night that Murphy is a professional and should be lifted from Canada's Olympic team.

Scambler, here for the annual conference of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, has placed the matter before the AAUC and the International Olympic Committee.

Scambler claims Murphy, who works for a cycle company, permits his picture to appear on the firm's advertising and "obviously by Murphy's consent." He also said Murphy has competed in the Tour de St. Laurent bicycle races for the last three years in which he has won prizes of money.

In addition, Scambler said Murphy competed in two professional bike races—in San Francisco in 1952 and in El Paso, Tex., in 1953.

Murphy was not immediately available for comment.

DODGERS WIN, AGAIN

HIROSHIMA, Japan (AP)—Brooklyn Dodgers scored their seventh victory in Japan Thursday when they beat the Kansai all-stars 10-6 on Jim Gentile's three-run homer in the seventh inning. It was Gentile's fifth home run of the tour.

Canada's Track Team Strong But Not Gold Medal Calibre

By CHARLIE BABIN

TORONTO (CP)—Canada's 1956 Olympic track and field team will be one of the strongest to represent this country in international competition, but don't expect a gold medalist.

Although a few Canadians have come up with outstanding performances — by domestic standards—there is little hope that they will offer serious opposition to the world's leading athletes at Melbourne, Nov. 23-Dec. 8 games. Individually, there isn't a potential gold medal winner on the 17-member team, although there's some hope the relay teams will finish in the first six.

The Canadians are expected to show their best times in the 400-metre and 1,600-metre men's relay events. But even here, the experts feel, they will be expected to be a threat for the top two or three finishes.

POOR TRIAL RESULTS

Take a look at the Canadian Olympic trial results in Hamilton, Ont. The standard for Olympic qualification was based on the sixth place performance at the 1952 games at Helsinki. Since then athletes around the world have been consistently smashing the first-place times, heights and distances.

However, in the 400-metre relay Stan Leveseo, Jack Farrington and Dick Harding, all of Toronto, and Joe Forman of Mimico, a suburb of Toronto, have been blocked in 41.3 seconds at best. That is 2.9 secs. slower than the United States and Russian athletes.

The 1,600-metre team—Murray Cockburn of Toronto, Doug Clement of Windsor, Ont., Jacques Montreal and Terry Tobacco of Cumberland, B. C.—has not done as a unit as yet. They are highly rated in Canada on the basis of individual times.

The last time Canada captured an Olympic gold medal in track and field was in the 1932 games, when Dunc McNaughton of Winnipeg won the high jump. In the sprints this year, Canadians have neared world records.

Farrington has recorded a 10.2 for the 100 metres to equal the world record at the Canadian Athletic Exhibition in Toronto this year. Leveseo covered the 200-metre distance in 20.9 seconds, the best time ever recorded and fifth best anywhere in the world.

Whether Farrington and Leveseo can run that fast consistently at Melbourne is not known. They slowed down considerably in later races this year.

BETTERED MANY TIMES

Tobacco and Cockburn are in the same boat. Their best times so far are 47.3 seconds. Nearly 30 runners have bettered that time in other countries.

Alex Oakley of St. John's, Nfld., reached providence when he was the United States national walking championships and Canadian Olympic trials. His time for the 20-kilometre (12½ miles) event in the trials at Toronto was one hour 38 minutes, 21.3 seconds, nearly two minutes under the Olympic standard.

Canadian women athletes have also turned in some good times. Diane Matheson, who learned to run in Moncton, N. B., before moving to Montreal a year ago, has recorded an unofficial 21.9 seconds in the 200 metres. The world record is 23.4, held by Marjorie Jackson of Australia, who also retired.

In the Olympic trials Miss Matheson's times was slow. The best she could do was 24.9.

Jackie MacDonald, a Toronto school teacher and mainstay in the shotput event, is not expected to come to the Olympics either at Melbourne. Jackie's best mark is 46 feet, 1¼ inches. Several athletes have heaved the shot nearly 53 feet.

Jean Beliveau, Montreal, scored two goals and assisted on a third in Montreal's 4-3 victory over Detroit.

Larry Regan, Boston, scored one goal and assisted on two in Boston's 5-2 win over Chicago.

NEARS OBJECTIVE

VANCOUVER (CP)—The University of British Columbia rowing fund Thursday hit $24,837, only 163 short of the $25,000 objective set for sending the Olympic rowing team to Melbourne.

A cheque for $1,000 from the city of Vancouver brought the fund to its high level.

Jackie Parker Top Gainer

REGINA (CP) — Edmonton's Jackie Parker finished with the best average gain in the Western Interprovincial Football Union season.

Official figures released Thursday show that of those who carried more than 75 times the Edmonton quarterback had an average gain of 6.3 yards a sortie on 82 carries.

Saskatchewan's Alex Bravo's 6.2 yard run was the longest of the season, two short of the league record held by Winnipeg's Tom Casey.

Players on the five teams carried the ball 2,966 times for gross yardage of 14,738 yards an a loss of 1,560 yards, leaving a net total of 14,069 for an average carry of 4.74 yards.

Fullback Normie Kwong of Edmonton broke his own gross rushing record with a net gain of 1,437 yards.

Hartack Suffers Eye Injury

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — Jockey Willie Hartack, the nation's number one rider, suffered an eye injury in Thursday's third race at Garden State Park.

Hartack was riding the Calumet Farm's two-year-old Clardys and was just pulling down his goggles when he was hit in the left eye, apparently by a clod of dirt. His right eye immediately began to water and Hartack, momentarily blinded, said he took his mount to the outside. Clardys finished out of the money.

After examination at the track first aid station, Hartack was released but cancelled his remaining mounts as well as those slated for today. He is scheduled to ride Howell E. Jackson's Tick Tock in the $25,000-added Benjamin Franklin Handicap here Saturday.

There was some good luck to the day for Hartack as he picked up his 3292th victory of the season in the second race aboard Grandpa's Sue. It added $1,800 to his phenomenal purse earnings for the year, which have soared to $2,225,736.30, a world record.

Quebec League

Quebec Aces stopped the advance of Chicoutimi Sagueneens in the Quebec Hockey League Thursday night as the leaders turned back the challengers 3-1 at Chicoutimi, increasing their margin to three points.

Montreal Royals and Shawinigan Falls Cataracts maintained their tie for last place with a 2-2 tie at Shawinigan Falls.

AT THE PARK — James Coizen co-stars with Jeff Chandler, Linda Darnell and Cornel Wilde in "Two Flags West" showing at the new Park Theatre today and Saturday. On the same program "My Friend Flicka" in Technicolor. Continuous show Saturday from 1.30.

Yank Trackers Set Two World Marks

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Two new world records were offered for official recognition today and the selections committee of the U.S. Olympic Games track and field team breathed easier after solving a few problems in athletic personnel.

Head coach Jim Kelly was happy after watching his athletes in their final tuneup on home soil before heading for the Games in Australia next week.

The outstanding performances: A shot put—63 feet two inches—by the world king of the event, Parry O'Brien. The official mark is 60 feet, 10 inches.

A mile relay raced by Charley Jenkins, Lon Spurrier, Tom Courtney and Lou Jones that cracked the existing world mark, and the time of the second-place team which also eclipsed the record.

The winning time was 3:07.3. The second team did it in 3:08.1. The existing record is 3:08.8, set in 1952 in London by Gene Cole, J. W. Mashburn, Reggie Pearman and Mal Whitfield.

Canada Gets Stranglehold on Riding Trophy

NEW YORK (AP)—Canada has a stranglehold on the low score competition Challenge Trophy and Ireland has come up with its first victory in the National Horse Show. That leaves Chile as the only country without a triumph in the international jumping competition.

Going into today's finals of the low score competition, Canada has a low total of 18 faults. Chile is in second place with 28, Ireland third with 32, the United States fourth with 48 and Mexico last with 107½.

Douglas Caimey of Toronto kept Canada in front Thursday when his two mounts, Flash Gordon and Second Army, had a combined low aggregate of eight faults over the 16-jump course.

The first Irish victory was scored by Lieut. Patrick J. Kiernan when he won the President of Mexico Trophy with Glencree and Shannon Grove. They were charged with only seven faults.

REPORTS ALIVE

VIENNA (AP) — The reported death of Hungarian soccer star Ferenc Puskas in the Budapest fighting was disclaimed Thursday by Puskas himself.

Arriving here with his team for a tour of matches, Puskas smiled and said "I was at home during the fighting. I only hope everything will be all right now—I'm proud that I can henceforth play for a free Hungarian team."

AAU Chairman Under Fire By Newfie

TORONTO (CP)—The chairman of Canada's Amateur Athletic Union track and field committee was under fire today because he named two athletes to the country's Olympic team without consulting the rest of his committee.

Criticism started Thursday with a formal protest lodged against Fred Rowell's action at the AAU's annual meeting. Newfoundland declared its marathon runner, George Hillier, should be put on the team instead of one of the two Rowell picked.

Since the protest was announced no discussion of the action has taken place in an open meeting, but it was believed to have been talked over at a stormy closed-door session. Observers at the conference said it might go before the general session today or Friday.

In an interview Thursday Rowell explained why he picked high jumper Alice Whitty of Vancouver, though she was below the team standard at trials, and walker Alex Oakley of St. John's and Oshawa, who bettered the standard in the 20,000 metres without consulting the committee.

BELIEVES IN RUMOR

Newfoundland believes Hillier, also a St. John's product, should have been chosen, though he also missed the standard by about one minute and five seconds.

Rowell says he picked the two independently because there was enough time before the start of the marathon and walking trials, Saturday, Sept. 30, and the deadline for naming team members, Tuesday, Oct. 2, to consult the committee.

He said the committee agreed that if none of the walkers or marathoners, who competed a few days after the other track and field athletes, bettered the standard, athletes from other events would be picked to fill out the team.

"And," he added, "Hillier didn't make the standard."

He admitted that Miss Whitty failed to clear the bar at the standard of five feet, three inches during the trials but said she passed that mark before and after.

"She has also beaten the qualifying standard for the high jump finals at the 1956 Olympics—five feet 2¾ inches—seven times this year."

No Politics At Melbourne

MELBOURNE (AP) — There seemed to be an unspoken agreement on all sides not to discuss politics or world affairs today as the athletes moved into the home like atmosphere of the Olympic Village.

More than 300 athletes now are living in the village and more are arriving daily. But seldom the word heard regarding the Middle East and Eastern Europe situations.

Booming Punts Big Factor In Blue Bombers, Sasky Tilt

WINNIPEG (CP)—The booming punts of halfback-end Larry Isbell of Saskatchewan Roughriders could be a deciding factor when the Riders clash with Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Regina Rams twice in the first game of the two-game total-point semi-final of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Isbell, third-year import from Baylor University, has been setting all clubs back with his long punts which averaged about 47 yards during the regular schedule.

Bombers have tried three kickers—quarterbacks Eagle Day and Larry Roseborough and local end Gerry Vincent—with varied success. Vincent looks as though he'll be coach Al Sherman's choice for the semi-final, which winds up in Winnipeg Monday night.

HAVE SPEED ADVANTAGE

Bombers will give away some poundage and experience in the line to Riders but will have an advantage in speed.

A couple of Texas tackles will anchor both offensive forward walls. They are Bombers' Buddy Tinsley and Riders' Martin Ruby, both many-time all-stars since moving to Canada. Teamed with Tinsley will be Herb Gray from the University of Texas, giving Winnipeg a slight edge over Ruby and homebrews Paul Anderson and Bill Clarke.

Bombers also are well-stocked at guard, with Buddy Allister and Calvin Jones, both first-year imports, holding the starting jobs. Opposing them will be veteran campaigner Mario Demarco and place-kicking Reggie Whitehouse.

Four years experience in Canadian football gives import centre Mel Beckett of Riders a slight edge over Winnipeg's George Druxman and Bob Hass. Druxman, a Canadian-born player with American college experience, has been a pleasant surprise to Sherman this year with his hustling play.

Riders have two of the best defensive ends in the WIFU in Gord Stuntzige and Doug Killoh, both Canadians. Bombers will go with Herb Gray, Tom Minor and Cece Luining.

Riders also have one of the best middle guards in Ron Atchison who will get able relief from Ray Syrnyk. Bombers' Steve Patrick is to be backed up by Hess.

To halt the vaunted Rider passing attack, Sherman probably will call on regular defensive backs such as Rowland, Keith Pearce, Dick Miller and Norm Rauhaus. Coach Frank Filchock's Rider defenders will be in Isbell, Stan Williams, Harry Lunn and Ron Adam.

Will Stage Draft Rounds In Philly

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The National Football League will hold the first four rounds of its annual player draft and bonus selection here Nov. 28, commissioner Bert Bell announced Thursday.

Bell said a fifth round of the draft might be held if the 12 member clubs vote unanimously for it. The NFL will hold the balance of the draft—it usually involves 30 rounds—at the league's annual meeting in mid-January.

Also to be discussed at the November meeting will be arrangements for possible ties in the league's two conferences — the Eastern and Western — and plans for the championship game, scheduled for Dec. 30 in the home park of the Eastern champion.

Detroit Lions May Draft Ronnie Knox

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — General manager Nick Kerbawy of Detroit Lions says his club would be interested in drafting quarterback Ronnie Knox and adds that other National Football League clubs probably feel the same way.

Knox' la playing for Calgary in the Western Interprovincial Football Union. He played several games with Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four before going to Calgary.

The NFL preliminary football draft meeting will be held Nov. 22 and Knox's name probably will come up.

"We'll have to find out if he's signed an option that automatically puts him under Canadian contract for 1957," Kerbawy said.

Commissioner Bert Bell of the NFL has ruled that Canadian contracts must be observed.

AT THE PARK — Touchdown Buddy McDowell stars along with Preston Foster and Rita Johnson in "My Friend Flicka," an encore attraction from Twentieth Century-Fox . Filmed in Technicolor, "My Friend Flicka," showing today and Saturday at the new Park Theatre. On the same program "Two Flags West". Continuous show Saturday from 1.30.

Truck Upsets, Monty Walt, 14, Consecon, Killed

CONSECON — Monty Walt, 14, year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Walt of Consecon, was killed Saturday morning when a two-ton truck he was driving left the road and overturned in a creek.

Monty, a first-year student at high school in Belleville, was assisting his father, who draws milk to Consecon. He had driven up the road alone from his home to pick up one can of milk. His father was then going to drive the truck to Consecon. When his son did not return, his father set out to look for him and found his son pinned in the cab of the truck, a short distance from his home. The accident occurred on the road on the north side of Lake Consecon, at a bridge over a creek. The drop from the road is long at this creek and the truck was lying on its back.

Monty was born and raised in this district and his death came as a great shock to his many friends. Besides his parents, he leaves to mourn his loss one sister, Beverley, aged 11.

Provincial Police from Picton investigated.

Toronto Boy, 14 Fires 3 Shots, Killing Mother

TORONTO (CP)—A 14-year-old boy walked into a police station to surrender Friday night just after his father, Sandor Szabo, had driven to say the mother was shot dead.

The boy was charged with being a delinquent in that he did "shoot and kill" his mother, Mrs. Albert Wiess, 35. Police said she was shot three times in the act of reading in the living room of her suburban North York bungalow.

The death from a .22 caliber rifle, were fired from the hallway and living room by another person. The body, covered by a blanket, was found by her husband when he returned from taking his youngest son, 11, for a haircut.

Mr. Wiess telephoned police from suburban Weston and they notified police headquarters. The body, described as a good high school student, had run away from home for five weeks ago and was found two weeks later working in Detroit. He had been in hospital here with an undiagnosed sickness until three days ago.

Today's Chuckle

"When I was your age," said the grizzled veteran of the early warring for $3 a week is a store, and the end of five years I owned the store."

Nephew: Yeah, but you can't do that now, there's no got cash registers."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: Freezing temperatures, snow and strong winds are spreading over the western plains of the United States, as a slow-moving weather disturbance moves northeast from Nebraska to North Dakota.

In southern Ontario and the above-normal temperatures prevail throughout Ontario. A continuation of the weather situation of the last two days is expected for Sunday.

VIENNA (Reuters) — Hungary was cut off from the outside world by Soviet armor today, and Budapest stayed sealed with Russian steel, as fresh fighting was reported between Hungarian insurgents and Soviet troops.

Ronald Farquhar, Reuters correspondent in Budapest, said the Russian mechanized troops, which had been pouring into Hungary through the night, might seal off Budapest for some months.

He quoted Western observers as saying Russian troops would probably remain in Hungary in force to strengthen their hand while negotiations went on about terms for their eventual withdrawal.

Radio Kepr, one of the Insurgent broadcasting stations, reported clashes in Budapest. Soviet tanks and armored equipment continued to pour into Hungary during the night and were moving westward.

In Budapest, Russian and Hungarian tanks exchanged fire. Soviet tanks and guns surrounded the uranium mines at Pecs, but Hungarian troops there were digging in in defensive positions, the radio said.

TANKS HEAD WEST

Reports reaching Vienna said 170 Soviet tanks and armored troop carriers had left Gyor, to which they were withdrawn three days ago, and headed west, occupying all roads leading to Austria in the frontier area.

The reports said the Hungarians were not alarmed at first because the Soviet troops had taken some of their wives and children with them on the "get ride." An Australian Red Cross man was quoted as saying the Russians were stopping everyone on the roads.

Gyoer itself, the industrial town which was the headquarters of the revolutionary National Council, was reported completely encircled, rounded by Soviet tanks with their guns pointed at the town.

The Russian fortification took place while a mixed commission of Hungarian government and Soviet representatives in Budapest were reported discussing the withdrawal of Russian troops from Hungary.

The Hungarian nationalist insurgent escaping to the Austrian border town of Hegyeshalom said Russian tanks were blocking even the smallest side roads leading to the frontier crossing.

Budapest radio Friday night broadcast appeals for workers that Russia was moving heavy troop reinforcements into Hungary, and that Budapest was encircled.

The radio said the Hungarian government had ordered Hungarian army tanks to take up "security positions in the city and its approaches" to counter the Russian troop moves.

Seven Canadians Make Their Escape From Strife-Torn Hungary to Vienna

TORONTO (CP) — Seven Canadian citizens have made their way out of strife-ridden Hungary to Vienna after a sealed border delayed their departure.

The Canadian Press staff carried a recorded interview of one of the Canadians, Stephen Gyarmati. They said to be in good condition in Vienna and plan to head for Canada as soon as passports can be obtained.

The seven were identified as Mr. and Mrs. Michael Nadas of Brantford; Mrs. Mary Kuchs of Hamilton; last said Miss Ez. Kerecsen of Montreal; Josef Bandi of St. Catharines; and Mrs. P. Mrazik of Montreal.

Hill Boss, Canadian Press reporter who flew to Vienna with an RCAF plane filled with Red Cross supplies, Friday afternoon that reported the Canadians stopped at the border. He said the sealing of the frontier also had stalled the Canadian medical aid for Hungary.

(Boss said eight Canadian citizens were trying to make their way to Canada through Austria. The CBC report mentioned only seven.

(Boss also reported that five Ontario residents of Hungarian origin were in Budapest and can't get out trying to reach Budapest. They were Mate Ferenc of Oshawa, with his wife, Magda, and their 17 year-old daughter, Helen along with Andy Dalanchi, Delhi tobacco farm worker, and Nicholas Mazjus, also of Oshawa.

(Also in Vienna, Boss reported, was Joseph Toth of Hamilton, who got out of Budapest Tuesday after having spent five days in the Hungarian capital.

BRITAIN, FRANCE READY TO LAND TROOPS IN EGYPT

Iraq Troops in Jordan As War's Spread Feared

LONDON (CP) — Britain and France said today that their "police action" in Egypt would go on, but they conditionally offered to demilitarize when a United Nations force should be ready to take over.

In effect, they endorsed the Canadian proposal put forward in the UN General Assembly Thursday night by External Affairs Minister Pearson. And Prime Minister Eden, making the announcement in the House of Commons, said the British government the statement had been communicated to Ottawa, as well as to the United States and the UN secretary-general.

At Paris, the French forces were poised for ground occupation of the Suez Canal zone. Paris said that until a UN force is ready to take over, the Egypt must agree to accept immediately limited detachments of Anglo-French troops to keep order between them.

Egypt and Israel must also agree to accept the UN troops, the prime minister said.

NEW MENACE

As Eden spoke, a new menace was reported in the crisis area. The Iraqi government, which up to this week's outbreak had been a staunch ally of Britain in the pro-Western Bagdidad pact, officially announced that its troops were going into Jordan.

Earlier, the Israeli radio had reported that fresh Arab forces pledged to answer any call for aid from Egypt's President Nasser, were moving into Jordan from Iraq and Syria.

Iraq's Royal Guard in Jordan, the kingdom bordering Israel on the east, said fighting might break out "at any hour" between Israel "within 48 hours, if not sooner." Israel's eastern border has been quiet during the five years of truce.

Gyoer itself, the industrial town which was the headquarters of the revolutionary National Council, was reported completely encircled, rounded by Soviet tanks with their guns pointed at the town.

The Russian fortification took place while a mixed commission of Hungarian government and Soviet representatives in Budapest were reported discussing the withdrawal of Russian troops from Hungary.

'Hopes for All' Say Rescuers As Draegermen Finally Reach Men Entombed Since Thursday

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP) — Seven of the trapped Springhill coal miners came to the surface as news of an amazing rescue spread with the speed of lightning through this Nova Scotia coal town today.

There were reports that at least 60 of 113 missing men—and perhaps all—were safe.

The director of rescue operations, Harold Gordon, broke the news of the first rescues a few minutes before noon AST 11 a.m. EST.

A call went out for all available men to enter the mine and help the injured to the surface.

He told reporters standing in the crowd at the pithead:

"I can tell you officially that there are two men alive and on the way to the surface."

The announcement began to grow rapidly. Cars carrying relatives of the missing began pouring into the mine property.

Some draegermen reaching the surface said there was hope "hoped for all."

Car horns began blowing and the crowd shouted with joy.

A few minutes later reports of a third man being found alive were received.

One of the rescued was Charles Burton. He was able to walk to the surface.

Others coming out were Vivian Ward and Lorne Dakin.

They were said to have been found below the 2,200-foot level.

Cars sped from the pithead to the streets of the town to spread the good news.

A woman stopped a reporter running from the pithead and shouted: "He told her some men had been found alive.

"Thank God," she cried. "I hope it's true."

At 12:05 p.m. AST a fourth miner was reported found. He was said to be Charles Burton.

At 12:12 p.m. AST a fifth man was reported safe. His name was given as Murray Tertis.

An unconfirmed report from a member of a rescue squad at the pithead was that "at least 40 men" were coming up the damaged shaft to the surface "on their own."

There was no cheering at the pithead as the men came through the mine portal. But the town was a noisy bedlam.

Soldiers began pushing stretchers into the pit as fast as they could. Tertis was reported to be "in bad shape."

An ambulance pulled away from the mine entrance carrying at least one injured man.

Some of those coming up said they thought as many as 60 men were alive.

The rescue point very close to the pithead where the miners were being brought to the surface. anxious relatives broke through police lines and rushed close to the entrance.

Others climbed telephone poles and other vantage points.

Two other men reported saved were Johnny Nicholson and Grant Ward.

This brought the total named rescued to seven.

A boy watching at the edge of the crowd said: "I haven't seen so many happy faces in this town in my life. Stonefaces have become unknown now."

Western Powers Will Back Hungary's Avowed Neutrality

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) The Western powers worked today to force a Security Council proposal that would support Hungary's avowed neutrality and bolster its demand for withdrawal of Soviet troops.

They hoped to finish a resolution in time to submit it to a third urgent council session on the Hungarian crisis at 3 p.m. today, 4 p.m. est.

Although a Soviet veto was considered certain, a Security Council deadlock would permit transferring the debate to the General Assembly where the veto does not prevail. The assembly has been in emergency session on the Middle East crisis since Monday.

SEEKS SECOND APPEAL

Hungarian Premier Imre Nagy, in his second UN appeal in two days, asked the council Saturday to order immediate negotiations for withdrawal of Russian troops from Hungary. He asked the UN to call upon the great powers to recognize Hungary's neutrality.

Nagy's second message was delivered to the council by Soviet delegate Arkady A. Sobolev as council debate over the Hungarian crisis moved into its fourth day with emotions at fever pitch between Hungarian, United States, Britain and France.

U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge called on the council to consider what it could be done to assist the brave Hungarian people in their struggle for freedom.

The council rejected a Russian attempt to block debate on the Hungarian issue. Only the Soviet Union voted against placing the question on the agenda.

Soviet Ambassador Arkady A. Sobolev accused the three Western powers of attempting to throw up a smoke screen to divert attention from British-French military action in Egypt. He said he was "alarmed" that the U.S. would join such a move.

SAYS UNFOUNDED

Sobolev called the report of increased Soviet troop movements in Hungary and the premier's statements "completely unfounded." He accused "Fascist" elements in countries west of Hungary of fanning counter-revolutionary hostilities with arms and other aid.

Two Are Killed Near Kingston

KINGSTON (CP)—Two persons were killed Friday in a three-car accident on Highway 2 about a four miles east of Kingston. Two others were severely injured.

Dead are Rev. Herbert Malcolm, 75, of Ballieboro, a retired United Church of Canada minister, and his wife, 68.

Injured are Mrs. Christie Crosley of Gananoque and Port Hope and Harry Morfitt of Little Current, a Manitoulin Island pulp cutter.

Mrs. Crosley of Port Hope, driver of one of the cars, said the accident occurred when one car, attempting to pass another, was struck by a third car, also attempting to pass. The car driven by Mr. Malcolm went into the ditch and struck a hydro pole.

Hospital officials said Mrs. Crosley and Mr. Morfitt both suffered probable fractured skulls, lacerations and undetermined injuries.

ISRAELIS STATE ADVANCE BETTER THAN EXPECTED

Egyptians Offering Little Opposition

TEL AVIV (Reuters) — Israel said today that her troops have captured the town of Atur, about 150 miles south of Suez on the western edge of the Sinai desert.

Officials announcement of this southward thrust followed the Israeli claim to have completely occupied the Sinai Peninsula.

The announcement added that the advance was "going even better than planned," with Israeli troops meeting opposition from the Egyptian Air Force.

The claims here, however, was hotly contradicted by reports that Syrian troops were pouring into Jordan.

A authoritative Israeli source said it was believed that the Syrian troop movement into Jordan was carried out under the orders of Gen. Abdel Hakim Amer, commander-in-chief of the Egyptian armed forces.

PLAN NEW MOVE

The source said the move was apparently made under a plan to strike at Israel's narrow "waist" at the Qalqilya-Hathaya sector. At this point Israel is only seven miles wide from the Jordan border to the Mediterranean.

The town of Gaza, occupied by Egyptian troops, was on the day the state of Israel was created was surrendered Friday by its Egyptian commander. The surrender document was a few rods scribbled with a ball-point pen on a page torn from a pupil's notebook.

Ayre Wallenstein, Reuters correspondent with the troops who captured Gaza, said groups of khaki clad prisoners looked frightened as they were marched away from the town by Israeli soldiers.

He saw one Israeli company standing, faces turned toward Jerusalem in the east, in a solemn Sabbath-eve prayer.

A symbolical act of incorporation had also been made when CBC television cameras Sunday to outline the government's position on Israel's invasion of Egypt. UN Cease-Fire Call Rejected In Present Form

Will Stop Military Action If UN Police Force Formed

LONDON (CP) — Prime Minister Eden told the House of Commons today that Britain has informed the United Nations that she will willingly stop military action in Egypt if the UN will put in a force—as suggested by Canada—to keep peace between Egypt and Israel.

He made the disclosure as he rejected the UN cease-fire call in the form it was voted on early Friday.

Eden indicated that France was taking the same position, and a few minutes later in Paris the French government said it was joining Britain in the stand.

He told a divided House in what was regarded in advance as one of the most momentous statements of his career that a condition of his offer was that both Egypt and Israel should agree—to accept a UN force to keep the peace.

SHOULD AGREE

Another condition was that until the UN force was constituted, both Israel and Egypt should agree to accept forthwith limited detachments of Anglo-French troops to be stationed between the combatants.

The prime minister said he had been in consultation with the governments of Australia and New Zealand, and "I have good reason to believe that these governments will welcome my statement."

Substance of the statement had also been communicated to Canada, the United States and the UN secretary-general.

Eden spoke at the first Saturday session of the House of Commons since 1945. It was an emergency session to hear his reply to the UN general assembly's cease-fire resolution.

A roar of protest went up from the Labor benches when the prime minister finished speaking.

Labor party leader Hugh Gaitskell rose to his feet at once and charged:

". . . The government is 'defying a resolution of the United Nations General Assembly and by their action they have brought us perilously near to war. They are other resolution carried by that assembly before.

SAYS ACTION WRONG

He saw one Israeli company standing, faces turned toward Jerusalem in the east, in a solemn Sabbath-eve prayer.

Best Moose-Hunting Year Since War Says Supervisor of Wild Life Division

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The telephone in a Northern Ontario frontis hotel rings . . . the plant operators groan in unison.

"Not another," wails one. The other nods his head sadly.

For, like many frontis food locker operators in Ontario they are wondering where they are going to store all the moose meat if hunters deliver more.

Douglas Clarke, supervisor of the department's wild life division.

Although most figures won't be available until the end of the season, the lands and forests department says it has issued 14,000 hunting licenses already this year. It adds that all may not have been sold. Last year 9,000 licenses were issued.

Dr. Clarke says that because of a general closure in 1943 and partial closures since, the moose population—17,000 at the end of the war—has steadily increased. It was 40,641 in 1954 and 43,800 in 1955.

Last year, 2,867 moose were killed, a record number.

Lands Minister Mapledoram of Ontario said recently moose population is increasing faster than predicted the season extended.

Hunting season opens Oct. 1 in the North, Oct. 13 in Central Ontario and Oct. 15 in Bush and Elk Lake area, but closes generally Nov. 15.

South of the French River nonresident hunting isn't allowed, nor is it allowed at Sudbury, Sturgeon and the Lakehead.

Dr. Clarke says the reason this year offers more time, a larger open area and more moose. There are no longer a closed season and non-resident hunters were getting a better deal.

Truck Owners' Strike May Make 100,000 Idle

TORONTO (CP)—A strike of independent trucking operators spreading through Southern Ontario threatens to halt at least $300,000,000 worth of construction work and put more than 100,000 workers out of jobs.

Ontario's $230,000,000 highway construction program is involved, along with the 75,000 workers engaged in building the new subway network. Workers on a $180,000,000 Metropolitan Toronto construction program are faced with mass layoffs.

Metropolitan Toronto Council and the city and 12 adjacent municipalities sharing common public works.

A full report on the far-reaching consequences of the strike is not available. Estimates became unmanagement and the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (CLC) say they can not keep up with fast-moving developments.

VIOLENCE REPORTED

Scattered incidents of violence have been reported. Some companies have accused the Teamsters Union of behaving like thugs and of using Chicago tactics.

Union officials deny the charges. Jack Buchanan, Teamster organizer, said Friday: "We are new to the union movement...We are doing everything possible to see that they are acquainted with the law."

The trouble, forced last week, when a small group of independent truckers hauling sand and gravel in Toronto's Malton airport walked off the job.

Then on a 48 hour for a three-yard truck or its equivalent in tons, with an added 25 cents a ton penalty for overloads. Others paid on a mileage basis want 30 cents a ton an hauling of up to five miles and eight cents a ton extra on hauls of five to 10 miles. For every five miles over 10-mile trip the rate would be increased by one cent. Overloads on trucks would be four cents for each mile over 30 miles.

REFERENDUM INCREASE

The new rates represent an increase of about 1½ cents a ton-mile.

The strikers approached Local 230 of the Teamsters Union and joined it. Since then the strike has spread. More than 1,200 independent truckers have joined the union and every sand and gravel pit within a 60-mile radius of Toronto has been closed.

The independent truckers do not come under the Labor Relations Act and cannot be charged with striking illegally.

MAYOR TO SPEAK ON "TOWN CRIER"

Her Worship, Mayor Jane Forrester will be the speaker on the Town Crier Sunday Afternoon at 12:40, a public service feature sponsored by the radio station. The Mayor will speak on the many subjects before the council at the present time and also outline some projects that are in the formative stage. There are still a few more chairmen to give an outline and duties of their department but in the hands of writer, however, all this activity comes to a sudden stop and hundreds of erstwhile gardeners who may have been tramping five miles a day on the golf course, dashing around the tennis courts at a terrific clip or churning the waters with hopes of supplanting Marilyn Bell suddenly quit these activities, for a scattered handful will carry on with a bit of bowling, curling or skating but the majority will go into athletic hibernation during which time they will be the walks they will take between their cars and offices, and the accidental period of all office sitting and television gazing. Probably the most unfortunate athlete of that vital edge or stamina necessary to the success of the majority of sportspeople of the country is the golf addict who exercises they enjoy in the summer.

One of the best forms of exercise during the winter for both the sick at home and ill people is the more casual participation in sports.

The great advantage of badminton is that it can be played at any time of the year by players at almost any age. Children and grandparents can generally find similar levels of skill and performance with the fun, relaxation and exactly they are seeking from the game.

Younger, more advanced, and competitive players will also find that local and inter-City competitions will call on all their skill and stamina.

One of the unaccountable factors which prevents more people from taking up badminton is the fact that outdoor play in badminton is an easy game for old ladies.

The ironical part of this illusion is that only about one out of a hundred golfers who are looked on in this opinion would have the natural stamina necessary to play badminton successfully in singles competition, which is rated by those who know as one of the most strenuous of all sports.

Belleville has many people who want to keep in shape, enjoy good healthy exercise or test their skill against others. Provided with existing such excellent facilities as are available at the Garrison Badminton Club which welcomes new members.

Badminton Is Popular Game In Belleville

One of the reasons the majority of adult Canadians prefer summer to winter is that they lead a much more active life. It's brought out the summer months taking part in many forms of exercise such as swimming, rowing, paddling baseball, tennis, golf and gardening which keep them on the bit mentally and physically.

Ailing Toys To Be Repaired By Volunteers

The call for Christmas toys for needy children in the city and immediate district went out today as a volunteer organization will stand trial for the August 27 shooting of Ellsworth Jerome Roy Rogers.

Kenneth G. M. Ross of Belleville is defending Brough and Stuart Ryan is representing White. Crown Attorney Harry Deyman of Cobourg is prosecuting and Magistrate R. H. Baxter of Port Hope is presiding over the argument.

The "bend is urgent," stated Mr. Fred Shell Oil Company, who offered its co-operation by making donations of toys and other kiddies' playthings which, with the addition of a little labor and a spot of paint there, could make many kiddy happy who otherwise might be forgotten by Santa Claus.

With Mr. Cooper and city firemen combining repair efforts this year, Fire Shell Oil Company has offered its co-operation by making donations of toys and other kiddies' playthings which, with the addition of a little labor and a spot of paint there, could make many kiddy happy who otherwise might be forgotten by Santa Claus.

Dr. J.R. Guthridge Announces Community Chest's Objective For Campaign Set at $35,000

This year the Belleville Community Chest Campaign has set its target for $35,000. Official announcement of this was made yesterday by Dr. J. R. Guthridge, chairman of the 1956 campaign in Belleville.

Seven local agencies are participating in the campaign this year, one more than last year. To benefit from donations are the Victorian Order of Nurses, Children's Aid Society, Boy Scouts, St. John Ambulance, Girl Guides Leagues, Young Men's Christian Association, and the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society. All of these organizations operate for the good of Belleville and district residents on a non-profit basis. Money is required in order that these agencies may be able to carry on with their work.

V.O.N. SERVICES VARIED

The Victorian Order of Nurses here in Belleville provides home-nursing, bedside care which assists men, women and children in time of personal health and happiness. After hospitalization, medical care. Although the V.O.N. is a nursing organization, nursing care its purpose is to make part-time visits to the homes of sick people.

Not only does the V.O.N. care for the sick at home but it provides special classes for expectant mothers so that they will know how to care for their babies. Nurses will also visit and help with the Well Baby and countless other services offered by the V.O.N.

Each year the Belleville branch of the V.O.N. made 4,854 visits. Financial payment was made for 1,484 visits and no payment for 2,267, it is plain to see why the Order needs the generous assistance of everyone in Belleville.

PROTECTIVE CHILDREN AID

The Children's Aid Society was designed for the purpose of caring for neglected children, mentally neglected children, children with personality disorders and distressing behavior problems. The society caters to children of all ages regardless of colour, nationality or religion. Every child tended by the Society receives individual attention and is given the best of care in many cases his parents are hopelessly deprived him of it. This organization needs the support of every individual.

There are about 1,000 Cubs, Scouts, Rovers and Leaders in Belleville. These boys and young men are highly trained to act in the event of tragedy or emergency. In addition to the many camp activities they conduct tree-planting operations for the Provincial Conservation program. All local leaders serve on a voluntary basis. That it doesn't take more than a glance to see how urgently money is needed by these groups.

TRAINED IN FIRST AID

In August Belleville held its annual fair. One of the features on the grounds contained a unit of the St. John Ambulance Brigade. These men are highly trained in first aid and home nursing. Each year the active members in the Belleville brigade are required to pass an examination to maintain their proficiency.

The St. John Ambulance Brigade does not confine its work to giving first aid at fairs and other gatherings. It also makes emergency home nursing visits. Last year the local brigade rendered over 2,000 hours of voluntary public service and trained over 200 men, women and children in artificial respiration.

Last year the Belleville YMCA registered 1,769 members. Gross attendance at the building totalled 49,943. Sixty-one different community groups used the YMCA 286 times with an attendance of 8,381 at meetings and recreational activities. No "Y" member of any community group is asked to pay the full share of costs of maintaining the local YMCA, but they are all asked to help meet the operating expenses. Each group's group is accepted at the YMCA regardless of ability to pay. The "Y" never asks questions regarding race, color or creed. Anyone can enjoy the many benefits of the YMCA regardless of faith.

The Belleville branch of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society was established on February 3, 1953, and since then has operated a mobile physiotherapy clinic in charge of a qualified technician, to provide home-treatment services for those who are afflicted with all types of arthritis, cerebral palsy, poliomyelitis and other crippling diseases.

MADE 900 VISITS

Although not yet two years old, the local Society in its first year of operation made 900 visits to 98 patients, 734 visits to rheumatic patients and 236 to non-rheumatic patients. So great is the need in this area for mobile units that a second vehicle and physiotherapist have been added.

In the first eight months of 1956 the Belleville society made 1,121 home visits. Patients make a small payment at each visit of the clinic, but only if they are in a financial position to do so. Society costs exceed the amounts collected. Therefore it is essential that they receive financial assistance from outside sources.

None of the main activities of the Belleville Navy League is to sponsor both Sea and Navy League Cadets. In Belleville there are 150 cadets ranging in age from 12 to 19 years. They are receive training in basic seamanship, leadership, citizenship and athletics. Each year a number of these cadets, enlist in the Royal Canadian Navy.

The Navy League was formed here this fall and it is quite obvious that it needs financial assistance to keep up the training of Belleville's young men.

CLUB CONDUCTS CANVASS

The Rotary Club here undertakes the canvass of Belleville industry and special names; the Kiwanis Club will canvass professional and small businesses; the Lions Club will canvass the professional, the Business and Professional Women's Club, Kinsmen Club, Scroptomists, Y's Men's Club and the Catholic Women's League will conduct the door-to-house blitz.

Remember the objective of $35,000 can be realized only by your wholehearted support.

CORRECTION ASSOCIATION

MONTREAL (CP) — About 300 Canadian delegates are expected to attend a convention of the Criminal Corrections Association to be held here May 27-29. Board May Buy Awning to Cover Stands at Fair

There is a possibility that the International Rowing Match will be sponsored by Hastings and Prince Edward Counties in the fall of 1956 following a discussion of this important matter at a regular meeting of the Fair Board held at Shire on Thursday evening. The meeting was called by the president, Dr. J. Russell Scott, and the secretary, Mr. Ross Hall.

It was decided to hold a banquet for the officers, directors and their guests about the same time as it was held last year and James Cowan and Fred Wilson were appointed a committee to make arrangements for the event. Directors women's organizations will again supply the dinner and good entertainment will be provided. The banquet will likely be held on December 12th.

William Reid, in charge of the horse show at the fair, will be a delegate to the Provincial Exhibitions association to be held in Toronto on November 13th. He was instructed to report that all rentals secured either by the Fair Board or the Parks Board will be used to pay for the beautification of the grounds. This money will be derived from horsemen using the barns during the winter months.

PAVING IS COMPLETED

Patrons of the grandstand next year will not have to sit out in the boiling rain during the Thursday program. A letter will be sent to the Town Council asking that they be asked to secure prices for an awning to be extended from the present roof to the grand stand. This will be a most welcome action on the part of the Board.

Many of the officers and directors are interested in the fair in the nearby communities and some useful hints and suggestions will be incorporated into the fair in this city. It was decided to have a beef exhibit in the live stock section and also showing how beef is cut into the various cuts of meat. The directors report the fair board in a good financial position and all were agreed that improvements could be added to make the fair even better. Miss Dora Wilson, the efficient secretary, was asked to secure prices for a couple of buildings and report back to the board.

He was a veteran of the last war, going to England in 1941 with the 4th Light Anti-Aircraft. He was invalided in June 1944 and received his discharge in 1946.

E. Taylor Statten Dies Suddenly at Huntsville

HUNTSVILLE — E. Taylor Statten, 74, who for 30 years operated boys' and girls' camps in Muskoka Park and became known as Canada's Mr. Camper, died here last night.

His wife said he had not been ill and had returned from one of his camps to his cottage here earlier in the day.

Mr. Statten and his staff were host to more than 10,000 children at his two camps in Algonquin Park during the 30 years he was operator.

He began his camping activities in 1905, when he took a dozen boys "on a gypsy trip from Toronto to Hamilton."

He once said he believed the world-famous camp was the answer to the "destructive and delinquent tendencies" evident in youth today.

Born at Erindale, Mr. Statten started his career in 1900 as boys' work secretary at Toronto's Central YMCA. He became chairman of the YMCA's Canadian "Y" boys' work committee which had its headquarters in Geneva.

He developed the Canadian standard efficiency tests for boys, which later became the Tuxis boys and Trail Rangers program of the National Boys' Work Board.

During the First World War he was director of Soldiers of the Soil for the Canada Food Board.

After his retirement in 1945 he found time to train young leaders for the well-known summer camps he began for boys and Taconamakoon for girls.

His early career took him to 53 camps in the course of his work far away as India, where he established a camp in Madras for underprivileged children.

He leaves his wife; a daughter, Mrs. Harry Elms, Montreal, and two sons, Dr. Taylor Statten of Montreal and Dr. Page Statten of Toronto.

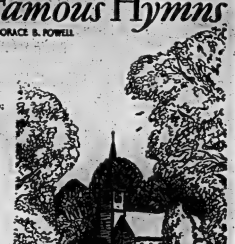
Stories of Famous Hymns



by HORACE B. POWELL

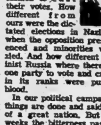
I WOULD BE TRUE

I would be true,
For there are those who trust me;
I would be pure,
For there are those who care;
I would be strong,
For there is much to suffer;
I would be brave,
For there is much to dare.
I would be humble,
For there is much to do,
And laugh, and love, and lift.
I would look up,
And laugh, and love, and lift.

I would be friend
Of all, the foe, the friendless;
I would be giving,
And forget the gift;
I would be humble,
For I know my weakness;
I would look up,
And laugh, and love, and lift.

Here is a hymn which long has been a favorite with Christians of all ages, but few of those who sing it are aware that it was written in Japan.

Howard Walter, its author, had no idea that he was creating a hymn when he penned his stanzas in a rather casual attempt to put some of the principles of his own life into verse. He called his poem "My Creed".



It was after he had been graduated in turn from two American theological seminaries, at Princeton and Hartford, that Mr. Walter decided to go to Japan. He felt that a period of Christian work abroad would be helpful and he spent a year at Waseda University in Tokyo. It was here that he wrote his verses.

The young American became very popular with the Japanese students and made many friends during his year among them. Later, he decided to devote his life to Christian work in the Orient and he served for many years in India and China, as well as in Japan.

A Lift for Living

Gentleness in Gianthood

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

On Tuesday next the citizens of the U.S. will again exercise the right of choosing their chief executive. There is something inspiring in the sight of millions of people going to the polls in orderly, sober fashion to cast their votes. How different from ours were the dictated elections in Nazi Germany when the opposition press was silenced and minorities were muzzled. And how different from Stalinist Russia where there was only one party to vote and critics within its ranks were purged with blood.

In our political campaigns some things are done and said unworthy of a great nation. But in a few weeks the bitterness passes away, men go about their business and the country carries on. Whatever our party preferences, we ought to count God for the privilege of living in a land which still believes in settling its political issues by ballots rather than by bullets.

What the result of this immediate election will be, we do not presume to predict. But looking further ahead, we make bold to place our bets on certain winners. In doing so, we are guided not by the straw votes of any current polls, but by the wisdom of One who knew life more realistically than any other person before or since His day. That Galilean figure, looking into the hearts of men and also at the horizons of history, made this prediction: "Blessed are the meek, for they shall inherit the earth."

Such an assertion would make the election bettors of our day smile in derision. To say that the meek will be the ultimate rulers of America and of the earth seems about the most impractical and preposterous statement which could be made. So absurd appears the idea of meekness as the road to victory that a magazine some years ago, in a spirit of irony, offered a framed copy of this third Beatitude to any meek man who made good. Yet despite all the betting odds against the meek, the Master declared that they would be the world's ultimate rulers.

In considering this claim, let us try to be clear as to what the Master meant by the word "meek." So many misconceptions cluster about the term. To some people, the word suggests a servile manner, the outward manifestation of an inferiority complex.

But such a concept does not fit the only two persons mentioned in the Bible as being meek. One of these was Moses, the mighty leader who delivered his people from Egyptian bondage. Moses was a man of strong convictions, but he kept himself in hand by putting himself in God's hands.

The other person to whom the Bible applies the work meek was Jesus himself. And no other character has ever appeared on earth with force comparable to His.

The Hebrew origin of the word meek suggests, "being molded." The meek are the God-molded, the divinely tempered persons. Meekness is not lack of spirit, or weakness, or timidity. It is power under such control that it becomes gentle.

The ball in the china shop smashing the beautiful objects of art has strength—the strength of a ball. The bully in the crowd elbowing his way to the front and bowling over his weaker brethren has strength—the strength of a bully. But the God-molded man who holds his strength in restraint and his temper under control—he has the strength of true meekness.

CONTROLLED STRENGTH

And strength thus controlled is the kind that conquers. Where now are the blustering bullies like Mussolini and Hitler and Stalin? But men like Washington, whose hot temper was brought under godly control, still live, beloved of the people.

Second thoughts should remind us that it takes strength in order to be gentle. In Walter Scott's "Ivanhoe," the dwarf who attended the Knight at the tournament tried to lift the bleeding sufferer. The dwarf's weakness made him stumble and caused the Knight intense pain. But when the giant of the strong arm came, he lifted the wounded Knight and without a jar bore him away to a place of healing and recovery.

The world's condition calls for the greatest strength of our leaders and our nation. But let us remember there is gentleness in gianthood. The meek have it, and that is why "they shall inherit the earth."

Most-Bathed Baby on Earth

UNESCO

Probably the most soaped and scrubbed baby in the Eastern Hemisphere is one-year-old Nathaniel, who is playing a star part in an educational campaign in Liberia.

Given a highly personal role in the practical instruction of women, as a helper to young Wilhelmina ("Mo") Bryant, director of women's education at Liberia's National Fundamental Education Centre at Kiay, Nathaniel is a specialist. His speciality is having baths. He sits in his tub, he lies down, he stands up — with much assistance from strong hands — happily accepting the soap and water, oil and talcum powder applied by Miss Bryant.

Future mothers, as well as today's mothers, profit from this instruction in baby care. Young girls always find it amusing to watch a baby get a bath, and those who visit the centre with their parents like to see Nathaniel dipped and rubbed.

Nathaniel illustrates one of the principles of fundamental instruction, proclaimed in posters distributed by the Joint Unesco - Liberian Education Project (JULEP) — "Bathe Baby Every Day." He shows that a bath makes baby feel good and seems to be good for baby's health, for he is lively and robust.

Nathaniel and his many baths represent just one small operation among the innumerable activities in women's education directed by Miss Bryant at the Centre. However, he is to her a major personal interest. She recently adopted him because he was homeless, and he now dwells in her quarters at the Centre.

Teller Asked Bandits' Aid

Investment Dealers' Digest

A couple of bank robbers hit a small country institution one lazy afternoon when the staff was small, and herded everybody except one teller into the vault at gunpoint. The one man lay on his back on the floor of a cashier's cage, his arms bound and a gag keeping him from making enough noise to give an alarm.

Suddenly the captive began to groan, at the same time gesturing with his head to make it evident he wanted to speak to the robbers. Finishing stuffing the greenbacks into bags they carried, the marauders leaned over the helpless figure on the floor.

"Give a guy a break, fellows, will you?" he begged. "Take the books along with you. I'm

Whose Color Bar Removed

Christian Science Monitor

If the solid resistance of cities of the Deep South to desegregation is notable, so also is the success with which the border cities, previously segregated, have adapted their public schools to the new order of things.

Louisville, with its Alabama-reared superintendent and its policy of freely grabbing transfer requests, has been much in the news. The success of St. Louis, another border city, has been no less solid and of longer duration.

St. Louis' race relations background is much the same as that of Baltimore, Washington, and Louisville. It lies in what once was slave-holding territory. It has had law-required segregation in public schools, parks, and playgrounds, and legally tolerated segregation in theatres and restaurants. Its Negro population has increased both numerically and proportionately.

In some ways teacher integration has been a tougher problem generally than has pupil desegregation. For it involves placing Negro teachers over white youngsters and Negro administrators over white subordinates. Pupils remain simply pupils together in the classrooms. Yet when St. Louis' two municipal teachers' colleges were merged it was possible to make the head of the Negro institution, who was the senior, a supervisor of instruction for the city's whole system. And Negro teachers are teaching rooms full of white children. No serious and few minor incidents have thus far marred this two-year record of fundamental change.

To what should this accomplishment be credited? To community preparation, for one thing, through extraordinary co-operation by civic and religious groups. To freely granting transfers, as in Louisville. To a step-by-step procedure well publicized in advance — first the teachers' colleges, then the high schools, then the grade schools. And, finally, to the resulting ability of the teaching staff and, apparently, the community to view school problems without always seeking some racial significance.

The Face on the Stamp

Composer Who Addressed God

By NICHOLAS MIKA

Almost one hundred and fifty years passed after the death the greatest composer who ever lived until his music found its echo in the heart of the world. He was buried in Leipzig in Germany where he worked most of his life and where he composed his immortal Passion of St. Matthew and gave us many organ cantatas that will live forever. There was no pomp or ceremony at his funeral. He died almost unknown and his grave was scarcely marked.

When the world celebrated the two hundredth anniversary of his death a few years ago, he was not only proclaimed the giant of musicians but also the father of a new kind of music that for the first time was filled with the richness of melody and variation which we enjoy till today. On this anniversary his name and music rang throughout the churches of the world from North to South, from Siberia to the coast of Africa.

His music is solemn and joyful, magnificent and tender. It cannot be compared with that of any other composer. It is like a rock rising in the midst of playful moody waves of melodies that come and go. He wrote his music to the glory of God and his favorite instrument was the organ. He was a master of unforgettable melodies as well as a master of superb technic. To play his compositions it takes a gifted musician and there are only a handful in the entire world who are considered perfect in the performance of the master's music.

RAISED BY BROTHER

He was born in Eisenach in North Germany where his ancestors had been musicians before him. When he was nine years old his mother died and a year later he lost his father. He would have been raised in an orphanage had his elder brother not taken care of him. He not only raised him but guided him into the traditional musical career of the family.

The youngster was treated well but had to follow strict rules. He was forbidden to touch any books in the house without permission, especially the works on music of past composers. When he found a way to open the book case where these books were locked up, he took one volume of music he liked and copied it by moonlight night after night secretly for six months.

It was a hard task but he was so proud of his achievement that he kept his handwritten copy for the rest of his life among his treasured possessions. The organ lessons he received and the few hours of practice every day did not satisfy his heart. Whenever the church was empty and the doors unlocked he stole to the choir loft and practised on the organ until his small fingers were numb. Once he wandered a whole day by foot only to listen to a few minutes to a celebrated organist. Later, when he had mastered the organ himself he played it with the passion of a genius and did not notice that the church congregation could barely follow the melody of the hymn. Although they recognized his talent they fired him as an organist because of the confusion he caused when he played in church on Sunday morning weaving new tunes and joyful variations into the monotonous melody of the chorale.

The world knows him best as the greatest organist, but he is also famous as a great composer for violin and cello. He wrote sonatas, masses, passions and cantatas in such a tremendous volume that they could easily represent the life work of several composers. Perhaps he was forced to create so rapidly to support his large family. He was married twice and had twenty children, half of whom died when they were small. Although he never knew extreme poverty, he did not live in abundance either. He happily played with his children, taught them to sing and even found time to write a piano book for his wife.

He served as organist in various places and courts and when he finally was accepted in Leipzig as the cantor of the famous St. Thomas Church, it was only reluctantly because the man whom the board originally had chosen as the most outstanding organist refused the position. When they welcomed the new cantor who stayed for twenty-seven years, they were unaware that never before and never after, the organ in the Church of St. Thomas would be played by a greater master.

Towards the end of his life he became blind. But the darkness could not silence his music. His son-in-law wrote down the music for him. He never complained and only to please his wife he consented to an operation which failed. While suffering almost unbearable pain, he pulled himself together and for the last time sat down at the organ to play his immortal chorals "Before Thy Throne Oh Lord With This I Come. . ."

Thus ended the life of the greatest organ composer of all times, Johann Sebastian Bach.

Johann Sebastian Bach appeared on German Stamps in 1950.

Quinte Young Timers Enjoy Party

One of the liveliest junior recreational groups in the city is the Quinte Young Timers.

There is good qualification for the statement. For the Young Timers are a band of square-dancing enthusiasts.

Formed three years ago, the group once more is getting into full swing for another year.

One of the highlights of the season so far, was staged recently by the group at Queen Elizabeth Public School when the Young Timers romped through a Hallowe'en party.

Over 300 attended the masquerade, participating in dances, Hallowe'en games and finally a parade, which resulted in prizes for the best costumes.

In all, the Young Timers have a membership between 300 and 400—between 11 and 15 years of age.

It is active all through the school year, from September to June, and meets each Friday night at Queen Elizabeth School. Here the beginners learn the fundamentals of square-dancing, while the more accomplished spend the evening tripping expertly through many a hoe-down.

However, square-dancing is just one of the items on the group's schedule.

Other events include parties to mark festive occasions at different times throughout the year. The Hallowe'en party, is only one of many similar events planned by the group.

The Quinte Young Timers are sponsored by the city recreation committee.

Women's H. Aux. Coffee Shop Re-Opens

That the coffee shop, conducted by the Women's Hospital Auxiliary, at the Belleville General Hospital, is meeting a definite need was amply manifested last week when Mayor Forrester officially opened the new shop. Mrs. Forrester pointed out the new premises were the same ones used by the auxiliary in 1905.

Immediately on many months in plans for the completion of the auxiliary's coffee shop, Mrs. Ted Rose and Miss Mi Pearl reiterated the value of the shop to the staff and to visitors. In its new location in the main hall on the ground floor it is convenient to all. Indeed, so attractive are the furnishings and decorations that it would be difficult to pass by this room. What quiet and cheer it will afford to those visitors to the hospital may well be imagined.

Mrs. W. H. Finkle welcomed the visitors at the "opening", naming the 25 members of the hostess committee who had assisted in accomplishing this event. Mrs. J. Gordon Madden, president, Miss I. Dickens, Mrs. C. Dusenberry and Mrs. R. H. Hall.

Mrs. Finkle thanked Mrs. R. W. Smith and Miss Mildred Mitchell who had supervised the decorations, and Mrs. Dusenberry for making the cakes. She also expressed her gratitude to several members of the hospital personnel including Miss Connell, Mr. Beal and Mr. Rose. A beautiful bouquet of fall flowers had been sent for the occasion by Mr. Lee Grills, also lovely flowers from Quinte Barbers, Templers and Wellers. A lovely mirror was the gift of Mrs. F. W. Hubbs and the lovely and attractive mural was the work and donation of Miss Leona Higgs. This was completed with a frame made and given by Mr. R. E. Vaughan.

Mrs. Finkle announced, with pleasure, that Mrs. Madden is again with the group and has agreed to take full responsibility. The shop, which is for the convenience of visitors of patients in our hospital, she continued, will operate from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. every day except Sunday.

Mrs. J. Bennett Smith, the auxiliary president, added words of welcome as she traced the development of the shop in its former quarters to its present delightful setting.

This and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

Today's column marks T & T's first birthday. We will be one year old on Nov. 6 and our bi-weekly visit has been pleasant, so pleasant that the year has passed on wings. When we introduced ourselves we wrote in the first column — "This is going to be your column and your response will be 'That' — which sounds. To make the column yours — This' is our challenge — and 'That' will be your comments. This invites that — so when we are over our introductions and the column matured to its niche in your Ontario Intelligencer, we want you to write us with your suggestions, your advice, your criticisms when deserved and your encouragement when merited."

It is the nature of men and women to reaffirm themselves on anniversaries so T & T takes this opportunity to reaffirm itself. We hope that we are still growing and maturing. We are grateful for the many letters, telephone calls and conversations, that have been of help from many sources and we thank everyone who offered helpful suggestions and constructive criticisms. There have been encouraging comments too and T&T solicits your continued interest.

In our original introduction, we wrote "This & That will be a column for women but since it is an unwritten custom for women to be of interest to men, we assure you that "This & That" is neither meant nor intended to be exclusive. The world of women and that of men are our beat." And the number of men interested in the world of women has been proven by the many males who have told us they read the column. One gentleman has been diligent and more than once has offered a suggestion for improvement.

Another of our reader's interests our first year could not have been more pleasant and encouraging. Again, thank you.

Oscar Wilde was not too impressed with anniversaries and although his advice sounds a little cynical, he helps us to keep our feet on the ground. "Most modern calendars mar the sweet simplicity of our lives by reminding us that each day that passes is the anniversary of some perfectly uninteresting event.

T & T heeds Wilde's advice for our weekend thought and we will take a holiday by being brief. However, before October 31 is left too far behind may we be permitted a few reflections after the event of Hallowe'en?

We wonder if a return of the old name of All Hallow's Eve would help bring back the spirit of the festival. The emergence of witches, goose and the like on this one night used to give a fine feeling of pleasurable excitement to all and in the young, especially, evoked a spirit of wonder.

"The spirit of wonder" was the title of a fine address given in Belleville a few years ago by Dr. Ditts of Toronto. He urged teachers and parents to foster this spirit of wonder through poetry, imaginative prose and the imagery of words.

Now we wonder where we have gone wrong, that the spirit has been lost in the shuffle. It seems that the wonder is an entirely different nature than the past few years. Would it not be a good thing to go back to All Hallow's Eve?

Director of National Ballet Ardent Fan of 'Rocket' Richard

TORONTO (CP) — When the National Ballet Company leaves next week on the sixth annual tour of Rocket" Richard will be tucked away among the 2½ baggage cars of costumes and scenery.

Artistic director Celia Franca, the ballet's founder, says Mr. Richard is to her perspective.

"Immersed for many months in plans for the company's largest tour yet, Miss Franca says she believes that if a person gets too involved in any one thing she can lose her sense of values.

ACTIVITY RELIEF

Every phase of this season's 37-week tour of 50 Canadian and U.S. cities, to open Monday in Hamilton, will have the elfin-faced director's touch. To the company the tour will be a reward for weeks of gruelling rehearsals. But to Miss Franca it will be something of an anti-climax.

Although she is to dance in eight of the 16 ballets to be presented she has already summoned a variety of problems. She has drawn up a program which she believes will satisfy all tastes. It includes classical, dramatic, comedy, jazz and Spanish dance.

She has reviewed invitations from theatre managers to decide whether their facilities are adequate for ballet keeping in mind the size of the stage and dressing rooms. She cannot tour profitably if there is too much travelling between performances.

She has conferred with costume, scenery and stage department and with the orchestra conductor. The train schedule had to be drawn up. Many other details fall to her often in the early hours of the morning.

Meanwhile there were rehearsals from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

When the tour takes off it will be not unlike a mass migration for the company. The 27 dancers and 23 orchestra members will be accompanied by nearly 800 costumes, 3,000 pounds of electrical equipment including 11,000 feet of electrical cable, 300 pieces of scenery, 30 backdrops, 200 pairs of pointe shoes as well as numerous "character" shoes and soft slippers and musical instruments.

Nor can Miss Franca look forward to an end to worries once the tour's begun. There may be difficulty moving scenery and equipment — the trains may be late — a vigilant eye must be kept on the welfare of the younger dancers.

To keep her head level on her shoulders Miss Franca says she needs a refreshing diversion.

"I can't get too involved and keep my sense of values," she said in an interview. "We've got to realize there are others as well as cards doing good work, including the Rocket."

A fan of all hockey but not of all players—she reserves her admiration only for those who excel—Miss Franca gets a special bit of inspiration from the inscription on the Rocket's photograph.

It says "to Celia Franca—the go-getter of the National Ballet."

WATTS—LOFT

All Saints' Anglican church, Tyendinaga, was the setting on Saturday, October 27, at 2.00 p.m. for a pretty autumn wedding when Evelyn Irene Loft of Shannonville, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred J. P. Loft, became the bride of Robert Ernest Watts, of Shannonville, eldest son of Mr. Vernon Watts. The Rev. Walter Smith, rector of the church, officiated in the double-ring ceremony, before a lovely background of pink and white chrysanthemums, and gladioli, interspersed with ferns. White satin bows marked the guest pews.

Traditional wedding music was provided by the church organist, Mr. Thomas Brant, who also accompanied the choir in their rendition of "The Voice that Breathed O'er Eden," and Miss Shirley Fisher of Foxboro, who sang "Because," during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Alfred J. Loft, the bride was charming in her white slipper satin, bridal gown, fashioned on princess lines by ballerina length with double bolero line, turning a Sabrina neckline. Her fingertip veil of white illusion was held by a coronet of white satin, and she carried a white Bible crested with red roses and streamers knotted with rosebuds. White satin shoes with matching satin pumps completed her ensemble.

She was attended by Miss Ethel Hill of Belleville, as maid of honour, wearing a floor length taffeta and net over taffeta in ballerina length, with matching bandeau, and long gloves. She carried a nosegay of pink and white carnations.

Her senior bridesmaid, Miss Isabel Whetung of Peterborough, a cousin, was gowned in powder blue Chantilly lace and net over taffeta with matching bandeau, shoes and mitts. She carried a nosegay of white 'mums entwined with blue ribbons.

The junior bridesmaid, Miss Judith Whetung of Peterborough, also a cousin of the bride wore mint green Chantilly lace and net over taffeta with matching bandeau dress and accessories and carried a nosegay of white 'mums entwined with green ribbons.

Little Linda Loft of Deseronto, niece of the bride was demure and sweet as flower girl in a frock of yellow taffeta with matching bonnet and shoes, and nosegay of bronze 'mums, entwined with yellow ribbons.

Master Larry Rupert of Frankford, was ring bearer.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Allan Boorsma of Shannonville, and the ushers were Mr. Frank Keeler of Kingston, and Mr. Joseph Whetung, of Buffalo, New York.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held in the Tyendinaga Mohawk Institute, Tyendinaga, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion with hanging baskets of glowing autumn leaves, and pink, white and blue streamers which above the bride's table two white wedding bells cascaded over and the two wedding cakes in an Indian tradition, one for the bride, and one for her bridegroom. Silver vases candelabra with tall white candles, roses and lilies-of-the-valley and bridal bouquets completed a lovely arrangement.

Receiving with the bridegroom was the bride's mother, Mrs. Alfred J. Loft, gowned in navy blue with pink accessories and corsage of pink roses.

For the wedding trip to Eastern Ontario, and northern New York, the bride donned a blue wool ensemble with corsage of pink carnations. The young couple will reside with their home in Belleville, upon their return.

Guests were present from Buffalo, N.Y.; Watertown, N.Y.; Toronto, Kingston, Peterborough, Stoney Lake, Port Hope, Marysville, Belleville, Trenton, Frankford, Napanee, Northport, Alderville, Deseronto and Shannonville.

Showers honoring the bride were held previous to her marriage: a kitchen shower given by the girls of the Christ's Church, of which the bride is an employee, at the home of Mrs. Carolyn Adams, Belleville, and a linen shower at the home of Miss Joyce Craig, Belleville. One of the girls of her class, last year, of C12A of Belleville Collegiate and Vocational school, all of whom were present for the occasion.

Christ Church C.C. Sponsors Hard-Time Party

It was a hard-time party at the Contact Club, Christ Church, on Monday evening when the members entertained their husbands.

President Catherine Roulet welcomed the guests, who included Archdeacon C. B. Creeggan and Mrs. Creeggan, Rev. R. Smith and Mrs. Smith.

The program was directed by Evelyn Clarke and her group and everyone agreed the evening had been a success.

A guessing game had everyone thinking and was won by Mr. and Mrs. Settle.

Following this was a musical "get acquainted dance," directed by Mr. Fred Page, who also instructed in the square dancing.

All had to demonstrate their skill, the singles partner boards on one foot with their hands behind their backs and Mr. Taylor's group proved expert.

Square dancing alternated with round dancing and Mr. Page did a grand job of teaching the art of square dancing. It was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone.

There were two spot dances and these were won by Mr. and Mrs. Taylor and Mr. and Mrs. Don McCormick.

HALLOWE'EN TOUCH

A Hallowe'en touch was added in the form of a ghost, the thirteenth person to shake hands with the ghost was the winner, and Mrs. E. Smith was the fortunate person. The ghost incognito was Mr. Huson.

As everyone enjoyed the hall they were handed a number. These were used to find your lunch partner and your box lunch.

At this time president Catherine Roulet welcomed the husbands and thanked Evelyn Clarke and her group for a successful evening. Mr. Fletch replied and presented the wives on behalf of the husbands for the wonderful evening.

Win Taylor, who is moving to Kingston, was presented with a purse and saucer. Win will be sincerely missed by the members of Contact Club and is wished the best of luck in her new home.

Foreign Sports Cars Common in California

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

Sacramento, Calif. — There is little to distinguish Art Mendel of Kentfield, Calif., from other personable young men except for the fact that he owns a 1958 Lancia roadster.

There is little to distinguish that statement, either, unless you happen to know what a Lancia roadster is. If you tired out here you probably would.

It's a tiny, two-seater Italian-made convertible equipped with white side-wall tires, a radio, and nothing else General Motors would design to list as an accessory. In a pinch you could almost park it in the trunk of a Cadillac.

What makes it, and Art, distinguish is that the car costs several hundred dollars more than a Cadillac equipped with every last accessory Motor's boys ever thought of, including air conditioning.

STEAM-CLEANED

Art Mendel, we discovered, is just one of heaven-only-know how many sports car enthusiasts in this country. Most of them seem to live in California, and most of them in California's northern section. They converge on this beautiful and sunny old city this weekend for a sports car show and races. Art, like most a shower rather than a racer, had his car steam-cleaned for the show, missing first prize because there was grease on his tie rod end.

"Doesn't every car have grease on its tie rod end?" we asked, being a hardknuckled child of the Detroit-made hardtop, with its grease-and-coated jungle of bars, springs and frame members.

Art was very patient. "Let me show you," he said, like a toleration doctor talking to a lay person. He lifted the hood of the car.

Everything visible in the engine had been painted, thoroughly steam-cleaned but waxed as well. He gave us a showroom ever looked like this yet, he assured us, his had run 10,000 miles.

"Now run your hand under the body," he suggested. We reached for a handkerchief with the other hand, prepared for a fistful of mud.

We couldn't even raise a speck of dust. The undercarriage, Art assured us, was as clean and smooth as the body and engine—except for that darned grease on the tie rod.

The parking lot of our motel, as well as most of Sacramento this weekend, burned gaily with exotically named—and priced—Ferraris, Triumphs, Jaguars and even a dazzling $8,000 Mercedes-Benz. Most of the owners happened to be young and fairly well-off men and women. The sports, hot-rodding set of the Ivy League set sporting chino slacks and button-down shirts instead of long fisherman's and black leather jackets. They all seemed to be enjoying themselves immensely.

Sports cars, Art explained, are not just another means of getting places. In fact, they aren't a very practical means of getting places.

"The first time I ever rode in one I swore I wouldn't own one even if I had to walk every place," he said. "My back ached for days."

Napanee, Ontario, on Wednesday afternoon, October 31.

Following the ceremony, the newly wedded couple left by motor on a trip to Eastern Canada. Upon their return they will reside at Bayside, Ontario.

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HER JUDGMENT NOW MAY BE NO MORE SOUND THAN BEFORE

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I've fallen in love with a girl 21 years old who has been married for a year and a half to 23. She has a little girl three months old.

Her parents were very much opposed to her marriage because they didn't feel that the fellow she married was a man of good character. He didn't seem to have the right ideas about a lot of things, and their whole background was quite different. However, this girl believed that once they were married, and he had his own home, he'd settle down and make her a good husband.

Now she's found out different. It wasn't long after they were married that her husband started drinking, and has made her very unhappy. She says that she still love him and that she should have listened to her parents in the beginning.

I've been urging her to get a divorce and marry me. I have a good job, and can take care of both herself and her child, and I'm entitled to do so.

Don't you think I'm right in urging her to get a divorce, and do you think we're wrong in seeking each other often now?—Peter H.

Dear Peter: To answer your second question first, it certainly is neither right nor wise to carry on a close friendship with another man's wife. You and this girl are skating on very thin ice and under such circumstances, the right thing is very likely to be the thing that is safe and practical at the same time.

If this young woman's husband were to discover the friendship between you, it would almost certainly precipitate a very ugly situation. The fact that the husband is a drinker would make it even more serious, since he might become actually dangerous if he knew another man was seeing his wife and trying to persuade her to leave him.

You've told this girl that you want to marry her and make a home for her and her child. Now leave her alone to make her own decision.

As to whether or not she should divorce her husband at the present time, I'd have to know a lot more about both herself and her husband before I'd care to make any definite statement on that point.

There may be factors in the case that you don't know—which the girl herself may not be aware of—and which, expertly analyzed, might be capable of an adjustment that would lead to stabilizing the marriage. Under the right guidance, drinkers are often helped to conquer their weakness you know, and if this girl will only love her girl wants to leave her husband, I think she might well wait awhile and give him a chance to work it over via a talk with a marriage counsellor.

After all, having married against her parents' judgment, she obviously thought her own judgment was better than theirs. Then she found out it wasn't. Perhaps the present feeling that she should get a divorce and immediately remarry is no better than that earlier judgment.

SOFTENING TOUCH

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

The pouffed hipline is the latest device for adding a softened, fuller look to fashion's slim line. It is featured in this attractive and most useful dress, the fabric, black silk faille, another favorite. Ideal for small evening or cocktail parties, the frock makes a point of a wide, square neckline and draped shoulder sleeves. The fitted bodice fastens with self buttons. The back of the skirt is straight but the front is pegged with more fullness through the hips than the pey skirts of other years.

Favorite Fabric

By ALICE ALDEN

Corduroy, velvety, downy, done in beautiful colors, is having a whale of a season, whether it be fine, medium or wide wale. The fashion brings high fashion dividends for modest investment in a suit of three parts that leads a double life when worn as separates.

An interesting texture, alternating thick and thin wales, makes the slim skirt and box jacket, which is trimmed with triple rows of silvery buttons, an avant garde costume. The reversible print blouse, in colors keyed to the suit, matches the jacket lining for a perfect ensemble. The suit comes in taupe, loden green and wine and there are matching corduroy bags.

Religion in American Life

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

The month of November — Each November the national Committee, American businessmen will earn a full month of concentrated promotion aimed at the increase of church attendance in America. Under the leadership of the committee, American businessmen gill make Sunday without charge more than $6 million worth of national advertising facilities. Throughout the month every modern medium of comunnication—TV, radio, newspaper, magazines and billboard—will h o l d before American families the commitment, let's slogan:

"Build a stronger, richer life
Worship together every week."

B.I.A.L., as the program is now called, is neither a layment's activity, not officially connected with any church or religious body. Its purpose is "to strengthen the forces of religion in personal, community and national life," when the committe helleves can best be accomplished "by urging every American to attend regularly the church or synagogue of his choice."

ROME'S GREATEST CHURCH

Friday, Nov. 9 — Today Roman Catholics commemorate the dedication of their most important church, the Archbasilica of the Most Holy Savior, commonly known as St. John's Lateran, in Rome. This is the church where the pope's throne is kept. It is, to Roman Catholics, the cathedral of the world, senior in dignity even to St. Petre's. Carved on the facade of this church are the words: "The mother and head of all churches of the city and of the world." Not surprising then there should be special religious rites on the dedication day of such an edifice.

A basilica is simply a church. Originally the word applied to a certain type of secular building—an oblong hall, rounded at one end or both, where public assemblies were held.

NO CHURCHES

It is hard to imagine now, but for the first two centuries of the Christian era there was no such thing as a church building. Services were held in people's homes.

By the beginning of the fourth century, however, they began to set special buildings apart for use as places of worship. In the early part of the fourth century the massive Constantinian family named Lateranl came into the hands of the Emperor Constantine, and he passed it on to the Christians. For a thousand years this palace served as the residence of popes.

But the important thing about the home of the Lateran family is that the great hall around which it was built became a church and that church, with a baptistry added and dedicated to St. John the Baptist, became the most ancient St. John's Lateran, the number one church of Roman Catholicism.

THE SYNAGOGUE

Just as the early Christians did not have churches, it is also true that the early Jews did not have synagogues. The earliest Jewish places specifically set apart for religious use are apparently an evolutionary process in all religions.

In the primitive times when the Jews were wandering for 40 years in the wilderness, they carried with them a large tent, which they set up wherever they camped. In front of it was an altar and the sacred Ark, in which were kept the two tablets of stone on which the Ten Commandments were written. It was a place of worship, but there was no permanent abode about it.

In this tent, too, the people used to come for instructions, asking questions of Moses, their leader, and listening to his teachings about God.

When they reached the Promised Land and settled down as farmers, it was no longer possible for them to come together in one place for worship. They were spread all over too much territory. Wherever the Ark was, there was the chief sanctuary of the land, but it was not long before every rural neighborhood had its "certain place." These high places, however, were not synagogues. They were more like the pagan shrines of the people whose country the Jews had taken over. The Israelite authorities did not like them and did all they could to abolish them.

BEGAN DURING EXILE

The synagogue as we know it today in fact began about during the 70 years when the Jews were in exile in Babylon, in the land of their foes. There, in their happy captives, homesick and grieving, used to gather in the homes of their leaders on the Sabbath and on their special festival days. Nobody could keep them more natural.

And it was only natural that in these informal meetings the people should read the Scriptures and pray together, and that the more learned among them should comment on the Bible readings or preach informally. And since no ritual sacrifice was permitted anywhere except in Jerusalem, these ritual sacrifice was permitted anywhere except in Jerusalem, these ritual sacrifice was permitted anywhere except in Jerusalem, these

British Foreign Bible Society Re-elects Officers

STIRLING — The annual meeting of the British and Foreign Bible Society was held on Monday evening in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Stirling, with the pastor, the Rev. W. H. V. Walker, in charge.

The Bible lesson was read by the Rev. H. C. Secker, of St. John's Anglican Church. The Rev. W. G. Fletcher of Rawdon United circuit offered the prayers.

The Rev. C. R. Rudd, Toronto, presented an interesting film entitled, "Doors of the Word." This gave a graphic outline of a Korean scholar and his wife, who hid the Hankul Manuscript in a pickle jar, and buried it in a friend's garden until hostilities ceased. In 1953 the task of publishing the Hankul Bible was achieved through the courage and obedience of the Korean scholar's wife. It was a challenging film of sacrifice and an other film of greater interest is promised for 1957.

It was decided to hold a joint service in this area next June.

The officers re-elected were: president, Arnold Wannamaker; secretary, Jean Williams and treasurer, George Carlisle.

Stiffer Laws To Stop Water Pollution Asked

TORONTO, Oct. (CP) — Stiffer legal controls on pollution of waters are being asked of the Ontario government.

The Southwestern Ontario water resources committee said here Thursday that the government should be instructed to remedy conditions which should be given legal powers to control pollution in streams, rivers and lakes. More than 100 members attended the second annual conference.

As enacted now, the commission has no powers to control pollution and the only avenues are for municipalities or other complainants to go to the courts and seek injunctions.

It is only logical, said secretary Gavin Henderson of the Conservation Council of Ontario, that water resources commission should have broad legal powers because its primary job is to ensure adequate water supplies.

The committee's chairman, Hamilton city western Ontario will have to work together to solve problems and the government should start considering a "master plan" for water resources development and of water rights.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

AHUNTING WE WILL GO!

Next week marks the great preparations for the annual deerslayers convention. The sprawling north woods will be the goal of the great trek. And on Monday, November 12, the first shots will echo through the timberlands.

Years ago, Billy the Kid, Jesse James, the Daltons, the Youngers and their ilk, shot first and asked questions later. So did some other folks when the safety of the community depended on immediate and effective action against prowlers. It has no application today and especially not by hunters.

Hunting is one of Canada's largest participant outdoor sports. Hundreds of thousands of men and women from every walk of life enjoy healthful recreation from the days afield on the annual hunt. For some of them this pastime will be spoiled by the irresponsible gun-toter who will do as much damage as the "neutral-shot."

"Sound-shots" are those fired at sounds made by some unidentified person or animal moving in the woods. It seems incredible that anyone would be so careless or show such disregard for human life as to shoot at something he cannot see, let alone recognize. Let it happens every fall and, sometimes with fatal results.

It has been said that you cannot legislate brains into anyone. But sportsmen can, by example and word of caution to their fellow hunters, eliminate the few who would give this fine sport a terrifically bad name.

True sportsmen respect the right of others to enjoy their sport in safety. They respect the right of the property owner, his fences, his buildings, his livestock and crops. They obey the game laws and, most important, they accept responsibility for their actions.

TREAT every gun with the respect due a loaded gun. CARRY only empty guns, taken down or with the action open, into your automobile, camp and home. ALWAYS be sure that the barrel and action are clear of obstructions. ALWAYS point your gun that you would not want the direction of the muzzle. BE sure of your target before you pull the trigger. NEVER point a gun at anything you do not intend to shoot. NEVER keep your gun unloaded and loaded. NEVER climb a tree or cross a fence with a loaded gun. NEVER shoot at a flat, hard surface or at the surface of water. DON'T mix gunpowder with alcohol.

Jack Sanders should remember that closed seasons and bag limits are not imposed to spoil hunting but to ensure good shooting sport. The good hunter will not permit wounded game to suffer. He will track down crippled animals or birds and bring them to bag. And he will respect the rights of landowner on whose land he wishes to shoot. He will command respect by showing respect.

Just how much is not more than delicious venison chops and roasts from your skill, don't throw the hide away, then it, or have it tanned and get yourself some buckskin moccasins, a belt, a vest or a coat. Or if you are a fly-fisher you may even make some bucktail streamer flies.

If you are too busy to tan the hide yourself a commercial firm will oblige. But for the do-it-yourself clan the Lands and Forests Department offers the following information.

Salt the hide if it must be stored for any length of time. About one pound of salt per pound of hide is sufficient and should be rubbed into the flesh side.

Now, you're all set for the tanning business. Soak the hide in clean water until it is soft. Shake five pounds of lime into each gallon of water. Stir well and soak for two days. The hide should be soaked in this solution until the hair can be removed. This process may take eight to ten days.

After the hide is scraped off, rack the hide again in the lime solution until the thin layer of skin on the hair side can be stripped off. Then immerse the hide in one gallon of vinegar and 25 gallons of water. Stretch it. Careful smashing of the hide in this bidet now with green hardwood will give the color effect and softness you want — also give it a permanent smoky smell to bring back memories of your hunt.

Bob Turnbull of the Globe and Mail suggests hardwood sticks five or six feet long be stuck in the ground and the tops lashed together. You then drape the hide over the framework, making a small teepee. Open spaces left must be covered with canvas or some heavy cloth to retain the smoke. You build a small smudge fire inside the teepee using hardwood chips and pieces of punk.

Smoke until the hide turns a light brown and when one side has reached the desired color turn it over and smoke the other side.

Ottawa Woos Frank Clair With Three-Year Contract

OTTAWA (CP) — Rough Rider coach Frank Clair, who in less than one football season has won over Ottawa's loyalist heart, is being wooed with a three-year contract by the Ottawa Football Club.

But the amiable Frank is playing hard to get. It isn't considered likely that he'll make a decision before the close of the Big Four season.

The professor, as the bespectacled and quiet - spoken coach sometimes is called, may have reasoned that if the Ottawa club is happy to keep him now, how much happier would it be if his team beats Hamilton in the semi-finals and goes into the league finals against Montreal."

And, though few Ottawans dare admit such a hope, what if the Rough Riders end up in the Grey Cup game?

Rough Rider General Manager James F. McCaffrey has said Clair "might be in line for a raise." His salary now is reported at $12,000. He got a $1,000 bonus for making the playoffs.

Clair, tall and slim, is 39. Despite his easygoing manner, he reflected in the drawl he retains from an Ohio childhood, he is strict with his players and little escapes his eye.

He moved to Ottawa after being signed - to a two-year contract at the last minute. He has whipped a crew of mostly unknown players into a smoothly operating machine. The team has spirit. The players respect their coach and do their best for him.

Clair has made good his objective, stated at the the start of the season, to take Ottawa into the play-offs. It is the first time Rough Riders have done this since 1951, when they went all the way to win the Grey Cup, defeating Saskatchewan Roughriders.

The Ottawa club was on the verge folding at the end of the 1955 season. The year attendance records at Lansdowne Park have been broken twice and the club is back in the black.

Frank played end at Ohio State before going to war at Washington with the National Football League. He began coaching with an army team in Europe during the Second World War. Later he was an assistant coach at Ohio and Purdue before becoming head coach at University of Buffalo.

After two years there he moved to Canada in 1950 to coach Toronto Argonauts. In his first year his team won the Grey Cup. They did it again in 1952.

Clair's tenure at Toronto ended after the 1954 season. He moved back to the U.S. as assistant coach at Cincinnati University for two years. Then came the offer from Ottawa.

Toronto Is League Surprise With Early Scoring Power; Clubs Tied for Loop Lead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A year has made a great difference in the National Hockey League fortunes of Detroit Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs.

After eight games last season, the Wings had six points. Leafs, after nine engagements, had seven. Now, at an identical stop in the schedule, they are tied for first place, each with 12 points.

Leafs, with the youngest club in the big league has surprised everybody with a fine early showing of scoring power. And nobody has found a sure-fire way of winning games. In their first nine games, Toronto has scored 30 and counted for only 14 goals. They have nearly doubled that this year with 27.

GOALS NEAR EQUAL

Wings are only five goals ahead of last year's production, so that hardly explains their fast getaway. Are they finding the competition easier?

"I think the competition this year is much tougher," says Wings coach Jimmy Skinner. "Every team seems to have improved. That we're getting a few breaks we didn't get at the start of last season.

"Actually, a year ago I think we were playing better hockey than we now are. Everybody was going for the 'key hitting puck' points or one of your younger players moved up to help them and the other team would pick up the puck and score. We've been luckier this year."

PREP FOR GAME

It was in Toronto Friday that Skinner prepared for tonight's game against Leafs. In another game tonight, the last-place Chicago Black Hawks meet the Canadiens in Montreal.

Leafs and Wings have met twice this season. Detroit grabbed a 4-1 victory in the first game and was held to a 3-3 tie in the second. That loss to Detroit has been the only setback for Leafs.

Skinner also said the goaltending of Glenn Hall has been a big help to Wings.

"Hall has won three games for us this year. Chicago, Toronto and Boston should probably win in Detroit, but Hall was too good."

ESKIMO ATTENDANCE UP

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos drew a record 138,342 persons to Clarke Stadium during their eight Western Interprovincial Football Union games, the club announced Friday. The total is more than 11,000 higher than the 1955 figure.

Patterson Will Sit Out Today's Game

MONTREAL (CP)—Coach Doug Walker of the Montreal Alouettes Friday night decided star end Hal Patterson would sit out today's Big Four game against Toronto Argonauts.

Patterson was pronounced fit to play Thursday but Walker apparently decided not to risk a new ankle injury.

The Alouettes have clinched first place and the only thing at stake in today's game was the club's 21 - game home winning streak.

—Patterson also missed a chance to boost his record total of pass receptions. He caught 88 this season, leaving him record of 94 set by teammate Red O'Quinn last year. Twenty-six of Patterson's catches were for touchdowns, three less than the record held by Al Pfeifer of Toronto.

Unbeaten Lions Meet Frisco

NEW YORK (AP) — Detroit Lions, only undefeated team in the National Football League, put their four-game winning streak on the line Sunday against the San Francisco 49ers as the professional attractions highlight the first half of the 1956 season.

The Detroit Lions are listed Chicago Bears face the Los Angeles Rams in the Coliseum, Cleveland Browns move to Milwaukee to play Green Bay, New York Giants travel to Pittsburgh to meet the Steelers and Chicago Cardinals take on Philadelphia Eagles at Connibigs Park.

A fourth - period field goal by Bobby Layne gave the Lions a 20-17 triumph in their first meeting with San Francisco earlier this season. The 49ers were will have the advantage of their home field this time.

The Bears, trailing the Lions by one game in the Western conference in the Eastern conference, the Cards and Giants are tied at four victories and one defeat apiece.

Whitby Gets Ted O'Connor

TORONTO (CP)—An executive meeting of the Ontario Hockey Association Friday ordered the release of defenceman Ted O'Connor from Windsor Bulldogs of the OHA Senior A Western division to Whitby Dunlops of the Senior A Eastern division.

O'Connor will go to Dunlops upon payment of $1,000 to the Windsor club.

The 26-year-old defenceman has played two seasons with Windsor but this year wanted to remain near his Oshawa home where he is employed. Dunlops offered Windsor $1,000 for his contract, and after agreeing once to the price, Bulldogs later asked for $1,250.

Whitby protested to the OHA that Windsor's move was unethical.

Two Members Olympic Track Team Named Winners of National Awards

TORONTO (CP)—Two members addition of Alice Whitty of Vancouver to the Canadian team, but not the method used by Rowell in picking her.

In answer to an official Newfoundland branch complaint that marathon trial winner Gerard Hillier of St. John's had been left off the team, Rowell offered to make Hillier No. 1 alternate. The session asked Rowell to conduct a telegraphic poll of the national track and field committee to have this selection approved. The selection committee earlier had named pole vaulter Ron Miller of Toronto as first alternate.

The AAU also decided to ask the Canadian Olympic Association to establish an Olympic category for marathon running and walking competitions, separate from general track and field events.

MURPHY AN AMATEUR

Pat Murphy of Delhi, a member of the Olympic cycling team, replied to complaints by Jack Scambler, president of the B.C. Cycling Association that he was guilty of professionalism. Murphy said a special investigation ordered by the Canadian Olympic Association had found him fully qualified for the Olympics.

The convention committee on wrestling, under Al Forman of Montreal, lodged an informal protest over the trimming of the Olympic wrestling team to two from four competitors. It asked the AAU to recommend that wrestler Armand Bernard of Quebec be named to the Olympic team should an opening appear in any sport where no alternate has been provided.

The wrestling representatives said Bernard, whom they termed their most experienced wrestler, has been omitted from the team through "politics." The selection committee, in which each of the AAU branches has one vote, rejected him by a one-vote margin.

The recommendation, while it will be made by the AAU to the Canadian Olympic Association, is not expected to meet the COA's approval. Most sports committees have alternates picked, should members of their teams be forced to drop out.

THREE OTHER AWARDS

Kyle, Canadian senior champion in the 10,000-metres, is entered in the 5,000-and 10,000metre events of the Olympic Games at Melbourne. Money is entered in the Olympic high jump.

Other award winners named Friday:

Marlene Stewart of Fonthill, awarded the Velma Springstead Memorial Trophy as the outstanding female woman athlete of the year; Stan Levenson of Toronto, the Viscount Alexander Trophy, outstanding junior track and field athlete; and Edward Vernon Campbell of Toronto, awarded the Tom Longboat Trophy, as outstanding Canadian Indian athlete of the year.

ROWELL CENSURED

The awards were announced in an accompanying press release session after contentious subjects had been the order of earlier gatherings.

Earlier Friday the AAU censured Fred Rowell of Vancouver, national track and field committee chairman, for his action in making two additions to the Olympic team without consulting the selection committee.

After a wordy battle between Rowell and the committee, a resolution was passed approving the

Whitby Hands McFarlands First Defeat In Brawl-Spattered Battle

Referee Orders Teams off Ice As Game Gets Out of Hand; Fights, Fisticuffs Mar Game

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

In one of the most brawl-carried battles ever played on Belleville ice the Whitby Dunlops handed the Belleville McFarlands their first defeat of the season before nearly 2700 fans last night. The score was 5-3.

The game which featured three near-riling fights and fisticuffs was the best evidence yet of the weakness of the one referee, two-linesmen system of officiating.

Referee Bill Reason of Kingston, lost control of the game in the riotous second period and was forced to order the teams off the ice to restore some sort of order.

Thirty-four penalties, eighteen to Belleville, were handed out by the official. These included, four game misconduct, one match penalty, four misconducts and six majors.

Maurice Benoit, hard-hitting McFarlands' defenceman, was given the match penalty when he carries an automatic suspension until the cause is studied by the OHA.

The game took three hours and ten minutes to play. The McFarlands spent 101 minutes in the penalty box with Whitby serving 64.

Playing coach Bep Guidolin of the McFarlands, plainly disgusted with the officiating, told the referee as he uncorked a beauty in the first period and was promptly saddled with a game misconduct which sent him out of the game for good.

That period started the parade. From then on tempers flared, fists flew and fights broke out at the slightest provocation. Reason may have done his best, but his difficulties were bordered by stuff the most of the time. Lineomen Bert Corbett and "Flash" Johnson broke up more fights than they called offsides.

They also were given a penalty in one of the brawls for so rearing up on Reason.

Irate spectators fired programs and other items on the ice. One tossed his program at Reason, the referee. A few "smart" fans brought sizable stones and tossed them in the general direction of the officials.

And let's not forget there was hockey played between the main brawls. The Dunlops surged into a three-goal lead in the first period and were held scoreless in the second period. They failed to cut the margin to two. The teams split four goals in the hectic second third period, playing with depleted and rampaged the most of the game.

The McFarlands were plainly off stride in the first period and throughout the game showed but flashes of the style that carried them to victories over Gorewall and a tie with the Ottawa Canadiens. Passing attempts were not clicking and in the main their shooting was off the target. However, Jack Shelley, of the Whitby net, came up with another fine exhibition keeping the goal-hungry McFarlands off the score sheet on not a few occasions with brilliant saves.

The smooth-skating Whitby front line took advantage of the McFarlands' loose play in the first period and Burns, with Myles and O'Connor, scored the first puck past Larin after nearly two minutes had gone. Two minutes later with Larouche in the sin-bin Sandy Clark made it 2-0 with Ecker and Bonello getting assists.

At this point Coach Guidolin got round the game for protesting too strongly over a disputed decision and from this point on tempers were at razor edge. Treen scored for Whitby in the first and drew a major for his trouble. Morrissette in the last minute of the period drew a major for the same reason and drew a major for his trouble. Morrissette in the last minute of the period drew a major for his trouble. The referee thumbed Jones off for apparently no reason at all.

Benoit for the Beavers at 13.04 and the surging Dunlops widened the margin to 4-0 when Bobby Attersley whirled in front of Larin and drove a backhand shot into the net. The McFarlands came to life at this point and Dunlops was brilliant in keeping them scoreless.

Larouche brought the crowd to its feet on a thrilling rush and after three minutes of play in the second period Benoit scored and beat Donlevy cleanly with a low hard shot.

Whitby scored two minutes later but the goal was disallowed and the first main brawl of the night started. Cragnord and Sinden tangled and Cragnord was given a major.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rochester Americans were wondering today what it takes to win a game in the International League.

The newest member of the circuit has played seven games and has yet to come up with a victory. Two ties and five defeats Americans' best efforts. They dropped their fifth game Friday night, losing to the Buffalo Bisons 4-3 in the league's only game.

The Bisons moved into a tie for first place with the idle Hershey Bears, Cleveland Indians and Rochesters today as the Buffalo Bisons 4-3 in the league's only game.

A long shot by Rochester's Bobby Hollett deflected Harry Lumley to narrow the margin to a goal. Larry Wilson sank the clincher in the third period.

Rosi Splinters Toothpick Brown

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pedro Rosi of the Bronx has demonstrated once again that his right fist packs plenty of the wallop of his family produces in Italy.

The 29-year-old middleweight split the verdict (Toothpick) Brown in the eighth round of a televised bout Friday night. The decision earned him consideration for a return match among the ranking light weights.

The 23 - year - old Philadelphia toothpick lasted the limit in 1924. In two previous appearances this year he was floored first - round knockouts. Rosi was a different proposition.

Rosi downed Brown twice for nine counts in the eighth with hard rights to the jaw. Referee Joe Volzman called it quits after Brown struggled to his feet for the count of nine with a fireworks left in the round. Each man weighed 134.

Sasky Riders, Blue Bombers Clash Today in Semi-Finals

REGINA (CP) — Old playoff foes tangle today in crisp, clear weather on a perfect pitch at Regina's Taylor Field in the first game of the Big Four Interprovincial Football Union semi-finals.

A capacity crowd of 13,000 wrapped warmly for protection against bone-chilling temperatures—is expected to watch Saskatchewan Roughriders try to avenge defeats in three successive playoff series at the hands of Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

With both clubs at practically full strength there is little to choose between the teams, which finished second and third respectively in the regular season.

Pre - game betting gave the Roughies a slight edge, chiefly because of three victories over Winnipegs earlier this year, to win the total points, two-game series. The second game is at Winnipeg Monday.

The Bombers arrived by air Friday night.

The Roughriders, who expect to have everyone dressed, practised tags in speed.

Friday afternoon and their spent a quiet evening at home. They got in practice, a tarpaulin last by Empire Stadium at Vancouver and Edmonton on the field by guard against frost.

Second, Frank Filchock's question marks — lineman Mario DeMarco and end Stan Williams—apparently showed well enough in practice sessions to qualify for the starting lineup.

Up over, the Saskatchewan coach would make no commitment as to his team's prospects.

"It'll be a hard battle," he said. "Those Winnipeg boys will give nothing away."

Unless Filchock produces surprise tactics, the fans will see now quarterback Frank Tripucka throw his long passes over the head of Winnipeg line to pass receivers Larry Isbell, Bobby Marshall and Ken Preston.

The Bombers, without halfback Fritz Hanson and probably also flying wing Ron Kelly, will give away weight and experience in the line but will have an advantage in the backfield.

'Unknown Human Element' May Win Medal for Canada

By CHARLIE BABIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Coach Tommy Walker of Canada's Olympic swimming team figures that only the "unknown human element" can give his country a gold medal winner in aquatic events at Australia this month.

Judging past performances of our best swimmers with those of other countries, Walker is not crazy to say any of our kids will win a gold medal," the Toronto coach said in his office today.

"But," he added, "like a horse race, you can't always pick a winner from the past - performance charts. There's always that unknown human element and I'm hoping it will get us a win at Melbourne."

Walker's pessimistic prediction was made despite his opinion that the 16 members of the team are the best in Canada's history in swimmers and two divers—is one of the best in this country's history in international competition. If the team does produce a winner, or even a brace of winners, Canada will almost certainly be in one of the worst positions.

The swim trials here in August thrust two teen-agers into the limelight. One is potentially the best swimmer Canada has produced—15-year-old Phyllis Wilson of Stratford, Ont., the youngest member of the 35-athlete Canadian team.

The other event she entered and, although a junior, set a new Canadian record in the 100-metre breast stroke.

The swim trials here in August thrust two teen-agers into the limelight. One is potentially the best swimmer Canada has produced—15-year-old Phyllis Wilson of Stratford, Ont., the youngest member of the 35-athlete Canadian team.

She won every event she entered and, although a junior, set a new Canadian record in the 100-metre breast stroke.

Walker is also pinning hopes on Ralph Hutchinson, 17-year-old Toronto boy, who has been hampered by a recent illness. She will compete in the 100-metre and 400-metre free style events.

Gladys Priestley, another Montrealer, was runner-up to the amazing Lorraine Crapp of Australia in the British Empire Games in 1954. Miss Crapp is considered an all-time great and heralded for the Nov. 23-Dec. 8 games.

Two British Columbia girls, Audrey Harrison of Vancouver and Lenora Fisher of Ocean Falls, are members of the women's team. Miss Harriet, holder of the unofficial 100-yard world freestyle record of 1:04.6 seconds, and the Canadian records and was a gold medallist in the 440-yards freestyle at the Pan-Am Games.

Miss Fisher, a backstroker, was also placed first in the backstroke event at Mexico City.

The two men swimmers, George Park, 22-year-old Hamilton policeman, and Vancouver's 18-year-old Jack Blake, while outstanding Canadian standards, will have to swim their hearts to get past the preliminary heats.

Park holds the Canadian 100-yard freestyle record while Walker says Slater has come "a long, long way up since last year."

The team is rounded out by a male and a female diver. Hamilton's Irene MacDonald impressed Canadian officials at the trials and she was asked to become a United States citizen in order to be eligible for the Olympic team.

Bill Patrick of Kelowna, B.C., holds the Canadian outdoor and springboard diving championships and won the platform diving crown at the B.E. Games.

Walker has an impressive list of qualifications himself.

An Olympic swimmer for Canada in 1928 he coached women's teams in the 1932 Olympics in the 1934 and 1938 British Empire Games.

Connolly made the throw in practice but it was found the hammer was a trifle underweight. Meet officials said the hammer used this time was a half-ounce overweight.

Solmar Notes

Careless Drivers, Empty Game Bags

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT,
Noted Sportsman, Author on 4 Cruise of Solmar Tables.

Several years ago, two men started out one day to go bass fishing. The time was in August, early in the morning, and a heavy fog obscured the road. Both of these men knew about the fishing at Tables but they disregarded the fact that a major Solmar Period was in progress and that wildlife would be active.

They had about sixty miles to drive to reach the river, so they were hurrying. Deer were jumping miles from town they struck a doe deer, hiding her self crumpling a feeder. Twenty miles farther on they struck a buck deer, a fine fellow with a fine head but the shock threw the car into the ditch, killing or fatally injuring the buck. That was the end of the fishing trip.

It is unlikely that many motorists give much heed to the damages cars do to wildlife with their drivers. It is too bad that this should be so. Often a little care on the part of the driver would save the life of some animal or bird.

AVOIDING ACCIDENTS

Estimates vary as to totals of wildlife killed on the highways but the harvest is appalling, mounting well over 3,000,000 birds and animals in the course of a single year. Sadly enough, much of this kill happens when the breeding season is at its height, to leave behind because of the death of parents. The automobile is no respecter of seasons and game laws.

From the standpoint of national economics, it has been estimated that more than three million dollars worth of game animals is wasted through automobile killings.

So from now on, be a bit more alert while driving country highways. Remember that the end of the Solmar Periods which are the daily times when wildlife is most active. In short, give wildlife a "break" when you are in your car. There are a hundred ways this is doing yourself a favor also in preserving the game supply.

PRESERVING OUR HUNT

Our house is located on the outskirts of town, in the township and not in the village. We have a small plot of six acres, but all but an acre of which has been allowed to grow wild. Naturally, in a settled community, this five acres is a concentration point for the animals and birds in that general vicinity.

We don't put up trespass signs as there, is not an inch of our property which is not within 150 yards of an occupied dwelling and therefore illegal territory in which to hunt. Dear Sir: Do not make any difference to some of the boys? Not a bit. They have the rule "big water-big fish" seems to hold good. A great deal of the sparse wild life in the Thousand Islands region is done in the headwaters and July and August when the young are being in the shallows.

As these fish grow, gradually they move downstream. Only in the larger, deeper pools of the river are they found of large, adult bass that stay there year after year. Such pools, however, extend down to big waters as they attain maturity and the seasons pass, so that the headwaters, a small lake, the booming instinct in bass has a strong driving force that home as soon as possible. They return to the same headwaters and bottom contours and they found their way home with little difficulty.

Bluegills that were used in the headwaters when they were released after strings and bobbers had been attached to them. In that way they were able to feed and thrive progress back to their old stamping grounds.

So, in case you lost a good bass or two last season, be comforted, below is the reason why. They'll be back again at the same spots, come next spring.

Wellington on The Lake

WELLINGTON MANOR

Built by the pioneer, Daniel Reynolds, now owned and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Robinson.

It stands a monument, plain, enduring, strong,
Designed by winter tempests oh! so long;
A monument to him, whose spirit bold
Sought in this land home to have and hold.
The first white man to tread this virgin soil
He set to work, with steady, honest toil,
To build a home, though not palatial, grand,
For his young bride in this far forest land.
The old stone Manor House, a symbol true
Of what heroic natures e'er can do,
A symbol of adventure's spirit bold
That makes new lands to conquer and to hold;
Without that spirit; Britain's far-flung fame
Would be an empty sound, a worthless name;
The pioneer whose footsteps led him here
To pathless forest in a far-gone year,
Laid well a strong foundation on which we may
With willing heart and hand, erect today
A character, a structure, strong and true,
That through succeeding ages e'er shall last,
And like the old stone Manor House endure
Through coming generations, safe and sure.

Helen B. Anderson.

WELLINGTON. — Many were the stories my mother used to tell of the Manor, a house she knew so well, for it was the home of her grandfather, Daniel Reynolds. So the childhood days of Manor with its fine location, has always been an attraction for me. A single gathering at the Manor this winter under the auspices of the Anglican Church was a delightful affair, the atmosphere of this old historic house seeming to lend a glamour to the occasion.

A SUMMER HOME

A comfortable cottage on the shore of Lake Ontario is the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Ainsworth. It is built with a pleasant living room overlooking the lake with bedroom, closet and kitchen adjoining. A fine fireplace adds brightness and cheer in these autumn evenings. A very pleasant afternoon was spent at this attractive home when Mr. and Mrs. Ainsworth entertained at the tea hour, Mrs. Edna Platt, Miss Marjorie Blakely, Mrs. H. B. Anderson and Mrs. Harry Carley.

Mr. Alex Tait, Toronto, spent the weekend at his home in Wellington.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bell, Toronto, spent a few days in Wellington, guests of his mother, Mrs. Mabel Bell.

Mrs. Arnold Vandewater came up from Bath and enjoyed a few days at her home here and was welcomed by many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Morton of Akron, Ohio, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Morton and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morton.

The sale of household effects of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carter on Wednesday last was well attended.

Miss Gladys Lumb and Miss Mary Lumb motored to London and spent the week with relatives.

Mrs. Charlie Wannamaker, who has not been well for some months is now convalescent at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Howard Palmer and Mr. Palmer, Wellington Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Ainsworth enjoyed a week's holiday in Quebec.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Carley accompanied by Mrs. Edna Platt, Miss M. Blakely and Mrs. Anderson, enjoyed a drive through Picton to the site of the cement works, to Lake on the Mountain and to the village of the millits on the hill. This village seems to imply the restfulness to another era.

We were shocked to receive the sad news of the passing of a dear friend Miss Elva Zufelt, which died on Sunday at the home of a sister, Mrs. Day of Brighton. She had been for some time in the Trenton hospital suffering from a fracture of the hip. Miss Zufelt was an ambitious student and musical teacher, having been teacher of Art in Ottawa Collegiate many years before retirement. The deceased was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Zufelt. Surviving is a brother, Orville of Rochester and two sisters, Mrs. Raymond Norton, Bloomfield, and Mrs. Day of Brighton. Among those attending the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. R. Maybee, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Morton, Mr. and Mrs. Will Adams, Mr. Fred Morton and Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Kinnear.

The Week's News

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The international lineup, so neatly arranged for so long, has been thoroughly shaken up.

Events in the New York Times put it this way: "Within the short space of less than two weeks, both Washington and Moscow, which dominate world events for the first decade of the post-war era, have seen their wishes and policies defied by nations heretofore regarded as their most co-operative allies."

ISRAEL STARTS IT

The Middle East blowup began Sunday, Israel ordered general mobilization. The same day President Eisenhower sent a warning to Israel against any "resort to initiative."

Monday the Israel army invaded Egypt, thrusting to within 20 miles of the Suez Canal. The U.S. requested — and obtained — the calling of a meeting of the United Nations Security Council for the next day.

BRITAIN ACTS

Before the Security Council could get to grips with the problem, Britain and France dispatched an ultimatum to Egypt and Israel.

This demanded a ceasefire and withdrawal of both sides to a distance 10 miles from the Suez Canal. Further, permission was requested for a temporary occupation of the canal zone. Israel accepted. Egypt rejected the ultimatum.

BRITISH NYET

In the Security Council Tuesday night, Britain for the first time used the veto, for so long a Soviet specialty. France also vetoed the U.S. and Soviet resolutions for an immediate ceasefire between Israel and Egypt.

The Anglo-French ultimatum expired. There was a lull through most of Wednesday, Then RAF and French aircraft began offensive against Egyptian airfields and military installations. The British cruiser Newfoundland sank an Egyptian frigate.

The UN General Assembly was called into special session. President Eisenhower in a broadcast address called the British-French action one "taken in error."

CANADIAN PLAN

The General Assembly sat for nearly 12 hours Thursday night and early Friday and voted 64 to 5 for a ceasefire. Canadas External Affairs Minister Pearson abstained in the vote but put forward the only concrete proposal for a solution. He suggested a UN police force to take over. Others said this might amount to 10,000 men, with Canada possibly contributing about 900.

As the week ended, British-French landings in Egypt seemed imminent. Israel had conquered the Gaza Strip and had occupied the city of Gaza.

N.S. ELECTION

The Progressive Conservatives scored an upset election victory in Nova Scotia. The Tories, led by 43-year-old Robert L. Stanfield, ended 23 years of Liberal rule by toppling the government of Premier Henry Hicks.

MINE DISASTER

Tragedy engulfed the Nova Scotia town of Springhill. A coal dust explosion Thursday trapped 113 miners in the pits some 3,000 feet below ground level. Thirteen miners were killed. Nearly everyone in the town of 8,000 had a relative among the trapped men.

AT THE BELLE — The dancing doll, Sheree North; Ernest "Marty" Borgnine, Gordon MacRae of "Oklahoma" fame, and Dan Dailey are co-starred in "The Best Things in Life are Free", the musical with something for everyone, in color and CinemaScope, playing today for the last time at the Belle Theatre.

Ontario Senior A Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The race has tightened considerably in the western division of the Ontario Hockey Association's senior A series. Only five points separate the league's five teams.

Windsor Bulldogs pulled even with the league-leading Stratford Indians Friday night, defeating the defending champion Chatham Maroons 2-0 while Stratford was playing a 3-3 overtime tie with the last-place Owen Sound Mercurys.

Windsor and Stratford, with eight points each, have a two-point lead over Chatham. Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, idle Friday night, remain in fourth spot, one point back of Chatham and only three out of first place.

Mercurys, who have won one and tied another, have three points and trail the pack.

WHITBY WINS

In the eastern division, however, Whitby's rambunctious Dunlops are threatening to build up a big lead. Dunlops downed Belleville McFarlands 5-3 Friday night to move three points ahead of second place Kingston CKLY's, who lost a 4-3 decision to Pembroke Lumbers Kings.

Lumber Kings' victory cut them from fifth place to third, one point behind Kingston and one ahead of Belleville and Ottawa Canadiens. Cornwall Chevrics, who didn't play Friday night are are winless in seven games, are last.

Sudbury Wolves edged closer to the leading North Bay Trappers in the Northern Ontario Senior A Southern Group series, trouncing Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Indians 8-2.

Wolves now trail trappers by two points. Sault (Ont.) Greyhounds are third and Indians are last.

At Chatham, 3,200 fans—largest crowd of the season—watched as 25 penalties and poor ice marred a close-scoring game. Chatham's Ron Macmillan drew a ten-minute misconduct penalty.

Lou Rondo and Cherier Warchol counted the Windsor goals.

BUILT UP LEAD

Indians built up a 3-1 lead at Stratford, but fell apart as the desperate Mercurys went back for the equalizers in the last period.

Jimmy Read, who fired the tying goal, scored Mike Fast Buck Forshund counted once for Owen Sound. Dinny Finigan, Billy Flick and Jackie White tallied for Stratford.

The Biesebrecht brothers counted all five goals for Whitby, Bruce scored three—one in each period and Jack got the other two.

Kingston scorers were Don Bellringer with a pair, Gerry Moore and Jack Bennett.

TOOK THREE HOURS

At Belleville, it took three hours to play the penalty-studded contest. Floyd Crawford, coach Bey Guidolin and Andre Morrisette of Belleville each received game misconduct penalties. Harry Sinden of Dunlops got the same, and Mickey Keach got a ten-minute penalty and automatic suspension.

Dunlops' Sinden had two goals for Whitby, with singles going to Charlie Burns, Sandy Air and Ted Hegan. Hillard Lavender, Maurice Benoit and Charlie Gilbert tallied for Belleville.

Goalie Julien Klymkiw of Soo Indians stopped 49 shots but could not stem the Sudbury scoring tide. Billy Watson and Alf Baccari each collected three goals for Wolves. The seventh was counted by Nick Torchiak. Birly Dimma and Russ Kowalchuk scored for Indians.

ARCTIC TRAINING

OTTAWA (CP)—Units of the mobile striking force will undergo northern training early next year, army headquarters announced today. The program is designed to give the airborne and refresher training in the techniques of fighting and survival under rigorous winter conditions.

SUDAN WINS U.S.-FRENCH LONDON (AP)—Foreign Ministers of Sudan and Mahgoub of the Sudan termed the French-British strike against Egypt "atrocious aggression." Mahgoub replied, in a statement Friday, "British aim can no longer hope to maintain friendly relations with us and all Arab countries while associating themselves with Israel."

WANTS EARLY WITHDRAWAL
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—British ambassador George Middleton advised Lebanese Friday that Britain wants Israeli troops to withdraw from their positions in Egypt as soon as this can be satisfactorily arranged. In a note to the Lebanese foreign ministry, Middleton said British will press for a Palestine settlement which will take account of "the legitimate interests of Arab countries."

UN CEASE FIRE

"Does he mean by that Egypt has to be bound to accept by force the 13 power proposals, or what does he mean?"

This was a reference to the August London conference's 18-country proposal for international control of the waterway after President Nasser nationalized last July 26.

"Why indeed should a settlement of the Suez Canal issue be brought to the matter at all?" Gaitskell asked.

Gaitskell called Eden's speech "the most tragic statement that has been made in this House since 1939."

REPUTATION DAMAGED

Gaitskell added that if Britain had accepted the UN resolution, it would "at least to some extent have avoided our reputation and moral authority."

"They could have made it a thousand times easier for the United Nations to deal with the Hungarian situation."

Eden began by saying "I should first recall the statement which I made in the House in the course of my speech on Nov. 1 when I said that the most urgent task is to separate the combatants and to stabilize the position. That is our purpose.

"If the United Nations were then willing to support the physical task of maintaining peace in the area nobody would be better pleased than I."

REPLY TO UN

Since then there had been consultation between Britain and France and, as a result, the British and French governments were sending the following reply to the resolution of the United Nations General Assembly:

"The British and French governments have given careful consideration to the resolution passed by the General Assembly on November 2.

"They maintain their view that police action must be carried through urgently to stop the hostilities which are now threatening the Suez Canal. They prevent a resumption of those hostilities and they intend to secure a settlement between the Arab-Israeli war which threatens the legitimate interests of all nations.

"They would most willingly stop military action if they could be sure following conditions could be satisfied:

"1. Both the Egyptian and Israeli governments agree to accept the United Nations force to protect the peace.

UN GUARANTEES

"2. The United Nations decided to constitute and maintain such a force until an Arab-Israeli peace settlement is reached and until satisfactory arrangements have been agreed in regard to the Suez Canal, both arrangements to be guaranteed by the United Nations.

"3. In the event that either the United Nations force is constituted and Egypt consents agree to accept forthwith limited detachments of Anglo-French troops to be stationed at key points in Egyptian territory."

Gaitskell said the Opposition contested the government's "moral right to defy the resolution of the United Nations."

Amid howls of protest from Conservatives, Gaitskell declared: "This is an example of independent, aggressive action under the guise of police action—police action which nobody believes. It almost certainly will be regarded by other potential aggressors in the world. We ourselves will be the greatest sufferers from the damage this settlement have now done."

Eden said he did not believe that when the nations of the world had pondered this and all the history that had gone before the Israeli attack they would say all the blame was on the Israelis and the credit on President Nasser.

SUEZ ROOT PROBLEM

Gaitskell said Eden knew why Eden had put in mention of the Suez Canal.

"We considered that carefully," Eden replied. "The object is to solve the whole problem and not this situation to deal with all outstanding problems in the Middle East.

"The government is operating in the Suez Canal zone because it is there that, in our judgment, the danger has first and still lies. The United Nations will take this opportunity to build up an international force as the practical action to meet a situation which cannot be met by passing resolutions. I am quite sure that the future of the United Nations will be assured and greatly strengthened."

In reply to other questions Eden said: "We would naturally not expect to be excluded" from the UN force which would take over from the Anglo-French command.

GAME RESTRICTIONS

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario hunters with guns will have to be in a freeze's from last year's hunting law breaking the law. Says the Ontario Game and Fish Act: no one can legally possess venison, moose, elk or caribou shot in the fowl after Aug. 31 in any year.

At Schumacher, near Timmins, Northern Frosted Foods, Ltd., said it already has stored 50,000 pounds of moose meat and more is being delivered daily.

Plant general manager Wyman Brewer said he is telling hunters the plant will cut the animals up but hasn't time to skin moose for them.

"We worked all last week, through the weekend, night and day, trying to keep up with the hunters," he said. "It's unprecedented."

Lands and forests department officials here say they have never seen so many hunters at one time. "It's undoubtedly the biggest moose-hunting season we've seen," they say.

In North Bay, hunters in the area similarly report an excellent season. Lands and forests officials there say they have issued 30 licences.

In Sault Ste. Marie a record number of moose licences—1,600 resident and 300 non-resident—has been issued.

A freezer plant in that city reported it received 68 moose carcasses during the first few days of the season after which the rush tapered off.

BRITAIN, FRANCE

British-French fleets were reported massed at the northern and southern ends of the Suez Canal. Troops and tanks have landed, the British and French governments have said, is to protect the canal from the fighting which began Monday night with a two-pronged Israeli drive into Egypt's 200-mile-wide Sinai Peninsula in the direction of Suez. They said they also sought to halt the fighting and separate the belligerents.

France, of the combined British-French assault force pounded Egyptian military potential Friday night and today in final preparation for the assault by amphibious forces and paratroopers.

The British-French command on Cyprus today reported the probable loss of a plane in their air offensive. A communique said the RAF fighter failed to return from a dawn mission.

The Syrian radio, relaying Egyptian claims after British-French bombs Friday knocked out Cairo radio, claimed that the Egyptians have destroyed 13 British and French planes but the British-French statement said the Venom was the first loss.

KEPT UP ATTACKS

British and French planes kept up bombing attacks on Egyptian airfields today, the communique said.

It reported a "heavy attack" by RAF Valiant and Canberra bombers on Luxor airfield on Upper Nile, at least the 10th Egyptian airfield attacked since the air offensive began Wednesday.

Returning pilots were quoted as telling of explosions and large fires in ammunition depot at Luxor.

Hostility to the Anglo-French action was again expressed in words and demonstrations in many countries today.

In Pakistan, 12 students and six policemen were injured during anti-British demonstrations outside the British high commission office in Karachi. In Ceylon an anti - British demonstration was staged in front of the British high commission offices in Colombo.

(Toth told Bosa that he was en route to visit a sister in eastern Hungary when the revolution broke out in Budapest. "Nobody bothered me," he said, "but I saw terrible things." He said he he would wait in Vienna for two weeks in the hope of being able to return to Budapest and resume the journey to see his sister.

(Bosa said the 6,000 Ryc-ton cargo of Canadian medical supplies was still sitting at Vienna Friday night because of the cessation of shipments into the country.)

In a brief CBC interview Mrs. Toth said she had been awakened early Friday morning. Mrs. Mrazik said she had only 20 minutes to get ready and that much of her baggage had to be left behind.

The Canadians were assisted in their flight to Vienna by British legation in Budapest, where there is danger of renewed fighting breaking out between the Russians and Hungarians.

Russian tanks and Hungarian Communists were said to have held downtown Budapest, Austrians and other foreigners in villages near the Austrian frontier. All were seeking to reach Vienna from Budapest.

Thorough Check Prevents Many Car Ailments

By EUGENE MILSOE

While basic change-over rules may be observed by all motorists, others valuable after care practices seem to be commonly neglected.

Maintenance tips, such as these, deserve attention, too:

(1) Harmful crankcase dilution, which occurs more readily during cold weather, can be combatted by more frequent oil changes. (2) Minimize condensation and the danger of fuel freeze-up by keeping the gas tank well filled. (3) For quicker warm-up, less engine wear and better all-around economy, a higher opening temperature thermostat is recommended for winter. (4) Hot spark plugs are best for low engine temps, be considerably short-run, slow speed winter driving. (5) Wax carbon monoxide threat is greatest during this season. Mufflers and exhaust pipes should be checked more frequently. (6) A general tightening of nuts and bolts plus a thorough chassis and body lubrication will contribute to car life and riding pleasure.

• • •

S. P. asks: "Please advise if loose wheel bearings can affect braking action and in what way."

(A) Loose bearings can cause the brakes to chatter, drag or grab.

• • •

From T. K. T've been driving 38 years and usually do my own repair work, but I've got a problem that I just cannot lick. The carburetor isn't getting enough gas. I have already cleaned and adjusted it, blew out the gas lines, drained and flushed the gas tank, installed a rebuilt fuel pump which was first tested on another car. What do you suggest now? The car is a 1954 model."

(A) Inspect the vent in the gas cap. If it's plugged it can prevent the fuel pump from drawing properly.

• • •

L. S. writes "I have one of those 3-Pommeranni types of sandwiches for several years—one of the better known brands. I have what comes out in the back, starting it in glass jars . . . then one is over again in the fall, looking enough new solution for desirable freezing protection. I have been warned, by a radiator man, that this is bad practice because the old solution may thread down to the acid and clog the cooling system. I have never had this experience and am skeptical about the warning. What do you think?"

(A) Antifreeze should not be used for more than one season. The inhibitors tend to break down and become ineffective and there will also become contaminated by combustion gases seeping into the cooling system. This combination produces corrosive salts, which eventually take their toll.

• • •

From R. H.: "My car will always start up and drive O.K. When the engine is cold in winter, but if I stop after five or six blocks and try to drive again, it will stall. I can manage to start it up again, but it will stall when I try to go. If I let the engine warm up for a while however, then it will run all right."

(A) Apparently, the fuel mixture is temporarily too rich, and the choke is to blame. Try what is either opening too slowly or sticking until the engine warms up—then it opens fully.

Expanding Needed Facilities Problem for Parks Committee

OTTAWA (CP) — One of the most pressing problems waiting for a committee on long-range planning of national parks, expected to be set up next year, is what to do about the 'trowsties'.

Another is how to expand needed facilities, as there are more visitors use the parks, without endangering their basic conception.

Officials in the resources department's parks branch, which administers Canada's 30 national parks, decline to say that the threat of commercialism is greater than ever. But one said there is always pressure for "Coney Island type" concessions in the parks.

If everyone would keep in mind the purpose stated in the National Parks Act, he said, the branch would not be bothered by a lot of people.

DEDICATED TO PEOPLE

The act passed by parliament in 1930 says in one key section: "The parks are hereby dedicated to the people of Canada for their benefit, education and enjoyment subject to the provisions of this act and the regulations, and such parks shall be maintained and made use of as to leave them unimpaired for the benefit of future generations."

When he announced plans for the special parks planning committee at the last session of parliament, Resources Minister Lesage indicated that no lookout has yet been forgotten.

"It is obvious," he said, "that the value of the parks to the Canadian people rests more in the realm of the spirit than in the realm of commerce, and that this value of the parks can be found in ever unique they are preserved unspoiled and unimpaired to the greatest possible extent."

He added that a large proportion of park activities must take place right out of the townsites.

"The communities are in themselves an impairment of the natural state of the park and can be permitted under the parks act only because they are required to meet the needs of visitors."

WANT MORE SPACE

There are four main townsites—Banff, Jasper and Waterton in Alberta and Field, B.C., where the problems are in Banff and Jasper.

Banff has a permanent population of about 2,500. Jasper about 2,000. They have many aspects of municipalities of similar size, except that they are federal property and under federal control. Residents look after many of them up for greater development as towns.

Parks officials based in the parks feel federal policy on the townsites should be laid down more clearly. There is a feeling among some that limits should be placed on the area townsites will be allowed to cover. But parks branch officials here say this would be difficult since no one can predict what demands eventually might be made on existing facilities as visitors' numbers grow.

Other problems, which extend to parks in the rest of the country, include determining proper tive accommodation needs. The parks branch has been trying for a couple of years now to get someone to open a restaurant in Pacific Park. . . .

GROWING POPULARITY

That the parks are growing in popularity is clear. Some 1,300,000 persons visited the parks last year, compared with 600,000 who visited them in 1946.

Parks branch officials said information from the number this year will be about the same as in 1953. But long-term prospects are that the figure will show a sharp increase.

Another need in the parks is more camping facilities. This session in particular Canadians did without a group dentists' long-term federal plan already is under way with trailer camps are also needed.

Parks branch officials said the special planning committee can't be set up until parliament approves the necessary funds. That is expected to be done at the session due to open early next year. The committee will probably look at the commons this will probably cost more than $60,000,000.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES

STIRLING — St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Stirling, held impressive anniversary services on Sunday. The weather was ideal and worshippers were in attendance from many surrounding points.

Rev. Gilbert D. Smith, B.A., minister of the new St. Giles Presbyterian Church in Pettencough, took the large congregation the morning service and gave the message in the evening service.

The Rev. W. H. V. Walker, pastor of St. Andrew's, Stirling, presided in the evening and Mrs. Roy of Ivby, Peterborough, a former Stirling lady, assisted with the prayer and read the Scripture lesson. He is an elder in the new St. Giles' Presbyterian Church, Peterborough.

Mrs. Harry Morrow rendered special music throughout both services. In the morning the choir sang an anthem, Mr. Wyllen Reynolds contributed a vocal selection, while Mrs. Roy Keyston and her daughter, Miss Marilyn Keyleston, Toronto, contributed a vocal duet.

In the evening the full choir rendered an anthem and Mrs. Donald Rodgers sang "O Rest in the Lord."

Mr. Walker addressed the congregation of Keene Presbyterian Church at 9 a.m. on Sunday morning and later was in charge of the service at St. Giles Presbyterian church, Peterborough, which is a newly erected edifice in the suburban area where the pretty married people reside.

Mrs. C. A. McConnell recently entertained Mrs. Ross Walker, Montreal, and Mr. Ross McConnell, Toronto.

The Rev. C. R. Rudd, Toronto, spent Monday with Rev. W. H. V. Walker and Mrs. Walker at the Presbyterian manse.

Mrs. Lloyd Dafoe was hostess to the Past Grands Club. The group have purchased a full sitting of 200 matching cups, cups and saucers in dawn pink china, and these were used at the banquet Saturday evening in the new hall and looked pretty.

The Rev. W. H. V. Walker attended a church executive; meeting in Trenton on Tuesday afternoon.

Pot Culture for Bulbs Rewarding

By FLORA SAVILLE

Take a little time out from your fall gardening chores to pot up some bulbs for winter blooms indoors. You can use bulbs pans, which are wide shallow red clay pots, hyacinth glasses, or glazed pots, or bowls.

The hyacinth glasses are made of colored glass and the colored glass adds to their charm. Then, too, the roots can be seen which helps to assist in timing the blooming period. Soil is used in the bulb pans, fibre, pebbles, or sand in the glazed receptacles.

The following varieties are especially recommended for forcing in water: King of the Blues; Myosotis (light blue); L'Innocence (white); City of Harlem (light yellow); LaVictoire (red); Lady Derby (pink) and Pink Pearl.

When you receive the bulbs open the cartons and place in a cool airy place about 50 degrees until late November, which is the time they should be planted. At that time rub off old roots, and root plate (the thick dry skin from which the old roots grew). Fill the hyacinth glass to the point where the bulb barely touch the base of the bulb.

KEEP IN DARK PLACE

Keep in a cool dark place, in a basement, or closet until the bottom of the glass is filled with roots, and there are three to four inches of top growth. Then bring to a light warm room but do not place in sunlight for a few days. Once the flowers begin to open remove from sun and keep in a cooler place to prolong the bloom. Water may be added by tipping the bulb a little and allowing fresh water to trickle down the side of the glass. Do not change water, just add more as necessary.

Miniature, or Dutch Romans are more valued they grow several to a pot. Choose the same size pebbles for each plant. These are specially prepared hyacinths are excellent for pot culture. They bloom about two weeks earlier than ordinary kinds. You will find them in your bulb catalogues.

Tulips and daffodils are treated differently. They grow in pots in low pans and have the soil on the sandy side. Barely cover the bulbs with soil and have the soil damp. Place in a very cold place until roots have formed and there are three inches of top growth. To obtain this cold temperature necessary is a bit of a problem. The bulbs can be potted up and set out in a cold frame, you can have one, or the pots on a layer of ashes, and cover to a depth of six to twelve inches with loose soil, or sand, over this a thick straw mulch of hay, or leaves. This will enable you to bring in the pots when the bowl is frozen. Seven to eight weeks in this cool place will be enough to form good roots. Bring indoors a few pots at a time. The others will stay dormant until wanted.

AFTER BLOOMING

Place the pots in a cool dark place in the basement or cool closet and keep slightly moist. When the top growth is well developed it is time to bring to a light warm room. Direct sun should be avoided. Let the color and buds develop slowly, the blooms will be larger, better color, and will last longer if this is done.

After the blooms have faded place the pots in the basement and keep soil from drying out completely. The bulbs can be set out in the garden in the spring; they will bloom, but not before spring, but are not good for forcing again. Paper white narcissus bulbs are often grown in pebbles and water in time for Christmas should not be started until the first of November. The later they are started the quicker they bloom. Early plantings mature more slowly. These, too, should have good roots and top growth before being brought to the light. Failure to bloom is usually due to insufficient.

Try some of the new Mendel tulips, Orange Wonder, Athalein (white) and Van Der Kerdes (carmine) are especially recommended for forcing.

The choice is wide in all the bulb classes, but be sure to order those recommended for forcing for the best results.

West Berlin Students Shout Hatred of Reds

BERLIN (AP) — Hundreds of West Berlin students shouting down with the Russian murderers" and "freedom for Hungary" broke through police cordons and swarmed around the Russian war memorial today in this divided city.

The students carried signs in Russian proclaiming freedom for Hungary and marched to the war memorial after placing wreaths at British and French public buildings in West Berlin and denouncing "aggression against Egypt."

The guard on the border separating East Berlin from the Western part of the city had been doubled as Communist newspapers reported the wrecking of Hungary's "Fascist counter-revolution" by Soviet troops.

Child and Pet Dog Burned

STURGEON FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Flames that destroyed a home here Sunday evening also levelled a two-room frame cottage.

She and her sister, Patricia, 14 months, and a brother, Michael, 4, were left in the care of a neighbor, Mrs. Lily Verdon and her daughter Laurie, 4.

Mr. Fader said his three-year-old son apparently got hold of a gasoline lantern and spilled the contents on a hot stove.

Mrs. Verdon rushed outside with Michael. Her daughter grabbed Patricia, but Beauty did not get out and the heat of the blaze was too intense to permit anyone to reenter.

The spaniel was seen running from the house at one time, but apparently rushed back in to find its mistress. The dog's body was found a few feet from the girl's.

Sturgeon Falls fire department was delayed by a slow-moving freight at a level crossing.

TOKYO SUFFERS QUAKE

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: The pattern of partly stationary high and low pressure areas established during the past few days has been interrupted by formation of a new weather system in Iowa. This new storm centre will move northward into Manitoba, and the weather which has persisted in the Great Lakes region will continue today and Tuesday although mild temperatures will tend to be lower because of clearer skies. Wind will be light.

VIENNA (AP)—Radio Budapest broadcast a demand today that remaining Russian insurgents give up their arms by 6 p.m. (noon EST).

It appeared probable the anti-Stalinist by the lightning attacks of Russian tanks and infantry, had already switched from organized battle lines to partisan warfare.

Budapest station, again firmly under Russian control, sought to win over Hungarians with all sorts of promises of political and economic reforms.

"First it is necessary to restore order," it warned. "The Soviet troops will be withdrawn only after order has been restored."

TALK LATER

The new regime, it said, will start negotiations for the withdrawal after peace turns.

Returning Westerners reported the Russians took over the town of Magyarovar without a fight Sunday although there was still sporadic shooting in the countryside during the day. The Russians have had large tank units stationed in this area, scene of massacre early in the uprising.

Hope for establishment of a free Hungary, neutral between East and West, died suddenly at dawn Sunday when reinforced Soviet divisions opened fire on government buildings and strongholds throughout the rebellion-torn country.

Soviet troops set up a new Communist government in Budapest to replace the regime of Premier Imre Nagy, a nationalist Communist.

BECOMES PREMIER

Janos Kadar, Hungarian Communist party boss who was supposed to have worked with Nagy in the nationalist government, became premier in the Soviet-engineered regime and declared:

"There are still armed gangs of rebels engaged in murdering and plundering, and there still exists the danger they may get the upper hand."

Kadar vowed to restore "order and calmness . . . in the whole country in the next few days" and then bring freedom and democracy to the country. He repudiated Nagy's appeal to the United Nations to guarantee a free and neutral Hungary.

Thousands of Heartbroken Fighters For Freedom Flee From Hungary

VIENNA (AP) — Austria's 150-mile-long border with Hungary was alive today with refugees.

They were thousands of freedom fighters and their loved ones. Soviet oppression of their homeland had crossed into freedom by the thousands.

They were welcomed here—all of them.

But of a crinkle which sometimes turned to snow, the tragic stream of humanity came stumbling.

"Austria!" the fugitives pointed when the police dogs were driven back into their drawn, terror-stricken faces.

"Ja, ja, sie sind in Osterreich (you are in Austria)," answered the grey-clad police again and again.

Men, women and children wept with emotion. Some knelt to kiss the wet earth. Some hugged and embraced the police, who gently monitored them on to waiting buses in the background.

Throughout the night as numerous border villages the swelling tide flowed into Austria. It quickened as the news spread that the Russians had broken through in the east, north and south to cut off the fleeing Hungarians from escape. Sporadic fight against the terror of Red rule had inspired the entire Nagy people to rise. Now, heartbroken eyes and parched lips now were accentuated by the Terror Word of having deserted them in the hour of most desperate need.

Many fled to NATO! Where are the Americans? The British? The French? They found no succor. Die. We believed in freedom. There is no time now for courage. Only for retreat. Give us arms. Send the bombers. Crush the Russians. Give us back Russia to end our hard-won liberty."

During the afternoon nearly all of the frontier, which had been in the hands of the freedom fighters for nearly a week, was evacuated, partly by Soviet tanks and troops, partly by compassed of "freedom fighters" acting on "higher orders."

UN PESSIMISTIC ABOUT ENFORCING HUNGARY MOTION

Little Hope Russians To Allow Inspection

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — The United Nations General Assembly today demanded withdrawal of Russian troops from Hungary but left delegates more pessimistic at the prospects of enforcing the resolution.

Soviet delegate Arkady A. Sobolev virtually nullified the emergency session of the assembly that an investigation in Hungary, as suggested by a United States-led resolution by Canada's External Affairs Minister Pearson, would be rejected today.

Weary delegates, who have been meeting for days in session of the UN Assembly or its committees, approved the eight-point U.S. resolution. Basically it called on Russia to end the armed attacks on the Hungarians, to withdraw its troops and to permit UN observers to enter Hungary and make investigations.

An explosion of applause greeted U.S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge when he said the UN "affirms the right of the Hungarian people to a government responsive to its national aspirations and dedicated to their independence and well-being."

APPLAUD PEARSON

Pearson, in a speech interrupted several times by applause from the visitors' gallery, said the Assembly owed it to "the UN and to the Hungarian people to do everything possible to end the bloodshed in Hungary."

Ask the Soviet Union to accept this chance—perhaps the last chance—to prove its real faith to the world."

The Canadian delegate said Russia had tried to draw a parallel between the Hungarian situation and the Suez Canal problem now confronting the world, namely the fighting in Egypt.

There is no parallel, Pearson said.

The governments of Britain and France, he said, had stated firmly and publicly that they are prepared to hand over their police role in Egypt to a UN force.

Moreover the Soviet Union give us the same promise with respect to the military operations against Hungary."

Resounding applause burst from the world, but when Pearson said, "I put this question directly to the Soviet representative."

APPROVE RESOLUTION

The American resolution was approved by 55 votes to 8, with 13 abstentions. The negative votes were cast by the Soviet bloc. Russia's satellite Albania and seven Arab countries, Iraq, Egypt, Jordan, Libya, Saudi Arabia, Syria and Yemen were absent.

The delegate from Lebanon was absent.

24 Bodies Still in N.S. Pit After Last of 88 Survivors Brought Safely to Surface

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP)—Eighty-eight miners, all but given up or dead two days ago, survived the explosion in the No. 4 Cumberland colliery, the Dominion Coal Company announced today. Thirty-seven other men died.

Shortly after the 88th man emerged from the mine early today, an RCMP official at the pithead said there were no more survivors. The company later confirmed this and issued a new list of dead showing there were 24 bodies still in the mine.

The list also indicated that 112 men had been trapped when a blast late last Thursday afternoon blocked passages and sent poisonous fumes through the coal mine.

In addition to the 24 dead reported today, 13 others had previously been listed as fatal victims. They included five other miners, six surface workers and two lampermen who succumbed while engaged in rescue work.

Thirty-six hours passed before the surface Saturday and almost all hope had been given up that any had survived the underground blast and poisonfumes.

Another 32 men had emerged from the pit by early today when the RCMP official at the pithead said "that's it," there are no more survivors.

Most of those rescued were in good condition but some required hospital treatment for shock and exhaustion.

Six others had been injured at or near the surface when the blast rumbled through the No. 4 Cumberland colliery late Thursday afternoon.

Dr. J. G. R. Lynch, Dominion Steel Company medical chief, had announced Sunday after a telephone conversation he established with the assembly point nearly a mile into the mine that 65 miners were alive in addition to the 36 brought out Saturday. That would have meant there were 12 bodies in the pit.

However, as the hours passed it grew clear that the estimate was over-optimistic.

Those who had still virtually given up hope for the 113 trapped miners before the first group was led to safety Saturday began a reserved rejoicing as one miner after another was led out happily came to the surface and into the arms of family and friends who had stood at the pithead for hours —some of them days—for news of the trapped men. Most of the rescued were strengthened with food and drink before going to their homes.

Few serious injuries were reported from the mine where the men had lived on rain water and the contents of their lunch pails. Many suffered from the ordeals perhaps the brightest chapter in the long disaster-riddled history of Nova Scotia's mining industry.

The situation had appeared so desperate Friday that H. M. Gordon, general manager of the Dominion Coal Company and resident director, told a press conference the "probability" was that the 113 entombed miners were dead.

Canada May Commit Troops To UN Force Without Session

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian government may possibly commit some Canadian troops to a UN Middle East police force without first consulting Parliament, federal authorities said today.

They said the question of whether a special session of Parliament would be needed before Canada made its commitments would depend on the size of the international force and the speed with which it is raised.

In 1956, Prime Minister St. Laurent announced the raising of a Canadian brigade for UN action in Korea on Aug. 7 and Parliament was not called to approve of the decision until Aug. 29.

Mr. St. Laurent Sunday told a national TV and radio audience he was sure what if and when any action of ours requires, according to our practices, the approval by Parliament, that approval will be given in no uncertain terms."

Officials said today that this does not necessarily mean that a special session of Parliament is called before Canada commits itself. Mr. St. Laurent could agree to make the troops available and call Parliament into special session later.

DEPENDS ON NEED

Whether he will do this in the current crisis will depend on circumstances, officials said. It would depend on whether the force to be raised is large or small. There has been no indication of what a battalion might be supplied from Canada's 2nd Brigade in Germany.

Mr. St. Laurent said Sunday the government would be prepared to recommend Canadian participation in the UN force "if it is to be established and if it is thought that Canada play a useful role."

Only some six hours later, the United General Assembly in New York officially created a force to be drawn from and commanded by a Canadian general to seek peace in the Middle East.

Churchill Backs British Action In Middle East

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill Sunday night declared his wholehearted support of Britain's "resolute action" in Egypt.

The 82-year-old retired prime minister, in his first address in the dispute to assert in a statement: "We intend to restore peace and law in order to the Middle East and I am convinced that we shall achieve our aim."

"The American alliance remains the keystone of our policy. I am confident that all American friends will come to realize that, in the long run, we have acted independently for the common good."

Churchill took his stand supporting Prime Minister Eden in the House of Commons in the debate on the address in reply to the Queen's speech.

Whether he will do this in the current crisis will depend on circumstances, officials said. It would depend on whether the force to be raised is large or small. There has been no indication of what a battalion might be supplied from Canada's 2nd Brigade in Germany.

Mr. St. Laurent said Sunday the government would be prepared to recommend Canadian participation in the UN force "if it is to be established and if it is thought that Canada play a useful role."

Living Costs Reach New Peak In September

OTTAWA (CP) — Living costs rose to record high level of 119.8 in September, continuing steadily higher foods prices, the bureau of statistics said today.

The bureau reported its consumer price index advanced 3 per cent in the month of 119.8 from 119 in August. The previous high was reached in July when the index rose to 119.1.

The increase was mainly caused by a 1 per cent rise in food costs. The food index rose to 117.4 from 115.5. Other component groups making up the index, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, advanced by degrees ranging from .1 per cent to 3 per cent.

The September number was up 2.9 points over the figure of 116.9 for the corresponding month a year ago.

NAME GEN. BURNS TO COMMAND UN POLICE FORCE

Back Canada's Motion, Exclude Major Powers

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — The United Nations early today approved an international force to bring peace to the Middle East and named a Canadian general to command it.

By a vote of 57 to 0, with 19 abstentions, the General Assembly established the first UN command since the Korean War.

The assembly named Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns of Ottawa to recruit a limited number of officers from countries other than Britain, France, Russia, the United States and China, to serve the five permanent representatives in the UN Security Council.

The approved resolution, sponsored by Canada, Colombia and Norway, was a follow-up to one presented by Canada's External Affairs Minister Pearson and approved early Saturday.

ASKED FOR PLAN

The first Canadian resolution asked Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold to lay before the assembly within 48 hours a plan for setting up the international police and observer force.

Hammarskjold accomplished the task in less than 24 hours, and the new resolution was pushed through despite the opposition of Britain, France, New Zealand and several other countries who urged more time for consideration.

Hammarskjold said Burns will resign his post as chief of staff of the Arab-Israeli truce supervision organization set up by the 1949 armistice between the two countries.

The establishing resolution said the UN command's job would be to "secure and supervise the cessation of hostilities in accordance with the terms" of a cease-fire resolution sponsored by the U.S. and passed when the assembly met in its first emergency session Nov. 1.

Pearson first brought up the suggestion for a UN force in explaining why Canada abstained in the voting on the U.S. plan. He said he approved the U.S. plan but "not strongly enough—it should have included a force to guarantee the peace.

WON U.S. SUPPORT

That suggestion won quick support from many quarters, particularly Britain, which asked Pearson to present it in the form of a resolution.

Paratroopers Take Airport In 'Tough Fighting'

Troops 'Firmly Established' Says Gen. Sir C. Keightley

LONDON (CP)—Waves of British and French parachutists landed in the Port Said area at the north end of the Suez Canal today. Within hours, the British announced, the Egyptian commander there began discussing surrender terms with the invaders. A ceasefire was declared.

The ceasefire was announced to cheers in the House of Commons by Prime Minister Eden.

Simultaneously, the British situation of Egyptian President Nasser was becoming more precarious by the hour. Last week the Egyptians lost their vast Sinai Peninsula, east of the Canal, to invading Israeli forces.

The purpose of the British-French invasion is to safeguard the canal—now closed to shipping—and to separate the combatants in the Israeli-Egyptian fighting. The British have announced willingness to turn over control of the canal area to UN forces, once the situation is stabilized.

ESTABLISH UN POLICE

The invasion came shortly after the UN General Assembly, seeking to restore peace in the Middle East, ordered an international police command set up to establish and supervise a ceasefire in Egypt. Canada initiated the proposal.

The British and French governments had gone ahead with their long-heralded invasion but said they would welcome the UN police force as a shield between warring Egypt and Israel as soon as the two Allied Suez governments accepted UN proposals for peace, and there was a settlement of the Suez question.

The paratroopers started landing just after dawn. Israel's spectacular conquest of the Sinai Peninsula, apparently ending Israeli forces in Sinai. Damascus radio quoted the Egyptian military as saying a third wave landed.

Then Eden made his dramatic announcement of the Egyptian negotiations to surrender.

Pandemonium broke out off pandemonium in the House, which minutes before had been locked in bitter controversy.

Britain, France Will Halt Action When Israel, Egypt Accept UN Plan

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain and France today told Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold of the United Nations that Anglo-French operations with "limited and clear objectives" were continuing in Egypt, but that all military action would be dropped as soon as the plan for an international force was accepted by Israel and Egypt.

This was disclosed by the foreign office today when it released the reply to the secretary-general after British and French ambassadors had presented the plan for an international force was accepted by Israel and Egypt.

The reply said that Britain and France continued to believe that it was necessary to interpose an international force to prevent the continuance of hostilities between Egypt and Israel, to secure the early withdrawal of Israeli forces, to take the necessary measures to remove obstructions and restore traffic through the Suez Canal, and to promote a settlement of the problem of the area. It added:

"Certain Anglo-French operations, with strictly limited objectives, are continuing in Egypt at the present time and Egyptian governments signify acceptance of, and the United Nations endorse a plan for, an international force with the above functions the two governments will cease all military action.

"In thus stating their views, the United Kingdom and French governments are confident that their action is justified."

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters) — Gen. Sir Charles Keightley, commanding the Anglo-French offensive against Egypt, said at a press conference today that both British and French paratroopers "have had some very tough fighting" in Egypt.

Casualties so far reported in the Port Said area following this morning's parachute drop were six French paratroopers wounded. None had been killed. British paratroop casualties were not yet known.

Keightley said the Third Battalion of the Parachute Brigade led by Col. Paul Crook had "a very tough battle" in an airfield near Egyptian soldiers armed with machine-guns, mortars and tanks.

They now are firmly established and setting out from the airfield," Keightley said.

He said another French drop had been made. "It is a big drop. Everything is going well so far. If all goes well it will link up and form a consolidated front south of Port Said."

ISRAEL WARNED

"I have had no definite news as yet of Israeli forces. But some troops—I suppose Israeli—are approaching from the east. If that is so they will have to withdraw to the 10-mile limit from the canal.

"This morning we have had positive proof that Egypt has no intention of letting the Allies occupy the canal zone. We shall make it so."

The official Allied communique said the airborne forces encountered some resistance in landing at Port Said but that the operation was "going well."

LONDON (AP) — Russia has lifted its threat of armed intervention in the Middle East, the British-French military action in Egypt, She called for United Nations action to forestall late intervention by the U.S. and Russian navies and air forces.

BELLEVILLE WOMAN WINS NAPANEE CAR

Mrs. Maurice Park, R.R. 7, Belleville, feels she is a lucky woman.

On several occasions she had bought tickets on a car draw signing her husband's name, but never had been a winner.

This year while attending Picton Fair she bought a ticket on the Napanee Rotary car draw, this time making the ticket out in her own name.

The draw was held Saturday night and a short time later Mrs. Park was informed by telephone that she was the winner, though she went to Napanee and picked up her new 58 Oldsmobile coach.

Cancer-Infected Part of Intestine Taken From Dulles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cancer had infected a section of intestine removed from Slate Secretary Dulles, it was disclosed Sunday.

A state department announcement said an examination at the time of the emergency operation Saturday, and x-rays later, indicated the malignancy had not spread beyond the diseased portions.

"Dulles' condition was described as "good" in the wake of the 24-hour operation at the army's Walter Reed Hospital.

Doctors said they expect the secretary to spend about six weeks in recuperation, some three weeks of that time in the hospital.

This means Dulles will be immobilized at a time when the United States is grappling with crises in Eastern Europe and the Middle East. In his absence, the state department is headed by Undersecretary Herbert Hoover Jr.

STRICKEN SATURDAY

Dulles, who is 68, was stricken early Saturday. He was taken to hospital where a preliminary diagnosis pointed to acute appendicitis. Later that day, after a team of four doctors had performed the lengthy operation, it was announced a "perforated" portion of Dulles' large intestine had been cut out. The appendix was not affected and not removed.

Not until Sunday — following microscope and other laboratory studies of the tissues—was it announced that cancer had been detected.

View of Laying Ceremony

General view of Sunday afternoon's cornerstone laying ceremony, showing the partially completed church and a section of the crowd which turned out for the ceremony. The new building, first of what will be two units, is going to make up the completed structure, will seat about 240 persons. When the second unit is completed the section of the building now being completed will be used as a Sunday School. Architects for the new church are Warren and Wiegand, with the Tarbet Company Ltd., as general contractors. Design has the forward look with the traditional background of high pitched roof and other features. Church tower will eventually have tower and church bell.

Cornerstone Well and Truly Laid

In balmy autumn weather Rt. Rev. J. S. Thomson, D.D., Moderator of the United Church in Canada, Sunday afternoon officially laid the cornerstone of the new Eastminster United Church at the corner of Herchimer Ave., and Bridge Street. The Moderator is shown with the silver trowel in his hand. On the right are Rev. Alexander McDowell, pastor at Eastminster Church, and Linton D. Read, clerk of the session.

Moderator in First Official Act of Term Lays Cornerstone Of Eastminster United Church

Less than four months after the first sod was turned last July, the cornerstone of the new Eastminster United Church was officially laid Sunday afternoon in the presence of congregational members and a number of other interested persons.

Rt. Rev. J. S. Thomson, D.D., Moderator of the United Church in Canada, officially laid the cornerstone of the new church which is expected will be ready for occupancy by the end of the year.

It was one of the first official acts of the new United Church Moderator, and likewise his first experience at handling a silver trowel at a stone laying ceremony, but he carried the duty off like an experienced veteran and declared the Eastminster cornerstone well and truly laid.

The service for the laying of the cornerstone of what is the first unit of Eastminster church, was held in two parts with congregational members first gathering at the Masonic Temple.

Here the Moderator was heard in a stirring address. Also taking part in the service were: Mr. Bruce Beacock, student minister; Rev. H. M. Davis of Bridge Street United Church; Rev. Raymond A. Rowley, Tabernacle Church, and Rev. Alexander McDowell, of Eastminster Church.

Later at the site of the new church, greetings were heard from Cecil Ketcheson, reeve of Thurlow township, and from Rev. J. S. Spearman, chairman of Belleville Ministerial Association, and from Rev. R. A. Rowley, representing the Belleville Presbytery.

BRING GREETINGS

Reeve Ketcheson referred to the industrial and residential expansion in his township, this now being followed by spiritual expansion.

Mr. Spearman said he was always thrilled to see new churches going up, noting that no new church can be erected without it having its influence in the community. He expressed the hope that Eastminster Church would be prosperous numerically, financially and also spiritually.

Mr. Rowley said that the Belleville Presbytery had been amazed at the speed with which the congregation of Eastminster Church had made plans and proceeded with the construction of their new church.

Mr. McDowell read the Scripture lesson and also led in responsive reading.

The United Church Moderator termed the cornerstone laying a "joyful occasion" and stated he brought greetings from the whole United Church in Canada.

He said this was a time of expansion, industrially, economically, socially and spiritually. New churches were springing up all across Canada.

"May God's richest blessing rest upon you," he said.

The Moderator then took the silver trowel and with the assistance of construction men the cornerstone was shoved into position. Occupying a niche in the cornerstone was Saturday's edition of The Ontario Intelligencer, together with the history of Eastminster United Church.

House-to-House Blitz Will Need Many Canvassers

Within the next few days Belleville industries, merchants and professional men will be called upon to donate to the Community Chest Campaign. A house-to-house blitz will be conducted on the night of Monday, November 19.

This year Belleville's Community Chest objective is $35,000, which is $5,000 more than last year's. Last year's target of $30,000 was not reached. Only $34,000 was realized.

The Belleville Tuxy League, St. John Ambulance Brigade, Boy Scouts, Victorian Order of Nurses, Children's Aid Society, Young Men's Christian Association and the newest member, the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society will benefit from the campaign.

Each year these agencies gratefully accept a detailed budget of their anticipated requirements for the coming year, accompanied by a statement of all receipts and expenditures for the previous year.

The budgets are carefully checked by a committee of three well known citizens and the total of the Community Chest Campaign receipts are divided among the agencies on a pro rata basis.

This year the budgeting committee is composed of E. G. Chesnett, superintendent of the Hydro Electric Power Commission and president of Belleville Rotary; G. L. Tripp, manager of the local branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia, and a director of the Kinsmen Club, and K. McArthur, manager of the Belleville branch of the Royal Bank of Canada and a director of the Rotary club.

Volunteer canvassers are urgently needed for the house-to-house blitz on November 19. Interested people are asked to get in touch with Mrs. Marcel Moriarity, at WO 2-2251, or drop in to see her at the Community Chest Campaign headquarters in the YMCA building on Campbell St.

Other than Trans Mountain Pipe Line, which jumped three points, and Toronto-Dominion Bank, off a point, industrial price changes were narrow. The section's index added more than one-half point, mostly because of fractional gains by Alcohol, Bell Telephone and Dominion Stores, all index stocks.

Western oils were irregular. Canadian Export Gas added 35 cents but Triad lost that much. Banff and Consolidated Dragon gained 10 cents while Kroy was down 10 cents. Calgary and Edmonton, a high-priced index stock, climbed 2¾ and, as a result, the western oil index was up one-half point.

Moira River Valley Film Will Get Premiere in City

Last week, the tenth anniversary of the passing of the Provincial Conservation Authorities Act was marked with a conference at the Hotel London in London, Ontario. The Moira River Conservation Authority, as one of the first established of the Conservation Authorities, was suitably represented by six members: Bruce H. Smith from the city of Belleville; Harry Wood, warden of Hastings County and reeve of Huntingdon township; Reeve C. B. Ketcheson from Thurlow township; Reeve James Spracklett of Tudor and Cashel townships; Reeve Ray G. Milligan of Sheffield township and Reeve Arthur Graham from Richmond township. Also in attendance were Mr. Gordon Nicholson, parks superintendent, city of Belleville, and a member of the Authority Parks and Recreation Advisory Board, the secretary - treasurer of the Authority, Mr. Roscoe Vanderwater and Authority Field Officer Mike Chubb.

At a luncheon meeting of the conference, the assembled delegates were addressed by the Hon. W. M. Nickle, Q.C., Minister of Planning and Development, who congratulated the Authorities on their achievements in their initial years. Another highlight of the program was a visit to a number of projects being carried out by the Upper Thames Conservation Authority, including the million dollar dam at Fanshawe and the surrounding park area.

Moira Valley chairman Bruce Smith gave a short paper to the assembly on the morning of October 31, outlining the problems the Authority had to overcome in developing the O'Hara Mill Conservation Area at Madoc. His well illustrated address was closely followed by delegates from the other Authorities because the project is the only one of its kind in Ontario.

At the conference, the Moira Authority received the first print of the new thirty minute sound and color film entitled "The Moira River Valley" from the Department of Planning and Development. This movie will be given its premiere in Belleville at Conservation Night to be held in the Belleville Collegiate Auditorium on November 28th, 1956. The program will include other conservation movies and an illustrated talk on current projects of the Authority. As the seating capacity of the auditorium is limited, admission will be by invitation only.

How Money was made in Olden Days

The earliest coins were hand-struck and fashioned by dropping a lump of heated metal on a flat anvil. The metal then received a "coin" impression from the punch. The outlines were quite irregular and the "flans" badly centred.

Methods Taken to Combat Drinking Outlined to Conclave

Some enlightening facts about alcoholism and what is being done to combat it were highlighted at Grand District Conclave held here Saturday and Sunday under the auspices of the Ontario Temperance Federation.

In opening proceedings at the Quinte Secondary School, John W. Richie, director of alcohol education, Toronto, said that since 70% of America's 4,500,000 alcoholics got their start with social drinking in high schools, the problem was being attacked at this level.

He described the program in which evenings of entertainment and film are given in the state's 75 high schools, such as was employed by 300 students of Quinte on Saturday evening, followed by objective talks on drinking and its effects.

Mr. Richie said "Everybody has a right to make up his own mind, rather than have somebody pressurize him into it. We try to inform and impress them with information which speaks for itself in the making of their decisions. The students need to be informed and impressed with the facts.

"Printed information giving full information on the subject has been made available to regular teachers who are being prepared to take over this work in every school in the country."

The speaker said that social pressures, experimentation and pleasant effects motivated youngsters to start drinking. While not denying the pleasant effects he said the results could be dangerous. "Everybody starts as an alcoholic but many graduate to alcoholism."

SUBTLE ADVERTISING

Mr. Richie "paid tribute" to the contribution of subtle advertising in the steadily rising consumption of alcoholic beverages now over $1 billion by 60,000,000 Americans and the subtle insinuation that a drink in hand is the easiest way to become "a man of distinction."

A questionnaire on alcohol problems compiled by Mr. Richie for drinking and teachers aroused a great deal of interest. It quotes figures indicating the effects of over drinking on marriages, home life, crime and automobile accidents.

In the latter category 50 per cent of all drivers involved in accidents have had one or two drinks that day. The States with the highest per capita consumption also have the highest rate of motor vehicle deaths.

"Alcoholism is a disease which outnumbers in its victims the combined total for polio, TB, cancer, and narcotics. We believe the preventive program now gaining strength in the high schools is the best way of combating this disease," the speaker concluded.

Mr. Norville E. Luck, Librarian of the Ontario Temperance Federation, spoke on books and films on the subject now available through the Federation which has sent out 150,000 pamphlets to churches, schools and community clubs.

Mr. Royal F. Moulton, executive secretary of the Federation, said teen age entertainments, such as were enjoyed at Quinte, are planned for all schools throughout the province and that students in Quinte had enjoyed Mr. Richie's informal and informative talks so much that he had received requests for return visits.

LONELINESS ONE CAUSE

Loneliness is the fundamental cause of alcoholism, explained Dr. Gordon Bell, medical consultant of the Alcoholism Research Foundation and director of Bell Clinic, Toronto.

"No man is meant to live for himself alone. It is the unhappiness and discomfort derived from such an existence which causes the moderate drinker to depart from the bonds of self restraint which lead to alcoholism. The rehabilitation of the alcoholic back into society is also one of the first steps in a successful recovery."

Dr. Bell said that excessive drinking as a disease or excessive disease just as does over-use of all chemicals.

The speaker listed underlying factors headed by loneliness, addiction and the disease itself as the three phases of alcoholism.

The first phase of addiction is acceptance of drinking as a way-of life in which contentment prevails. Then follows the early stages of concern but this is usually overcome by strong resistance to any suggested change. New symptoms which the drinker may experience or may have explained to him being to arouse some fears but acceptance or surrender usually follows.

At first the body reacts physically to the alcohol intolerance but alcohol which consumes vitamins and minerals brings on a serious loss of energy, loss of appetite and malnutrition. If this path of deterioration is not checked, heavy loss of BI is apt to bring on cirrhosis of the liver.

One of the greatest difficulties faced in dealing with uncontrolled drinking is that most alcoholics deny their condition and only 7% of Canada's 180,000 "alcos" appeal for assistance.

Dr. Bell said that if the two years clinical treatment usually required to restore an alcoholic to normal health is successful, the next step is to find a new way of life for the victim who is generally ill adjusted in some way.

He paid tribute to the 90% results achieved by Alcoholics Anonymous and observed that their great success was due to the fact that they were able to give a new member a sense of belonging and an opportunity of being able to talk to people who understood his problem.

Brakeman Loses Left Arm, Leg, Fell Between Cars

Believed to have fallen from the brake step or ladder of a freight car and onto the track during shunting operations at the C.N.R. yards at the north station, William Lorne Holgate, 28, of Canniffon, lost his left arm and leg early- Saturday afternoon.

The man's leg was severed and his arm was badly crushed. At Belleville General Hospital doctors found it necessary to amputate both members. Mr. Holgate is married with two children.

The accident occurred about 2.30 p.m., as Mr. Holgate, a yard helper, was assisting to shunt cars on No. 1 siding. No-one saw the accident but he is believed to have slipped from the brake step and fell between the moving cars.

When other yard workers missed their co-workers a search was made and the injured man was rushed to hospital by Bush's ambulance. Dr. Vat Blakslee, railway physician, stated Mr. Holgate's arm was so badly crushed it was necessary to amputate below the shoulder joint, while the severed leg was amputated above the knee.

POLITICIANS AND CENSORSHIP

Many people have not a high regard for politicians. This is a shame. Most politicians in Canada are merely good lawyers, farmers, doctors, businessmen, clergymen, union officials, industrial workers, or housewives who also possess a pleasing personality and a desire for public service. To justify a low opinion of the average Canadian politician, one has to have an even lower opinion of the average Canadian. As the average Canadian is a better man or woman than the one who thinks little of him, one is placing oneself at a low point on the totem pole by assailing politicians as a class.

There is, however, an opposite opinion, not widely held, which places the successful politician only slightly lower than the saints and envisions him as endowed with all wisdom and all virtues.

As we said, this opinion is not widely held; in fact, it is so rarely met that an encounter is a newsworthy event. This makes a recent leading editorial in the Port-Arthur News Chronicle a first-rate new story.

The editor takes issue with the Ottawa Journal, which had looked askance at the spectacle of Dr. J. J. McCann, Minister of National Revenue, reading a book and deciding that it was indecent and immoral and that it fell within the scope of an item in the tariff regulations which bans importation of books so classified.

The Ottawa Journal objected to a system which permits a Minister of the Crown or an official of his department to impose a literary censorship.

"But why," asks the Port Arthur paper, "should there be an objection to a Minister of the Crown or an official of his department acting as censor in such matters? There is a great deal of censorship in Canada as it is, and who should be better qualified than one who by his education, experience and qualifications generally has reached a high place in government?"

The idea that the same education, experience and qualifications which fit a man to be minister of national revenue, minister of agriculture, minister of highways, minister of fisheries, minister of immigration or minister of labor also automatically fit this same man to censor books must be as to some extent it cannot be taken seriously. It is well that we do not take it seriously. Otherwise our remarks would unquestionably be in need of censorship and we hasten to think what the minister of national defence, for example, would do about it. He might mistake them for evidence of open rebellion and call out the troops. The minister of health would almost certainly decide that it was evidence of an unsound mind. The minister of transport might run us out of town and the minister of trade would start angling for a barter deal, to exchange us for a bushel of sour apples and a ton of alum.

A COMPLICATED QUESTION

The Unemployment Insurance Commission has ruled that company-financed lay-off pay, otherwise known as a guaranteed annual wage, is not "earnings" and that recipients of such pay may claim full unemployment insurance benefits.

This ruling has been criticized in several quarters, on various grounds. One point is that the combined guaranteed wage and unemployment insurance benefits may nearly close to the wage the recipient would earn if working, thereby removing the incentive for him to get out and seek a new job.

There is, however, another side to the question and here, as with the argument against the ruling, there are various grounds for defending it. Most important point, though, would appear to be that those very industries which have established the guaranteed annual wage are, in the main, the ones in which seasonal layoffs are normal and the industry would be disrupted if most of their laid-off did not hold themselves ready to return to work if called. In any event, no man can continue to receive unemployment insurance if he refuses to accept a suitable job offered him by the National Employment Office.

ONE GOOD TURN DESERVES ANOTHER

One good turn deserves another. For more years than one generation of Australians has been used to consume alcohol, the wondrous lengths to which a given quantity of alcohol can be stretched having been aptly demonstrated, in recent years by the federal government, whose watered stock has carried notoriously. Now, in Australia, engineers have worked a switch in this program and are using alcohol to conserve water.

According to Scientific American the technique is to cover the water in a reservoir with a film of hexadecanol, a large molecule alcohol which floats on water and does not mix with it. This reduces evaporation by 20 to 70 per cent. The Commonwealth Scientific and Industrial Research Organization estimates the cost at less than 3 cents per 1,000 gallons saved. And even one gallon of water, as can be easily proven by reference to the Ontario Liquor Control Board's price list and a chemical analysis of the bottled product and a little pencil work, is worth a lot more than three cents.

THE POLLING BOOTH

I never see a voting booth or hear the word mentioned
But what I think they don't exist in lands where tyrants rule.
They are symbols of the free, though simple their design,
And I am grateful, yes, and glad the land they serve if mine.

Those placards on the outer wall, But were I asked to name the
I think it's made of tin;
The little devices, pencil and back, the labels "Out" and
"In";

My neighbors patiently in line to vote as they prefer,
I know except the land is free, could nowhere else occur.

Some countries boast their temples old and some their ancient tombs,
And some have gardens fair to see, aglow with lovely blooms, joys with which our land is blessed,

I'd say in every neighborhood the polling booth is best.

They Tamed Old Man River

Gerald Kips in the Milwaukee Journal

In the corpus over the Suez canal, attention has been focused on the men who guide ships through that tricky 100-mile waterway. Most of the Suez company's 203 pilots, considered the best in the world, quit after the Egyptian government took over operation of the canal.

Nasser quickly recruited staff of pilots, headed by Egyptians, has kept the traffic moving. It is exacting work, for the channel averages only 190 feet wide, allowing but 35 feet leeway on either side of a large ship. Tides and currents complicate the task, and pilots realize that even a minor error might block the canal for days.

• • •

Difficult as the work is, it sounds easy compared to the incredible achievements of the old-time Mississippi river pilots, as described in Mark Twain's "Life on the Mississippi." A pilot himself in the pre-Civil War days, he collected a pilot's memory as most people collect string in a pocket.

"I know the Old and New Testaments by heart," he wrote, "and be able to recite them forward or backward, sideways or begin at random anywhere in the book and go on. I have also on every trip or make a mistake is no extravagant mass of knowledge, and no marvelous facility compared to a pilot's massed knowledge of the Mississippi river, his memory facility in the handling of it."

• • •

In that day, it was the ambition of every boy in a river town to become a pilot. Accordingly, the young Samuel Clemens, growing up in Hannibal, Mo., was no exception. Some of the most entertaining pages he ever wrote under his pen-name, Mark Twain, were about his experience as a "cub" pilot, under the expert and irascible Horace Bixby.

"I supposed," he wrote, "that all Bixby had to do was to get on board a steamer and tell me the name of the first point above New Orleans!"

Bixby confessed that he didn't know. Mr. Bixby flew into a rage.

"Look here! What do you suppose I'm going to say to you the name of those points for?"

"Why—to—to be entertaining I thought."

That unfortunate answer resulted in a stream of profanity that Mr. Bixby was drained of breath. "You could not learn the seine through his system and not caught curses enough to disturb another infidel."

Then he told the cub the facts of life on the river.

"My boy, you must get a little memorandum book; and every time you run a thing, put it down right away. There's only Twelve Miles Point in the trip, to get this entire river by heart. You have to know it just like A-B-C."

• • •

Seemingly, it was an impossible task, but hundreds of pilots mastered it. They piloted their steamers all the long river in their minds so carefully that they could take the helm blindfolded in the middle of a dark night and know exactly where they were.

This meant memorizing the details of water depth, current, snags and sandbars hazard for 1,200 miles, both upriver and downriver. And, as the river changed course constantly, banks caved in, islands appeared, and a building up new channels cutting across country. Nothing right side a man was to be found along the entire river.

• • •

Mark Twain made this comparison:

"If you will take the longest street in New York, and travel up and down it every day for months patiently until you know every house and window and lamp post and big and little sign by heart, and know them so accurately that you can call name the order you are abreast of when you are not down a street, that street in the middle of an inky black night, you will then have a tolerably accurate idea of the exactness of a pilot's knowledge who carries the Mississippi river in his head.

"And then, if you will go on until you know every street crossing, the character, size and position of the crowding traffic and the varying depth of mud in each of these numberless places, you will have some idea of what the pilot must know in order to keep a Mississippi steamer out of trouble.

"Next, if you will take half of the signs in that long street, and change their places once a month, and put them where you please, and new positions accurately on dark nights and keep up with these repeated changes without making any mistakes, you will understand what is required of a pilot's powerless memory by the fickle Mississippi."

• • •

This constant piling up of knowledge about the river was carried on almost unconsciously by pilots. The man at the wheel might be carrying on a conversation, while the leadsman was chanting the water depth "Half twain! Half twain! Half twain! Half twain."

A change in the monotonous chant — an unexpected "quarter twain!" stuck in the middle of a string of "half twain!" soundings — would automatically be recorded in the pilot's brain.

"Two or three weeks later," wrote Mark Twain (whose pseudonym was a river term meaning two fathoms), "that pilot can describe with precision the boat's position in the river when that quarter twain was uttered, and give you such a lot of head marks, stern marks, and side marks to guide you, that you ought to be able to take his boat and put her in that same spot again yourself."

• • •

The marvelous faculty could be demonstrated on a whole new stretch of river with amazing results. When wage disputes arose on the Missouri river, Mr. Bixby decided to "learn" that river, and take advantage of the situation. After viewing the 1,000 miles just once on a down trip and once at night, he had memorized enough about it to qualify as a Missouri pilot.

Pilots were well paid for their knowledge. As chairman of the Pilots' Benevolent Association, they possessed the "highest monopoly in the world." They received $500 a month just before the Civil War, a fortune when wages were about his experience as a "cub" pilot, under the expert and irascible Mr. Bixby:

"I supposed," he wrote, "that all Bixby had to do was to get on board a steamer and tell me the name of the first point above New Orleans!"

Bixby confessed that he didn't know. Mr. Bixby flew into a rage.

"Look here! What do you suppose I'm going to say to you the name of those points for?"

"Why—to—to be entertaining I thought."

WORD LEAPED LIKE TIGER

Ottawa Journal

Every orator who has stood upon a speech to make a platform knows that events, facts and a hunter of words seldom escapes without claw-marks. For words are treacherous as any Bengal tiger, lying in the bush ready to spring.

Running a soothing finger-over our own innumerable scars, the memorials of blunders, written and spoken, we think kindly of Dr. Bissell, Chief Justice of Ontario who received his wound the other day when speaking at a god-turning of Carleton library. He wanted to say, an historic occasion but the word "turning" leaped and it came out "hysteric occasion."

Dr. Bissell stood his initiation as a member of the Spoonerism Clio like a man. He did not flounder. He grinned, and went on.

GET ALONG WITH PEOPLE

Patience and tolerance are wonderful traits. Harnessed together they lead one's carriage in to happy avenues and delightful meadows. They take out many a rough spot in our everyday experiences.

Disagreements nearly always lead to unhappy or tragic ends, when they are not settled in patience and tolerance.

"With malice toward none, with charity for all," should be a motto for us all as it was for Abraham Lincoln. It is easy to get along with people to whom we are a great deal of good and for whose happiness we strive.

The little things that we might say, but which we decide not to say, never leave any scars behind. And in this connection I know of no other rule so valuable as The Golden Rule by which to live. To do to others as you would wish to be done by.

Personal Health Talks

Take The Load Off Your Veins

Varicose veins are dilated, swollen, bulging, thinned, twisted, weakened veins. This condition of vein or veins is called varix or, in the plural varices. Varices may occure in any part of the body where veins normally lie close to the surface — very close, as the famous vaudevillians had it.

Frequent seats of varices are the legs, the scrotum of women (varicocele) and the lower end of the rectum just within the anus (internal piles), and the skin just outside of the anus, (external piles.)

Varices in the lining of the esophagus (gullet) have been found to be the source of serious internal bleeding.

I had more than ordinary experience with varicose veins and varicose ulcers during my hospital service— most of the patients with obstinate leg ulcer from varicose veins were men. I never heard of serious bleeding or hemorrhage from bursting or rupture of varicose vein. If a varicose vein broke or were opened by a wound, the bleeding would be easily controlled by simply holding a clean pad over it with finger on the bleeding spot.

It is a sad story of pain that in every instance of varix I have mentioned here there's an ulcerated vein on the affected vein when you are in the vertical posture and take the load off your veins by lying down in the horizontal posture, or better still, a position of easy inverted posture such as Sims' position.. dorsal recumbent, knee-chest, Trendelenburg, or any position with heels higher than head.

It seems that the veins most likely to become varicose have no valveus or, as some comparative anatomists have, feel that the valves since man assumed the upright posture. Anyway, assuming the existence of valves, a short while many times in the day, compensates for this deficiency.

I suggest not only horizontal posture but the upside down bicycle, or inverted position if anyone who has or believes he or she is getting varicose veins or varicose ulcer.

Should one with varicose veins be doing hard work at work or play if it is at all possible to remain seated? Yes.

But should he or she ride to and from work, school, shop, plant, or office if it is at all possible to walk? No.

Should one with a tendency to varix, in legs, scrotum, pudenda, or rectum sit or lie down or relax during lunch hour or at any other break in the daily schedule? Should he or she go out for a quiet stroll — not toward the cocktail joint? No, no. If possible during a free period or periods lie should take a brisk walk or she has a bus which minutes off duty. No lackadaisical stroll, no loll, no lag, no drag, but with head held erect and an imaginary high collar and toeing straight ahead with a long stride necessary to assure good posture, and so around the block, or if traffic permits a couple of half a mile or a mile not hurrying but stepping out briskly and swinging arms. This improves circulation in the veins. Lolling favors stagnation.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

"A casserole," says a friend of mine who is having domestic trouble, "is the easiest way for the modern housewife to conceal the fact that she is opening cans."

I pointed out to him that there had been immense strides in the food industry, that an ever-increasing proportion of what the food supply was canned, or otherwise prepared for immediate and easy use by the housewife.

"Look!" insisted my friend. "Why aren't they honest? If the tinned stuff is out of cans, why don't they just honestly dump the stuff out of the can into your plate? But not They resort to all sorts of trickery. Corned beef, mutton, hash, all that goes into the oven. Sometimes it has a handle on it like a frying pan. Sometimes it is just like your grandmother's old vegetable soup dish, only covered with tin. Into this casserole they dump a gob of hamburger they had cooked over from the butcher. Then a can of pork and beans. Then a can of yellow wax beans. Then a can of small white canned potatoes. Maybe, it they want to be real tricky and stylish, a can of ready-made gravy. Then they muddle it all up with a fork and put the lid on and stick it in the oven.

"Whoosc, boy, am I supposed to eat that thing?" I asked myself. When they take it out of the stove, they put a couple of sprigs of parsley on top and bring it proudly to the lovely color advertisements in the girls' magazines. Glamorous! Gracious living! Casseroles!"

I enquired what sort of food he liked.

"Roast beef," said he. "Pork chops. Fried chicken. Finnan haddie cooked in milk. Scalloped potatoes. Those fried potatoes, brown on one side. Cauliflower. Buttered turnips smothered in black pepper. They buy a casserole. It is a dish kind a woman has got to think about, and get cracked on, and sit around the kitchen watching, and baste, and season, and fret over, and I'll have none of it."

"By the way, how is your wife?" I enquired, socially.

"Bah! I might better have married my secretary," growled my friend.

And if he gets any more casserole, that's just what he might do.

Pen Problem Not Solved

Sudbury Star

The old post office pen has disappeared in Milwaukee. Mars the end of an era! Damned in the Christian faith into his children's minds.

It is a contention that the forgiveness of sin is the central doctrine of the faith, and in that he stands on solid ground, as a careful reading of his Bible discloses. Unthinking believers, as a result, are often not able to trust this doctrine, not because they do not believe it, but because they cannot rely upon it with a trusting spirit. And the reason they must rely upon it with a trusting spirit, is that they have not been told that God is going to put away all their sins and forgive them. If they repent, purely out of His grace. They have a lot of fears in their minds that the power of sin so much that they are afraid to rely on the power of God to forgive them their sins.

Now this friend of mine tells me that he has made it a point to try to get his children to use their minds like computers and keep their minds free of fear. He believes that the thing children fear most is the devil. Therefore, he constantly assures them that the heavenly Father overcame the powers of darkness through Jesus Christ. They have nothing to fear about the fact for the good God has taken care of all that.

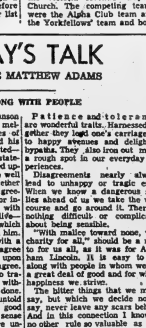
POWERS OF DARKNESS

A parent who takes his religion seriously told me recently how he tried from the very beginning of their lives, to teach the rudiments of Christian faith into his children's minds.



It is a contention that the forgiveness of sin is the central doctrine of the faith, and in that he stands on solid ground, as a careful reading of his Bible discloses. Unthinking believers, as a result, are often not able to trust this doctrine, not because they do not believe it, but because they cannot rely upon it with a trusting spirit. And the reason they must rely upon it with a trusting spirit, is that they have not been told that God is going to put away all their sins and forgive them. If they repent, purely out of His grace. They have a lot of fears in their minds that the power of sin so much that they are afraid to rely on the power of God to forgive them their sins.

WHERE MINERS TRAPPED

This is an artist's sketch of the underground workings at the Springhill, N.S., coal mine where more than 100 miners were trapped following an explosion in the mine. Rescue workers went down shaft at left, crossing by horizontal shaft at centre. Safety door in the centre section of this shaft shut out deadly gas fumes. Both shafts have a common entrance at surface level. (CP Photo).

Residents of Springhill Turn To Church for Strength in Crisis

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP)—This town of 8,000 in the Cumberland hills of Northern Nova Scotia turned Sunday to churches for strength to face the hours before a final toll of the Springhill mine disaster is known.

People prayed fervently, their lips moving in a petition for a miracle to make their hopes reality.

Rev. Thomas Buchanan, his voice shaking and sometimes breaking a sob, asked 450 parishioners at mass in St. John's Roman Catholic Church for "prayers . . . for any of our parishioners who may be dead."

Women and children outnumbered men about three-to-one. Several lit candles in a heart-shaped rack before a statue of the Virgin Mary.

"We ask those who may be or have been bereaved to look to God for strength," Father Buchanan said. "If there be any killed, may God have mercy on their souls."

Rev. D. R. Tupper said at a service in St. Andrew's United Church: "We come here with mixed feelings of sorrow and thanksgiving." He led prayers "for the blessing of those in need, those in hospital and for guidance, protection and divine strength."

The service began with reading of the 23rd Psalm. Women, almost angrily, wiped tears from their eyes: "Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death. . . ."

The town's main street was bare. Only a couple of restaurants and stores were open. Army cadets and soldiers kept the winding roadway clear for ambulances and official vehicles.

Hundreds of Sunday sightseers flooded in but were quickly diverted from streets leading to hospitals where families and miners awaited word of men still in the mine.

Two hearses drew up to Wesley United Church at noon. Miners carried closed caskets into the church where three of the 10 Sunday funerals for mine victims were held.

Directly across the street stands the miners' hall and next to it a stone - and - marble monument to another colliery explosion 65 years ago in which 125 miners died.

Miners by the score filed into the box-shaped, two-storey home of dreagerman Alex Spence who lost his life trying to save men trapped a mile underground.

At an emergency hospital, nurses and doctors talked or slept, waiting to hear the ambulance siren that would mean another miner saved.

Visiting Nurse Service of New York is the largest voluntary public health nursing service in any city. Under Marian G. Women's Activities

BRIDGE ST. WMS

The Bridge Street United church Women's Missionary Society met in the ladies' parlor on Thursday afternoon with the president, Mrs. Erle Denyes in the chair.

After a welcome by the president, the usual reports were read and received and the regular business conducted.

Miss Jean Boswell, director for Religious Education for Bridge Street church, spoke to the ladies with a request for them to help her to re-organize the Young Women's Mission Circle (Invictae) which had been disbanded. Miss Boswell also complimented the WMS for its generosity in taking care of the expenses in connection with the Mission Band.

Mrs. Denyes announced that the December meeting would be under the leadership of Mrs. Addette and Mrs. Ruggles' group.

Mrs. F. Houston's and Mrs. Fetterley's group took charge of the meeting with Mrs. Houston presiding. Bible reading was taken from Ephesians 2:1-10 - and 3:14-21.

Mrs. Schryver with the aid of a map, gave a complete introduction to the study book, "East from Burma", which covers Burma, Thailand, Indo-China, Malay, Borneo, Hong Kong, Formosa Korea and the Philippines.

Mrs. Dales favored with a solo "Watch and Pray."

Mrs. Denyes led a group of ladies, viz: Mrs. Fetterley, Mrs. Massey, Mrs. Pringle and Mrs. Countryman in a skit concerning Christian efforts to convert a Moslem woman to Christianity. The Moslems believe that everything is pre-ordained and cannot be altered. They are strong in their beliefs and are not easily shaken so that conversion is by no means easy.

After the meeting closed tea was served by the group in charge.

Searching Message on Alcoholism Given at O.T.F. Grand Conclave

The grand district conclave of the Ontario Temperance Federation began on Sunday afternoon in Victoria Ave. Baptist Church with approximately 60 present when a dynamic devotional hour of praise and prayer was held. The pastor, the Rev. Reverend L. Keith Daniel, presided, taking as his Scripture reading Matthew 5 14-20, and basing his brief talk on the words of Christ, "Except your righteousness shall exceed the righteousness of the scribes and Pharisees, ye shall in no case enter into the kingdom of heaven."

PHARISEE RIGHTEOUSNESS

The Pharisees were a "separatist" group, clinging to the little things which had been added to the decalogue, and in time became bigoted, contemptuous of any who differed from them in ceremonial laws. Hence their contempt of Jesus Christ and His law of love. "It is easy to be a Pharisee, and to be contemptuous," said Mr. Daniel. "The righteousness of the past is not enough for the present. Generations change, as do the ways of life. A city could not have water if it did there would be outbreaks of typhoid fever. It is interesting to note that Elijah was not sent to a Jewish widow, but to a Gentile widow, and Naaman, a Syrian was healed of his leprosy. The love of Jesus reaches out to all. There must be warnings to the young regarding alcohol, and in this we need Divine help."

Prayers were offered for guidance by several of the assembly.

Jack Major favored with a fine solo, "Have Faith in God," accompanied by Mr. William Cook, church organist, at the piano, who also accompanied the singing of the various hymns.

On Sunday evening the conclave met in Bridge St. United Church with Dr. Douglas J. Wilson, teacher, writer and internationally known feature editor of the Montreal Star, as guest speaker.

Others on the platform included: Alderman E. McCabe, Taylor Franklin, Rev. H. M. Davis, F. S. Fallwell, M.P., Dr. H. N. Wilkinson, president, the Rev. Z. W. Smalley, field secretary, and Royal Moulton, executive secretary of the O.T.F., all of whom spoke briefly, voicing their appreciation at being present, and their hope that much could be done to stay the inroads of alcoholism among the young.

The service opened with a song service led by the Rev. Keith Daniel, and the Scripture reading by Dr. Wilson from Colossians 3, which was followed by the anthem "O Love of God", rendered by the choir, with Mr. S. Alec Gordon at the console of the organ. The prayer for Divine guidance was given by the pastor of the church, the Rev. Harry M. Davis, after which Mrs. William Burgoyne, mezzo-soprano soloist, sang "He Was Wounded for our Transgressions."

Dr. Wilson prefaced his address by saying he was the fourth generation of Methodists, who had stood foursquare for temperance in which there had been 'no quarter' given; but that through the years he had been able to view the situation from both sides.

HUMAN LIFE CITY

His address took the form of a verbal picture of the main street in human life, on one corner of which was a home where fellowship and understanding abided, where children grow up into desirable good citizens. On the second corner a school, which takes over the duties of the home where the teachers instruct the children in more than curriculum subjects; instill values; tell about alcohol, its effects on the human system, and in general implant temperance in the child's mind.

On the third corner a commercial liquor store, from which precincts comes those eye-catching golden scrolls, which acts so subtly on the young mind. On the fourth corner is the Institution with its social centre portion; the portion for mental illnesses; and the place where offenders of the alcohol are re-habilitated.

In St. Vincent de Paul, Dr. Wilson mentioned that there are four groups of Alcoholics Anonymous which meet weekly in both the French and English languages, and of the fine work done to re-habilitate the alcoholic sick, and that in five years 90 per cent have not returned to penal institutions.

WHAT IS THE CHURCH DOING?

The great offenders in leading the young astray are the night clubs and the cocktail parties. When one has been an inmate of a penal institution, on release he is nervous, cannot even conduct himself safely across the street, and does not know how to buy goods. They must be retrained. What is being done for these? Has the church an organization to redeem one of these? When he is let out of prison, where he spends 16 hours in solitary confinement daily, he has $10 and a ticket given him. Where does he go? Likely to the tavern, drinks, gets into a fight, and is re-arrested, with no chance to redeem himself.

Dr. Wilson mentioned the staggering cost of medicine, justice, and rehabilitation; that $20,000,000 had been received by the Income Tax through commissions, in one year.

There are three attitudes for young people: the emotional, dead against the use of alcohol; the educational approach; if facts could be assembled, and disstimulated, they would speak for themselves. In this connection he cited a young fellow having the urge to drink, and wishing he could stop. It was suggested that when he felt he had had enough, to ask for sarsaparilla. "But", he replied, "I'm too full for sarsaparilla."

Dr. Wilson suggested the reading of a fine book entitled, "The Cup of Fury," in which 75 began as social drinkers, and died as a result.

There are Spiritual obedience factors on Christians. You do not need to drink; a simple 'no' a request for a coke will save the day. All are sorry for an alcoholic; but the problem drinker is the most tragic case as it affects the home.

DO NOT BE STAMPEDED

In conclusion, Dr. Wilson reiterated that you do not have to drink; don't be stampeded by numbers; drinking is not necessary for a happy life. Let Lord be your guide and never, never break fellowship with people. In all decisions, the question is, 'what are you doing for your brother; what is the spiritual outlook?' You can see a fashion that will be impressive to others by letting the love of Christ dwell in you richly, and "whatsoever you do, do it heartily as unto the Lord."

Taylor Franklin expressed the thanks of the assembly to Dr. Wilson for his outstanding address, and to the planning committee headed by Rev. Eric W. Smalley, and the executive secretary, Royal F. Moulton, for their fine assistance in the conclave.

REACHES PEAK AT 51

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. Nancy Bayley, head of the child development section of the National Institute of Mental Health, says man probably reaches his peak of intelligence at the age of 50. Her theory, advanced at a meeting here, runs counter to the general belief of educational testers that the peak is reached at about 21.

FUR FASHIONS

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Wonderful ways with furs have given new impetus to winter fashions. Two furs are better than one in many a new fur garment and there are some strange and interesting alliances to prove this such as one we saw of sealskin and lynx. More conservative is this long jacket of black Persian lamb bedecked with a shawl collar of tawny otter. The trim jacket has six composition buttons marking its doublebreasted line and the sides are slit for ease in motion. A splendid coat to wear over a very slim, plain two-piece dress or with a skirt and blouse or dressy sweater outfit. A useful and versatile fur garment, this, and nicely indicative of the new trend in fur fashions.

Secretary to 12 Successive Mayors of Ottawa Retires

OTTAWA (CP) — May Byers capably-through a flower-brightened window of her apartment here before she underwent a question about her plans for retirement.

"I'll have to find out what people do who don't work," said the 64-year-old, silver - haired woman who has been secretary to 13 successive mayors of Ottawa.

During her 37 busy years at the city hall, she admits, she really didn't have time to plan her off-duty years.

She came here from Toronto in 1918 on the staff of the old ministry of munitions. The following year she left government service to become secretary to the then mayor, Harold Fisher.

WIDE KNOWLEDGE

Since then, the gentle - voiced and much-loved figure-at city hall has become more than a secretary.

Fellow workers have described her as librarian, receptionist, research worker and "a walking encyclopaedia of civic affairs."

When Miss Byers officially retired, Mayor Charlotte Whitton said: "I would take two or three persons to replace her. The capital's first woman mayor, Miss Whitton has held office since 1951.

When the mayor attended Queen Elizabeth's coronation in 1953, she took Miss Byers along to complete the city hall representation.

Miss Byers said the trip was "a thrill," and that Mayor Whitton was a "super-guide." She says Miss Whitton shows tremendous energy and capacity for her job as civic leader.

LURE OF FLOWERS

Of the dozen mayors for whom she has worked, only Miss Whitton and three former mayors are still living. But Miss Byers doesn't expect to write any book about the capital's chief magistracies, although, she said with a twinkle, "everybody tells me I should write a book."

Instead, she plans to make gardening her chief hobby. It is a hobby started in childhood, when she lived on a farm at Ballieboro, near Peterborough, Ont.

She'll do her gardening at her summer farm home at South March, Ont., a small community on the Ottawa River some 12 miles west of here.

She loves the country home acquired about a year ago. But she also delights in the scene from her city apartment's front window, which overlooks the Ottawa River and Hull, Que., silhouetted against the Gatineau Hills.

TAKES LIFE EASY

And now that she has more time, she plans to revive her stamp collection, neglected during her busy years.

At present, she's taking life easy. In February an illness sent her to hospital and a more recent one confined her to her home for several days, forcing her to miss a farewell party planned by city hall staff.

Planning to move some of her office plaque's furnishings to the country next spring, she has a special place at the farm for one particular picture.

A gift from Mayor Whitton, it is a large, silk screen print depicting a forest of tall trees, a few dead limbs and a patch of blue sky.

Miss Byers says it reminds her of a verse in Ecclesiastes:

"One generation passeth away, and another generation cometh: But the earth abideth forever."

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

SHAPE EYEBROWS TO ACCENT BEST FEATURES

If face tends to be round, avoid sharp curves or strokes at both ends of the brow.

Did you know that the way you shape and make-up your eyebrows can change your whole appearance? Well, it can, since proper shaping accents your best features, de-emphasizes those which are not quite so perfect.

We'll consider the subject in general first. The eyebrow line should consist of a series of hairline strokes which begin just about where the roots of the natural brows begin, then feather lightly outward. In pencilling, the strokes should be deepest at the outer end, diminish almost to the vanishing point.

Your pencilled brows should stimulate the natural as much as possible, look as be-cause and natural. But you can accomplish an amazing improvement in them without calling too much attention to your artifice—especially to this season when understated make-up is the trend.

For example, you may use both a black pencil and a brown one to excellent effect—pencilling your face brow with fairly heavy pencilled brows. Fill in the deeper strokes (those especially which are closest to the skin or hair roots) with the black pencil and the rest of the feathering-out with the brown pencil.

A nose that is not pert and perfect can be made much less noticeable by the way you "do" your brows. You realize, when you think about it, that an eyebrow which curves down toward the nose simply calls attention to this feature. If the nose is long, or thin, or a bit sharp, the down-curve of the brow just above it can exaggerate the defect. Or, if the nose is a trifle large, brows that are too close together may make it seem more out of proportion.

Keep your pencilled eyebrows in proportion to your entire assortment of facial features and draw those lines with regard to the general shape of your face. If you have (let's be frank!) a suggestion of a droop at the jawline, you will want a droop to your pencilled brows no matter how chic this may appear on fashion models.

If the general effect of your face is roundness, you will avoid a round effect in your eyebrows! That means no sharp down-strokes either at the beginning of the eyebrows or at the ending.

You may belong to the generation of women who so thoroughly plucked their eyebrows when they were under 21 that plucking has ceased to be a problem to you. But if it is, restrict your extractions to the spaces between the eyebrows and under the main line. Don't tweeze above the brows.

Clear your eyeshadow and mascara to the occasion and the time of day or night and you can't go very far wrong. In bright daylight, just a hint of eyeshadow, or none at all, is the rule. The same applies to mascara. But, if you are planning to spend the evening under soft, flattering lights, you may indulge more lavishly in these beauty aids—with subtlety, of course.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

YOUR HUSBAND NEEDS MORE SELF-CONFIDENCE

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I was interested in the letter in your column about the young man who wants to marry against his parents' wishes, because it was so similar to what happened to my own life.

I eloped, was married for three weeks and then the marriage was annulled, because of finding out that the man was already married.

Some years later I married again and have a child, but my husband keeps asking me questions about that early marriage, which makes me feel that he either doesn't trust me or he's jealous. For example, he asks me: "Did you love this man?" and I honestly don't remember. Every time he brings up the subject, the conversation is a dig at me.

I love my husband—he stands for everything I ever wanted or needed—and I want him to trust me.

How can I get him to do this? Please answer as I need help so badly. — Mrs. K.

Dear Mrs. K.:

It's always very tragic when either a wife or a husband is unable, or unwilling to do as the poet said and "Let the dead past bury its dead."

If your husband's insistence on keeping alive this long ago and very sad experience is the only thing that keeps you from being really happy together, then one can only conclude that he lacks the self-confidence to believe that you could possibly love him as much as you once loved this other man.

The would mean that he just is not nearly as mature as he ought to be for a really mature man would pity you for that early tragedy and want to love you all the more and do everything he possibly could, to make up to you for it. He'd tell you, once and for all, to put all memories of that disastrous youthful folly behind you; that it has no bearing on your life now, and that all that should concern you both is to create the happiest possible present and future.

Since, as I've already said, it seems likely that his present attitude stems from a lack of confidence in himself, it would be your part, of course, to do everything you can to bolster up his confidence and make him believe in himself as the man you love and need.

Do you take every opportunity to let him know how much you love and need him? Do you show him affectionately when he does something for you and tell him how much you appreciate all the good qualities he has? I'm sure that he must have a great many good qualities if you love and need him, because you wouldn't feel that way if he didn't show you kindness and consideration and affection.

What I suggest is that any time he brings up your "past," you find a way to keep it from developing into an argument. Say something like "Honey, it was all so long ago and I was just a child. I'm grown-up now, and you're the one I love and need. Can't we forget the past and just be happy together?" If you try to make your response to anything he says a loving one, it seems as though it would, in time, make a real impression on him.

It might help you if you would talk the problem over with someone in your community whom you could go to, from time to time, when you felt particularly upset and who could guide you in working out a happier relationship with your husband. If you'd like to do this, look in your city telephone book for the address of the local Family Service organization, call them up or write them a letter and ask if you can have an appointment to discuss a difficult family problem. All problems are easier to solve if there is someone at hand to listen and advise at times of moments, and I think you'd be wise to make a connection with this organization.

New Fashion Figure

BY TRACY ADRIAN

The new fashion figure for the season is said to be young, high and smooth with a line that flows back over the shoulders and falls straight in front.

For example here is a town suit that features a slender yet graceful silhouette. It is made of imported wool-with-silk tweed. A broad band of leather borders accentuate the beautiful shape of the lightly curved lines of the jacket. And the slender skirt has an inverted pleat in back which opens slightly in fluid movement.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

WHEN TO CROSS OFF LAST NAME ON CHRISTMAS CARD

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I both have business positions, and as we have both become increasingly busy, we figured out that this year it would be very practical for us to have our names imprinted on our Christmas cards. (Heretofore we have signed our cards.) Last summer while we were on our vacation, I saw a collection of very lovely cards at a specialty shop at the resort, bought a generous supply, and ordered our names imprinted on them like this: Mary and John Robinson. They have just been delivered, and it seems to me that I made a slight blunder in adding the last name. They seem too "formal," with the last name, and using no Christian name for close friends. If I did make a mistake, is there anything I could do to make these cards even 'more-or-less' correct to send?

M.

You made no mistake, and please don't worry. As a matter of fact, the name-form you ordered is the form customarily chosen for a general order. Then you print on them the name as-is when it is appropriate to include the last name . . . so often necessary for identification to not-close friends, acquaintances, and so forth. (Particularly necessary of course when the first names are not unusual.) Here's what to do on the cards to be sent to relatives and intimate friends:

1. Cross off (in ink) your last name.

2. Write above the names "Dear vo(edly" or "Lovingly" or Affectionately" or whatever is appropriate.

3. And (if you wish, and I hope you do wish) write a personal message below the name.

So you will see, I'm sure, that you can easily, and gracefully, too adapt these cards to all your relationships.

WHOSE NAME FIRST, WHEN NAMES ARE IMPRINTED?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When the names of a married couple are to be imprinted under the message on Christmas cards, should the husband's or the wife's name come first? That is, Mary and John Clark or John and Mary Clark? — Reader

The wife's name comes first when the names are imprinted: Mary and John Clark. This sequence of names is more courteous to the wife.

The "Y.W." Dining-Room at Owen Sound

By Mary Moore

The first time I had lunch at the "Y.W." in Owen Sound the food was so good I thought "this is too good to be true." The second time, without any reservation, the food was just as top quality.

So I took steps. I wanted to know who was the cook. I wanted, if possible, to have her recipe for some delicious jellied meat I had eaten. She very kindly told a few of the set-up at the Owen Sound "Y.W."

Miss Clara Wood is executive director and Mrs. M. D. McCullough is residence director. The cooking is done by two women — Mrs. Harry Jackson and Mrs. George Semabaugh — each one being on duty for one-half month, with the help of their assistant, Mrs. Ina Shoultice.

From the evidence of my own eyes and palate I would say ma'am be Mrs. Jackson excels at meat cookery. But I'm told of Mrs. Semabaugh's pastry, "it melts!"

So folks, if you are in the Owen Sound area and want a highly recommended luncheon spot try the "Y.W."

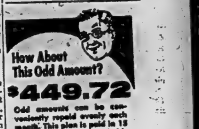
As given to me, here is the exact wording of:

MRS. JACKSON'S JELLIED POKE HOCKS

Thoroughly wash the pork hocks in salt and water, cover with boiling water and cook over medium heat until tender. Discard all muscle, skin and particles of fat (this is important she says) using only the whole meat. Add 1-2 teaspoon salt and the same of pepper, the meat having all ready absorbed some salt. Place in loaf pan and pour over it the liquor in which it was cooked. Let set in refrigerator.

Note: I have a little P.S. to add to that. Experienced cooks are apt to assume that everybody knows all of the little in-between steps that are necessary in making a dish like this by second nature and that they are not necessarily left out when describing it. Maybe that is why Mrs. Jackson did not mention adding salt or any other flavouring to her cooking water. (But she does mention that the meat has already absorbed some salt.) She did not say how many pork hocks she had used when she added the 1-2 teaspoon each of salt and pepper. Maybe enough to fill one standard loaf pan. I assume that the liquor was chilled in order to skim off the excess fat, for the jelly on the meat I ate was clear, firm and fat-free.

I am going to ask Mrs. Semabaugh to divulge the secrets of her pastry that "melts," so keep an eye out. Maybe we'll cribbage in the lunch pastry cooks yet!



The Cooking School Rule is this for:

JELLIED MEATS

Use 2 lbs. lean meat plus the bones attached to them — usually 1 pound in all. Use best meats to jell are veal, chicken, lamb or pork. Boil in salted water to cover until meat falls from bones, adding, if desired, 1 bay leaf, slice of onion, pepper berries or any herb or seasoning to which you are partial. Strain. Chill broth and skim off fat. Pick out bones, gristle (except veal), skin and fat. Slice or cut in chunks or grind. (Sliced is best). To be sure it will jell firmly soak 2 tablespoons gelatin in 4 tablespoons cold water and dissolve in 2 1-3 cups hot meat broth. Cool. Pour over sliced meat in loaf pan. Add more salt if needed. Chill until set.

JOHNSTOWN W.A.

JOHNSTOWN — The Johnstown Women's Association met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bush on Thursday afternoon. The meeting was opened by the third vice-president, Mrs. Glenn Stickle with "Let the Beauty of Jesus be Seen in Me," followed by prayer by Mrs. G. A. Puttenham.

The Scripture reading was found in Psalm 73, by Mrs. G. C. Stickle. The "Lesson Thoughts" were given by Mrs. C. J. Brunt. "Man's point may be perfect to him, but if he leaves out God, all his for nought."

Mrs. Brunt reminded the W.A. that the 11th of November is Remembrance Day. God is personally in the midst of His people and He will take care of His own, even in war. God is more than defence. "The Lord of Hosts is with us yet." A short prayer was said by Mrs. Brunt. "God is Our Refuge and Strength," was sung.

During the business session a letter was read from Mrs. H. Henfy of Frankford, inviting the Johnstown ladies to attend their fall tea and bazaar on November 14th in the Rose Lowery hall of Frankford United Church. A W.M.S. letter was also read concerning literature.

The December meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Mallory. It was decided to exchange Christmas gifts with Mrs. Glenn Stickle in place of same.

The program committee will be in charge of Mrs. Jack Ferguson. It was decided to bring something for several needy families in Trenton to the next meeting — canned goods, vegetables or what have you?

Mrs. Glenn Stickle welcomed the visitors and an old member. The birthday box was passed and all sang happy birthday to Mrs. Puttenham.

Several readings were given: "The Mother Tells Her Story," by Mrs. E. Bush; "The Father Gives His Version," by Mrs. Puttenham; "Who is My Neighbor?" by Mrs. Smith; a Missionary reading was presented by Mrs. M. Mallory; "Friendship Around the World" by Mrs. Clayton Curtis.

A contest was supplied by Mrs. E. Stickle with Mrs. J. Farrar winning the prize.

A table was laid with good things to eat and all sat down to it, spending an enjoyable half hour.

Mrs. Stickle thanked the hostess for the use of her home and conveners for helping to make the meeting a success.

Women's Institute

PLAINFIELD W.I.

The Nov. meeting of Plainfield W.I. was held Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. E. Emerson with an attendance of 31.

The president, Mrs. G. Swan opened the meeting.

The secretary, Mrs. Kerr, read the minutes of the last meeting, also the correspondence. It was decided the girls' club expenses be paid, also the delegates' expenses to the area convention; $19 was realized from the Variety concert.

It was also decided to have Miss Brant from the Child Welfare Department, speak to the W.I. in the near future. Plans were made for a euchre in the hall, Thursday evening, November 15.

Mrs. Swan introduced Miss Thibaudeau, the Home economist, who spoke on "Girls' Club Work". She explained twenty clubs for Hastings County. The girls find sewing and hand work most interesting. Some of the girls have no clothes closets and they have the opportunity to learn how to make them. This proves a great help to the girls.

Hastings County she considered was the best on club gardens, plenty of vegetables, and seeing their gardens are the main things, always try all the new rare vegetables, then one can learn to know what they are.

Miss Thibaudeau found 'Achievement Day' most interesting, especially their record books, and skits and judging. The younger members should be complimented as the age group is 12 to 26 years.

A fashion parade gives a wonderful idea for Achievement Day. Mothers are urged to help the girls along with their club work. Each girl and leaders will receive a silver spoon.

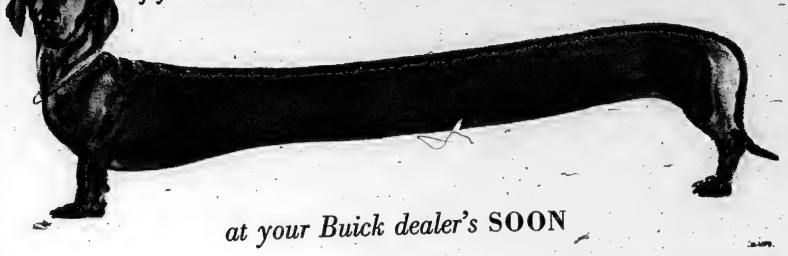
Each member enjoyed Miss Thibaudeau's talk and a vote of thanks was extended to her.

Mrs. Skelly and Mrs. Salmon gave full reports on the area convention.

Mrs. F. Hodgens, convener of Citizenship and Education, had the program: a paper on "Education" was given by Mrs. H. Palmer, who said "far too many people have set a false value on education; often you hear 'he does not need any more education, he has all he will ever use.' They imply that education is only for a certain class, that others have no need of it. That is not so. Education is for everybody and everyone should have the benefit of it. It is valued as a means to success. It is not the thing at which we make a living that always counts; it is what we are and what we have in our lives to make them rich and full. Education makes us more delightful to ourselves and more useful to the world. Primary education begins in the home, the foundation of obedience, cleanliness, proper health habits, honesty, courtesy and good English have all been laid long before the child starts to school."

The motto, "Teen agers need models not critics", was given by Mrs. J. Salmon; a reading, "Psychology for the Homemaker" by Mrs. Don Hall; a reading, "The Teen Years" by Mrs. Hodgens.

An auction sale of aprons was held and the sum of $9.05 was realized.



Refreshments were served and a social half hour enjoyed.

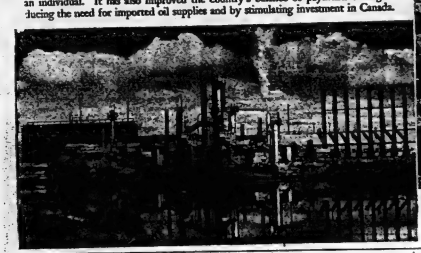
Canada Seventh as Oil Producer



In Canada's West, oil and wheat now go together like bread and butter. The boom in oil is bringing Canada into the picture as a major producer of petroleum. This development of a two-crop economy has added jam to the bread and butter of many an individual. It has also improved the country's balance of payments through reducing the need for imported oil supplies and by stimulating investment in Canada.

Constant research maintains high quality and further improves the processing of oil products. The operator of this automatic electronic analyzer for low temperature distillation is wearing a safety mask for protection.

Oil consumption has tripled since 1946 when the domestic supply was only about a million barrels. The 1955 output of over 128 million barrels now meets the needs of all of Western Canada and part of Ontario and production has increased by almost 40% in the first half of 1956.

The search for oil goes on by helicopter, horseback, canoe, and on foot. Exploration and development in Alberta alone cost $340,000,000 in 1955 but we now rank seventh as world crude oil producer although only accounting for 2.3% of world production.

Chances Were Hundred to One Against Coming Out Alive

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP) — "I never thought I'd see the light of day. My chances were a hundred to one against coming out alive."

That's what Bruce Canning said Sunday as he rested at his home after two days trapped a mile underground by a coal-mine explosion.

As he spoke, church bells rang in this Nova Scotia mining community, announcing special services for men killed in the disaster.

Bruce—his slim build and sandy hair make him look younger than his 25 years—was working his first shift in several days, under foreman Charlie Burton, when the explosion ripped through No. 4 bankhead of the Cumberland Railway and Coal Company Thursday. The blast was heard 42 miles away.

FELT GUSH OF AIR

"All we felt down there was a big gush of air," Bruce said.

"Then Charlie said there was a break in the (power) line. We didn't know where it was.

"We walked to the 4 (4,400-foot level) bottion after that. The smoke was getting pretty heavy. Then the gas came.

"We managed to crawl to an old electric water pulp and got it going. That saved our lives."

Bruce couldn't tell how many men were around him in the darkness. They got air by holding their faces near the pump exhaust. The pump acted as an air compressor, sucking air through the pipe normally used to draw in water and pushing it through the exhaust.

"After a while we decided there was no use staying there any longer. We tore our shirts to pieces, wet them in some rusty water, put them over our faces and pushed on."

BUMPED INTO MEN

Bruce said as he crawled along in the cold dampness, he bumped into several men.

"I couldn't tell whether they were dead or alive. It was an awful feeling, not being able to help them. There was nothing I could do.

"Some of the fellows told me I was praying out loud. I don't remember that but I know I was praying all the time.

"I passed out several times. I couldn't get enough air. My heart was beating so hard I thought it would burst.

"You'll never know what it's like not to have enough air. If I had air I could stay down four weeks and it wouldn't put me out any.

CRAWLED TO PIPE

"Eventually I crawled to the pump house at 33 (3,300-foot level) and threw my arms around the air pipe. There was a little air coming out of it."

That's where the draegarmen found Bruce unconscious Saturday night. He woke up in hospital Sunday to see the sun. Later he was sent home, still feeling "pretty wobbly."

"It's an awful feeling being gassed," Bruce said. He gathered his four-year-old daughter Linda and son Philip, almost 2, around him as if he hadn't seen him for a long time and hadn't expected to see them again.

Bruce said that, despite his wife's protest, he planned to go back into the mine to help bring others out.

"One thing for sure, I'll never work in the mines again," he said.

Memorial to Dead Unveiled and Dedicated

PICTON.—With a simple but impressive service, a memorial to Prince Edward County men who gave their lives in World War II was unveiled and dedicated Sunday afternoon. The memorial on which the names are inscribed is in the form of an altar, located in front of the memorial erected to the dead of World War I.

County Warden Clifford Wilson officially unveiled the memorial and spoke briefly in tribute to the fallen. The Odd Fellows' band played for "O Canada". Following the prayer of dedication by Rev. F. J. Whiteley, the Last Post was sounded and following the two minutes of silence, "Reveille" was played. The benediction closed the service.

Prior to the unveiling, war veterans paraded to the United church for the annual Remembrance service at which Rev. F. J. Whiteley was the preacher. With Major H. M. Reid as marshal, the parade proceeded from the church to the memorial for the second service which was largely attended.

JOHNSTOWN

Message Given On 'Personality' At Church Service

JOHNSTOWN — Church and Sunday School was held at Johnstown Church on Sunday afternoon. Rev. A. C. McCallum was the speaker, who said "You are to be congratulated for keeping your church going for such a long time, even through difficult times." His talk was on "Let your light so shine before men that they may see your good works and glorify your Father which is in heaven." Mr. McCallum said that he felt sorry that some people segregate religion from every day life. God, when He created man, breathed His own breath in him making him an individual, each with special individualities which makes you, "you."

STRONGEST FORCE

"Personality is the strongest force in a person. It is something to be sought. If we are noble, our work will be great and noble. There is a piece of work in this community for you to do, and it can only be done by you.

"Dr. Barnardo was walking down the street in London, and seeing a dirty and ragged boy, took him in, fed and clothed him; soon he took others in and started the Barnardo House for Boys, sending them from there as good, respectable citizens, and no boy was refused admission.

"Jesus was the fulfillment of prophecy. In Mark, Matthew, Luke and John we have one Gospel being told in four different ways to help four different peoples to understand. If we were letting our light shine the way we should, the world would not be in the predicament it now finds itself in."

Mr. McCallum named many famous institutions such as the Salvation Army and Dr. Schweitzer in Africa healing broken bodies. Someone asked him why, he, a great musician and doctor, would go batsy himself in Africa, but he said, "I am Jesus' doctor. One has to meet Jesus to be really great.

Sewers, Water Mains, Piping From Central Heating Plants All Above Ground at Aklavik

OTTAWA (CP) — An ingenious method has been developed by federal engineers to ensure that Canada's new Arctic community of Aklavik will have sewer, water and other services as good as those in modern Canadian cities.

Plans have been completed by the northern affairs department for Aklavik's sewer and water mains, piping from a central hot water heating system and electrical and telephone circuits to be above ground in what is known as a utilidor.

The utilidor will help prevent a recurrence of conditions which have made unsuitable and unsanitary the present site of Aklavik, on a delta on the west bank of the Mackenzie River 70 miles south of the Arctic Ocean.

The permafrost on which Aklavik now is located consists of equal proportions of silt and ice crystal. However, the permafrost's protective mass covering has been removed in most areas of the community.

As a result, the heat of summer and ground warmth created by buildings have turned the area into mud. Buildings sink and it is impossible to build adequate services such as water disposal.

These quagmire conditions won't be repeated on the new Aklavik site, on the east channel of the Mackenzie a few miles south of the present location. All buildings and services are being constructed in such a way that the permafrost ering will not be disturbed.

The utilidor will consist of some three miles of box-like structure, elevated above ground level on small trestles. Various pipes required for services will be carried inside the utilidor. Individual homes and buildings with the water purification, sewage, heating and power plant a central telephone system.

The steps between the pipes in the utilidor, measuring six by four feet, will be built with hinged lids to keep the system from freezing. The pipes for the hot water heating system also help prevent freezing.

The utilidor will follow the contour of the land and be elevated three to four feet above ground level. Elevation over roads will be high enough to permit vehicles to pass underneath. Pumps will be required to move water and sewage through the piping.

The utilidor is one of many methods being used at Aklavik. A new 500-acre site, some 120 miles inside the Arctic Circle and 11,500 miles northwest of Edmonton, to prevent the permafrost from melting in summer.

The foundation for roads and buildings consists of a thick pad of sandy gravel laid on top of the moss, insulating the permafrost. The foundations for large buildings also consists of 30-foot poles driven into the permafrost, where they freeze solidly.

Construction of the utilidor and the water purification, sewage disposal and heating plants will start next year. Target date for completion of the four-year job of relocating Aklavik at a cost of about $10,000,000 is Sept. 1, 1959.

Officials of the northern affairs department said work at the site progressed on schedule last summer except for a delay attributed to the steel strike in the United States.

Suppliers delivered only four of nine earth movers required for construction of a four-mile road to the site of Aklavik's airport. As a result only 2½ miles of the road were built.

The airport, which will link Aklavik permanently with the outside world, is expected to be completed by the summer of 1958.

Aklavik now is isolated during freeze-up and the spring breakup.

Plans also are nearing completion for the utilidor, hospital, school, administration building and other larger-type structures. They will be built during the three years.

Workmen also completed construction last summer of a wharf, four large warehouses, a workshop and 64 small homes for Eskimos and Indians. Eleven such homes have been built in the summer of 1956 and 17 more are planned, for a total of 92.

The homes will be used by construction workers during the remainder of the building program. They will then be sold to Eskimos and Indians planning to live in Aklavik.

Board Protects Family Against Destitution

HALIFAX (CP) — What happens financially to the families of men killed in the mine disaster at the Cumberland Railway and Coal Co colliery at Springhill, N.S. Thursday night? Ross Rowe of the workmen's compensation board here said that while nothing can compensate for the loss of loved ones, some are protected against destitution.

This is the part that the workmen's compensation board will play:

Widows receive an initial payment of $100, as soon as the husband's death is known. They receive $20 a month thereafter and $20 per month for each child to the age of 16, or 18 if the child is attending school.

The monthly maximum the widow can get in combined widow's grants and children's allowances is $150. If the widow remarries, she signs off for a lump sum of $500.

MINERS HELP

A checkoff system in the mines provides that 30 cents from each miner goes to a benefit fund yearly. The company provides $75a per death to the family and $200 per death to the board's $300 forward funeral expenses.

Voluntary contributions from all over the country have been pouring into Springhill since the relief fund set up to tide families over the emergency. This program is handling the flow of clothing and rent.

Treasurer of the fund is the Springhill manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

Traffic accidents accounted for most of the toll — 17 deaths. Drownings claimed two lives, one girl was burned to death and three were killed when a plane struck a car.

A Canadian Press survey between 6 p.m. local time Friday and midnight last Monday, that is 11 persons died in Ontario, five in Quebec, four in Alberta and three in British Columbia.

Cardinal Takes Refuge in Cellar Of U.S. Embassy

VIENNA (Reuters) — Cardinal Mindszenty, newly-released Primate of Hungary, was reported to have told a German reporter before Sunday's Soviet attack in Hungary: "The West should not think that Hungary is dead for a long as the troops are in our land."

The Cardinal is reported to have taken refuge in the American legation in Budapest after Soviet artillery and tanks began attacking the capital early Sunday).

Herbert Lucht, the German reporter said Mindszenty told him in an interview Saturday that the situation in Hungary "can possibly be solved at any moment." Lucht said: "Whatever happens, the West should not leave Hungary alone."

Next Few Months May Be Most Momentous in British History

LONDON (CP)—Britain stands at the heart of a great crisis. The next few weeks may see the most momentous in her history.

The government, led by Prime Minister Eden, has rejected an overwhelming vote of the United Nations General Assembly for an immediate ceasefire in the Suez. Thus, Anglo-French forces will continue to carry out what is described officially as a "police action."

The military consequences lie in the future and are incalculable. A quick victory would solve problems and silence criticism. Any other results might bring down the government.

During the weekend, there were signs of growing restiveness. Following the debate of Commons Saturday after snubbing the General Assembly resolution, Eden was angrily booed by a substantial section of the big crowd outside the Royal Albert Hall meeting.

At political meetings leading Conservative ministers have been badly heckled. Eden and his colleagues are being held widely and a stop-Eden-in-Suez took place Sunday in Trafalgar Square.

More than 10,000 persons marched boldly down Whitehall to Prime Minister Eden's Downing Street residence Sunday for a protest against his Suez policy. They chanted: "Eden must go," and many carried banners reading "Low not war."

The marchers, many of them women with children, were turned back at Downing Street by several dozen mounted policemen and scores on foot. A number of persons were arrested. Twenty arrests were made.

How the Suez affair in Britain faces a situation unique in modern times. This is perhaps the first occasion since the American Revolution that, this seasoned, sophisticated democracy has entered upon a full military action when all signs indicate that only half, or less than half, the nation supports it.

The Boer War divided the Mother of Parliaments but the split was not so dramatic nor so deep-seated.

Looking back on Saturday's debate, it appears certain constitutional matters and the situation is of unusual interest. Britain's two-party parliamentary democracy rests to a considerable extent on the assumption that the two parties are broadly in agreement on such fundamental issues as peace and war. Now that presupposition has clearly broken down, what happens?

Possibly the only check left is public opinion. And public opinion, he said, moves slowly in a country in which radio and television debate on matters beyond Parliament is forbidden for a 14-day period.

The present parliamentary division has been made unmistakably clear in a series of parliamentary debates, mainly variations on the same two or three themes.

Feelings have run high. And Britain's split personality is plainly mirrored in the country.

Straw polls show divergent opinions, newspaper correspondences reflect disquiet. Two Liberal newspapers, which strongly support military measures, The News Chronicle and the Manchester Guardian, have been faced with letters protesting the government's policies, far outnumbering those in favor.

A Conservative speaker in Saturday's debate said that while many of his colleagues had misgivings, everyone did not support 100 per cent behind the prime minister.

Anthony Nutting has resigned as minister of state for foreign affairs in protest against the attack on Egypt. The resignation, announced during the weekend, was a particularly bitter blow because Nutting was a protege of Eden's.

In the parliamentary press gallery experienced reporters use words like fantastic to describe the crisis. Most disapprove the government's policy, though some defend it on the grounds that the end justifies the means.

A possible encouragement for Eden is that Australia and New Zealand, originally critical, now support him. In a radio broadcast Saturday, he said he felt that Canada and the United States will gradually come around to the same way of thinking.

ENGLISH REPLACES RUSS

BERLIN (Reuters)—English or French will replace Russian as the first foreign language to be taught at a number of East German secondary schools, the East German education minister Fritz Lange has announced.

RESCUE SAID MIRACLE OF CANADIAN MINING

Leading race against time to save 113 miners trapped at Springhill, N.S., Harold C. Gordon, vice-president and general manager of Dosco's coal operations, told reporters it would take a miracle to save the men believed trapped a mile below the surface in a mine filled with pockets of gas and explosive dust. Shrity afterwards the miracle occurred, with the majority of the trapped men being found alive.

Norman Boss, seen being comforted here by his wife, Sadie, was one of lucky miners who reached safety. A group of 200 miners working in a pit near where the explosion occurred were not injured by the blast, which is believed to have happened at the 3,200-foot level.

This boot, torn from the foot of some miner, is mute evidence of the terrific blast which rocked the mine. Life all but stopped for a time, and disaster are as the first leg of a rescue operation got under way. In 1891 a mine explosion snuffed out the lives of 125 of the town's men. The survival of all but half of the doomed men is the greatest miracle of Canadian mining. (Central Press Canadian).

Syrian Army Cuts Oil Line From Iraq

LONDON (AP) — The foreign office said today it has received information that Syrian army units have sabotaged an oil pipeline cutting off the flow of oil from Iraq to the Mediterranean.

A foreign office spokesman placed the responsibility for the sabotage directly on the Syrian government, which is allied militarily to Egypt.

Earlier the foreign office had said it knew there had been "sabotage" at two pumping stations in Syria of the Iraq Petroleum Company.

YANKEE SETS SAIL

GLOUCESTER, Mass. (AP) — The 95-foot brigantine Yankee, carrying 23 maritime - minded adventurers, sailed out of Gloucester Sunday on the first leg of a round-the-world voyage of 45,000 miles. Capt. Irving Johnson, the Yankee's owner and skipper, plans to return to Gloucester May 1, 1958, thus completing in 18 months his seventh world voyage.

Prime Minister Not Hard Man To Interview

OTTAWA (CP) — Interviewing Prime Minister St. Laurent can be a delightful or disappointing experience.

The 76-year-old prime minister is a vibrant personality and he can be charming as he was on occasion dictates.

In recent weeks of world tension reporters have noted a new testiness. For one thing, Mr. St. Laurent made it clear he won't discuss with the press offhand, his personal opinions on matters of world interest.

On several occasions he has bluntly told reporters that his personal thoughts are his own. He has said, often impatiently, that the government's opinions are represented by decisions made by cabinet and publicly announced.

MUST BE PROPER

Mr. St. Laurent will never deliberately indulge in gossip. He wants to question him. However, to get a story a reporter has to ask questions the prime minister considers proper.

He is unapt at affable and willing to talk when he returns to the Capital from the right questions at cabinet meeting. If he hasn't the answer he will say so and that's the end of it. There'll be no making a round-the-world flight.

Hungarians Rally Around Homeland

MONTREAL (CP) — The Hungarian community here proposed Sunday that the United Nations create a volunteer force into Hungary to suppress the Russian intervention and prevent further "Soviet bloodshed."

About 2,500 Hungarians at a relief fund rally heard announcements from their religious and civic leaders about the crisis in their homeland.

Dr. Toronto, the Canadian-Hungarian Federation Sunday issued a world-wide plea for immediate action against the armed Russian attack on Hungary.

The federation, in its plea for help said:

"If you forsake Hungary now in the hour of her greatest need you deny justice and humanity and human rights. This will lead the world to destruction.

"The Hungarians have will lead are not only fighting for their own freedom, but their battle is being fought for all of us."

BRANTFORD PROTEST

A protest meeting of 700 Hungarian descendants in a hall in Brantford Sunday with placards bearing messages in Hungarian against Russian tyranny in their homeland.

Joseph Varga, chairman of the Brantford and District Hungarian Relief Committee, told the city hall gathering of 1,000 that Canadian freedom, not Russian freedom, must be saved.

James E. Brown, Liberal member of Parliament for Brantford said Canadians are sick and tired of Russian communism and its ruthless military occupation of Eastern Europe.

He said Canada is doing all possible in the United Nations to aid of Hungary.

The Canadian Red Cross Society said Sunday at Toronto that all blood donations have been made for use in Hungary have been met and no more special donor clinics for this are to be held in Canada.

The society said sufficient blood and blood plasma has been sent to Hungary from Switzerland, Austria, The Netherlands and the Scandinavian countries. But cash donations were needed to purchase medical and hospital supplies, bulk food and clothing.

TWO FROZEN

MONIDA, Mont. (AP)—Two Indian section hands were frozen to death during the weekend near Monida, tiny community near the Montana - Idaho border. The dead were Joe Allen and Leonard Johnson, both 37. The two men were found lying beside the highway not far from a work train, parked on a Union Pacific railroad siding.

ARM FREIGHTERS

STOCKHOLM (Reuters) — Swedish ship owners and the Seafarers Association have asked the Swedish defence and trade ministries to investigate "the protection, arming and equipment of our merchant ships in war."

One Miner Wrote His Will, Celebrated Birthday, Spent 48 Hours in Mine Before Rescue

SPRINGHILL, N. S. (CP)—When 30-year-old Ken Gilbert left his home for the evening shift on Thursday, he didn't think he would write a will, celebrate a birthday or spend 48 gasping hours in Cumberland Coal Company's No. 4 colliery here.

He said goodbye to his wife Marg and four children and drove to the mine wash house where the miners change for work. There he talked with other men on the 2 to-11 p. m. shift.

"It's too fine a day to work," said one. Most agreed.

At 3 p. m. Ken Gilbert — a mechanic's build with black, unruly hair—and 25 other miners went down in small bin No. 4, gassy, treacherous mine with a history of accidents.

—GOING TO BE ROUGH"

Here is Ken's story from that point:

"We were at the face at 6,100 feet when it happened. It sounded like a bump, but the air stopped and seemed to go the other way."

A bump is a mine earthquake peculiar to Springhill.

"Then she had a feeling it was going to be bad," someone else hollered 'Knock off.' We checked everything and left fast.

"At the 5f (5,500 feet), we heard yelling and could smell gas and everybody coming down the slant, to the head (entrance to an air passage). Pal of mine, Jack MacLeod, shouted, 'There's a lot more than that, head.'

"One of the boys grabbed a man and hauled him into our section, which was fresher but beginning to get gassy. Others were lying there but we couldn't get them. The gas head had come too fast.

ALL SCARED

"We were all scared but didn't know where to run.

"I asked the foreman, Wilfred Brown, how we could get to the surface. He said he knew a safe place and asked the farther. We tried to get to it but gas forced us back to the 3,700.

"Someone said we could get to an air hose on the 54 (5,400-foot) level. We made it and took turns sucking air. There were about 50 men there.

"I asked Wilfred if there was a way to get to the 4,400-foot-level. He said there was a way and it was good travelling.

NO PANIC

"No one got panicky or discouraged. We all expected to see draegermen (rescue teams) come through any minute and when it wasn't too much gas then.

"We started for the 4,400 but had to turn back. Wilfred couldn't get his safety lamp on and we were flying blind.

"We built a stop to protect us and stayed there about six hours.

"I put a pick in a niche in the mine wall blocked off to keep out gas.

"I had salmon sandwiches and cookies but I didn't get a chance to eat. Part of the food spoiled anyway.

"We split what we had left. Being without water was the worst.

WROTE WILL

"I figured were almost done for. I wrote a will and got Wilfred Brown, Sonny Nicholson and Wayne Spence to sign it. They all wrote a little note to my wife.

"I lost both sheets in the mine though. But I figure it's better for them to be down there and more than the other way around.

"Donnie Campbell and I wandered as far as the stop and on the stop, rapping on pipes, pounding and pulling trip ropes, trying to get attention.

"But we got scared. The gas would begin to pass and we'd go back. Then others would try.

"Grover Brown said it was his birthday—that was Friday—and we sang him a 'Happy Birthday.'

"Then he said, 'Boys, if we get out today you're all invited to a party at my place.' And he was no. Our parties, if we had them, were going to be in our own homes.

SOME LEFT BEHIND

"Finally we decided to leave the stop and try to get to the bottom of the mine and find a gas-free place to get out.

"On the way, Wayne Smith, a little fellow, said: 'Ken, I was going to get married. Now I don't know.'

I said, 'Aw, you dumb . . . come on.'

"Then we saw lights. We thought was a dragger crew until they shouted to each other that we were rescued.

"We all got together and they knew no more than we did. There were more fellows lying in a shaft where there but gas stopped us from getting them.

"Our underground manager went out to see if we could get over a rock fall. He saw it was impassible and told us to get back . . .

"About five or six men didn't make it. One of them was Russell Morse (night mine manager). His must have been caught as he gassed. Davie Betts went after him. But he didn't come back.

WALKED, NEVER KNEW

"We cuddled around an air pump. We learned later they could feed it pumping on the surface. We talked, tried to keep warm and kept watch. Nobody lost his head.

"A bunch of men came up from the 5,400 level. They looked pretty well all in. My brother-in-law was with them. We stayed by the pump but the others kept going up, I guess they made it.

"I don't think the guys that stayed below that time have a chance. We never saw them come up and I don't think there's any hope for them.

"We stayed at the pump mainly because we were alive there and we thought they might have sealed the mine. But it started to get gassier. We were choking for air.

"I said to Ela Miller, my brother-in-law: 'I think the air is getting heavier. I think we're all chance going up. Are you coming?' He said yes.

THE DRAEGER CREW

"So we crept the heads, scraping the rock, to the 3,800 - foot level. We made a small bank of shirts and stuff. The smoke was so bad it burned.

"We were beat when we made it. We found a group of men at the air valve there and we felt like trying farther. We got so far we knew Lawrence was coming.

"I thought it was the crowd that went ahead of us coming down because the noise was so loud, but it was a dragger crew.

"One turned back to the air valve at the 3,800-foot level.

"They caught up to Ela and me helping each other along, and gave us oxygen. I passed out once on the way up.

"When I came to, someone said, 'Can you walk?' and I staggered up level with the belly.

"The next thing I knew I was in All Saints Hospital. My buddies were in beds around me and my relatives came in with telegrams and rows of telephone calls from friends."

"BORN AGAIN"

At the hospital his wife said: "It feels like I was born again to talk to him. Last night I was dead."

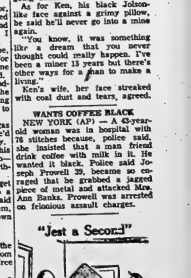
"When we heard Thursday night," she said, "I thought was that he's alive, he can't be dead." Ken's father, Jack, died last night I about gave up hope.

"I couldn't believe it when I heard Ken was alive today. Harold Gordon said he didn't believe anyone could be alive.

"But poor Morse and Davie Betts. Betts went to help Russell. He was a life-long pal of Ken's. Just two boys who never really grew up."

"My son-in-law and son came up alive," said Fred Archer, "if all the others are as lucky, I'll be happy.

"You know, I'm only a company hand, not a miner, and they wouldn't let me go down myself. It's harder on a man waiting than going down."



As for Ken, his black Jolson-like face against a grimy pillow, he said he'll never go into a mine again.

"You know, it was something like a dream that you never thought could really happen. I've been a miner 15 years but there's other ways for a man to make a living."

Ken's wife, her face streaked with coal dust and tears, agreed.

WANTS COFFEE BLACK

NEW YORK (AP) — A 43-year-old woman was in hospital with 76 stitches because, police said, she insisted that a man friend drink coffee with milk in it. He wanted it black. Police said Mrs. Rosvell 39, became so enraged that he grabbed a jagged piece of metal and attacked Mrs. Ann Banks. Prowell was arrested on felonious assault charges.

Traffic Courts Change System In Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto's two main traffic courts, which handle nearly 30,000 minor cases a year, Friday abolished the established practice of convicting motorists in absentia without the presentation of police or defence evidence.

The change in procedure was accompanied by predictions that hear-chase might result. They said courts would be packed by over-flowing, court costs would mount and that more magistrates, court officials and police would be needed.

Attorney-General Roberts, of Ontario said that if a crisis did arise he would send investigators to city hall "to find out what is going on." He also said that the change in court procedure stressed the need for speedy adoption of new government legislation, now in the planning stage.

The revision of court policy is a direct result of a ruling given Thursday by Mr. Justice Spence of the Supreme Court of Ontario. He ruled L. J. Gordon Abbott was wrongfully convicted of speeding because Justice of the Peace James Murphy registered a conviction against him when he did not appear in court without hearing police evidence.

HUNGARY

Hungarian refugees denounced Kadar as a traitor whose name would live in infamy side by side with that of Norway's Quisling.

The Communists said they had arrested Nagy. Earlier, the rebels had said he was in a safe place.

Before all communications with Hungary were severed Sunday night, the rebels vowed to "hold out to our last drop of blood."

RADIO APPEAL

The last insurgent radio went off the air Sunday evening. Some other stations remained broadcasting, but they had new announcers and their changes of tone made it clear the Russians had taken over.

One station signed off after describing Budapest as a "sea of flames" following the Soviet attack on the city.

The Communist radio in Pecs, in South Hungary, said command of that city had been turned over to Soviet military authorities, and urged the population to surrender all arms. Other Communist broadcasts told of continued fighting elsewhere.

To the last, the insurgents pleaded for help from the Western powers and the UN. Some broadcasts implored the U.S. to send parachroops.

HUGE RED FORCE

Confidential intelligence reports in Washington placed the strength of the Soviet onslaught at 12 to 20 Red Army divisions—up to 200,000 troops. There were only 50,000 Soviet troops in Hungary two weeks ago, when nationalists succeeded in installing a government pledged to carry out their demands for free elections, independence and withdrawal of the Russians stationed in the country under the Warsaw pact.

American officials said the new Russian military assault showed signs of becoming one of the most savage ever launched to maintain control of a captive country.

In the West, experts on Russia believe the assault has showed beyond doubt that followers of Stalin have moved back into a position of authority in the Kremlin. They say the Stalinist wing of the Soviet Communist party, represented by Georgi Malenkov, V. M. Molotov and other leaders who advocate continued repression of the satellites, apparently have shoved aside the group headed by party chief Nikita Khrushchev and Bulganin.

In the Stalinists' eyes, it was Khrushchev's denunciation of the late dictator and his relaxation of the stern discipline in the satellites that caused the recent shows of independence in Hungary and Poland.

BUSY FIREMEN

How to KEEP FIT after 50

In the old days fifty seemed the signal to slow down—take longer naps—watch your diet—get more rest. It's still good advice, but these days you can lose fifty and more interesting and active years ahead—active, that is, if you can avoid backache and the "tired out" feeling, due to kidney and bladder disorders, that often develop around that age. For more than 60 years Doan's Kidney Pills have been helping men and women of all ages to keep kidneys and bladder in good order—helping them to feel better, to work better, and get more fun out of life. If you are approaching fifty, or past it, Doan's Kidney Pills may help you, too. You can depend on Doan's. 64

OVER-ALL

Thugs was only the "slightest possibility," he said, that any survived the explosion and subsequent flow of poisonous gases.

TWO CAME FIRST

Saturday dawned cloudy and cold. Dozens of people who spent hungry and in some cases sleepless without sleep at the pithead were given new hope with an announcement at 8 a.m. that two miners were coming up the slope.

Others followed, and by late afternoon, 36 were out. Most were released from hospital after being treated for shock and exhaustion. Only five remained Sunday morning in the army-operated auxiliary hospital.

Every disaster service in the Maritimes was thrown into the fight to save the miners. Besides the dregermen and other volunteer rescue workers, who sometimes argued bitterly for the right to go back into the pit, scores of organizations sent blood, oxygen, bandages, bedding and food. Red Cross, Salvation Army and permanent army and militia personnel served hot meals.

The St. John Ambulance Brigade and nurses and doctors from hospitals throughout the Maritimes came to the blood auxiliary hospital in the Nova Scotia Highlanders armory and the All Saints Civilian Hospital a block away.

An inevitable note of sadness was sounded Sunday afternoon when 10 miners who died in the initial blast or suffered fatal injuries were buried.

For the stolid people of Springhill, the ordeal was one many vow they will never repeat. Several miners taken alive from the pit said they would never again return.

Golden Gaels or Varsity Will Take Intercollegiate Crown

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The 1956 senior intercollegiate football season may be headed the same windup it had last year when Queen's Golden Gaels defeated University of Toronto Blues in a playoff to win the championship.

One thing is sure — the 1956 champions will be either Queen's or Varsity. All that remains to cause any excitement is a showdown between the two clubs.

Varsity snaged by edging in first place Saturday by edging Montreal Redmen 14-13 on a fourth-quarter single by Peter Mall.

At London, Queen's, bidding desperately to stay alive, whipped University of Western Ontario Mustangs 20-14, one point behind Varsity.

Next Saturday at Kingston, the Blues and Gaels play out the regular schedule. If Varsity wins, it will be all over. If Queen's nose heads in hauling Blues their first defeat of the season a playoff for the title will be necessary.

WON LAST YEAR

Last year in the playoff, Queen's whipped the Blues 20-14 to win their first title in 18 years.

Blues had to hustle to put down the stubborn Redmen. With less than four minutes to go, Mall kicked from a wide angle on an attempted field goal that went for a single. McGill almost made it back, but a last-minute fumble deep in Varsity territory spelled their undoing.

Rookie quarterback Larry Joyut twice had Varsity far behind. McGill led 7-0 after the first quarter, but it was 7-7 at the half. Redmen scored in the third, 13-7, early in the third quarter, but Blues fired up.

Dave Cornwell and Ross Woods scored the Varsity touchdowns, and Mall converted in both cases. Cornelius and John Cronin went over for McGill, Paul Hinkle converting one touchdown.

McGill outrushed Varsity 213 yards to 97, but the passing of Joyut, who took over from the injured Ed Sterpock just before half time, made the difference. Joyut completed six of eight passes.

Dick Carr, McGill's outstanding American quarterback, connected on seven of 18 throws.

At London, Gaels had little trouble despite a jittery fumbling display in the last quarter. For Gaels, all-star halfback Ron Stewart, John Dolan and Paul Fedor scored touchdowns. Fedor had a convert and Jocko Tompkins a single. Frank Consentino and Frank Loina scored touchdowns for Western. Desborough kicked a convert.

Going into next Saturday's final, Gaels and Bait White's Blues have nine points on four wins and a tie. Queen's has won three, lost one and tied one for seven points. McGill and Western have identical 1-4 records—good for 2 points.

McGill—now definitely eliminated—has been the surprise and disappointment of the season.

Larry Uteck, the former Notre Dame star who replaced Vic Obeck at McGill, had the league's strongest team on paper as the season started five weeks ago. But his team dropped four games, all by close scores. Redmen never showed the offensive power predicted of them.

And some experts said Dalt White didn't have much of a football team.

MORE RECORDS FOR KYLE

VANCOUVER (CP)—Doug Kyle of Calgary, Canadian entrant in the 10,000-metres event at the Olympic Games, Saturday set two Canadian records for a total of seven in one set this year.

In a University of British Columbia track meet, he ran two miles in 9:01.8 to shatter the old mark of 9:22.8 set in 1951 by Ritchie Ferguson of Toronto, then lowered the 3,000 metres time to 8:25.2 from the 8:49.8 which New Westminister's Gerry Swan established last year.

Kyle now holds all Canadian distance records for events between 2,000 and 10,000 metres.

AAU Finalizes Action on Olympics Stars

TORONTO (CP)—The Amateur Athletic Union of Canada has taken its final action on the controversy over the irregular selection of members of the Canadian Olympic track and field team.

The union Saturday recognized marathon runner George Hillier of St. John's, Nfld., as the team's first alternate. Hillier was previously independently named to the position by Fred Rowell of Vancouver, AAU national track and field committee chairman.

A telegraph poll of track and field committee members to settle Hillier's status was completed Saturday. It was virtually unanimous in favoring the marathoner as first alternate.

TO EXPLAIN TO JOE

The AAU will request the Canadian Olympic Association to include Hillier on the team in the alternate position. Formal explanation of the union's action is to go to Newfoundland Premier Joseph Smallwood, who had joined in a protest.

The union decided to enter teams in the Pan - American Games, at Cleveland, Ohio, in boxing, fencing, gymnastics, track and field, weight-lifting and wrestling.

Representatives of the Canadian Legion will be invited to join branch track and field committees. The legion has agreed to contribute $20,000 annually to the Canadian Olympic Training Plan.

Ken D. McKenzie of Vancouver was re-elected president. His 1957 annual meeting will be in Winnipeg.

George Duthie of Toronto said the Hall of Fame for Amateurs next year will be confined to the Canadian Hall of Fame, which honors sports greats, both amateur and professional. The amateur hall is located in Montreal. The Canadian hall is at the Canadian National Exhibition grounds here.

Rochester Wins First Game in American League

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hershey Bears, transformed into contenders with the help of players acquired from the defunct Pittsburgh Hornets, took over sole possession of first place in the American Hockey League during the weekend—in sharp contrast to their fifth-place finish of last season.

The weekend was also notable because it brought the first victory for Rochester Americans, the league's new entry and replacement for Pittsburgh.

At Hershey Saturday night, Arnie Kullman, Lorne Davis, Al Nicholson and Don Panagabko scored for the Bears as they defeated Cleveland Barons 4-3. Gord Veljprava, Ron Morgan and Cal Stearns scored for the fourth place Barons.

Sunday night the Bears grabbed a first-period 2-1 lead at Providence but lost it and finally settled for a 6-6 tie with the Reds. Willie Marshall, one of the players acquired from Pittsburgh, scored two goals for Hershey with others scored by Bob Sollinger, Dave Fisher, Davis and Kullman. Paul Larivee and Ed Davies got two goals apiece for Providence, Ray Cyr and Earl Johnson getting the others.

Dodgers May Sign Two Japs

OSAKA, Japan (AP) — Fresco Thompson, vice president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, said today the National League champions are "thinking of inviting two Japanese players to the United States to attend our spring training."

He said the final decision may be postponed until the Dodgers return home.

He mentioned Kamhiro Yamashita of the Hankyu Orions as the one of Japan's best ball players.

Rochester, after losing five and tying two in its first seven games, turned back Springfield Indians 6-3 Saturday night on goals by Joe Lund, Paul Masnick and Hec Lalande, the last fired into an empty net. Dale Anderson scored for the fifth-place Indians.

Buffalo Bisons, in a single point behind the league-leading Bears, posted their third straight victory Sunday night, beating Cleveland 6-3. Bo Elik, sensational Cleveland rookie and top AHL scorer, got two goals. Barney Boland goals. Pete Conacher got two for Buffalo, Ken Wharram, Chuck Blair, Eric Pogue and Larry Wilson scoring the others.

And Springfield Saturday night, Providence, paced by Henry's two goals, defeated the Indians 3-1. Other Providence scorers were Sandy Branigan, Ray Ross and Jim Bartlett, while Doug McMurdy scored Springfield's only goal.

Giants, Cards Lions, Bears Win Weekenders

NEW YORK (AP) — Two divisions of the National Football League have settled down to their flights. The pace-setting Chicago Cards and New York Giants came through with victories Sunday in the eastern conference and the unbeaten Detroit Lions are the runner-up Chicago Bears triumphed in the West.

The Cards downed Philadelphia Eagles 28-17 and the Giants edged Pittsburgh Steelers 17-14. The results left the winners with 5-1 records.

The Lions hung up their sixth straight victory with a 17-13 decision over San Francisco while the Bears, with a 5-1 mark, turned back Los Angeles Rams 35-24.

In the only other game scheduled, the defending Cleveland Browns snapped a three-game losing streak with a 24-7 victory over Green Bay. Washington and Baltimore were not scheduled.

The Lions' one-two punch of rookie Hogoboog Cassady and veteran Leon Hart powered the western conference leaders to victory. Hart scored both touchdowns, Bobby Layne added two extra points and a 30-yard field goal.

Hamilton Bees Reach Finals

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Finalists have been declared in and junior football playoffs. From all indications, the better eastern teams have learned their offensive lessons well.

In the East's intermediate semi-finals Saturday, Hamilton Tiger-Cat Bees sent down Montreal Lakeshore Flyers 26-7, and Greenwood, N.S., RCAF Bombers swamped Mount Allison University Mounties from Sackville, N.B., 54-13.

Scores in the junior semi-finals were even higher. At Montreal Sunday, Verdun Maple Leafs potted St. Mary's University of Halifax 56-0 and Saturday at Windsor, Teamsters' light but speedy Parkdale Lions whipped Windsor AKO, 32-15.

Hamilton travels to Halifax next Saturday to meet Greenwood for the eastern intermediate crown and the right to meet the western winner.

Toronto Parkdale juniors visit Montreal Sunday for a showdown against Verdun.

FIDE EXHIBITION

The McFarlands came up with a fine exhibition against the big, tough and husky Pembroke Lumber Kings Saturday night up north o' here, but they lacked scoring punch. The Goaldiggers held a 2-1 lead in the second frame but the Kings, reared back to tie it up and add a trio in the third head to earn themselves second place behind the Whitby Dunlops. The Blairmen, incidentally, knocked off the Cheviots from Cornwall by a 6-4 count to tighten their hold on the top PINK.

We understand there will be something of a shake-up this week in the McFarland ranks and don't be surprised to see a new face or two before the bugles blow "The Last Post" on the entrance Day. And they tell us that Ralf Sarault, the youngster who were a Belleville goalie until-lately form a few seasons back is guarding the twines for the Lumber Kings and doing a right merry job. In fact 'tis said he was "cost of this world" with a sparkling exhibition of puck-stopping against our side Saturday night.

Sarault was not any great shakes as a goalie while here but he played in England and got valuable experience elsewhere. So much, in fact, he made the grade for the Lumber Kings. More power to him—except when he meets the McFarlands.

Changes took place in the league over the weekend with the Pembroke Lumber Kings displacing Kingston in second place with three wins, three losses and two ties for eight points. The Frontenac club has three, three and two for seven. Pembroke, incidentally, lost to Cornwall yesterday with the Cheviots coming up with a 4-1 victory for their first win of the season.

The McFarlands with two wins, two defeats and a tie share fourth spot with the Ottawa Canadiens with two wins and a tie, while the Cheviks bring up the rear with a win and a tie, for three.

That ebullient manager of the Whitby Dunlops points his pen at the Kingston Kicsss and blasts them in no uncertain terms for playing what he termed "chicken type hockey." He doesn't pull any punches in his criticism of the Kingston club. Here's what he wrote, quote:

"Don Soutter, sports writer of the Kingston Whig-Standard, forwarded us some glowing stories on the Kingston CKLC hockey club recently. We are unaware as to how often Mr. Soutter witnesses his pets away from home, but if the club plays away games in other centres, the way they played Tuesday night's tilt here, he would have a hard time writing such glowing stories, as the one which started out quote 'It appears that coach Les Douglas has quietly put together a top contender for league honors' . . . end of quote. If that's a top contender, hockey is definitely headed for the ash can. Never have we witnessed a game in which the visiting club treated the paying customers to such a dismal showing of 'chicken type hockey'. The entire Kingston club looked like they had had a meeting prior to the game in which the theme must have been 'look gang we'll never beat Whitby here, so let's just go out there and go through the motions, make sure none of us gets hit, and get out of here as soon as possible.' If we hadn't known better we'd have sworn it was a girl's team, trying to play against men. Hardly once did a Limestone City player take the puck more than two strides, before he whipped it away in any given direction just making sure that he didn't have to take it, and possibly get bumped a bit by an opposing forward.

"Several times last season the Kingston club came up with similar type of games during the schedule. Scores like 9-3, 15-2, etc., were quite common. It is true that they gave Whitby one good games in the playoffs, but certainly this is small recompense when it is remembered that they must visit your club six times in the regular schedule. Oh, yes, they're a great bench of 'IGGERS'. They'll go all out before their home fans, but the important thing is that, so does Whitby, and the result is always a top game of hockey for Kingston fans to witness whenever Whitby plays in the Limeston arena. This is definitely evidenced in the big crowds the Dunlops draw when they visit Kingston. Certainly the Dunlops are happy that they are a big draw on the road. That's strictly a matter of pride to the local club, and seldom is it that they don't treat the public to a masterful display of the puck game. Not so with the Kingston club. One cannot describe them as anything less than a 'chicken type team.' This is borne out by the fact that other than the major penalty to Brooks at the end of the game, they drew only one penalty all night. What club, playing on the road with any determination, will draw only one infraction during the entire evening. Enough said on that game, if you could call it that."

Riders Wallop Blue Bombers, Take 35 Points to 2nd Game

WINNIPEG (CP) — Saskatchewan Roughriders arrived here Sunday and the most precious thing they carried was a 35-point lead into tonight's windup contest in the two-game, total-point Western Interprovincial Football Union semi-final.

Displaying power in every department, Riders walloped Winnipeg Blue Bombers 42-7 at Regina Saturday night in the first game of the series. The winner meets the league champ Edmonton Eskimos in two-game total-points final. "It took us four years to do it," said coach Frank Filchock, recalling that Bombers had beaten Riders the last three years in semi-final play. "We rushed them off their feet."

The 13,000 fans who sat in on the slaughter will agree. Bomber quarterback Eagle Day was rushed on almost every pass play and the hard-charging Rider line stopped Bombers' usually-potent backs in their tracks.

Meanwhile, the Rider backs, under the brilliant quarterbacking of Frank Tripucka, went a league-record 603 yards from scrimmage —405 yards through the air and 198 along the ground.

Tripucka had a set loss of seven yards rushing.

"But if we can score 42 points, so can they. They're always more dangerous on home ground."

Halfback Ken Carpenter was the big gun for Riders with three touchdowns. Bobby Marlow, Alex Bravo and Jerry Isbell tallied the other six - pointers while Reg Whitehouse converted three and kicked a 14-yard field goal on the final play of the game.

Halfback Bob McNamara went through the line for Bombers' lone touchdown. Bud Leake, the league scoring leader, kicked the convert.

Tripucka, who called a masterful game, completed three touchdown passes—two to Carpenter which went for gains of 75 and seven yards and one to Bravo which netted 61 yards.

Bruins Hand Blues 4-1 Blast Share Third With Canadiens; Wild Scenes Feature Games

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A few weeks ago Tommy Ivan said it would be a tough job for his Chicago Black Hawks to "get any place" in the National Hockey League this year. He was so right.

Of all the clubs in the six-team circuit, Hawks are having the roughest time. They have only one victory and a tie in 11 games.

Hawks lost two games against the up-and-coming Montreal Canadiens during the weekend, 4-0 shellacking in Montreal Saturday and a 1-0 shutout in Chicago Sunday night. In two other games, Detroit Red Wings took over first place with a dispiled 3-1 win against Toronto Maple Leafs Saturday and Boston Bruins walloped New York Rangers 4-1 in Beantown Sunday night.

WINGS HOLD EDGE

After all the weekend action, Red Wings held a two-point edge over the second-place Habs. Montreal and Detroit are tied for third spot with 11 points, while Rangers are fifth with nine and Hawks are last with three.

Hawks, in the cellar for the last three seasons, couldn't do a thing against Canadiens Saturday.

The Habs got the nod with a five-goal splurge in the first period before 13,986 fans and lulled goaltender Jacques Plante record his third shutout of the season. He stopped 26 shots Sunday.

Maurice (Rocket) Richard and Bert Olmstead each scored two Saturday. Bernie Geoffrion and Dickie Moore got the others. Richard's goal was his 325th lifetime NHL output to 463.

In Chicago, Henri Richard was the scoring hero, beating Al Rollins on a three-way play with his brother Maurice and Dickie Moore. Believeau. Hawks were short a man when Henri slapped the puck in shot that Rollins didn't see.

It was one of the wildest games in Chicago in years, before Frank Udvari called a total of 24 penalties, 18 in a furious first period.

Even Plante and Rollins got sentences. Plante took a minor for slashing and Rollins was penalized two minutes for slashing and five minutes for fighting with Bert Olmstead. Bert also received a minor and major.

At Toronto, Metro Prystai's goal midway through the third period gave Wings their victory in a game that was thrown into an uproar when officials disallowed a Leaf goal because they said it was scored a split second after the final bell sounded.

The 13,812 customers nearly went wild when left winger Dick Duff, who had scored Leafs' only goal earlier in the third period, shoved the puck into the Detroit cage as the game ended.

Players from both teams rushed referee Frank Udvari. Leafs claimed a goal was scored in time. Wings demanded that it be thrown out. Udvari consulted his linesmen and the official timer and ruled the goal came too late.

LOOKED AT FILMS

Leaf officials said later that films of the game showed the game was scored just before the bell. They have protested the referee's decision to league president Clarence Campbell.

The other Detroit goal was scored by rookie Billy McNeill at 4:02 of the second period. Duff's goal came at 19:36 of the windup session. Prystai broke up the game at 12:05.

At Boston, 12,045 fans saw Jerry Toppazzini score two goals to lead Bruins to victory, their first in 10 engagements. Johnny Peirson and Real Chevrefils got singles. Guy Gendron tallied for Rangers. It was a rough game with eight of the 16 penalties being majors for fighting.

REMEMBER WHEN . . .

Greg Kabat, star quarterback of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers, was awarded the McKinney trophy as the most valuable player in the Western Interprovincial Football League 18 years ago today. A product of Wisconsin University, Kabat was most famous for his field goal kicks.

Teepees Whip Guelph Biltmores 6-0 Petes Defeated by Marlboros 4-1

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It was a bright weekend for the league-lighty of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series. Two clubs picked up their first points of the young season.

Barrie Flyers Sunday earned a 3-2 tie with Toronto St. Michael's Majors for their first point.

And Saturday at St. Catharines, Teepees captured their first victory after three defeats, while piling the league-leading Guelph Biltmores 6-0.

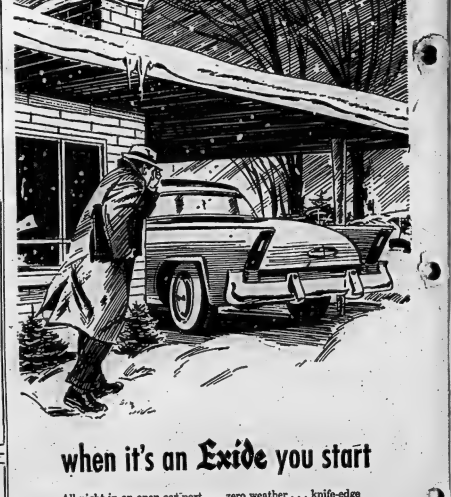
Toronto Marlboros climbed to a first-place tie with Guelph, whipping Peterborough Petes 4-1 in the second half of a doubleheader at Toronto Sunday. It was the first game of the season for Peterborough.

Guelph and Marlboros are tied with six points, Majors have four, Hamilton Tiger-Cubs three, St. Catharines two, and Barrie one. Marlboros had to battle back from a 1-0 deficit after Peterborough's George Montagna scored in the first period. Ian Anderson, Ron Farnfield, Bill Kennedy and Bob Nevins scored for the defending Memorial Cup champions in that order. Marlboros outshot Petes 20-13. Goalie Chuck Adamson was spectacular for the losers.

Flyers came roaring back after Majors had built up a 2-0 lead in the first two periods on goals by Jack McMaster and Bob Bouchard.

Dale Rolfe and Dick Cherry evened the count for Barrie in the last period. Cherry's tie-producer came with only 66 seconds of play remaining.

At St. Catharines Saturday, netminder Roy Edwards turned away 27 shots in shutting out the high-flying Biltmores.



Don Cusburn, with two goals, and Grant Morton got Teepees off to a 3-0 lead in the first period. Ed Hoekstra and Morton boosted the lead to 5-0 in the second, and rookie Stan Mikita scored the only third-period goal.

There is no action tonight, but on Tuesday Guelph plays host to Flyers, while Marlboros and St. Michael's tangle at Toronto. A Guelph defeat and a win for Major's would give all three clubs six points.

Pembroke Lumber Kings Take 2nd Place With 5-2 Win Over McFarlands

Winners Score 3 in Third To Break Two-all Stalemate; Sarault Brilliant in Goal

Displaying a hard-hitting game, taking advantage of the breaks and backed by brilliant goal tending by Roly Sarault, the Pembroke Lumber Kings moved into second place in the Eastern Ontario Senior "A" race, when they defeated Belleville McFarlands in Pembroke on Saturday night 5-2.

For nearly 40 minutes of the game the McFarlands had a one-goal edge on their opponents but ran out of gas in the final heat, while the Kings, led by their high scoring centre player, Bert Giesbrecht underscored three important thrusts on Don Larin and each one paid off.

The game was an entirely different one to that which local fans saw at the Belleville Arena on Friday night. Apparently the referees had been instructed to bear down on the rough stuff and they did just that little thing. Although there were fifteen penalties handed out during the pastime with the Kings drawing eight they all were for minor infractions. There was less arguing and the 1239 fans on hand saw a clever, fast and well played game of hockey.

The McFarlands although beaten were not disgraced and with a little more luck could have had a three or four goal margin at the end of second frame instead of going to the dressing room with a tie by marking up two counters. The McFarlands broke in a three-man wave with only one defenceman back and each time, the rubber was either steered off to a corner or Sarault made a beautiful save. The contest was not a plak tea affair by any means as none of the fans will testify. Bert Fayette got a four stitch cut near the end of the first frame when he was hit on the side of the head with a puck, while Heon of the Kings was foiled when a bullet drive from Maurice Benoit caught him over the bridge of the nose. It was a wonder he got up, but after being patched, came back to play a strong game on the blueline.

BAD GOOD CHANCES

The boys were a bit with high sticks, skating and hooking but they were soon cooled out by the man in charge. Early in the frame Paul Fayette and Minnie Menard had fine chances but the offence bogged down when Guidolin and Menard went sway. The Kings took advantage of the short age in man power and Ike Hildebrand, the playing coach of the Pembroke squad opened the scoring with Woods and Marshall assisting. He made short before Ching into the open corner. Keith McDonald put the McFarlands right back in the running when Rheal Lecrouche made a beautiful pass to set Keith up in the goal mouth and the result had no chance. There was no more scoring in this frame as the boys settled a few feats but the referee had the last word.

In the second period the McFarlands had much the better of the play and gave it their best effort. They rained fifteen dead on drives at Sarault and all of them tough and could gather one counter while the Kings could only manage eight shots at Larin and none of them was hard to handle. Minnie Menard put the McFarlands on top with a play set up by the coach The play at this point was regular senior "A" hockey. Rushes from end to end by both sides were common and both goalies were tested.

Towards the close of the frame, the Kings turned on the real pressure and Bruce Giesebrecht set up Maxwell with Larin pulled out of position before the player potted the rubber. It was a nice goal.

Opening the 3rd frame Belleville had a real chance but Minnie Menard missed when the puck bounced away and on the return sortie the Hildebrand got his 2nd counter from Rowe and Clark on the assist. Then came Mr. Bert Giesebrecht and he put the game beyond recall with two counters, Marshall assisting on one and Campbell on the other. Incidentally this member of the noted hockey family is real poison around a net. The McFarlands defence was steady but the scoring punch was lacking in the final stages of rushes, while Larin played well in the twine. The Hildebrand and Bert Giesebrecht were easily the best for the winners. Belleville outshot the Pembroke squad on the night 29-22.

Ottawa Canadiens Or Vernon for World Hockey

-TORONTO (CP) — Officials of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association want a playoff to determine Canada's representative at the world hockey championship at Moscow next February.

The officials said after a meeting here Saturday Canada should send either Ottawa Junior Canadiens, a farm club of Montreal's NHL Canadiens, or Vernon Canadians, defending Allan Cup champions.

The officials all but scrapped the association's original plan of sending an all-star team to the world tournament.

A playoff round robin, the clubs, unlikely "strengthened" for the occasion, should select Canada's eventual representative, the officials said.

A meeting of five members of the CAHA executive and nine branch presidents announced the playoff plan to be recommended to the association.

INTEREST LACKING

They decided the all-star project should be dropped "in view of the great delay and the lack of interest in our own organization and among the public."

They will also recommend, however, that a fund-raising campaign originally planned to help the all-star team be carried out in support of either Ottawa or Vernon.

Both teams also wanted to accept the plan.

Vernon coach George Agar said Sunday night his team would be "only too happy" to play off with Ottawa.

Frank Selke, managing director of Montreal Canadiens, said last week he will permit the club to defer world play "if that's what Canada and the CAHA want."

Regarding the strengthening of the team, CAHA secretary-manager George Dudley of Midland said the CAHA will leave it to each club to decide what strengthening it needs. If they are interested in making the trip, I imagine they will start looking for the very best players."

Als May Lose Pat Abbruzzi Injuries Affect Other Teams

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The "nothing" games can hurt more than a football team's prestige.

Montreal Alouettes found that out Saturday when they lost an end-of-the-schedule 41-27 decision to the last-place Toronto Argonauts. It may have cost them the services of fullback Pat Abbruzzi, the league's scoring champion, for the Big Four playoffs, a blow much more shattering than the loss.

In addition, quarter Sam Etcheverry suffered a knee injury early in the game and watched the remainder from the sidelines. It was believed his injury wouldn't keep him out of next Saturday's playoff tilt.

The game meant nothing to the Als who had already wrapped up first place and a bye into the two-game total-point playoffs. The Argonauts were playing for next year's contracts.

In the other game winding up the 14-game schedule, Ottawa Rough Riders spotted Hamilton a 15-0 lead and fought back to win 19-15 on a late-game field goal by Bud Korchak before 14,402 Ottawa fans. Tiger-Cats lost Ray Truant with a sprained ankle that will keep him out of the sudden-death semi-final between the two clubs at Hamilton Wednesday afternoon.

Ottawa ended in a second-place tie in points with Ticats, but Hamilton came up with the better total-points record in the four meetings between the two clubs and were given the choice of venue for Wednesday's contest.

The Toronto victory, before 20,913 fans, ended a 12-game losing streak on home grounds by the Als, the best modern-day record in Canadian pro football.

Before Abbruzzi went out he scored three touchdowns on line plunges to run his total to 30 for the season—one more than his team record of 29 set last season. He also set a scoring record of 190 points, eclipsing by 12 the Big Four mark of 186 set by Edgar Jones of Hamilton in 1950.

Joey Pal counted the other Montreal touchdown on an 80-yard runback of a kickoff. Bill Bewley kicked two converts and Tex Coulter a single.

The Argonauts became the only Big Four team to defeat the league leaders twice this season. It squeezed in all Hamilton when Tiger-Cats ran up a 14-0 first-quarter lead and 15-7 halftime margin. Their two touchdowns, following Ottawa fumbles, were scored by Davey West and Ralph Goldston on passes from quarter Dave Dorcelli. Steve Oshchuk booted the converts and Can Fraser a single.

The Riders bounced back with touchdowns in the third quarter by Don Lewis and Tom Adams, both converted by Bud Korchak. Tiger-Cats remained in front 15-14 until three minutes before the end when Korchak kicked a game-winning placement.

Tiger-Cats almost pulled out with the decision in the final minutes when they marched from their 35 to the Ottawa 29 in six ground plays but Oseschuk's attempted placement was wide.

Quebec League

Quebec Aces moved four points ahead of the pack in the Quebec Hockey League Sunday by gaining a 3-2 overtime draw with Ottawa Canadiens, an associate league member.

Trois-Rivieres Lions and Shawinigan Falls Cataracts played to a 3-3 tie in overtime at Trois-Rivieres while the second-place Chicoutimi Saguenays posted a two-goal edge and were defeated 3-2 by the Royals in Montreal.

Jacques Plante recorded his third and fourth shutouts as Montreal blanked Chicago 4-0 and 1-0.

Henri Richard of Montreal scored the only goal in a 1-0 decision over Chicago and collected three assists in the double victory.

Metro Prystai's goal gave Detroit a 2-1 win over Toronto, breaking a first-place tie.

Bill Campbell Wins Mexican Golf Crown

MEXICO CIT Y(AP)—A red-hot putter, which produced two successive 32-par outings, carried U.S. Walker Cup captain Bill Campbell of Huntington, W. Va., to the Mexican national amateur golf championship.

The tall 35-year-old West Virginia insurance executive defeated Leo LaBlanc of Montreal 5 and 3 in the final match Sunday over the par-72, 7,734-yard Campetre Golf Club course.

Campbell built up a six-hole lead over the first 18 holes as he turned in a medal score of 68 with his 32-par Walker Cup putting. Then on the 26th hole he dropped a 35-footer and followed it with one of the same length on the 27th.

LaBlanc also dropped a long putt on the 27th to halve the hole but when Campbell followed it with one of 15 feet, he won the next hole for his fourth straight birdie the match was over.

Run Dead Heat At Woodbine

TORONTO (CP) — Lad Ator, owned by James G. Fair o Cainsville, and Air's Pride, owned by W. J. Farr of Weston, staged a thrilling dead heat in the Cup and Saucer Handicap at New Woodbine Saturday.

The placing judges examined the photo-finish print under the microscope for nearly three minutes before they awarded the rare result.

A three-horse entry of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Taylor was hot favorite, but only one at the finish, Lyford Jay, finished in the money a distant third.

Dutchies Whip Beaches 42-20

KITCHENER (CP) —Kitchener Waterloo Dutchmen, led by the powerful combination of quarterback Bob Celeri and halfback Billy Graham, defeated Toronto Beaches 42-20 Saturday and captured first place in the Ontario Rugby Football Union senior series.

The schedule ended with the Dutchmen leading Beaches and Sarnia Golden Bears by four points. The playoffs begin Wednesday.

The Dutchmen will entertain Sarnia while London Lions, who finished last, meet Beaches. Both games will be sudden-death with the winners opening a best-of-three series to be played Nov. 10, 14 and 17.

The Dutchmen had a sound pass defence in addition to a strong attack Saturday.

GRAHAM'S TOTAL 157

Graham, highest scorer in the history of Canadian senior football, scored three touchdowns, two of them on Celeri passes, and kicked six converts to bring his point-total for the 11-game season to 157.

Celeri tossed four touchdown passes, two to Graham and two to end Gerry McTaggart.

Nat Pagnan scored the other touchdown in the game. It was set up by Celeri who intercepted a Beach pass and lateraled to Don Simms who ran 35 yards to the Toronto seven and flipped another lateral to Pagnan.

Bernie Custis scored two Toronto touchdowns, one on a sensational 85-yard kickoff return in the fourth quarter. His first came on a two-yard plunge in the second period.

Pat Ruppert scored the other Toronto touchdown early in the game when he got behind the Kitchener defence to take a pass from Rossi for a 35-yard pass-and-run score. Tom Urowitz kicked two converts.

When you're trying out a used car, beware of grinds and growls and whines and howls which may be a sign of transmission or rear end trouble.
In just a short run you can recognize worn gears or transmission bearings by a grinding sound as you accelerate in low gear to about 25 m.p.h. Almost any unusual noise is an indication of serious wear.

Whitby Extends League Lead Cornwall Defeats Pembroke

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen ventured out of their own back-yard—the western division of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series—during the weekend. Things weren't much different.

Dutchies have been playing close to .500 hockey in their own league since the season opened. In weekend games against Northern Ontario teams they won one game and lost one. The games were the first of the interlocking schedule.

Dutchmen defeated Sault Ste. Marie (Ont.) Greyhounds 4-3 Saturday, then bowed 4-1 to Sault Ste. Marie Mich.) Indians Sunday. Dutchmen are in fourth place in their own league, three points out of first.

In the western division, Stratford Indians—who had been tied with Windsor Bulldogs — whipped Owen Sound Mercurys 4-2 Saturday to jump into first.

Windsor dropped a 4-3 decision to Chatham Maroons on Sunday. Chatham is third, Mercurys are last.

In the only exclusively NOHA game, North Bay Trappers opened up a two-point lead by downing second-place Sudbury Wolves 3-1 Saturday.

WINTRY FORGING AHEAD

In the eastern division of the OHA Senior A series, Whitby Dunlops defeated Cornwall Cherrydale 4-4 Saturday to extend their lead over second - place Kingston Frontenacs by two points.

In other games, Pembroke Lumber Kings defeated Belleville McFarlands 5-2 Saturday and Cherview notched their first victory of the season 4-1 Sunday on home Pembroke.

Timmins Flyers, riding a hot winning crest in the Porcupines mines senior hockey league, pulled to within a single point of the leading south Porcupine Porkies, trounced Cheskies 5-2 on Sunday.

Don Rope, a former Greyhounds player, fired two goals as Kitchener-Waterloo set down the Steelton Clippers 4-0. Lou Jeno, Paul Knox and Jack McKenzie scored the other Dutchmen markers. Ron Lay scored two for the Greyhounds and rookie Gary Sharp one.

Sunday, Laurie Peterson connected twice to give Soo Indians a 3-0 cushion. Jerry Theberge cut the margin to 2-1, but Don McGregor and Cecil Heale scored to lock up the victory for the cellar-dwelling Flyers.

At Owen Sound, 1,200 fans watched Stratford build up a 4-0 lead by the second period. Billy Flick, Beryl Klinck, Joe Schertzl and Mickey Roth scored for Indians. Jack Stoddard and Bill McComb were the marksmen for Owen Sound in the last period.

A crowd of 3,811 saw Chatham come from behind with two goals in the third period.

Al Cleary found the net twice for Chatham. Ross Yakiela and Eddie Bunch counting the third-period markers. Goals for Windsor Abbott and Bob Brown tallied for Windsor.

Playing-coach Bus Gagnon was at least half the show for Whitby as he scored three goals. Fred Etcher had two, and Tom O'Connor one. Bob Bingley, Moe Savard, Rhino Richard and Mort Belmore each beat the Whitby goalie once.

At Pembroke, playing-coach Ike Hildebrand fired two goals, with singles by Bert and Bruce Gleschrecht, and Jim Maxwell. Minnis Menard and Keith MacDonald scored for Belleville.

Cornwall came up with four goals in the third period to take their first victory. Mort Belmore counted twice, Moe Savard and Pete Payette each once. Jim Maxwell had the lone Pembroke goal.

'Sooners' Have Close Call; Still Unbeaten

NEW YORK (AP) — Oklahoma had a mighty close call against Colorado Saturday before coming up with a 37-19 triumph, 36th in a row and 39th straight in the big series. The Sooners haven't lost a league game since Bud Wilkinson became head coach in 1947.

Oklahoma had to overcome a Colorado lead in the third period. Colorado's fine performance made the Buffs heavy favorites to finish second in the conference behind Oklahoma and thus get the Orange Bowl bid. Oklahoma is ineligible, having played there last Jan. 2.

Georgia Tech, second ranked in the weekly Associated Press poll behind Oklahoma, made a last-quarter touchdown stand to be a 7-0 victory over Duke.

Tennessee recorded a routine 20-0 triumph over North Carolina. Thus the stage is set for next week's game between Georgia Tech and Tennessee. On the result probably will hinge the championship of the southeastern conference.

Michigan edged Iowa, the Big Ten leader, 17-14. The result left Minnesota the favorite to be the hop to the Rose Bowl.

Illinois, which knocked Michigan State off last week, could do no better than a tie with Purdue, 7-7. Michigan State took its first fury out on Wisconsin, blasting the Badgers, 23-6.

Little Benny's Notebook

We went for a ride in the car to celebrate the swell Saturday weather, pop billed me a bit in the back seat so him and ma wouldn't be crowded, being only me on account of me not being crowded either, and I had a kind of a long stick and I was bumping it ageenst the floor exactly every 10 seconds as regular as clockwork, counting every 9 seconds to myself aid and every 10th second with the stick, and pop said to me, Horse blanket to blazes, I believe this car is developing a neck.

Now William, dont look for trouble, me said, and pop said, Do you mean you dont have anything?

I'd rather not listen, me said, and I thought, G, I wonder if there really is a nock or whether he means this stick?

And I kept on bumping the stick every 10 seconds, and pop said to me, For Pete sake dont you hear that nock?

I think I do hear a little something, but it sounds very regular and normal, me said, and pop said, Any nock is about as normal as a 5th columnist. I'm going to stop for the next service station and have the mechanic take a look, he said.

How can you get so worked up over a little doubtfull nock? me said, Let's enjoy the ride, she said, and pop said, Yes, let's wait till the bottom of the car falls out, and then there wont be even a little doubt. It seems to be back there somewhere, he said, and I thought, Heck.

And I quiet sat on the stick, and pop said, Do you hear a nocking back there, Benny?

No sir, I said. Which I didn't any more, and neith. did anybody else, proving it really must of been the stick, and making me feel like a narrow escape.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Ribbiter

World champion teams pull stunts that others only fear to try. Typical of the way they try to fool each other is deal number seven which you see here:

NORTH
♠J 10 5 3
♥K 10 9 7
♦3
♣J 8 4 3

WEST
♠A K 7 4
♥ — — —
♦A K Q 10
♣8 6
♣7 5

EAST
♠Q 9 8
♥A Q 8 5 4
♦7 4 3
♣9 8

SOUTH
♠6 2
♥J 6 3 2
♦J 9
♣A K Q 10 3

In room one where the Americans team sat east and west, here is how the bidding went:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	1 ♠	1 ♥	Pass
2 ♣	3 ♠	Pass	4 ♥
Pass	4 ♦	Pass	5 ♦

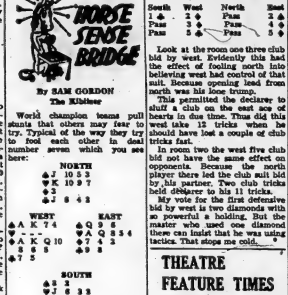
In room two where the Swedish team had the pair east and west the bidding went like this:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	2 ♦	Pass	2 ♠
3 ♣	3 ♦	Pass	4 ♥
Pass	4 ♠	Pass	5 ♦

Look at the room one three club bid by west. Evidently this had the effect of fooling north into believing west had control of that suit. Because opening lead from north was his lone trump.

This permitted the declarer to stuff a club on the ace and ace of hearts in due time. Thus did this west claim 12 tricks when he should have lost a couple of club tricks fast.

In room two the west five club bid not have the same effect on opponents. Because the north player there led the club suit bid by his partner. Two club tricks held declarer to his 11 tricks.



My vote for the first defensive bid by west is two diamonds with so powerful a holding. But the master says one diamond there can insist that he was using tactics. That stops me cold.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your future holds according to the stars,

For Tuesday, Nov. 6, 1956

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — An unusual day, with practical and sound matters highly favored. Odd, if valuable ideas, and propositions, combine with interests under fine aspects. Be co-operative, unselfish.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Considerable achievement can be yours this fine day. But there are certain conditions. Avoid contention and don't be self-centred. Mechanical and partial interests highly favored.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Shipping, business connected with sea travel, handling chemicals, oil, beverages, work requiring brawn and endurance highly favored. Purely mental or artistic work can be a little more difficult.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Moon's aspect stresses a need for patience, control of the emotions generally. This can be a very productive day, also financially remunerative. Do handle contracts and affairs intelligently.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Day requires clever management, especially in matters of domesticity, the arts, wherever skill and finesse are important. It is opportune too, for bold work, sound business, advancing essentials.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Industry, mechanics, trades, the manufacture of useful items, building under fine rays. A strong period for confidential issues, secretarial work, transportation. Be patient.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Similar to Virgo and Gemini now. If careful, honestly ambitious yet thoughtful of others' rights, you can make good headway in your acquisition and gain through other sound activities.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — No easy day for all interests, but an honest desire to get ahead plus steady work will bring you gains, new benefits. No day for procrastination or carelessness.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Do not waste time on trifling matters. Concentrate on essentials. Quick monetary returns are not indicated but work well done will bring some returns.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — A stirring, promising day for your interests, needs and talents. Set aside worry, fear and doubt. Have faith in you and your ability. New ideas, methods advocated.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Action, quicker wit tackling new and different tasks and ideas suggested. Your planet Uranus is in a fine position and you can accomplish much if you maintain a steady, efficient tempo.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — You have the best planetary influence (Neptune) of all today. Press personal and business interests, family affairs, new advantages; seek benefits generally. Be ambitious.

You born today are determined, aspiring, highly talented and capable. With these strong characteristics, be careful not to allow unpleasant traits to take over and defeat the splendid success possible. You have the ability to write or become skilled with your hands; can achieve in any field you choose and for which you study and train. Overcome any tendency to domineer or consider your judgment infallible. Let your generous and humorous side prevail always. Birthdate of John P. Sousa, composer, bandmaster.

Little Benny's Notebook

I was walking to school slow with Puds Simkins and Glasses Magee this morning and wishing we were running the opposite way at the other end of the day, and we started to talk and argue about different subjects, including bravery and how brave we thought we would be if the time ever came, and Puds said, Would you have the nerve to jump overboard to rescue a drowning dog if you had only just about 3 swimming lessons and still didn't trust anything but shallow water?

I'm not sure I'd quite jump overboard, but I might throw him my last life preserver, I said, and Glasses said, If the water was only about 6 inches over my head I might take a chance on jumping the rest of the ways to shore. Would you dash into a house if it was on fire with flames coming out of all the windows, to save a bewly looking girl's cat from being smoked to death? he said.

I might if I was dressed for it, Puds said. I mean if I had on an asbestos suit and a diving helmet, he said, and I said, I might if the firemen promised to keep their hoses turned on me all the ways in and all the ways out. But hay, I tell you what I would do with anybody. I'd subscribe to be a passenger on the first rocket ship to the moon and back, I said.

Oh boy, that's more like it, you can put my name down, too, Puds said, and Glasses said, Dont forget me, I'll sign up for a front seat right now.

And we shook hands on it to make it more binding.

Proving bravery probably has something to do with distants.

THOUSANDS

The Iron Curtain fell again at Schattendorf, a border village, at about 2 p.m.

A truck with about 30 Hungarians in their late, Soviet-type uniforms but wearing the red-white-green armbands of freedom fighters, drove up. They immediately halted the struggling line of refugees, standard-bearers who had not yet reached the red-white Austrian flags of freedom.

Many families were torn apart. Some people had gone ahead and waited desperately for their loved ones to catch up. Many waited in vain.

The Austrian police predicted that night and darkness would bring on a new exodus by 10 p.m.

Thousands of Austrians, glad to lend a hand in aiding the Hungarians, turned up at the border with cars and taxis to take fugitives to their homes.

I witnessed almost indescribable scenes of tragedy fears and hope as several thousand Magyarians poured over the open border. Even the hardened Austrian border police, who have seen many events of untold human destiny facing the Iron Curtain, themselves were moved to tears by the exodus.

There was no loud lamenting or nervous cries of distress from the fleeing crowds. The people walked upright, silent or with tears streaming down their faces past the open border barriers. There were many goodbyes as young men left their wives and children in the hands of the Red Cross and then turned back for continue to struggle for their homeland.

And there were many unaccompanied children wearing labels around their necks reading:

"Look after our children; we stay to fight to the last."

Sergeant Reads Book During Flight From Cyprus to Suez Canal Jump

SOMEWHERE ON CYPRUS (AP) — They took off in the darkness before dawn, in swirls of dust, for Egypt.

It was 4:45 a.m. (0:45 p.m. EST) when the first planeload of British paratroopers roared along the runaway, soared upward and wheeled south.

The planes followed one another in orderly ranks of nodes until the eastern sky was lined with red. When they were gone, dawn had come on D-day.

Quiet, outwardly calm, the paratroopers had waited for this most of the night. Most of them were regulars. Only 10 to 15 per cent had been in combat before, but many were hardened in the tough, dangerous battle against the EOKA underground on Cyprus.

As they stood before their planes awaiting the take-off, they checked and rechecked their gear. Some were yawning — who only a few hours later would be in combat. Only a mustachioed sergeant appeared a little apprehensive.

"All right chaps. Let's get moving," he shouted.

The sergeant, a 30-year-old veteran who ought in Italy, and Greece in his latest war.

"After all," he explained, "it's a two-and-a-half-hour trip. Must have something to do.

Hastings bombers already were loaded with heavy drop equipment, jeeps, guns and other gear. Troops were standing beside their Valetta transports in the orange glare of flares.

"I'm anxious to get on with this," said 22-year-old Pte. Michael Toscany, a Londoner. "I think maybe we'll be home for Christmas."

Pte. Brian Mason, a reservist, said, "I hope this gets over soon."

"I'm a little nervous, yes," he added somewhat defiantly.

Pte. Colin Macauley, 22, of Gloucestershire, said: "This is my first real jump, too — operational, that is. I'm looking forward to it."

The sergeant barked out an order and the men fell into line. He inspected the halter straps and chutes of each.

The men boarded their plane and the engines revved up.

Soon planes from the Mediterranean in British biggest airborne operation since the Second World War.

Ground forces embarked aboard vessels lying off Cyprus Sunday. The fleet contained warships, transports and support vessel.

Farm Veterans Under V.L.A. Seek Solution to Lower Prices

TRENTON, (Special.) — Farm veterans operating under the Veterans' Land Act administration gathered in the auditorium of the Trenton Memorial Hall on Thursday night at Belleville last fall means of dealing with the problem of lowered prices for farm products against the increased cost of production. It was the first meeting held in a series of six meetings in the five farming veterans in the Hastings Prince Edward and Lennox and Addington counties.

The large attendance clearly indicated the interest shown in the search for a solution to the threat to the existence of the family farm. The meeting was attended by William LaTour V.L.A. settlement officer for Hastings. He was assisted by H. Reid and L. Crossman settlement officers for the neighbouring counties of Prince Edward and Lennox-Addington.

R. Bagg district development officer for the V.L.A. from the Belleville office was present to point out to the veterans the assistance available to them through the administration of the VLA.

Since 1949 Brig. T. J. Rutherford the director of VLA has laid on and supervised an extensive course of study in farm planning and management for his field staff so that more and better assistance would be available to veteran farmers under VLA.

The administration strives to help veterans over the difficult period when assistance is proved through trying times. Emphasis is on training the farm vet to not only survive but become a leader in his respective vocation and community.

THOUGHT GIVEN PROGRAM

According to Mr. LaTour much thought and study has been given the program including farm organization and planning with special stress on soil conservation, grassland farming, loose housing, milking rooms, self-feeder bunker silos, forage harvesters, farm labor efficiency and more mechanization with less equipment. All of these were normal components of productive farming and had led to a clearer concept of applying the same principles to the family-sized farm by putting farming on an equal basis with industry with respect to net income and hours of labor.

Visual proof of the progress the VLA is making in the counties was provided by the use of a projector showing specially prepared slides of farms and farm and buildings on actual VLA settlements. It was demonstrated how the cost of production could be lowered and income increased by the growing of long-term legume crop, utility buildings and utilization of labor-saving machinery.

Passed on to the veterans and their wives in attendance was an interesting picture of a veteran's farm which had been completely converted and cut on a production-line system with the assistance of VLA supervision.

Another farming project operating under the VLA was outlined and depicted, the veterans progress over the last four years and his plan for the next five years. Question and answer period following commentary explained this plan.

GOOD PLANNING HELPS

One could readily use what good planning and operation had done for an otherwise struggling veteran. Here was a picture of how financial assistance under Part III of the Veterans' Land Act had helped a veteran build up a sound business as a progressive farmer. Further assistance would be available to veteran farmers under VLA.

Although Britain and France abstained in today's voting, the plan was pretty much in line with one of the conditions under which they said they would withdraw forces from Egypt. In a communication to Hammarskjold Sunday they said they would withdraw if Israel and Egypt stopped fighting and the Anglo-French police action there was taken over by a UN force.

Egypt and Israel, in reply to the demand of the cease-fire resolution, each said they would cease fighting if the other would agree.

Canada has said she would be willing to participate in such a force, as has New Zealand. Sources here said India, Norway and Colombia also have made tentative commitments to participate in the force.

Sir Leslie Munro of New Zealand said that although his country had offered to contribute to the force he still had to consult his cabinet because he had not had time to communicate with his government.

PARATROOPERS

"If the prime minister's statement means that there has been a general ceasefire in Egypt and that all military operations have ceased then for my part I am only too delighted," said Labor party leader Hugh Gaitskell. He pressed Eden to say whether the ceasefire was local or general:

"If the ceasefire is general, then will he undertake to carry out the rest of the UN General Assembly resolution and withdraw our troops from the area?"

CEASE-FIRE

Eden replied:

"Quite clearly I cannot know how wide or narrow is the area covered by the ceasefire, but I should have thought that every one of our fellow countrymen would have been delighted."

After Defence Minister Antony Head presented details of this morning's Allied landings, Labourites again pressed for an answer whether the cease-fire covered the Port Said area or Egypt in general.

Head had no detailed information about casualties, but said: "From reports, I should say there is every hope they will be light."

He said the Allied forces in the Suez Canal include vessels to clear the waterway. Several ships have been sunk there.

ONLY FOR CITY

In Paris, the French defence ministry announced Egypt's military commander at Port Said has asked to see the French paratroop commander there with a view to the surrender of the city and a ceasefire.

The French gave no names of the officers concerned. They made it plain, however, that only the city of Port said was involved.

A communique (No. 22) issued by the Allied high command on Cyprus said:

"A ceasefire has been ordered in Port Said. Brig. Butler, commander of the Allied paratroop regiment, is now discussing surrender terms with the governor and the Egyptian military commander."

British casualties were not announced in the first communique. French forces were reported to have suffered six wounded in seizing two bridges in the Port Said area.

The paratroopers struck after five days of air attacks softened up the Egyptian defences. They were to be followed by the main amphibious assault.

Debate Brings Milling Crowds To Hear Assembly

By REUMAN MORIN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) The subject under discussion bore the pazzicolous title The Situation in Hungary.

But it brought milling crowds of shouting, flag-waving, placard-carrying demonstrators to the UN building Sunday night, filled the spectator galleries in the glittering General Assembly Hall past overflowing, and raised waves of high emotion, applause, excited murmuring, boos, hisses, scornful laughter.

It sent a parade of speakers up to the rostrum to deliver heads vibrant with feeling.

It brought extra policemen, extra detectives, and an army of newspaper men, and television and radio crews to the scene.

There is a cliche among the UN delegates, "same old show." Frequently, it aptly describes the proceedings.

This, however, was far from the "same old show."

The atmosphere quivered here Sunday night.

FACED SPECTATORS

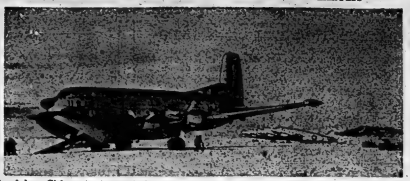
Inside the hall, guards in powder-blue uniforms stood with their backs to the rostrum—so they can face the spectators—as the debate moved along.

Outside, more than 2,000 people chanted "Freedom for Hungary." The words "Murders . . . slavery . . . butchers . . . red imperialism" cry out on their placards.

The words are painted the color of blood.

The red, white and green flag of Free Hungary is draped with a long black streamer.

GUARD RUSSIAN



Two New York city detectives stay close to the chief Russian delegate, Arkady A. Sobolev. They were assigned to him Saturday night when Russian tanks were carrying a new regime to power in Budapest.

Behind the desk marked, "Hungary" two seats were vacant. The regular delegates do not know what lies ahead for them. They won't talk about it.

Some of the delegates and staff aides are punch-drunk with fatigue. For three days and nights, broken only briefly for rest and food, they have been debating the two incredible stories of these days—Hungary and the Middle East.

No wonder they call this a "historic" debate.

AIRLIFT BRINGS SUPPLIES TO U.S. BASE IN ANTARCTIC

A huge Globemaster transport plane is shown on an ice strip at McMurdo Sound in the Antarctic shortly after landing, one of the first to reach Antarctica in the U.S. Air Force's successful operation of long range air lifts on the Antarctic continent. The flights to Antarctica provide a dramatic demonstration of the ability of today's aircraft to land and supply military forces anywhere in the world, even in the vast, frozen "heartland of the southern hemisphere."

One of the survivors of a bomber which crashed at McMurdo Sound during the U. S. Air Force Antarctic operation is shown being carried to the air field for transportation to Christchurch. A navy doctor and quonset hut are shown in background. (Central Press Canadian).

Committee Raises Largest Amount Among Towns

PICTON. —The Cancer, Polio, Tuberculosis (CPT) committee of Picton Odd Fellows and Rebekah lodge ranked first among all Ontario centres, other than cities, in amount of money raised for relief of distress last year, it was revealed at the November meeting. Amount raised and spent in Prince Edward County was $2,458. Including all centres, Picton ranked seventh.

A second wheel chair was reported as purchased by the committee for loan without charge and both are now in use.

It was decided to purchase new batteries for the electrocar which the CPT purchased. The user wrote to say it is not possible to express appreciation of the car which enables her to get out each fine day.

The committee agreed to continue to supply fuel oil for a widow and voted $25 to a bereaved family to help keep the family together.

Plans for vouchre parties on Nov. 12 and 26 and Dec. 3 were completed with Miss V. Rviott, Mrs. E. Tucker, Mrs. A. O. McGinnis, Mrs. Judy Jenkins, M. W. Dulmage making arrangements.

The annual Christmas draw and bingo will be turned over to the lodges with proceeds for the artificial ice fund.

Letters of thanks read by secretary Mrs. McGinnis were for aid given cancer victims, fire victims and for tonsillectomy.

The annual report was presented by treasurer, Mrs. Florence Tucker. The chairman Phil Dodds presided.

Election of officers was postponed until December when all members of the committee will have been appointed. The committee's work is done regardless of class, race or creed.

PICTON

Norman Mallett Re-elected Head Of Athletic Assoc.

PICTON.— Officers of Picton Athletic Association were re-elected at the annual meeting.

Norman Mallett is president, Phil Dodds, vice-president, Creighton Lockyer, secretary-treasurer. Directors are Bill Strachan for Kilwanis club; Don Trumpour, Kinsmen club; Bob Clapp, Rotary club; Herb. Atherton.

Chief purpose of the association formed in 1946 is to operate and maintain the softball centre at the public school grounds. The AA was responsible for erection the floodlights and bleachers and maintains the diamond.

In order to assure the diamond be kept available, the AA charges $10 per game under lights; $2.00 is to be charged for girls' games without lights to help with upkeep of grounds. Juniors have used the diamond without charge.

The association expressed itself in favor of lights being used for an open air rink but operators must be responsible for bulbs and power.

SEASON NOT SUCCESS

Due to unfavorable weather, the softball season was not a success financially and the teams unable to pay fees in full, the AA decided to wipe out this charge and also to provide crests for the teams. It was stressed that the AA must retain sufficient on hand to look after breakage, repairs, light bulbs and other necessities. The AA is also responsible for mowing of ground and the preparation of the diamond for each game.

A vote of thanks was expressed to N. Mallett for his splendid work on the grounds, and also to C. Lockyer who has also been an enthusiastic promoter of softball since AA was started. Through their efforts the local diamond is second to none in the district.

It was decided to buy metal pipe needed for screens. N. Mallett and C. Lockyer were authorized to continue to act in administering the diamond. It is hoped that another season service clubs will lend greater support to promoting this sport.

War Shadow Lies Over U.S. Election Day

Ominous Soviet Rocket Warfare Threat Ignored

Hungarians Still Defying Russians In Freedom Bid

Soviet Tanks and Artillery Shell Fighters' Ambulances

VIENNA (AP) — Uncconquered nationalist holdouts in Hungary hurled new words of defiance today at the Kremlin and said they were still fighting for freedom against heavy odds.

The Soviet command vowed that its troops in the bloodied, rebellious satellite—estimated at 200,000—would annihilate the holdouts with "all the means at their disposal" unless they laid down their arms immediately.

The Red Army and its puppet Hungarian government used guns, pleas and threats in an attempt to smother the dying embers of rebellion. Most of Hungary appeared under Kremlin's heel, but rebel pockets fought on today in isolated actions.

REBEL RADIO BUSY

A weak, unidentified radio station, transmitting orders to the holdouts, reported the bloodiest, heavy fighting this morning inside burning Budapest. It said Soviet tanks and artillery were shooting at the freedom fighters' ambulances.

Other rebels armed with hand weapons and home - made grenades were reported fighting Soviet tanks for the uranium mines of Mecsek, near the Yugoslav border in the south.

Russia's massive assault to crush Hungary's new-found independence, begun three days ago just as the Hungarian people believed they had won a civil war, still provoked varying reaction throughout the world.

In the West, there were demonstrations against Russia and a move by West Germany to speed rearmament. More than 100,000 West Berliners shouted "Down with the Russian rapers of Hungary" before the city's Soviet war memorial. West German students burned Communist signs marking the entrance to the eastern sector.

Israel Rejects British Demand Forces Withdraw

TEL AVIV (Reuters) — Israel today stood ready to defend its grip on the Egyptian Sinai Peninsula against any move to force withdrawal to the original armistice lines.

Authoritative sources said Israel had informed Britain of her refusal to withdraw.

The refusal was made clear in a meeting between Israel's foreign minister, Mrs. Golda Meir, and British Ambassador Sir John Nicholls late Monday, the sources said.

The foreign office said in London Monday that Britain expected Israel to withdraw its forces behind Israeli-Egyptian armistice lines.

DETERMINED TO STAY

It was understood today that the Israeli government is determined not to withdraw the troops which drove Egyptian forces off the Gaza Strip and the entire Sinai Peninsula, winning control of territory three times the size of Israel proper.

The authoritative sources said: "The future of Sinai will be determined in peace negotiations."

Israeli officials also took exception to mention of "armistice lines" in the British statement. Israelis have formally gone on the record that "the armistice agreement is dead."

Observers here believe Israel will do its utmost to hold Sinai at least for "bargaining purposes" in any future peace talks with Egypt.

Meanwhile, the Israeli army general staff said Monday night that fighting had ended in the peninsula and ceasefire orders were issued to all Israeli troops.

ACCEPT CEASE FIRE

An Israeli government spokesman announced Israel's unconditional acceptance of the United Nations' General Assembly cease fire call.

The richest prize of Sinai, oilfields on the coast of the Suez Gulf, some 40 miles south of the port of Suez, passed into Israeli hands undamaged, it was reliably learned.

The field, which produces nearly 1,000,000 tons of crude oil annually—over three-quarters of Israel's consumption—was captured without fighting on Saturday.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: The warm air that has covered Ontario for the last week again gave fog in many localities this morning. However, skies will clear and warm sunny weather was expected over Southern Ontario today. A band of showers west of the Great Lakes is moving slowly eastward and has already entered the northwestern forecast regions. It is expected to move into Southwestern Ontario early Wednesday morning.

QUEEN APPEALS FOR WORLD'S AID TO SETTLE CRISIS

Throne Speech Asks Broad Co-operation

LONDON (CP) — Britain called today for world-wide co-operation to help settle the dangerous Middle East crisis which has raised the possibility of a third world war.

The Eden government, in its speech from the throne read by the Queen at the official opening of the new parliamentary session today, asked for "the broadest measure of co-operation with the Commonwealth, the NATO allies and ipternational agencies for "a prompt and just settlement."

The call came as Britons—and millions of others throughout the world—pondered the implications of Russia's reference to rockets in its ominous warning Monday night to Britain and France to get out of Egypt.

Premier Bulganin told Britain and France that "there are countries which need not have sent a navy or air force to the coast of Britain, but could have used other means such as rocket technique" should they be in a similar position to Britain and France invading Egypt.

And he ended the statement with these words: "We hope at this critical moment you will display due prudence and draw the corresponding conclusions from this."

SEEKS SETTLEMENT

Before the Lords and members of the House of Commons, assembled in a setting of medieval splendor in the House of Lords, the Queen read these words:

"My government will continue their efforts to achieve by all possible means a prompt and just settlement of the many problems arising from the grave situation in the Middle East.

"To this end they will welcome the broadest measure of support ith our allies in the Atlantic alliance and in Europe, and with the international organization within which the United Kingdom is a member.

This was the only reference to the throne speech to the Middle East, a crisis which has divided the people and Parliament, shaken Britain's alliance with the United States and split opinion in the Commonwealth.

IKE WINS ANTARCTICA

MCMURDO SOUND, Antarctica (AP) — Navy ski-equipped planes today swept the largest "city" in Antarctica in a straw poll, 58 to 44. Bearded veterans of the long winter night and new arrivals cast ballots on Eisenhower and Adlai Stevenson in a cracker box at this United States Navy base.

Seven of 80 Passengers on Airliner Killed, Plane Undershot Runway

BLACKBUSHE, England (AP) — A chartered airliner bringing British wives and children home from the embattled Middle East fell into a woods early today and burst into flame.

Seven of the 80 persons aboard were killed. About 40 others were injured.

Many leaped to safety before the aeroplane's fuselage fell. Airport rescue teams pulled out others. The cause was not known for sure but the war office said the fact it had seats facing the tail probably kept the death toll relatively low.

The dead were four children, the pilot, co-pilot and radio officer.

The four-engined plane, inbound from Tripoli, Libya, was approaching Blackbushe airport near here through a light mist. A war office spokesman said it undershot the runway — touched the ground.

"We had fastened our seat belts and were coming in to land when suddenly the aircraft bounced," said Shirley Tinsley, one of the passengers. "It bounced several times and then crashed into some trees.

"The engines burst into flames and the aircraft was filled with the screams of children.

"I stayed as long as I could, handing down children. When everyone appeared to be out, I made a run for it."

Rescue teams found one group of eight children, three mothers and two infants huddled behind a lighted runway sign two miles from the crash. They said they had walked there.

American People Troop to Polls To Elect President, Congress For 4 Uncertain Years Ahead

WASHINGTON (CP)—The menacing shadow of war beyond the seas lay across the United States political scene today as the American people elected a president and a Congress to lead them in the uncertain months and years ahead.

An election-eve tirade from Moscow, raising the startling prospect that the inflammable Middle East might spark a third world war, heightened the drama, the tension and the suspense surrounding this 1956 presidential contest.

Except for wartime years, never has an American election been run off against so dismal an international background, with the two great U.S. allies—Britain and France—accused as aggressors in Egypt and the Soviet Union ruthlessly stamping out an independence movement in satellite Hungary.

Five big political prizes—the presidency and control of Congress—were placed before an estimated 60,000,000 voters today.

The presidential choice is between Dwight D. Eisenhower, the 66-year-old Republican president now seeking his second term, and Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee who lost out to the popular Eisenhower in 1952 and now is trying again.

Control of Congress has rested, with this election year, with the Democrats, who hold a 48-to-47 majority in the Senate and a 234-to-202 margin in the House of Representatives. Four years ago Congress went to the Republicans along with the White House. In the off-year 1952 elections, it swung back to the Democrats.

The big issue of this election, its ramifications sharpened and defined by the sudden Middle East fighting and the Soviet onslaught on Hungary, is the Eisenhower administration's conduct of American foreign policy.

The swiftly-moving events in the Mediterranean and central Europe touched off a brisk Democratic attack on the administration's handling of foreign affairs. The politicians were buttressed, particularly on the Middle East issue, by a spate of newspaper comment blaming the crisis there on the vacillation of U.S. foreign policy.

As the campaign closed down, Russia's Premier Bulganin provided an ominous note by proposing that the U.S. and the Soviet Union jointly put down the Anglo-French invasion of Egypt, warning that the fighting there "contains the danger of turning into a third world war."

And there was an even more ominous note in Bulganin's messages to Britain and France warning them to get out of Egypt. He mentioned rocket weapons—a subject with which Americans as members of a major atomic power have long been all too familiar.

The White House quickly labelled the Bulganin suggestion for joint military intervention as "unthinkable."

U.S. Warns Russia Against Intervention in Middle East

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia was confronted today with a White House warning that Soviet military intervention in the Middle East would be opposed by the United States.

The situation arising out of Russian threats to use force against Britain and France because of their attacks on Egypt was described by high officials here as extremely grave, but the hope expressed today in the highest quarters was that cooler heads would prove to be less tough than Soviet talk.

However, officials are sharply aware of Premier Bulganin's warning in notes to the Western powers Monday that events in the Middle East hold the danger of setting off a third world war.

President Eisenhower's initial response to the Soviet moves, indicated by his bid for a joint United States-Russian force to act against Britain and France under United Nations auspices, was made Monday night in a White House statement and a letter to Bulganin. The two documents made three major points:

1. The suggestion that a U.S.-Soviet force to hit British and French forces is "unthinkable." In New York, the UN Security Council refused to outlaw this proposal, made by Bulganin in a letter to Eisenhower.

2. The introduction of any such force into the Middle East would violate the UN charter "and it would be the duty of the United Nations members, including the United States, to oppose any such effort." No elaboration was given.

3. The "first and most important step" needed now for world peace is for the Soviet Union to withdraw its forces from Hungary. Bulganin rejected a request embodied in a UN resolution.

Moscow Crowd Tries to Storm British Embassy

MOSCOW (Reuters)—More than 1,000 Moscow citizens, shouting "Down with war," tried to storm the British embassy here this morning.

Several hundred succeeded in jostling their way past militia guards and surged into the grounds of the embassy to demonstrate against fighting in the Middle East.

The British ambassador, Sir William Hayter, lodged a strong protest at the Soviet foreign ministry.

Jordan's Mufti Issues Call For Holy War

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — The grand mufti of Jordan, Sheikh Abdulhis Qalqili, issued an appeal today calling on every able-bodied Jordanian to join a holy war against Britain, France and Israel in aid of Egypt.

The mufti said "the legitimate right of self-defence obliges every Arab and Moslem throughout the world to co-operate in repulsing this aggression unleashed against Egypt."

As he spoke, Cairo radio reported that Saudi Arabian troops have entered Jordan in support of Egypt.

Previously troops of Iraq and Syria have been reported in Jordan. But there has been no move as yet to open up an attack on Israel.

Damascus radio announced that Saudi Arabia is breaking diplomatic and other relations with Britain and France, and has banned the shipments of oil to Britain and France.

COMMUTER TRAINS CRASH AT CHICAGO, 7 PERSONS KILLED

All of Dead Trapped In Twisted Wreckage

CHICAGO (AP)—Seven persons were killed and more than 150 injured Monday night when a jam-packed, speeding eight-car elevated train plowed into a standing train at a north side station.

All of the dead were trapped in the twisted wreckage of the front car of the Chicago Transit Authority elevated train. The car split down the middle as it crashed into the rear section of a six-car Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee train.

The crash occurred at the height of the evening rush hour in the Wilson Ave. rapid transit station. Both trains were northbound. The North Shore electric train carried more than 200 passengers. The CTA coaches were heavily loaded, including many shoppers.

Screams of panic rang through the cars as lights failed after the impact. Passengers were thrown to the floors and piled atop each other.

BRAKES FAILED

More than a dozen passengers were trapped in the forward section of the first elevated car, including Fire Lt. Motorman, Michael O'Driscoll, 52. He was the last to be removed—after he had endured nearly five hours after the pileup.

Dr. J. R. Guttman, who helped treat the injured, said O'Driscoll told him he tried to apply the brakes as he neared the station but they failed.

CTA spokesmen said brakes of the last seven cars of the train were in operating order. They said conditions of the brakes in the lead car could not be determined because of damage caused by the impact.

Some 100 firemen worked on the rescue. Most of the passengers trapped were rescued only after an entire section of the front car was pulled away with chain hoists.

The dead included five men and two women, all of the Chicago area.

Three Killed Near Sudbury

SUDBURY (CP) — Three men were killed and two others critically injured Monday in a three-car collision on the road to Capreol, 10 miles north of here.

The dead are Raymond Hutchison 34, of Coldiagwood; Donatien Lambert, 27, of nearby Azilda and Guido Bugma, 34, of nearby Val Caron. Hutchison was killed instantly and Lambert died in hospital.

Antelm Avery and Emile Savoie of Sudbury are in hospital with critical injuries.

Police said Hutchison and Lambert were driving the cars.

Children Feed Themselves for 3 Days While Mother Lies Dead in Kitchen

OWEN SOUND (CP) — Two brothers, aged 2 and 3, managed to feed themselves for at least three days while their mother lay dead in a bedroom of their home 15 miles from here, provincial police said Monday.

Mrs. Viola Emilia Rose, 38, who died after a lengthy illness from tuberculosis and malnutrition was found by her estranged husband, Ernie, a district mill worker on a visit to the two-story farmhouse at the village of Walter's Falls.

Police said it was a miracle the children, Gordon 2, and Johnny 3, lived and said the warm weather helped. They told how the tots punctured milk cans, opened cheese packages, ate raw meat, eggs and bread and jam to keep alive.

The husband, who had left the groceries Friday, said the last day "something seemed to tell me things weren't right and I began to get that feeling I was going to see." He had walked into "unbelievable stench" inside the house, with the two boys in each other's arms on a couch. Food was strewn everywhere.

The house was unheated, but the children had scattered matches all over the floor in an unsuccessful effort to set a pile of wood to burn. Their failure probably saved their lives, police said.

The children were taken to relatives in nearby Williamsford. The father said he had always left his family enough to eat and he had no idea his wife was so sick.

Landings Are Made at Dawn At Northern End of Canal

LONDON (CP) — British and French ground units swept ashore on both sides of the northern end of the Suez Canal today as the two Western powers defied Soviet demands—backed by an ominous reference to rocket warfare—that they end hostilities against Egypt.

And as the continuing fighting in the Middle East brought new international tension, Switzerland proposed that the Big Four and India hold a "summit" conference to avert a third world war.

The Queen opened the new session of Parliament today in the shadow of the most threatening events under which the House has met since Hitler threw his forces into Poland in 1939.

The young monarch read a speech from the throne prepared by Sir Anthony Eden's government calling for co-operation from the Commonwealth and the rest of the Free World in settling the danger-packed Middle East situation.

SIX OFFER TROOPS

At the United Nations, meanwhile, Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold announced that six countries have offered troops for an international UN police force to watch over a Middle Eastern cease-fire. He had worked through the night to mould a plan for organizing the Canadian-suggested force in the face of bitter opposition.

The American election was overshadowed by the new Soviet threat in which Premier Bulganin warned Britain and France that Russia was prepared to use force to end the action in Egypt. He picked the two Western powers that position they would find themselves in if attacked by "powerful states possessing every kind of modern destructive weapons."

And he referred, without elaboration, to "rocket techniques."

His message was followed by a wild demonstration today at the British Embassy in Moscow, where a Russian crowd shouting "Down with war" tried to storm the embassy.

Britain and France threw their ground forces into action in their up parachute troops who had opened the invasion of the canal area early Monday. The landings at dawn were the first seaborne assault in the Suez invasion.

British commandos punched into Port Said to join the fighting that broke out again Monday night after local-level surrender talks had been broken off.

French forces went ashore at Port Fuad, the small point opposite Port Said. A French defence ministry spokesman said French troops had secured the northern edges of Port Said, possibly indicating an early link-up of the two drives.

Egyptian military headquarters in Cairo said British and French troops were being landed by sea and air at Port Said in an attempt to "fighting heroically in the streets."

Ontario Museum Official to Talk To U.E.L. Meeting

In furtherance of one of the objectives of the Province of Quinte Branch, U.E.L. Association, that of preservation of historical objects and records pertaining to the lives of Loyalist settlers, and to prepare for the anticipated responsibility of establishing and maintaining a museum in the U.E.L. Memorial Park at Adolphustown, historical committee chairman Mrs. Kaye McFarland, has arranged for an outstanding authority on this subject to attend the regular meeting of the Branch on Wednesday evening of this week, at Adolphustown.

Mr. William Todd, chief preparator, department of art and archaeology, Royal Ontario Museum, Toronto, will bring to the meeting a presentation of the basic principles of establishing and maintaining a museum. During the ceremony of restoration of the old burial ground at Adolphustown on June 16th Premier Leslie Frost officially intimated the hope that a collection of historically valuable relics of bygone days could be assembled in the proposed museum. A few members of the Branch have been quietly searching out items which could be obtained, just for a start, with the expert opinions and advice of Mr. Todd the historical committee will be glad to consult with at the undertaking.

Nineteen new members will be received into the Branch at this meeting, which will bring the roster, above the eighty mark. It is confidently expected that a membership of 85 at least one hundred will be attained by the end of the year, when the charter membership list closes.

Members and visitors are reminded this meeting is called for 8 p.m. on Wednesday at the Adolphustown Township Hall.

West Hill Groups Protest Cut In Bus Service

Two separate West Hill delegations with petitions bearing over 1,000 names protesting against proposed fare increase and service curtailment by Rawson Bus Lines, last night held up presentation of a city council by-law authorizing the proposed changes.

The by-law was referred back to committee for further consideration after delegation heads to be invited to sit in at a meeting of the council committee with officials of Rawson Bus Lines. Tentative date for the meeting was set for Thursday of this week.

Ex-Alderman Douglas Moxam acted as spokesman for one delegation, he noting that he represented 400 West Hill citizens who signed a petition asking council to reconsider its agreement with the bus lines. Possible rerouting of buses and municipal subsidization in case of operational loss were suggested.

A second delegation headed by Mr. Kenneth Burkitt, as spokesman, also asked council to delay making changes in its agreement with the bus company until a more thorough examination of the facts was made. This delegation was armed with a petition bearing 481 names.

Pleads Guilty To Theft Charge, Is Remanded

After pleading guilty to a charge of theft from Mrs. Nora Post in the sum of $1,225, Cecil J. Courneyea was this morning remanded for sentence until Friday by Magistrate S. T. White. The accused remains in custody.

Inspector Clair Mayes of the Belleville provincial police force, told the Magistrate's Court here this morning how Cecil J. Courneyea, formerly of this city and now employed in Toronto, obtained $1,225 in cash from Mrs. Nora Post, his housekeeper, over a period of two years, which he was to have placed in a bank account for her but instead was put in his own pocket.

On August 25, 1953, Courneyea deposited $2.27 to an account in the Bank of Montreal, crediting the name of Cecil Courneyea in Trust. At that initial deposit the bank gave him a pass book in which, upon subsequent "deposits" Courneyea himself entered the figures but did not deposit any money in the account. After each so-called deposit Mrs. Post would Courneyea would return the pass book to her complete with his own entries.

Mrs. Post, who is in her 70's, quit Courneyea's employ in July of this year. She went to the bank to withdraw a sum of money but the entry was not there not because the account was not Mrs. Post's, the account in May contained only $3.27.

On one occasion Courneyea borrowed $40 from his housekeeper and in return gave her an I.O.U. Inspector Hayes said restitution has been made by the accused; however, Courneyea at one time was believed to be about trying to raise the money to pay her back.

WANT SALESMAN BACK

Courneyea's immediate superior at a Toronto neon sign company said that his company was anxious to take the accused back on their sales staff.

Ben Hurley who is representing Courneyea, said that in 1955 Courneyea should net $8,000 but some if he allowed to return to his job in Toronto, he could make his income, the lawyer stated, could be sent either directly to Mrs. Post or to the court and within one year the financial debt would be cleared.

Crown Attorney John A. Pringle said, "If Courneyea's company trusts him enough to let them pay the $1.225 in addition to his still-owing $400 from outright and collect from Courneyea over each month."

Six local youths who were apprehended by city police on Hallowe'en and charged with creating a disturbance were remanded to return to Magistrate's Court on November 12 for hearing.

A third offence drunk charge brought a local man a fine of $100 and costs with the option of spending three months in jail. A second offence drunk driving charge required another Belleville man to change his address for the next month in the County house on the hill. For illegal possession of an alcoholic beverage another man was sentenced to one day in jail. Two men who caused a disturbance in a public place were put behind bars for six days; and a chap who faced liquor offences was charged with a first offence of being intoxicated in a public place elected to spend six days in jail rather than pay a fine of $10 and costs.

David Barker Will Rejoin City Hall Staff

Former city building inspector Mr. David Barker who was recently responsible for drafting of the present city zoning by-law, will return to Belleville to again work at city hall.

City council last night was told of Mr. Barker's scheduled return as a city employee by City Manager Dennis Herring who said a man of Mr. Barker's capabilities was required to assist in planning and other phases of city work.

Mr. Barker will begin his duties on December 1st, it was stated. In addition to his duties with respect to planning Mr. Barker will possibly take over his previous job as building inspector, that now retained the present building inspector Adam Stalker, who is expected to head up a purchasing department.

Alderman Ben Safe, chairman of public works, said he had been told of Mr. Barker's appointment but was not consulted. As chairman of the works committee, he felt the procedure was strange.

Alderman Arthur Keegan noted that the city needed a draftsman and said Mr. Barker was well qualified.

City Manager Dennis Herring, replying to Alderman Safe, said he was not ashamed to admit a public apology for not consulting him. At the same time, he said, he expected to stand on his own feet and to make decisions.

Toronto Editor Gives Views On Hungary and Suez Crisis

Burton T. Richardson, editor of The Telegram, yesterday urged Belleville Rotarians to help maintain the freedom of the press which, he said, is always the first casualty of a tyrannical dictatorship which must control the minds of its subjects.

"It is mainly from the newspapers, especially, that the great events in the main stream of history reach the basic information is drawn that provides the basis of the nation's daily conversation. Neither radio nor television has made any essential change is that situation, and even if you say you heard it on the radio or saw it on TV the chances are the news really originated with the press," he said.

To illustrate his point Mr. Richardson gave his views on two of the greatest news breaks since the beginning of the Second World War — the Hungarian and Middle East crises.

Russia has set up a new government in Hungary to replace the Nagy regime. "As a result free men are faced with the appalling situation in which the ideals for which many have died have been trampled into the black earth of Russian tyranny. Russian bombs and all we seem able to do is to shut our ears to the death throes of a people desperately to grasp their own liberty," said Mr. Richardson.

The speaker indicated that the United States and Western alliance "is the most fateful turn of events for our country since Confederation."

BLAMES DULLES, EISENHOWER

The key to strengthening the foundations of peace, he felt, lies in "American leadership of the free world." To this moment no plan has been given for the steady deterioration of the strength and moral purpose of the coalition of free nations under the leadership which Dwight Eisenhower has been entrusted. That deterioration, it seems clear now, began with the Eisenhower administration's first declaration of John Foster Dulles as chief manager of American foreign policy.

"The irony of the situation is that the great soldier who led the Western forces to victory in the Second World War has failed to be President under whom the moral authority of the United States in world affairs has grown, and receded to the point where chaos threatens us all."

Mr. Richardson said that no one can be accused of influencing the U.S. election from the outside, for the drama of the news has highlighted the events "which underline in final terms the bankruptcy of American foreign policy." Whatever the result may be, it seems certain, the people are ready to re-elect Eisenhower and Nixon."

STRUGGLE IN KREMLIN

With the death of Joseph Stalin in 1953 the struggle for his heritage of power between the Kremlin, the great Russian "monolithic engine" of terrorism and the captive millions who dwelt in the mind's shadow of Communism and the relaxation of Stalin's demise no leader has remained long enough in control of the Kremlin to fully appreciate his position. Others eyeing his position and methods of rewarding cash successor nearly all and quietly liquidated or purged.

The recent change in Russia's attitude toward the outer world is a result of a new tide that was flowing in world affairs, dark, mysterious, ominous, hopeful to some, and alarming to others, said the speaker.

Tito and Yugoslavia had already broken with the Kremlin in 1948. East Germany had its food riots in 1953, a brief explosion that quickly passed, leaving only its memory. Then Poznan riots in Poland renewed the theme earlier this year, and then the Poles recalled Gomulka and began to work out a measure of Communist independence with the Russians. And now "Hungary, whose insurrection appeared to outrun the limits of what Moscow regards as 'co-existence,' has been taken over. This is the event that presents an end to Russian theories of 'peaceful co-existence' and indeed, of their entire theory of propaganda for neutrality and peace."

MIDDLE EAST CRISIS

Middle East crisis is highlighting the news. Israel is a Western state created on the east shores of the Mediterranean, the promised land of an ancient people, the child of the United Nations, "and the thorn to prick the civilized conscience of mankind."

Ever since the UN brought the Palestinian war to an end, Israel has lived under an armed armistice with her Arab neighbors. There has been no peace for Israel or Arabs.

"There has only been a frontier incident with Jordan, and the ominous shape of a coming explosion in which the world might again be drawn into a general war. This is a shameful chapter of failure and fear.

"We have had the UN truce observers' commission under Canadian General E. L. M. Burns, and he has urgently asked for help for Israel. He has complained bitterly of the security of the Israeli frontier. We have had endless violations of that frontier, and we have had only a United Nations policy of trying to police words without enough policemen," said Mr. Richardson.

PRAISES PEARSON

He hopes "Canada will maintain a firm and influential role in United Nations to act quickly on the excellent suggestion of Mr. Pearson" . He is convinced that their move was founded on legal rights to re-occupy the Suez Canal, the nationalization of which, merit of withdrawal when the British withdrew from the Suez zone in 1954 "at the instigation of the Americans. Britain, with France assisting, has exercised that right.

"Nine-tenths of Britain's oil is delivered through the Suez Canal. Sir Anthony Eden's action might in saying that Britain would face a permanent lowering of her standard of life if the canal is closed against her. Of course, the UN should have settled the issue of Nasser's seizure of the canal just as it should have had enough policemen for duty in Israel," concluded the speaker.

Introduced by Jack Yanover, Mr. Richardson was thanked by Edward Bernstein and President E. C. Gurnett.

At the Soldiers' Memorial Hospital, Orillia, after a brief illness, Lieut-Col. T. R. Caldwell, 21st Battalion, C.E.F., and O.C. of the Sixth Reserve Battalion, Seaford, England, died on Friday. To the thousands who passed through the Reserve he was known as Colonel "Dinkey" Caldwell. For some years he held an important executive position with General Motors at Oshawa—and when the Second World War broke out, he was again in uniform and was in command of a motor vehicle assembly plant in England. Eventually he was in business at Orillia as an agent of the C.I.L.

He is survived by his wife, the former Dorothy Leslie Code of Perth and a son, Thomas Allan of Orillia. Five Firemen Hurt

OTTAWA (CP) — Five firemen were hurt today in a four-alarm blaze that swept through a central furniture storage warehouse causing damage estimated at more than $250,000.

The warehouse, which once was the Rexy Theatre, an old Ottawa landmark, was destroyed in the seven-hour fire along with furniture it held.

None of the firemen, injured when a 15-ton shower of bricks fell to the street as a wall crumbled, were seriously hurt but all were taken to hospital.

INSPECTS CENTRE

Senator W. A. Fraser and his nephew, Babe Bates, last Saturday visited the site of the new Community Centre now in the process of construction on the former Ajeys property south of Bay Street. The Senator's information of inspection took him through the partially built brick entrance to the spacious arena into the interior where the artificial ice rink and seating arrangements are to be located. This week workmen start to raise the beams to hold the roof. There will be no pillars or posts inside the building to interfere with the view of spectators, according to arena manager Ted Steadman.

Total registration numbers 468 Trenton and Middleton Park children.

Commissioner Workman believes there are many hundred more children in town and the R.C.A.F. settlement who should be taught to respect water and know what to do in case of an emergency.

Saturday classes start at 6.30 a.m. and continues through to 9.30 a.m. The afternoon program convenes between 1.00 p.m. and 5.00 p.m. Mr. Workman also teaches water safety at the airport pool Friday nights between 6.30 p.m. and 9.30.

Still in the embryo stage, there is a move on foot to build an indoor pool in Trenton. A local service club is giving the project consideration although nothing definite has been decided.

The set-up at present, is a coincided.

bined effort, with the local recreation commission providing instructors and administration while the R.C.A.F. makes available the facilities.

Dept. of Health Orders Town To Treat Sewage

TRENTON (Special) — O. G. Larry, clerk treasurer of the Town of Trenton this morning received a letter from the office of Dr. McKinnon Phillips, minister of health for Ontario.

The department of health has issued a mandatory order requiring the town of Trenton to proceed with installation of sewage treatment facilities. It will not be necessary for a plebiscite ordered earlier by the municipal board concerning a vote on the question.

In 1950 a consulting engineering firm figured it would cost between $500,000 and $550,000 to build a sewage disposal plant and sanitary sewers. Since the town is growing tremendously, in intervening years there is a possibility that plants will have to be built on both sides of the Trent River. Six years ago the engineers estimated a plant with sanitary and storm sewers would cost $700,000.

Pinned by Auto, Has Leg Bruised

TRENTON (Special) — Rodney Genereaux, 16, of 19 Edward Street, Trenton, was the victim of an unusual accident here on Saturday. He was standing behind a parked car facing west on the north side of Dundas St. E., in front of C. S. Alyea's jewellery store, putting groceries into the trunk of his car. The car parked behind rolled ahead when the driver started the motor, pinching Genereaux's left leg between the two bumpers.

An examination showed Genereaux suffered a painful bruise on the calf of his leg.

F. L. Leonard Cecil Wilson, 18, McEwen Drive, Middleton Park was the driver of the other parked car.

Financial Picture Of Hockey Team, City Outlined

A rosy financial picture for this year's operation of a Senior "A" hockey club by the city arena commission, was presented to city council Monday night by Alderman Gerald Eyre, chairman of the finance and executive committee.

Alderman Eyre noted that with but receipts of four games to date, and part of season tickets a take of about $9,500 had already been realized. This put the team $470 in the black with all expenses to date taken out, and which included a sizeable sum for equipment.

In addition to receipts noted above were the contribution from the team sponsor and money from the sale of programs.

Forecasting a successful financial year for the team, the alderman noted that regardless of what happened during the balance of the season, under no circumstances would the city taxpayers be allowed to pay one cent toward hockey team expenses.

Alderman C. D. Tice as chairman of the Arena Commission, said he endorsed 100 per cent what Alderman Eyre had said.

"It had been decided," he said, "that the hockey team must be a contending and competitive team, and if it were not a contender it would be strengthened. He paid tribute to Drury Denyes, team manager, who, he said, "was doing an excellent job."

Financial figures relating to the operation of the senior hockey team were given by Alderman Eyre during a rundown on the general financial picture of the city.

CITY FINANCES DISCUSSED

The finance chairman noted that at the end of October last year the city's bank balance had been $80,804, as compared with a balance of $46,661 at the same date this year.

The difference was accounted for by city's purchase of the Pinnacle street lock company property for which no provision had been made in the budget.

This year at the end of October 85.8 per cent of the current year's taxes had been collected as compared with 87.39 per cent at the same date last year.

Back taxes still uncollected on Oct. 30 totalled $211,518 as compared with $207,398 for the same date a year ago.

Current bank loans totalled $268,951, much of which was made up by road expenses which would later be deductible.

As of the present date the arena commission still owed the city $10,109, this accruing from operational deficit in past seasons.

Two capital debt of the city totalled $170.54 with 11 of 25 Ontario cities showing a higher rate.

Current debenture debt of the city was given as $3,353,000 with bank debt of about $258,000 still to be debentured.

Two Belleville Women to Help Disaster Victims

The hearts of Bluenoses are big and Carrs, whether in the aforebordered Nova Scotia or expatriate in Ontario.

Canada was shocked at the recent mining tragedy at Springhill, N.S. when over 100 miners were trapped. A lot of them are dead.

Thoughts of native Nova Scotians in other Canadian centres dwelt on the hardships being suffered by the families of the striken miners.

Here in Belleville two ladies, Mrs. Norman Kellar, 15 Russell Street and Mrs. Gerald Scully, 5 Jane Street who formerly resided in Truro, N.S., know Springhill well. Several of the mining families affected by the disaster are well-known to them.

They are aware of their plight. "In some cases it is desperate" one of these ex-Nova Scotians said.

Mrs. Kellar and Mrs. Scully are organizing a private relief fund for these families. They will welcome good articles of clothing and toys which they will forward to Springhill. They will see they reach the proper destinations.

Mrs. Kellar's phone number is WO 8-3532, Mrs. Scully can be reached at WO 8-9616.

So if you have any articles of clothing that could be used by these people less fortunate than we, see that either of these ladies gets it. And don't forget the toys if you have any. A lot of kiddies down Springhill way will have a brighter Christmas if you act promptly.

By-Law Turned Down by Council After Discussion

Showing a complete reversal of opinion from the stand taken two weeks ago, city aldermen Monday night turned thumbs down on a by-law to authorize a referendum which at the forthcoming municipal election would allow ratepayers to choose three of ten construction projects which they felt should be carried out first in the city.

Two weeks ago a motion calling for the referendum was carried in council. Last night when the by-law was presented council opposed it almost unanimously. Only Alderman Gerald Hyde whose motion originally brought the matter to council remained in favor.

Terms such as "ridiculous", "confusing" and "misleading" were heard from aldermen describing the proposed referendum, while Alderman Ben Safe accused Alderman Hyde of "dreaming up" many of the projects.

Alderman Ralph Graham said it was absolutely ridiculous to expect an intelligent vote from the electors on the matter.

Alderman Art Keegan asked how the electors could be expected to vote intelligently when they were not in the possession of the facts. Council members are supposed to be the experts, he said.

NO DREAM SAYS ALDERMAN

Alderman Hyde denied he had "dreamed up" any of the projects listed in the referendum. "I did not dream up the ideas — they were given to me by members of council," he said.

Listed on the referendum were to be such projects as sewage disposal, a new bridge across the Moira, new city hall and police station, an incinerator, paving of Front street, widening of College street and an ice-control dam north of College street to prevent springtime flooding in the city.

Electors were to be used to list the three projects considered should be undertaken first, and when finances were available.

THE REAL CANCER

Some talk at if the Middle East and the Hungarian crises were twins. This is as absurd as to suggest that all babies born on the same day have the same parents.

To change the simile, it is like suggesting that all stomach-aches are equally serious, whether they be caused by inability to digest something one has just eaten or by a long-present malignant growth.

There is no question as to which of the two stomach-aches is due to a cancer which has been eating at the world's vitals for many years. It is the situation in Hungary.

When this distinction has been made, however, it ought to be admitted that the presence of the Middle East crisis at the same time is to be deplored, as much as a green-apple tummy-ache is to be deplored in a patient suffering from cancer. It confuses the diagnosis.

Aside from that, the green-apple tummy-ache would have no bearing on the cancer. Nor does the Middle East situation have any bearing on Hungary. The suggestions that Russia would not have dared to march her troops into that country had not the world's attention been focused on the Anglo-French inter-country conference are absurd. They reveal a complete lack of comprehension of the true nature of Russian Communism and of the mechanics of its operations.

Russia's action in sending more troops into Hungary could have been predicted as soon as Premier Nagy not only took non-Communists into his government but also promised free elections. The declaration of Hungary's neutrality and the appeal to the United Nations to uphold this neutrality made Russian action doubly certain.

The Hungarian revolt went too far, past the point where Russia could be expected to accept it with that grace she could muster. In contrast to the Hungarians, the frequently hot-headed Poles acted with cool calculation, taking a risk they considered worthwhile and to succeed. Half a loaf of bread, they figured, was better than none.

No Communist satellite can expect today to win the whole loaf of freedom from Communist rule as well as a measure of independence from the Kremlin. Freedom cannot be won by a subject people without the support of foreign powers. And the kind of foreign support may call for such armed intervention by the West, there is no western government today which is willing to take such a step.

It would almost certainly unleash the H-bombs.

Even the neutral nations, which sympathize deeply with the Hungarians, are concerned about their own welfare. It may not be a heroic attitude, but it is an attitude that the Hungarians should have understood. Certainly as they have fought against their oppressors, there was a time, not many years ago, when they stood aside as aggressors assailed other nations. When the Nazis marched into Poland, Hungary not only did not join the Polish war but actually seized the opportunity to claim for herself a portion of Poland she considered rightly her territory. Later, when the Germans rallied to attack Russia and Britain stood alone on the west, there is no record of the Hungarians resisting, as the Yugoslavs did when the Nazis swept through their country on the way to Greece. The Hungarians of Heroism today has won their admiration of the free world, but the free world is not prepared to be equally heroic in coming to their aid.

The Hungarians have the deepest sympathy of the western world, but the governments of the west fear war and its consequences more than they detest Russia's barbaric actions in Hungary. These may be hard words, but they are the words which, if we are honest with ourselves, we will admit that our governments are truly reflecting the wishes of the great majority of the people they govern.

DOGS CATCH LIVE BIRDS

One of the controversies in which we have no wish to particularly expect to mention in passing that one side is so wrong that there is no need to identify it, is the quarrel between cat-lovers and dog-lovers, which flares up sporadically. Cat-lovers maintain that the notorious indepen-dence of the cat is an indication of that animal's true worth and that the inspiring loyalty of the dog is nought but the fawning of a slave at the feet of its master.

As we said, we shall not participate in this contro-versy, beyond noting that the current issue of C-I-L Oval carries an article on the work of the Canadian Wildlife Service, which has been busy breeding ducks for anti-pests. To capture the birds the Canadian Wildlife Service used retrievers and spaniels for this purpose. The dogs had to be trained to catch a live bird, pick it up in their mouths and deliver it, unharmed, to the man who was doing the banding.

Are there any cat-lovers who would like to attempt the same trick with their pet Tabby?

STRIKE FOR LONGER WEEK

A rather extraordinary news item reports that electri-cians at a Dew radar line have gone on strike because they are not working long enough hours. The men, who have been working a 60-hour week, have protested that this period is too short.

If, again, should leap to the conclusion that human nature has suddenly gone off its rocker, then sit back and relax.

The plain truth of the matter is that these electri-cians had been working such a short week at home and had enjoyed their extra hours of leisure to such an extent that they insisted on extra hours of work to get the northern job over in a hurry, so they can get back to the distractions which appear to have been overlooked in the otherwise efficient planning of the warning line.

So much so in fact, they appear to be over Dew.

ELECTION DAY

This the day for free men planned,
Day of privilege for all.
May it be, throughout our land,
Calendared on every wall.

Years ago for us men fought,
Took the lash and died
That this day of which they thought
Might become our nation's pride.

They were young and they were brave,
They were freedom's gallant souls.
This one day for us they made,
When wide open are the polls.

Time to vote is ours to spare,
Putting all things else aside;
Stand in line, remembering there,
For that privilege men died.

How CNR Spends Its Money

From the Canadian National Railways Magazine

Before Canadian National Rail-ways can sell a ticket to a traveller or move a single pound of freight it must first undertake a long shopping round to se-cure all the diverse ingredients needed to operate a 20,000-mile transcontinental rail network.

This big buying job, which re-quires an average annual ex-diture of $233,000,000, is handled by the railway's purchasing de-partment, established by the late 79-year-old Edwin A. Bromley, vice-president, purchases and supply, to service CNR's other enterpri-ses.

Every year an estimated 200,-000 orders are placed with firms in Canada, the United States and Britain, and occasionally in other countries. Money is spent at the rate of $440 per minute, making the Canadian National Railways the biggest single buyer, or shopper, in Canada.

These purchasing specialists, the railway's "big-time spenders," must watch the same problems as the average householder — multiplied by a few thousand. They, after all, scrounge for bar-gains, watch for a chance to get prices cut when they are quoting on the quality of everything they buy. And they must pay for their stuff promptly.

"When someone tells you a railway purchasing agent is simply a lawyer, economist, cost analyst, valuation engineer and material expert, all wrapped up in one frail human frame, he's singing the praises of Purchasing Agent Bromley once remarked.

The buying needs of the rail-way are as varied as the CNR itself.

Purchases run from ballast to bed linen, from locknuts to loco-motives, from paint to pay-roll, beef, from silk stockings to struc-tural steel. Purchasing agents have ordered such items as par-ka and sleeping bags for tele-graph employees stationed on the fringe of the Arctic Circle, and a diver helmet for a deep sea diver helping to repair company ships.

• • •

While the average householder ponders whether to buy a fowl for Sunday's dinner, one of Mr. Bromley's men is calmly ordering 10 tons of turkey for the Chateau Laurier.

"We can save money by quan-tity buying," Mr. Bromley said, with-out "but we can save even more through the ability to buy intelli-gently with quantity. A purchasing agent, however, must always keep his eyes open for bargains. He must con-stantly trying to get the lowest price, quality and service, both.

A typical Purchasing Depart-ment shopping list might include jewelry, shaving creams, tooth paste and fishing tackle for re-sale in resort shops, or perfect, thread and safety pins to be pla-ced in hotel rooms for the con-venience of guests.

There might be an order for 1,000,000 pounds of ground red killer to be used along the CNR's vast network of tracks, or an or-der for 1,000,000 feet of ties, or Jasper Park golf course. The list includes such items as ironing boards and spikes, shovels and steel rails, typewriters and paper clips.

Each year the railway purchases bought 325,000 tons of ice for use in refrigerator cars during the rail line construction and mainten-ance. The company stationary re-quirements include 1,000 reams of paper, 25,000,000 envelopes, enough to last 16 months.

• • •

Mr. Bromley's shopping basket must also include orders for new freight and passenger equipment. Purchase of new rolling stock represents one of the biggest ex-penses facing the railway today. The latest purchases include loco-motive costs $420,000; a standard sleeping car, $230,000; and a first class coach, $148,000. At these prices the CNR would be unable to include rest-rooms as investment of about $100 and a half million dollars.

Yet the ordering of new Equip-ment goes on. Next year the rail-way expects to take delivery of 4,540 new freight cars and 70 more passenger cars. Right now all of the Canadian National loco-motives and cars were harnessed into a single train it would stretch up unbroken from Toronto to Winni-peg, a distance of 1,200 miles.

Fuel and wood are two com-modities bought in large quanti-ties. Last year the department spent more than $50,000,000 for coal and fuel oils, making the CNR the biggest single buyer of fuel in Canada.

Another $25,000,000 was spent on wood, chiefly for ties. The railway has some 90,000,000 ties in its system and several million have to be replaced each year. It is estimated that every year purchases of ties and timbers put by the railway would form a wood-pile roughly the size of Mont-real's Sun Life Building.

• • •

Canadian National's yearly buy-ing program has a substantial country. Every major city in Can-ada benefits from expenditures by the railway, and many smaller communities share in the bonan-za.

Towns like Trenton, N.S., site of the Eastern car repair shops, depend to a considerable degree on CNR orders for their prosperity. At the moment the Trenton plant is working on a $22,000,000 order for 2,500 freight cars. Rural areas benefit from railway buying too through the contracts awarded to farmers, settlers, tie operators and mill owners.

It doesn't take to long for word to get out when the CN pockets are bulging with money to spend. Approximately 8,000 salesmen and business executives call on the purchasing department every year and each has something to sell.

Bus Service

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

"Ride a bus, no fuss parking," are you told on the corner bus. Now they propose to cut us out. Why?

Sometimes it's hard to find a seat and this district is growing. Ash hill and West Bridge St. get good service. Why are we left out?

We would appreciate a reduced service for shopping and work hours. Many of us are elderly and cannot walk far, much less carry heavy parcels.

Taxpayer Deplores Hallowe'en Damage

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

The best definition of education is learning responsibility. Do our schools educate?

I heartily agree with Principal A. E. MacKenzie of Albert Col-lege.

He speaks of personal indigni-ties suffered by the Dean of Wom-en and girl students. The "boys" or "girls" responsible for same, if they can be identified through the schools, should personally go to the Dean of Women and apolo-gize.

I feel that the citizens of Belle-ville are directly responsible for the damage done for failing to in-still a sense of responsibility in our schools.

If any of these "hooligans" who are responsible for breaking win-dows etc. are known, they should be made to pay for damage done. They are not of sufficient mental ability to be educated and I, as a Belleville taxpayer resent having taxes to try to educate them.

If they are not known they should be barred from our schools, unless their parents wish to pay for their education. Education is a privilege and not a right when abused.

There have been, recently, so many examples of juvenile scho-lastic perhaps the Hallowe'en week-end will explain this. What a comfort our younger generation must be to the Russian cause.

I would not dare give my name for such hooligans would probably smash up my home.

A Belleville Taxpayer.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The hardest problem to handle in business and industry is promo-tion. Everybody from bottom to top in an organization works and plots for promotion, even the vice-presidents. But one of the funda-mental rules of management is the principle of finding a good man for a job and keeping him there. How do you promote a man to remain in a minor and low-paid position? Can rhetoric do it?

One of the most brilliant battal-ion commanders in the last war was my best for a week or so when I was a young subaltern and he permitted me to travel with his unit during the advance up through Italy. He was an old army officer of the first war, I was greatly impressed with the quality of his regiment, and during such times as we could relax and chat, I tried to learn from him how to shrewd young commander.

"Lance-corporals," he said, "are corporals. I spend more time im-pressing my company officers with the vital importance of lance-cor-porals than on any other subject. Once active fighting starts the war passes entirely out of the hands of the generals, the colonels, the cap-tains and even the lieutenants. Yes, out of the hands of the ser-geants, and it is taken over by lance-corporals who command the sections of four or five men. They are the basic battle commanders. Oh, I grant you that after the action has been progressing for a time, the officers and sergeants will re-group and take charge again, but in the initial stages of battle, the lance-corporal is the key man."

"In my unit, therefore, lance-cor-porals and corporals are chosen with infinite care. They are pro-moted as seldom as possible, and only when it is imperative. Little harm can come of promoting a lance-corporal to the position of command of the sections. The tra-dition in this unit is that the best men in it wear one stripe or two stripes on their arms. And by the time, everybody in the unit, from me, the commanding officer, down to the last private soldier, is trained to regard with a special respect the men who wear those thinnest stripes."

In business and industry, we have got to figure out any way to honour or reward the men in the small essential and vital jobs, the lance-corporals and corporals of the nation's enterprise.

We can only pay them and pro-mote them in proportion as they are willing to accept responsibility and to act on it: the lieutenant can discover how things are going and take steps to alter or improve certain situations; the captain, the colonel, the general, as information begins to shape up out of the fog and confusion of battle, can get into the act by issuing broad orders, throwing in support and as-sessing the general progress. But the operation, once it is set in motion, is in the hands of the lances-corporals and corporals, the actual leaders of men, who physi-cally lead."

At a meeting also held in Madoc this afternoon Dr. H. A. Bayce of Deseronto was selected as the Liberal candi-date to oppose Dr. Welsh.

Teddy Bears' Comeback

Malmoe, Sweden, Sydvenska Dagbladet

Twenty-five years ago there were five survivors of the rare and harmless species of koala bears — the living Teddy bears — in Queensland, Australia.

There were a few hundred of them in New South Wales and a larger number in Queensland.

During the depression of the thirties, the Australian Socialist government gave permission to the unemployed to hunt koala bears for export to zoos all over the United States and Canada.

In a few weeks, some 100,000 of the Teddy bears were shot and their extinction seemed immi-nent.

Friends of the miniature brutes saved three of them and obtained for the zoological department store in Adelaide, Australia, "hired" them and started a breeding per-son, and, with the help of this concern, it was possible to keep the species.

Today the koalas have multi-plied so that it has been possible to supply several Australian zoos with little families of Teddy bears.

Others have been released in various parts of New South Wales and in Queensland, and now Kangaroo Island, off South Australia, has been turned over to them.

There is high hopes that the Teddy bears will soon again be an important feature in Aus-

How to Stave off Angina Pectoris

I wouldn't even mention angina pectoris here if I did not believe that what I have to suggest to sub-jects of this condition can do them harm. Whether it will do any good for the angina sufferer to decide for himself. In any case, please remember I'm no great shakes on angina.

The emergency remedy I heart-ily recommend for every "attack" that bears even a slight resemb-lance to angina, is so homely that even Y. W.'s and Y. M.'s know it.

The remedy is three to six in-flations of the bellows.

Belly breathing, that is, not chest-breathing. Trouble is a lot of knuckleheads who have been put through high school and college don't know what inflation of the bellows means. They managed to cut physical education, which is just tolerated in high school and college in a make-believe fashion.

Several times I have tried ener-getic to teach the lesson here, but too many things can happen to copy before it appears in print.

There are two types of breathing. First, natural belly breathing, pro-vide called abdominal, belly, bel-lows, or diaphragmatic breathing. Second, costal or chest breathing.

Natural breathing is more ef-ficient than chest breathing.

Besides producing greater aera-tion (oxygenation) of the blood, it produces better circulation than costal or chest breathing.

Older authorities thought that or-dinary quiet breathing in the erect posture was the abdominal type in men, the chest type in women. Some of them thought this differ-ence was due to the wearing of tight clothing by women. Better observers found that Indians and Chinese women who never wore tight clothing breathed naturally, that is, the abdominal type.

An unconscious person, one asleep or under anesthesia, breathes with the bellows, the dia-phragm, belly, or abdominal type.

A savage, or that matter an athlete breathes with his bellows. During great exertion every inlake of air expands or inflates the bel-lows, bag, or belly, while the chest or rib cage remains almost rigid.

If all this seems confusing, just remember one thing: When you breathe, inflate your bellows and never mind your chest.

Every sedentary person past 35 should do the belly breathing exer-cise of inflation, every night up-on retiring. Don't wait until you have a "heart attack", in order to use it or begin to improve your circulation. Belly breathing is a booster pump for the circula-tion — what physiologists call the "aspiratory action of the thorax".

IMPOSSIBLE—BUT DO IT!

Can any one of us gain a great-er thrill than this one — to do something that we know we can do, but which people have said we couldn't do? Most of us experience this, at times, but few of us ever establish a kinship with the stars! It's always a pleasant little triumph. The realm of the impossible keeps shrinking all the time. Com-paratively, it was but a few years ago that Charles Lindbergh flew non-stop from New York to Paris. Forever, it seemed, the human mind had refused to imagine such a flight across the United States in less than four hours; and certainly Atlantic trips are now routine. Planes are now flying at a fast 400 miles an hour; is quite some speed! Could it be that some neighbor on Mars may be now wondering about what is doing on this Earth of ours?

Here's a fantastic dream televi-sion was but a few years ago! And the dreams about the future seem impossible—but they will come true, for there are always those who like to get joy out of doing what people say can't be done.

Dr. Orr, who has been working with Edison when he finally pro-duced the electric light, once threw-me through the old laboratory of Edison's, which Henry Ford created anew in his Greenfield Vil-lage at Dearborn, Michigan. He showed me dozens of inventions that Edison put his magic touch on—duplicating devices, Telephones, typewriters, storage cells, the talk-ing machine, the phonograph—and scores of others. I dare say Edi-son got more downright pleasure out of doing things that people would have said were impossible than any man I know. That is the secret—making them possible!

If we use our eyes and ears, we never know when we shall catch the spark that may suggest some impossible thing to others merely look upon as impossible.

FAITH CAN BE DESTROYED

A college teacher of religion was talking to his students. "It is not my function," he said, "to tell you what I believe to be the truth as regards religion or to help you in practical religious problems. I am here as a teacher simply to present to you the basic elements of the centuries have believed and taught and written about religion. You will have to think out for your minds as to what you think is false or true, and to give you what they have said against religion as well as what they have said for it. As for your practical problems, take them to a minister. I'm a teacher, I'm here to give you what people have thought about religion and what the religion they have claim-ed about themselves. There is no possibility ends."

But does it? This teacher had been conveying the impression all through his course that as a mat-ter of fact a person cannot hold strong religious convictions and be a reasonable, open-minded man, this, quite a few millions of us would say, is not true.

Teaching like that is really ruin-ing the faith of a lot of young peo-ple of college age nowadays. It is ut-terly unnecessary, untrue, mischi-evous and should be severely pun-ished. Students should hear both sides of the religious argument, but they should hear it presented by someone who himself has some worth-while convictions.

Frank Turcotte Will Serve Three Extra Years for Armed Robbery, Marmora Kidnapping

Police investigation into the 17-month-old $5,500 armed holdup of the Marmora branch of the Toronto - Dominion bank was officially closed Monday afternoon as in a Marmora courtroom Frank Turcotte, 40, of Bewdley, pleaded guilty to the offence.

Turcotte, already serving a four-year sentence for the attempted holdup last summer of a bank at Stoney Creek, near Hamilton, was given five years in penitentiary by Magistrate R. C. Jackson.

On a charge of kidnapping Thomas Cullen of Peterborough whose car was used in the Marmora holdup, Turcotte was given two years in penitentiary. He also pleaded guilty to the kidnapping charge.

The five year sentence for the Marmora holdup will run concurrently with the four year term for the abortive Stoney Creek holdup, while the two years received on the kidnapping charge will run consecutively.

This means that Turcotte will serve three years in addition to the four year term received for the Stoney Creek offence.

A statement given by Turcotte to police and read in court by Inspector Robert Wannell of the Criminal Investigation Department of the O.P.P., identified Turcotte's brother Ernie as the second man involved in the Marmora holdup.

Ernie committed suicide in the basement of his home near Hamilton following the unsuccessful attempt to rob the Stoney Creek bank.

ONE MAN ACQUITTED

Shortly after the holdup at Marmora on June 30th, 1955, James Orval Ross of Toronto was charged with the offence but was acquitted by a Hastings county jury.

At his trial six of seven Marmora bank employees identified him as one of the two men involved in the holdup.

Yesterday's hearing at Marmora took only about one-and-a-half hours with only five witnesses being called.

Two bank employees, accountant Roy Moss, and Miss Wilma McKinnon, who alone of seven bank workers last fall failed to identify Ross as one of the bank holdup men, told of seeing two men outside the bank on June 30 as they arrived for work at the bank.

They testified the men had been let into the bank on the ruse that they were furnace repairmen. Then, inside the bank, one of the men had pulled a gun and they and the rest of the staff in the staff had been tied up as they arrived for work.

The holdup men had waited for the time locks on the bank vault to run down, then had forced employees to open the safe and left with $5,500 of the bank's money after barring bank employees in the basement furnace room.

At no time were any of the bank employees harmed, witnesses stated, and at times the robbers had even shown consideration for the staff members.

Yesterday Miss McKinnon showed no hesitation in identifying Turcotte as one of the holdup men.

BORE FINGERPRINT

Cpl. Reg. Rackham, identification expert with the O.P.P. at Belleville, testified he had examined the getaway car used by the holdup men and had found a print of cellophane bearing a fingerprint.

He had been unable to identify the print at the time but following the Turcottes being associated with the holdup, the print had been identified as belonging to Ernie Turcotte.

The officer said there was no mistake as to identity of the print, noting he had found 16 and 17 points of comparison.

Thomas Cullen, the kidnap victim, who had remained locked in the rear trunk of his car during the holdup, identified pictures of the getaway car. The car belonged to him, he said.

The statement given by the accused and read by Inspector Wannell to the court, told how Turcotte had come to his brother at Bewdley about three weeks before the Marmora holdup, stating he was in financial difficulties and suggesting a holdup of the Marmora bank. At the time Turcotte said he had not liked the idea but two weeks later agreed.

The bank had been scouted on two occasions and following a third trip to Marmora on June 28th, Ernie had told him that "Everything was arranged."

The statement went on to say how the two Turcottes had gone to Peterborough the night before the holdup and how they had secured a getaway car, taking the owner along with them.

TOOK DRIVER WITH THEM

They told Cullen that they wanted only his car, but that he would have to go along.

The Turcottes had returned to Bewdley taking Cullen with them and the following morning placed Cullen in the trunk of his car and drove to Marmora.

The statement went on to say that as they stopped near the bank which is diagonally across the street from the police station they saw Marmora Police Chief Charles Lockwood getting into his car.

"... he's still here," the statement quoted Ernie as saying.

The statement then went on to quote Ernie as saying "there is nothing to worry about—only the provincial police."

The statement then went on to describe how they had duped bank employees into allowing them into the bank and also told of happenings inside the bank. On leaving the bank the two Turcottes had a few seconds alarm when they found their car missing.

Turcotte said in his statement that at first he thought Cullen had got free from the trunk, but then the car was spotted on a parking lot. The vehicle had been moved by a village public works employee readying for a street dance that evening.

Under cross examination by defence counsel Mario Aero of Hamilton, Inspector Wannell agreed that Ernie Turcotte had apparently been the ringleader and also that most of the money from the bank holdup had gone to Ernie.

HAD FAIR RECORD

Frank Turcotte's record showed that prior to the Marmora holdup his only trouble with the law had been back in 1941 when he had been convicted of a property damage charge.

Defence counsel asked the court that the man, not the offence, be punished, pointing out that Turcotte was not the hardened type of criminal.

Crown Attorney John A. Pringle referred to the accused as a "weak character, easily led by an overbearing brother" but stressed the gravity of the armed holdup and kidnapping offences with which he was charged.

In passing sentence following a brief court recess, Magistrate Jackson noted that the bank holdup had apparently been carried out in a deliberate and courteous manner with no viciousness being evident.

He said he was keeping in mind the possibility of reformation of the accused and that ends justice would be served by a term of five years on the bank robbery charge, this sentence to run concurrent with any term the accused was now serving.

In passing sentence on the kidnapping charge, Magistrate Jackson noted the dangerous position in which Mr. Cullen had been placed had there been police pursuit. Stealing the car and kidnapping the owner had proven very effective in escaping detection, the magistrate observed.

The two year sentence, handed out for kidnapping will run consecutively to the five year term for bank robbery.

COURAGE OF DRAEGERMEN SAVES 83 OF 125 AT SPRINGHILL

Roped together, courageous draegermen descend the No. 4 shaft of the Cumberland Coal Company at Springhill, N.S., where they rescued 83 of 125 men trapped in a mine explosion. For 48 hours the rescuers braved marsh and coal gas, to find the trapped men, and to their efforts the 83 men owe their lives. Many of the rescuers died, many more were overcome with gas during the long hours of searching the underground tunnels.

While he was trapped thousands of feet underground in the Cumberland mine, Peter MacDonald, 29, wrote a note to his wife which said: "Dear Brian: I don't want you to grow up and work in a mine. Look after your loving mother." MacDonald, now safe with his son and wife, was one of the 88 who quickly recovered when led to fresh air at the mine head.

District Lions Clubs Meet To Honor Belleville Group

Last night Lions Clubs represented in district A3 held a rally at the Belleville Shrine Club to pay tribute to the local club whose members achieved one hundred per cent attendance at all meetings last year, a feat which was not duplicated by any other Lions Club in Canada. Edward G. Barry, first vice-president of Lions International, presented the Belleville Lions club with a plaque commemorating its achievement and addressed the gathering.

Mr. Barry, whose home is at Little Rock, Arkansas, told his audience that he could not point out any aspect of Lionism which is more important than any other. He has been impressed by the work being carried on by the zone chairmen in this district who make every effort to visit all clubs under their jurisdiction several times a year.

"There are many things going on in this world that we do not like and one of the best ways of making this a peaceful world in which to live is for every Lion to do his share of instilling peace in the heart, or it cannot become a reality."

"Our people want to be a human line of defence in trying to keep atomic bombs off our land and enjoying peace forever," he said.

NEED HEALING DECADE

He said that Canada and the United States have so much when so much of the rest of the world has so little." Mr. Barry urged co-operation with God's masterplan and pleaded with every Lion to be a man of vision to do everything possible to make this decade a "healing decade of peace."

The speaker said that both Canadians and Americans should appreciate the citizenship and freedom which were gained for them at the cost of many lives since the white man first stepped ashore on the North American continent.

"There are over 12,000 Lions Clubs in the world which are practising the Lion motto: We Serve. These clubs are doing their best to educate people in the basic principles of democracy," he said.

ASKED TO EASE TENSION

"A vision without a task is a dream, but a vision with a task may become a reality," said Mr. Barry urging his audience to do their part in easing the tension in the world today.

He is convinced that if every Lion can get every person in his neighborhood to practise even the simple things in life" then this principle will spread throughout the world. It is imperative that everyone do his share to establish a "heaven on earth."

Activities of Canadian Lions Clubs, he assured his listeners, are known and appreciated throughout the free world. Mr. Barry invited the rest of the world to join in the Lion motto of "We Serve."

On a recent trip to Europe Mr. Barry said he was amazed at the work being carried on by Radio Free Europe which sends messages through the Iron Curtain inspiring those under Communist domination with the hope that all is not lost. This radio network has been operating for five years now with the purpose of conducting a crusade for freedom telling the philosophy of free men.

SPENT DAY IN RUSSIA

The speaker spent one day in Russia, "an experience I would not want every day because you can only go where the Kremlin allows."

Lions Clubs have a representative coverage of each type of working group. "No matter what position in business you hold you will never reach a higher position than that of being a good citizen. A good citizen and a good man make a tremendous community," said Mr. Barry.

International councillor and public relations officer for district A3, Ross Burke, of Kingston, extended thanks to the speaker and was joined by International Councillor Nostrand Sprague, of Trenton. At the outset of the banquet Belleville Lions President Al Pinder turned proceedings over to District Governor Jim Johns, of Frankford.

Eye Surgeon Opens Office

A new addition to the medical fraternity in Belleville is Dr. J. M. L. Walcott, eye surgeon, who has opened an office for the practice of ophthamology in this city.

A graduate of McGill University Medical School in 1950, Dr. Walcott completed five years of graduate training in ophthalmic medicine and surgery prior to coming here.

Those two years of this training were undertaken in the department of ophthalmology of the Montreal General Hospital. Subsequent to this, three further years were devoted to post graduate study in the field of ophthalmic medicine and surgery, at the Institute of Ophthalmology of Columbia – Presbyterian Medical Centre in New York City.

Dr. Walcott last year successfully completed the examination requirements of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada and the American Board of Ophthamology and was granted a specialist certification in ophthalmology by both of these examining boards.

Following his arrival in Belleville last May, Dr. Walcott was temporarily associated with Dr. Terence Forrestor.

Dr. Walcott is now located in his new office at 133 Pinnacle Street.

BLAKELY—HAGGERTY

Yellow and white chrysanthemums, interspersed with ferns, formed a lovely autumn background in Bethesda United church at Crookston, Ontario, on Saturday, October 20, at 1.00 p.m., when the Rev. George Cressy of Ivanhoe, Ont., united in marriage Sarole Joan Haggerty of Tweed, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Haggerty, to Carl Donald Blakely of Madoc, Ont., son of Mr. and Mrs. David Blakely.

Mrs. R. Reid of Tweed, pianist, provided the wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Raymond Smith of Madoc, who sang before the ceremony, "The Lord's Prayer," and "Because," during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, bride wore a bridal gown of Chantilly lace over pink taffeta, featuring a fitted, strapless bodice enhanced by a tiny net shrug. Net veiled white, pearl-sized each side of the skirt which was fashioned in graduated layers of Chantilly lace over taffeta. Her plateau-shaped headdress of satin was embellished with sequins caught to a chapel-length veil of tulle illusion with hand-rolled edge. She wore gauntlets gauntlets of matching net and white lace, and carried a white white gardenia and trailing streamers.

Mrs. Russell Sanguins of Red Rock, Ont., sister of the bride, as matron of honor, was attired in a ballerina length, irresistible charm in autumn green, in pink rose lines with bouffant skirt and large collar accented at the bodice with rhinestones. She wore matching accessories, and carried a nosegay of yellow and bronze chrysanthemums and ferns.

Mr. Roy Blakely of Madoc, attended his brother, while Mr. David Crawford of Madoc, and Mr. Glen Haggerty of Malton, were ushers.

The reception was held at the home of the bride, where the bride's table was prettily appointed with white damask, centred by a lovely wedding cake flanked by candelabra and white carnations. The bride's mother, assisted in dusty rose Chantilly lace with navy duster and accessories, with corsage of Sweetheart roses, received. The bridegroom's mother was in grey brocaded taffeta and pink accessories, with corsage of Sweetheart roses.

For the wedding trip to Syracuse, N.Y., and Niagara Falls, the bride chose a beige wool suit with mink trim, brown accessories, and gardenia corsage.

The young couple will make their home at 533 Monaghan Road, Peterborough.

Guests were present from Toronto, Peterborough, Red Rock, Napanee and Lakefield.

The bride was the honored guest at two showers prior to her marriage; one at the home of Mrs. Russell Sanguins, Peterborough, and one given by Miss Margaret Mulrooney, of Medoc.

CRAWFORD—CUMMINGS

Mixed gladioli in pastel tints, interspersed with ferns, formed a lovely setting in Calvary Temple, Belleville, for an early autumn wedding, when Joyce Carrie Cummings, of Point Anne, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daley Cummings, became the bride of Vernon Crawford, of Sharbot Lake, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Crawford. The Rev. Laurie Pratt, pastor of the church, officiated. White satin bows designated the guest pews.

Mrs. A. W. Fudge of Belleville, provided the wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, the Rev. Hope Smith, who sang "The Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Daley Cummings, the bride was charming in white Chantilly lace and net over slipper satin, fashioned with molded bodice with matching bolero jacket having long lily-pointed sleeves. The floor-length skirt of net over satin was attired in a yellow nylon net over taffeta with matching lace bolero, and matching bandeau headdress. She carried bronze mums tied with yellow ribbon, and wore matching gloves completed her ensemble.

Mrs. Margaret Whan of Sharbot Lake, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid, wearing pale green nylon net over taffeta, with matching lace bolero, headdress, and gloves. Her bouquet was of yellow mums tied with yellow ribbon.

Mr. John Henderson of Belleville, R.R. 4, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Ronald Cummings of Point Anne, brother of the bride, and Mr. Norman Whan of Sharbot Lake, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, were ushers.

Following the ceremony, a reception for 55 guests was held in the Orange Hall, Point Anne. The bride's table was appropriately appointed in white damask bordered with pastel pink flowers, and centred by a three-tiered wedding cake, topped by tiny red Sweetheart roses, and misted about the base with white mums. Vases of gladioli, the bridal bouquet and a white lace doily graced the table with cascading satin ribbons added a lovely accent.

The bride's mother, wearing a street-length gown of brown taffeta fleck with matching beige accessories, and corsage of yellow baby roses, received, assisted by the bridegroom's mother who was attired in a street-length gown of navy blue brocaded taffeta with grey accessories and corsage of red roses.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls, and Buffalo, the bride donned a light-blue flitted ensemble with pink accessories, and corsage of pink roses. Mr. and Mrs. Crawford are residing in Belleville at 84 Sprague Street.

Guests attended from Sharbot Lake, Kingston, Northbrook, Belleville, and Point Anne.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was the guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower given by Miss Mary Henderson, assisted by a number of the girls on the staff of Mead Johnson of which the bride is a member. A miscellaneous shower was also given in honor of both the bride and the bridegroom by the Sharbot Lake community. Following her marriage, the bride was also presented with a miscellaneous shower by the ladies of Point Anne, at which she was the recipient of many lovely gifts.

Once Offered Leading Role At Metropolitan

QUEBEC (CP)—A soprano who 33 years ago turned down a Metropolitan Opera Company role—a role subsequently offered Lily Pons—now teaches singing lessons in the surroundings of a convent.

Madame Ina Jeynevald-Mercier was a 25-year-old bride, a rising singer of French origin, when the offer was made. She rejected it in favor of a music teaching career in Quebec with her Canadian husband.

Pupils like Gilles Lamontagne and Rolland Gosselin, however, are a great compensation, she feels. Other rising stars she has taught include Celine Beaulieu, Gieselle Boivin and Lucienne Germain.

A widow now, Mme. Jeynevald-Mercier lives the present through her many talented students, and the past through her albums and awards filled with the promise of a full professional career.

Born Isabelle de Beson, of wealthy and titled parents, she received her early education at Lyons, near the family chateau.

Piano lessons began at 12, and three years later she began vocal lessons. By the time she was 18, Isabelle had won virtually every award she was eligible for—including the prize to become the National School of Music.

Turning professional under the name of Ina Jeynevald—Isa is the diminutive for Isabelle, and Jeynevald from the name of her mother's Spanish singing teacher—she began what appeared to be a meteoric career.

After a successful tour of European capitals she embarked on a series of engagements in North Africa. In Algiers she met Canadian tenor Xavier Mercier. They married, and it was on their trip to Canada that Mme. Jeynevald-Mercier received her offer from the Metropolitan Opera Company.

But a stage career was rejected and the couple opened an institute of music. Mme. Jeynevald-Mercier's life now revolves around her pupils, and she had firm views of Canadian talent.

"They have a great deal of talent," she says, "but they do not work hard enough. They lack perseverance. To become a true artist you must work hard, and work constantly.

"... But what deep joy and what satisfaction to have your efforts crowned with success."

Arrive Here Saturday

National Ballet Company Starts On Canadian Tour Today

Described by R. A. Farquharson, councillor at Canada's Embassy to the U.S.A., as "Washington's favorite Canadians", the dancers of the National Ballet Company start today on the tour which will bring them to the Collegiate auditorium next Saturday. In their visit to the American capital last summer, these attractive young artists created a wonderful impression, and even hard-bitten critic Paul Hume of the Washington Post (whose comments on Margaret Truman's singing abilities aroused her father's wrath) attended every performance and saw several of the ballets two or three times.

The company, 70 strong in all, will arrive in Belleville next Saturday at noon by train, accompanied by two baggage cars of scenery, dresses and properties. During the afternoon, the auditorium will become a hive of activity, as the full orchestra under the direction of George Crum rehearses, and the carpenters and scene shifters set the stage for the first ballet of the evening, Act IV of the "Nutcracker". Electricians will be installing additional lighting, and dressers will be sorting out and pressing the colorful costumes. Then, as soon as all is in readiness, artistic director Celia Franca will call for a dress rehearsal to make sure that the night's performance will reach the peak of perfection for which the company has become noted. Afterwards, the curtain will be rung down, the house lights put on and the hall will await the arrival of an expectant audience.

The two other ballets featured on Saturday night's program are both new to the company's repertoire. "Les Rendezvous" is a charming work by choreographer Frederick Ashton to music by Sarde's Wells, while "Pune Script" is an all Canadian jazz ballet which promises to be both exciting and amusing.

There are still good seats left for this performance, which may be obtained from Ed. Thomas' cigar store, or by writing to P.O. Box 91. Mail orders which did not include a stamped self-addressed envelope are being held at the store and may be picked up there.

Thirty-two Russian commanding officers now have been "recalled" and their places taken by Poles. The generals who lost their jobs are Gen. Mikhailin, Gen. Sokhov and division Gen. Dlominov. They are all Soviet citizens, the announcement said.

YOUTHS CALLED VICIOUS

CHATHAM (CP)—Three youths who allegedly broke into a car repair job were called "vicious little rats" by Magistrate Ivan B. Craig Monday. Convicted of fraud and remanded for sentence were William Jack Dye, 19, Theodore De Cedar, 19, and Gordon Hillier, 20, all of the London district. Dismiss Ina Airless, 30, and her sister, Emma, 79, said they paid the trio $48 to fix a panel in their coal home. It still wouldn't work and they called in a plumber. He repaired it for $10.

Eastminster W.A. Sponsors Delightful Fall Bazaar, Tea

The Kiwanis Centre was "en fete" on Saturday afternoon for the fall tea and bazaar held under the auspices of Eastminster United Church. Multi-colored mums adorned the windows, and gay bands of bitter sweet embellished with cedar boughs crept up the pillars, and on the lattice work, while trailing ivy and a model of the new church enhanced the tea room setting.

Receiving the guests were the president of the W.A., Mrs. H. Kuntze, and Mrs. A. McDowell, wife of the pastor, and in charge of the tickets was Mrs. M. Richards.

The tea table was prettily appointed with white damask, centred by a lovely arrangement of white and bronze mums, and flanked by bi-branched silver candelabra with tall, yellow candles, flickering a cheerful welcome.

PRESIDING

Presiding at the silver services which were held each end of the table were: Mrs. N. Meldrum and Mrs. J. F. Hall, Mrs. R. Whitfield and Mrs. W. Van Steenburgh.

The tea hostesses, Mrs. R. Gillan, Mrs. H. Bonisteel, Mrs. L. Simmons and Mrs. G. Smith, graciously escorted each guest, while Mesdames M. Moffatt, R. Johnson, F. Wightman, J. Allan, G. Dymock, Britton, R. Lamb, R. Moorman, N. Desmond, L. Read, E. Knudson, E. Hutchins, L. Uens and C. White, served the delightful refreshments, and Mrs. G. Smith, Mrs. R. Gillan, Mrs. L. Milton and Mrs. G. Brunt replenished the ever-popular, sampled trays of delicious sandwiches and little cakes.

Mrs. S. Hoard had charge of the kitchen.

LOVELY DECORATIONS

The lovely decorations were the result of the combined talents of Mrs. H. Farrow, Mrs. D. Lamb, Mrs. N. Meldrum, Mrs. E. Whitfield, Mrs. R. Johnson, Mrs. G. Brunt, and Mrs. J. Scharman. The publicity secretary is Mrs. J. Read, Jr., Whitfield.

The various booths were gay in colors of yellow, orange, brown and green, bearing out the autumn motif. Included in the booths, which displayed in the neighborhood of over 100, aprons and fancy work, and materials, first half and all-over patterns fashioned from prints, gingham, plain and ruffled organdy, and one crochet apron, like the last rose of summer, was the only one left alone, were soon purchased by enthusiastic customers, to the perfect gift. Convening these were Mrs. R. Irvine and Mrs. C. Lush, assisted by Mrs. A. Bayley, Mrs. W. Clarke, Mrs. G. Smith, and Mrs. D. MacDonald.

CHILDREN'S WEAR

The children's wear booth was a delight to the eyes with its bevy of pretty dresses, in shades of blues, and whites; mitts and socks; sprous and sweaters and cozy pyjamas in attractive colors and materials; little sweater sets in many colors, and a host of other articles for the small fry. These were convened by Mrs. H. Bonisteel, Mrs. D. Reid, Mrs. W. Van Steenburgh, Mrs. R. Gillan, and Mrs. M. Moffatt.

The Christmas card booth displayed the usual type of Yuletide greeting cards, as well as some not so usual, those depicting the new church. Mrs. R. Gillan and Mrs. C. Munroe convened these.

No little lassie should be in need of clothes for her doll family this fall as on the booth devoted to cradles completely outfitted with bedding and the sleeping beauty; dolls, waiting for little mothers, were fair-haired and dark-haired with some reversed. T.V. slippers, Christmas corsages, Christmas stockings, and many, many others, all convened by Mrs. J. Barnett, Mrs. Williams, assisted by Mrs. Kirk Farrow, Mrs. D. McKenzie, Mrs. G. Dymock, and Mrs. R. Wightman.

HOUSEWIFE'S DREAM

Everything the housewife could desire was to be found in the delicious tempting booth: jams, jellies, pickles, canned vegetables and fruits, and delightful cakes for the fireplace, which burned with delightful colors, something pretty for the holiday season; packages of tea, jellies and biscuits. This booth was in charge of Mrs. A. Millard, Mrs. J. Bonisteel, assisted by Mrs. D. Lamb, Mrs. R. Smith, and Mrs. H. Beach.

The bake table, with its thronging customers, was the epitome of good things including Christmas cakes, homemade bread and buns, tea biscuits, a birthday cake, fruit cakes, apple and cheese pies, and dainty tid-bits. Convening here were Mrs. A. Faulkner, Mrs. L. Read; assisted by Mrs. S. Hannah, Mrs. J. Wethers, Mrs. F. Riley, Mrs. G. Gough, and Mrs. J. Schurman.

The candy booth, as usual, drew the possessors of the proverbial "sweet tooth", with its tempting fudge, chocolate and divinity; maple creams, and other assortments. All were nicely shown in cellophane bags, and daintily boxed. In charge were Mrs. A. Bayley, J. Locke, Mrs. F. Simpson, Mrs. A. Woodley, Mrs. R. Morphy, and Miss Diane Simpson.

UNSEEN WORKERS

Those who worked behind the scenes were Mrs. C. Bonettie, who convened the kitchen, Mrs. S. Hutchings, Mrs. L. Simmons, Mrs. C. Young, preparing for tea; replenishing the cups and saucers, were Mrs. Mrs. W. Clarke, Mrs. Dodge, Mrs. A. White, Mrs. E. Powell, Mrs. Connell, Mrs. W. Kincaid, Mrs. A. Hogle, and Mrs. D. Mallory, while Mrs. Burrows was in charge.

The lovely sunny day, and the delicious meals made of this a most delightful and successful bazaar and tea with appreciative thanks going to the convener, Mrs. Hall, and co-convener, Mrs. John Scharman, and Mrs. Gordon Brunt, respectively.

London Houses Showing Flimsy Summer Clothes

LONDON (CP) — While British women are trying to keep warm with their fur-trimmed woollens, fashion houses are showing flimsy beachwear and summer clothes.

Constantly working one season ahead, manufacturers are doing their best to woo Britain's women to buy six months in advance. And for customers unaware.

Many of the styles shown in recent collections will go into the shops next spring and early in the end of April, there won't be too big a chance.

In the past British women waited until warm weather arrived before buying cottons, but nowadays they're so fashion-conscious the tendency is to purchase around February.

COTTON POPULAR

The general trend of three leading designers, Hardy Amies, Horrockses and Berkleize Continentals, is for cotton separates dresses for town wear in quiet screen prints or dark and pastel shades. All have the cotton shirt influence in designs for play and holiday clothes.

Styles favored are the Empire and Princess lines. Bloused backs are popular. Sleeves are popular.

One innovation is the high-rise bodice with the skirt flared below the waist at the back. For this design the natural waistline is defined by a contrasting cummerbund band.

Starke of London uses this in a brown-sugar dress patterned with black flowers. It has plain black shoulder-straps dipping to a vee at the back which meets the high-rise of the waistline.

This house also introduces gold dusted Indian prints resembling saris. One is mounted flecked with purple is used for a sheath-fitting gown with a stole attached.

Starke emphasizes high necks for summer wear. One sleeveless number comes in dark green tie-silk with high-buttoning shirt collar.

Dresses with matching unlined coats are in vogue. Pink cotton woven with a white uneven thread is used for a button-through scoop-neck dress, sparsely embroidered with roses. The matching coat buttons at the neck and has three-quarter length sleeves.

A stained glass window print is used in blue on white for a fresh-looking shirt-waister dress. It has mandarin collar and white cotton-covered sleeves.

The all-over pastel floral prints which British women have worn for years are giving way to scrawl and architectural prints, or just self-colored fabrics.

Most eye-catching cocktail outfit comes from Horrockses. A shocking pink cotton velvet, toreador pants and coatee are separated by a green satin cummerbund. The jacket sparkles with diamante embroidery.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. ERKENBRAN

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP

When you have received a recommendation as a reference, do (1st alone courtesy) demands that you write a note of appreciation of this special favor given you.

APPROPRIATE COSTUME FOR CIVIL MARRIAGE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I am planning to be married in a black braid-trimmed and very full taffeta skirt, a white very dressy blouse with either three-quarter or long full sleeves, a white hat, white corsage. I will wear a black wool dress coat to and from the locale of the ceremony, which has not yet been decided on. If it turns out to be a civil marriage, would this costume be appropriate to wear, or would it be improper and/ or out-of-place?

2. In the case of a church wedding, is it the duty of the bride-groom to see or contact the officiating clergyman to arrange for the ceremony, or does her fiance accompany her if they go together, who does the talking? In other words, what is his part — if.

1. Although the black-and-white costume you describe sounds like a very smart one, even though somewhat on the dramatic side, I can't feel that it would be quite as good taste for the kind of wedding I judge you are planning as would a simple three-length dress-maker suit or dress of a dark shade (not black) most becoming to you. With this you could wear a white hat, in such high fashion today, and a simple white corsage. And this costume would also be most appropriate for a civil marriage.

2. When the arrangements are to be made for a large formal church wedding, usually the bride and her mother go together first to consult with the clergyman about the availability of the clergyman and the church, the date, hour, and so forth. But when the arrangements concern principally the religious ceremony, not so much the use of the church, the prospective bride and groom go together to consult with the clergyman and to discuss all the plans with him. This is a 3-sided conference—clergyman, bride, groom.

TOASTS AT ENGAGEMENT-ANNOUNCEMENT DINNER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

The parents of our son's fiance are to give a dinner to announce the engagement, with only the members of the two families present. Does my husband make a toast to the couple, or do I do this, or do we both make toasts? And what should be said?—Reader

After the father of the fiance has proposed the important first toast to announce the engagement the fiance has responded to the toast, very often the father of the fiance poses a toast. This is not a necessary gesture, but it is a charming one, and your husband included, as in the toast. For example "I would like to propose a toast in the name of Bob's mother and myself, to Dorothy and Bob, and, most lovingly, to their abiding happiness, to their good health and welfare, to their good fortune." Instead of this "together toast, you and your husband may, if you wish, make separate toasts.

SOLID FOUNDATIONS AND POWDERS DESERVE BETTER GROOMING

Not only an all day foundation, new cake make-up can be used as a quick cover-up when necessary.

Women who love to experiment with new cosmetics—and that includes most of us, doesn't it?—may at times hesitate to try a daring new color in lipstick, a dramatic change of hairdo or hair coloring or even something spectacular in the way of eye-shadow or mascara. But there's one thing they're not afraid of at all—and that's foundation and powder, "Everyone knows how to use them," they say. "All you really have to do is buy the kind you like—and go ahead and use it."

It does sound simple, doesn't it? Yet never was there a greater fallacy. Most women don't use foundation as well as they could, and there are many who have never really mastered the technique of powdering. Where both cosmetic items are concerned, some buy them too light for their complexions, others too dark—which is why, when not applied properly, some very weird two-toned complexion effects are achieved. When using either foundation or powder, or both, too many women stop application when they reach the chin. Thus the skin on face and neck frequently sport two entirely different color tones. Other women forget to powder well up the hairline and over and around the ears—with the same result. Then there are women who dip fluffy puffs into the powder jar, dab away at their faces and never bother to remove the excess. This makes for bad grooming since make-up should always be clear and smooth.

Because it seems easier to apply, more and more women are reverting to compacts of pressed powder and pledging the great new variety on the cosmetics counters, most manufacturers seem happy to oblige.

Where foundation is concerned, no less a glamor authority than Lilly Dache favors the solid cake-type over the liquids and creams. Highly favored a few seasons back and easily applied, some women, nevertheless, had to forego them because they had a tendency to dry the skin. However, a brand new one, recommended by Miss Dache, is not drying at all, as a matter-of-fact, is sheer "perfection."

It has all the advantages of the long-time favorite pancake for blending out fine lines and concealing minor blemishes but has none of the disadvantages that once existed of caking, drying, streaking, or changing color on the skin. The improvements are in the fact that the finest powder has been blended with the beneficial oils present in many foundation creams. It is applied quickly and easily in the usual manner of using a sponge or cotton ball with a small amount of water. It functions as an all-day foundation or a quick cover up.

Pack a School Lunch That Is Too Good to Miss

By Mary Moore

The mother of a high school student writes: "Dear Mary: I read where your boy never opened his dinner pail—because my daughter does the very same thing. I have to give her them extra for dinner at night. The thermos of milk comes home at the end of the day and some of the sandwiches too—after asking "Why?" we were told no one takes anything to drink; no one takes a lunch kit; all take a small paper bag with 2 sandwiches; they throw the bag away and eat while they walk up town to the restaurant for their cokes; we were told it isn't nice to be left alone with a big lunch kit and thermos.

"It was exasperating, but who was to blame? I'd say the parents and the teaching staff who supervised the noon hour. Mary, what do you think?"

What I think is that young people are fundamentally reasonable and amenable to persuasion if you explain the after effects of poor nutrition (or poor behavior, or whatever the trouble is). Please believe me though that it's not always simple. You have to be completely determined that you will be licked in one Sunday school class with the combined efforts of the minister, my co-teacher and myself. That is why this lunch box article never sound optimistic.)

You should enlist the support of your husband over lunch box nourishment and present a united front. Tell your children to tell their friends the results of poor nutrition. One is that lack of calcium by way of milk will cause severe muscle pains. Another is too much sugar in any form will cause tooth decay. Lack of the minerals provided by whole wheat bread causes poor complexions, dull hair, poor eyesight, soft fingernails, and a half dozen other common ailments. I mention these latter items because young people are vain and might respond to arguments that improve their appearance when they would not to those that improve their health.

IN EVERY LUNCH USE

Milk—to drink or in food. Fruit or vegetable or both—raw or cooked. Use tomatoes and oranges often. Meat—or cheese, egg, fish or peanut butter. Whole Wheat Bread—or muffins or tea biscuits made with whole wheat flour, wheat germ; bran or rolled oats.

FREEZING SANDWICHES FOR SCHOOL LUNCH

It is possible to freeze enough sandwiches right now, if you have a home-freezer, to last until school closes for the Christmas holidays. Use fresh whole wheat bread with fillings made of meat, poultry, cheese or nuts. (Egg and vegetable fillings are not suitable for freezing.) Use salad dressing sparingly. Do not cut sandwiches or remove crusts.

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

YOUR "FAN CLUB" CHATTER PROBABLY BORED HIM TO DEATH

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I'm a teenager with quite a difficult problem because my boy friend left me and went to my best friend. I still like him very m h and my girl friend knows it.

This boy asked me to a special dance, and then asked my girl friend without informing me. He says he left me because I devote quite a bit of time to fan clubs and other activities concerning male movie stars.

Should I continue to like this boy or try to like someone else, or what? — N.M.C.

Dear N.M.C.:

Do you turn your liking for people on and off like running water? Don't you think it sounds a little silly to ask if you should "continue to like" a boy or "try to like" somebody else? I do.

If you'll just be a nice, friendly girl and stop examining your feelings to see whether or not you "like" someone, you'll have fewer problems and a lot more fun.

As for this particular "problem," I hardly blame your boy friend for getting disgusted with your interest in male movie stars. You probably bored him to death chattering about them.

I suggest that you stop concentrating on them and pay more attention to the real friends in your life. And by doing when you devote yourself to these fan clubs is to encourage yourself to live in a dream world, and I advise you to snap out of it and turn the time you now spend on those activities over to the normal realities of school days.

If you do this, you'll be a lot more interesting to both boys and girls, and this particular boy doesn't look you up again, some other one will turn up that you'll like just as much—maybe even more. And he—this next one—won't be running off to one of your girl friends, because you'll have become so much fun to be with that he wouldn't dream of exchanging you for anyone else!

Call Parliament After Cabinet Troop Decision

OTTAWA (CP)—A special session of Parliament will be called within 10 days after the cabinet decides what troop contribution Canada will make to a United Nations Middle East police force, Prime Minister St. Laurent indicated Monday night.

He said Canada has not yet had any indication from Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns of Ottawa, appointed by the UN as commander for the Middle East force, as to the number and type of troops Canada may be asked to contribute.

Once this was known the cabinet would decide what Canadian troops would be sent. It would pass an order-in-council placing those troops on active service. Parliament then would be called into session.

Parliament, he told reporters following the fourth cabinet meeting in six days, would not be asked to approve the government's decision but to allow use of the funds necessary to implement that decision.

He referred to the 1950 amendment of the Canadian Forces Act requiring that Parliament be called within 10 days of a cabinet decision to commit Canadian troops for a vote on the required funds.

Mr. St. Laurent said the government would of course resign if the money was not voted.

He said Monday night's cabinet meeting was called to get his colleagues' reaction to a confidential message he was sending to Sir Anthony Eden. The message was being sent, but he declined to disclose what it contained, or whether it was in reply to one received by the Canadian government from the British prime minister.

It was reported later, however, that the Canadian message was in reply to one received earlier from Britain. The report offered no further enlightenment on the contents of the message.

Mr. St. Laurent said he had seen a Moscow dispatch in which Soviet Premier Bulganin threatened Britain and France with forces unless they withdrew their troops from Egypt. But "I didn't tremble in my shoes."

He said Canada will decide after it receives a request for troops from Gen. Burns what it will actually provide.

If a special Parliament session is called, he added, he hopes it will be "very short." He believed the temper of the Canadian people was such that they would want the government to implement its decision as quickly as possible.

Brains and not brawn was expected to be the key to a Canadian contribution to a UN police force in the Middle East. It might be similar to Canada's armistice supervision team in Indochina.

Officials said the UN now envisages a team of several hundred officers drawn from various UN countries to supervise a ceasefire or truce after one has been accepted in the Middle East.

The original conception of a 10,000-man armed force which would impose a truce was fading. One reason is that the Egyptians apparently are giving in rapidly to the British and French after being pushed out of the Sinai Peninsula by Israel in a week.

Canada would contribute perhaps 100 staff officers drawn from the three armed services rather than a battalion of infantry.

Pontiac Offers Wide Range of Power

Longer, lower and more graceful looking, the 1957 Pontiac is described as the "surprise package" of the automobile year. Offered in six series, with a wide range of six and eight-cylinder power teams, including a 283 h.p. engine with fuel injection, Pontiac for 1957 has a new long-low hood styling with a broad integrated front bumper and grille. A brand new range of brilliant interiors is also available. Up front, Pontiac's steering wheel and instrument panel are freshly restyled. The steering wheel features clean-cut functional lines of "safety-scoop" styling. Shown above is a Laurentian two-door convertible.

Reference Book Gives Digest of Canada's Economy

TORONTO — A unique 300-page reference book containing digests of briefs submitted to the Royal Commission on Canada's economic prospects has been produced by Cockfield, Brown and Company Limited, Canada's largest advertising agency. The bound volume is entitled "Canada's Economic Future".

The agency has undertaken to distribute the volume widely in business, financial, trade, industrial, governmental and communications circles throughout Canada and the United States. T. L. Anderson, president of Cockfield, Brown, stated in an accompanying letter that the book was published in an effort to increase knowledge of an interest in Canada's economic future. Mr. Anderson emphasized that submissions to the Royal Commission undoubtedly give a graphic picture of the Canadian economy for the next quarter century.

The Royal Commission on Canada's Economic Prospects, which was headed by Walter L. Gordon of Toronto, concluded its coast-to-coast sitting last March. A total of 328 briefs were submitted, representing a cross section of Canadian industry, government bodies and trade associations. The Commission had full scope for its inquiry, including such factors as developments in the supply of raw materials and energy sources, expected growth and distribution of population, prospects of internal and external markets, trends in productivity and standards of living and prospective requirements for industrial and social capital.

The new volume, "Canada's Economic Future", ranges in subject matter from aircraft to automation and from the birth rate to blast furnaces. Cockfield Brown expects that leaders in business and industry will find the representative digests of untold value in planning their part in Canada's future.

ARROWS ONLY

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — First deer hunting season set aside exclusively for bow-and-arrow hunters ends Nov. 10 on nearby Manitoulin Island. The season was opened experimentally on Oct. 27, the use of fire-arms being illegal during the two-week period.

OLD FUNSTERS

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — "Any bloke dat wares linen wat makes him look like a dood kant git in." This was one of eight rules for men attending a smoker back in 1892, found on an invitation behind the fireplace in a building renovated for municipal offices.

Two Pilots Saved

LONDON (CP) — A Canadian CF-100 all-weather jet fighter crashed Sunday in an empty field near Perth, Scotland, but its two occupants parachuted to safety.

The RCAF here said the plane was part of a 20-jet squadron flying from Canada to the RCAF fighter base at Marville, France.

The pilot, Flt.-Lt. J. E. Flanigan of Vancouver and Saskatoon, suffered a dislocated shoulder. His observer, FO E. S. Martin of Vancouver, was not injured.

Flt. Lt. D. E. McLean of North Bay, Ont., squadron navigation leader, said the weather during the flight was "generally good." He said the jets were able to clear "storm tops" at 45,000 feet.

"Gee, Mum—is it supper time already?"

Chinese Nationalists have a new twist in their psychological warfare. They are dropping from the air "silver" dollars that turn out to be aluminum discs urging mainland Chinese to join the Formosa forces.

While this money was phoney, real aluminum coins are widely used — in France and Italy, for instance. A fraction the weight of other metals, and perennially bright and shiny, aluminum pays off as small change. It also pays off for Canada, as an industry that converts raw materials and waterpower into purchasing power in the world markets.

Telephone Round-up

Every parent knows how easily a two-gun cowboy can lose track of time — especially around mealtime.

But she also knows it's a simple matter to round him up by telephone. And any vague feeling of anxiety about where he is or what he is doing is quickly dispelled by that eager voice at the other end of the line.

Yes, the telephone is a convenience and a comfort, all day long. It means fewer meals grown cold because youngsters or husband are late getting home. It means more security when you're alone at night. It means more things done with less time and effort . . . Yet this endlessly useful servant works for you for just a few cents a day.

Ed. Gleeson Dies at 81

OTTAWA (CP) — Edward P. Gleeson, 81, colorful Canadian athlete of bygone days who died Sunday, was to be buried here today.

Gleeson gained fame in sports world before 1900 and later became a lawyer in his native Ottawa.

As halfback, captain and a punter who kicked well with either foot, he led the University of Ottawa to three Dominion football championships.

He was a member of the Ottawa Capitals lacrosse team which in 1897 won the world's championship. He won Canadian championships in pole vaulting and the high jump while attending Ottawa University.

STILL HOLDS RECORD

His feat in kicking five field goals against Toronto Argonauts in a Dominion playoff at Montreal still is a Canadian football record. Five points won Ottawa the 1890 championship.

Gleeson, a six-foot-two bean pole who was in athletic trim at 155 pounds, kicked Ottawa to another championship in 1897 when it defeated Hamilton Tigers 14-10.

Later he achieved high competence in golf and was a brilliant player of sufficient calibre to be matched in an exhibition against world champion Willie Hoppe when he visited Ottawa.

In 1943, after 40 years of law practice in the capital ill health ended Mr. Gleeson's public career. He never married.

HUNTER'S MISHAP

DELEGATES AGREE TO DISAGREE

Though sharply split on the Egyptian attack, Secretary John Foster Dulles (left) and England's Sir Pierson Dixon shake hands cordially as they meet during an intermission of the General Assembly. Shortly before this photo was taken, Mr. Dulles condemned the Anglo-French and Israeli invasion of Egypt and called for a ceasefire. Dixon justified the attack as a "temporary police action" to safeguard the Suez canal. Dulles, shortly afterward, was taken to hospital for an operation in which a malignant tumor was removed.

Hastings County Farm Forum Holds Rally

6TH SIDNEY. — On the evening of October 29, farm forum began operating for another season. This meeting took the form of a rally at Hazzard's, and was attended by representatives from Hazzard's, who were the hostess forum, Foxboro, Brookdale and Melrose.

There were about 50 members and visitors in attendance.

The topic, "School Milk," a timely one, created a lively discussion. All of the forums agreed something should be done about providing milk in the school for health reasons, and as a secondary reason, to aid in the farm economy.

As the milk would have to be pasteurized, a dairy would have to supply it. Refrigeration of the milk in the school would be a problem. As to the cost, the forums agreed it should be met by provincial and federal grants with the local school boards paying a small percentage.

The cost on top of rising school taxes would be more than the local board could bear. Each forum discussed the topic at his own groups, then all came together for a final report.

Mr. Sam Hobbelen, county chairman, presided, and called on Mr. Vic Morrow, the forum field man, to conduct a sing-song.

Mr. Grover Smith, the new field man for the Federation of Agriculture, was introduced and voiced his support of the forums.

FarmgZorum was reviewed by Mrs. Vic Morrow — a folk school was held during the summer and a work shop at Ivy Lea.

Melrose gave a musical number: Mr. Sherry Denille sang, "Melody of Love," and "My Happiness." He was accompanied by Mrs. Denille.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mr. Basil Kuglin introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Jan Schoking. He said: "The farm forum is vital to the world as a whole, so we must keep on. We must tell what we think and what we want. Farm Forum is not a pressure group, but should see that its ideas are carried out. An international farm forum would greatly help other nations, especially in the east."

During the refreshment hour, the directors met and brought in the following slate of officers: county chairman, Mrs. R. N. Broad; vice-chairman, Mr. Morley Sine; secretary, Miss Alma Moorcroft and press reporter, Mrs. Morley Sine.

Madoc

MADOC W.I.

MADOC — The regular meeting of Madoc W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. G. C. Moon on Friday with an excellent attendance. The president, Mrs. Albert Bailey, took charge of the meeting.

After a short business period, Mrs. S. R. Beatty gave an interesting study of Nova Scotia, followed by a humorous reading by Mrs. Ernie Moore.

Mrs. E. Burnside, branch convener of Home Economics, introduced the guest speaker, Miss Sondra Thibaudeau, county economist of Lennox and Addington, Hastings and Northumberland. In a charming and refreshing manner, she outlined Girls' Club work. The girls are taught how to make their own clothes, better grooming, and how to be better behaved. School teachers say that club work makes a girl a better student.

The Women's Institute can see that they are more efficient in Institute work. These girls will be able to take responsibilities in the home, the community and eventually the good citizens.

Mrs. Albert Empey gave a talk on the motto, "What Thanksgiving should mean to you." also a few highlights on current events.

District president, Mrs. K. T. Nicolle, thanked the guest speaker and congratulated her on the work she is accomplishing in the district.

V. A. McMURRAY WINS CAR

Mr. V. A. McMurray, of Gilmour, was the holder of the last ticket which was drawn on the Rotary club dance on Friday night and as a result won the Pontiac car.

Mrs. Mary Gendron, of Madoc, was the holder of the first ticket drawn and as a result won the television set. Winners of the six cash prizes were: Tom Hawthorne, Madoc; Ed West, Queensboro; Wagner Herniker, Marmora; Len Hollister, Actinolite; Elliott Burns, Madoc; Harold Pigden, Madoc; Roy Rochback, Croxdton; Ted Fox, Cooper; Durland Adams, Madoc and Clarence Farrow, Madoc.

The draw was sponsored by the Madoc Hockey Club to help finance the team this coming winter. Three hundred and fifty tickets at $10 were sold. Harry Brown, the seller of the winning ticket, is now $30 richer as the amount went to the one who sold the winning ticket.

TRINITY LADIES' CLUB

A well-attended meeting of Trinity Ladies' Club was held at the home of Mrs. Ken Holmes. The entire meeting was devoted to harvest time of Thanksgiving.

Following the business period, conducted by the president, Mrs. Carl Howes, various reports were given by the treasurer, Miss Olive Ashe, and landscape chairwoman, Mrs. H. McGowan.

Mrs. Beatty took over the meeting and conducted a thoughtful worship service. Several Thanksgiving hymns were sung with Mrs. Ivor Hughes at the piano. Mrs. Beatty read, in part, an address given by the Rev. Billy Graham in Toronto, recently, where he declared, "If people receive Christ, their lives will be transformed by his power." Mrs. C. C. Moon gave a most informative reading concerning "Hidden Treasures of Mother Goose." Mrs. McGowan, in her original manner, read a poem about a Ladies' Church Club.

Refreshments were served and Mrs. Arefle Adams thanked all who helped with a successful meeting.

Anniversary services were held in Trinity United Church Sunday with the Rev. R. Rowley, B.A., of Tabernacle Church, Belleville, the special speaker at both morning and evening services.

Special music was rendered by both the senior and junior choir, with Mrs. E. Reid as organist and Mr. Ross Fleming as choirmaster of the senior choir and Mrs. C. McCoy in charge of the junior choir.

Miss Anne Nickle was the soloist.

Beautiful autumn flowers were used for decorations and splendid crowds attended both morning and evening service. The church pastor, the Rev. J. F. Lant, occupied the pulpit at Tabernacle United Church, Belleville, for their service during the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward, of Picton, and Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Tumman of Stirling visited Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Ashley on Sunday.

Mr. F. E. Brown and Mr. B. Tanner visited friends in Eganville and Renfrew on Saturday.

Mrs. James Irwin, of Peterborough, spent the weekend with friends in Madoc.

Mrs. Walter Whytock left on Friday to spend a few weeks with her daughter, Mrs. C. Noble, and family, in Toronto.

Miss M. Mutton, of Peterborough, spent the weekend with Miss Alma Keene.

Mr. and Mrs. Tayler Redden of Toronto spent the weekend with Dr. S. R. Beatty and Mrs. Beatty.

Mrs. W. A. Hunter, Fort William, is visiting Mrs. Grace Nicol and meeting many old acquaintances, having resided in St. Peter's manse when her husband the late Rev. W. A. Hunter, was the minister of St. Peter's Presbyterian Church here.

Master Norman Dafoe, who is attending Trinity College, Port Hope, spent the weekend at his home here.

HUNGARIANS

The World Council of Churches, which represents 185 Protestant and Orthodox denominations in 48 countries, said in a special message that "Christians throughout the world are profoundly shocked and sorrow-stricken at the tragic reversal" of Hungary's freedom bid.

IRON FIST CLENCHED

Bulgaria today became the fifth Soviet satellite to warn that any attempt at revolt would be smashed with an iron fist. Its Red regime said that anyone who attempted to shake Soviet-Bulgarian friendship would be beaten down. Communist leaders in the satellites exploited the British-French intervention in Egypt to offset anti-Communist ideas spreading in the wake of the Soviet moves against Hungary—Associated Press correspondent Hanns Nebenbourg was told by professed non-Communists in Red-ruled Czechoslovakia that the Russians probably would not have dared to crush a popular uprising before the eyes of the world had England and France not acted in Egypt.

Poland, however, apparently was keeping up its drive to oust Kremlin influence, begun when national Communists took over the country's leadership three weeks ago. Radio Warsaw said Poland soon would put "important people" on trial for Stalin-era purges.

NO DIRECT NEWS

Telephone and telegraph communications between Hungary and the West have been cut since shortly after the Russian attack Sunday morning. But an incomplete picture of massive Soviet repression, economic chaos and guerrilla war is being pieced together here from Communist radio announcements, reports of refugees and faint radio signals sent by the rebels.

At Pecs, in southern Hungary, the Communist-controlled radio early today warned people to keep off the streets because rebels were shooting from roofs and windows. After an ultimatum demanding the rebels' surrender by 6 a.m. expired, the Pecs radio warned them to give up by 9 a.m. or face "extermination" by Soviet tanks.

During the night an insurgent station calling itself radio Roka (the Fox) reported heavy fighting in a section in the southeast part of Budapest that was a centre of fighting in the anti-Communist revolution only a little more than a week ago.

Radio Roka said: "The situation becomes more difficult by the hour. Only military help would save us. The entire Hungarian nation is asking for help . . . the people are digging trenches and making barricades."

AMERICAN

Meanwhile, both Republicans and Democrats found in the development abroad new arguments for the election of their candidates.

The Republicans offered Eisenhower as a man whose military experience and stature in world councils equips him, they said, to head off the tragedy of another world conflict.

NO LONGER TRUSTED?

The Democrats, as Stevenson put it, believe the United States needs a new president "because our friends and allies no longer trust our leadership." The president, he said, "seems to be isolated, uninformed and interested only intermittently."

In his final campaign broadcast from Boston Monday night, Stevenson raised afresh the question of the president's health and said a Republican victory would mean that controversial Vice-President Richard M. Nixon "would probably be president within the next four years."

The Democratic candidate followed that up with a statement early this morning from his Libertyville home calling on the president to seek a new understanding with Britain and France "before Communist Russia can further exploit the present breakdown of relations between the democratic powers."

He said the very fact that Bulganin "could invite the United States to go to war with Russia against the other democracies in Egypt shows how badly our foreign policy has degenerated."

FOUNDS HEALTH ISSUE

In his Boston election eve speech, Stevenson used his strongest words of the campaign on the health issue and Nixon when he said:

"As distasteful as this matter is, I must say bluntly that every piece of scientific evidence we have, every lesson of history and experience, indicates that a Republican victory would mean that Richard M. Nixon would probably be president of this country within the next four years."

Eisenhower has suffered two serious illnesses in 13 months—an abdominal operation last June and a heart attack in September, 1955, which appeared for a time to have knocked him out of the presidential running.

The president's final broadcast Monday night was an appeal to all citizens to vote. He touched only lightly on the campaign issues.

HAGERTY RAPS REMARKS

But his press secretary, James C. Hagerty, termed Stevenson's remarks on the president's health "just about as bad a statement as I have heard in politics." He added:

"I never thought that I would live to hear any American, particularly a candidate for the highest office in our country, give as the reason for his own election a forecast that the president of the United States would die in office."

As election day dawned, the Republicans counted, with every sign of confidence, on another sweep for Eisenhower who four years ago captured 39 of the 48 states.

Democrats looked hopefully for a repetition of what happened in 1948, when underdog Harry S. Truman upset the polsters by trouncing Republican Thomas E. Dewey. The Democrats figure Stevenson has come a long way from his try four years ago.

But the public opinion polls and the political betting were on the side of Eisenhower, and it appeared possible that the upheavals overseas, in the light of the president's broad military experience, might swing public opinion behind him and solidify his position at the voting booths.

Until the warfare in the Middle East broke out, and until free Hungary rose and fell, the only campaign issues that struck much fire were in the fields of farm prices, the H-bomb and conscription. Elsewhere, it was more a matter of each side saying it was more interested in education, health, housing and civil rights.

Remaining 26 Bodies Sealed In Mine for Two Months; Hope to Prevent Another Blast

SPRINGHILL, N. S. (AP)—Grief-stricken relatives of 26 of the coal miners who died in Thursday's explosion at Cumberland's No. 4 mine must wait two months before the bodies, sealed in the gas-filled caverns, can be brought up for burial.

The bodies of 11 other miners, surface workers and dressers who were recovered earlier in the four days of rescue work which brought miners to the surface alive from a mile underground.

Company spokesmen said previously that 13 bodies had been recovered but they reported Monday two of these were still in the mine.

SOME BITTERNESS

Relatives of some of those miners whose bodies will be sealed up were bitter.

Shortly after the names of the 26 men were announced, a woman was seen weeping hysterically outside an office of the Cumberland Coal and Railway Company.

"They won't bring him up," she cried.

A miner said the woman remained at the pithead waiting for her brother to be brought up, refusing to believe he was dead.

Harold Gordon, mine rescue chief, said Monday that air passages to the mine would be sealed. Further attempts to remove the bodies would increase the danger of another explosion and so the lives of other miners could not be jeopardized to recover bodies. He realized that the feelings of relatives must be "indescribable."

SOME SHIVERING DONE

Some miners said they would never again enter a coal mine, but many, such as Chesley Harrison, will go back. "I haven't got any choice, I'll have to go down again," he said. "What else can I do?"

The relatives of the 26 buried men kept their hopes up until early Monday, when the first expectation swept the crowd of several hundred as each name was read. Then, as announced, after 52 men were brought up during the night, that no more would come, sobbing broke out through the throng.

Seven badly injured miners are still in hospital, two in critical condition, as a result of the Thursday explosion and its bitter aftermath of gas and entombment.

The two most seriously injured, Douglas Beaton and Jack Hopkins, were expected to be flown to Halifax for treatment.

One of the injured men, Con Gordon, is being acclaimed as a hero by other miners. He ordered his group of men to seal off a passageway and block themselves from the explosion gases, and then he told them how to cut holes in the air pipe, plug their mouths and breath from air. Eventually he led his party to safety, then returned underground to assist rescuers. The next time he was carried out on a stretcher. His condition is not serious.

UNUSUAL VISITOR

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP) — Shot down by a hunter in mistake for a duck, a cormorant here is being nursed by the local conservation officer. The bird, usually found on the seaboard or in northwestern lakes, is believed to have been migrating with a flight of ducks.

NASSER DEFIES HIS ATTACKERS

President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt is shown as he spoke at the Alazhar Mosque during an address in Cairo. He vowed to fight the attacking British, French and Israeli forces in the "last drop of the blood." Nasser has declared martial law and assumed command of the Egyptian armed forces.

Searchers Recover Bodies of Four Drowned in Lake

KAPUSKASING (CP) — Searchers brought by a 13-year-old boy who walked eight miles barefoot through Northern Ontario brush Monday recovered the bodies of two men and two women who were drowned Sunday.

Drowned were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Emile Guindon, both 42, of Opasatika, Ont., and Jean Marie Drapeau, 34, of Val d'Or, Que., and his fiancee, Eliette Valiquette 24, of Clova, Que.

The only survivor of the five who started on a hunting trip on the Kapuskasing River was 13-year-old René Guindon, son of the drowned husband and wife.

He said he removed his shoes and his jacket when he was thrown into the water from their outboard motor boat after hitting a log. He felt almost reached shore when he heard his mother scream and went back for her.

Once again he was within a few feet of safety with his mother, when one of the others grasped his ankles and in his efforts to break free he lost Mrs. Guindon.

The boy walked on the shore through the night, then, at dawn, walked to this community 126 miles north of Timmins, where he met a search party just starting out to look for the missing hunters.

CAPTURE ESCAPEES

Editorial Comment of Canadian Papers Praises Pearson's Action

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Following is a sampling of editorial comment by Canadian newspapers on the Canada-sponsored United Nations plan for an international policing force to bring peace to the Middle East:

Toronto Telegram (Independent): The Pearson resolution . . . called on Secretary - General Hammarskjold to submit within 48 hours a plan for a United Nations force "to secure and supervise" cease-fire arrangements. The practical course . . . is to start by separating the British-French force as UN police.

Toronto Star (Independent Liberal): The (Canadian) government has had the courage to put principles ahead of sentiment and it has done it in a way that may better equip the world to deal with future threats to peace.

Toronto Globe and Mail (Independent): . . . Hammarskjold should assign the task of assembling the police force to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Montreal Star (Independent): . . . it is a good first step, but it does not of itself by any means bring Anglo-American difficulties to an end. We are thus obviously only at the beginning of a lengthy diplomatic negotiation, the success of which remains in doubt.

Montreal La Presse (Independent): The resolution presented by Canada offers a constructive solution . . . it offers the only practicable way to settle satisfactorily a situation which no nation can look upon without some concern.

Le Devoir (Independent): Canada intervened energetically in an attempt to safeguard peace. She did not allow herself to be stopped by her ties with Britain and France.

Montreal Gazette (Independent Conservative) . . . The Pearson plan would remove the action from the controversial basis on which it rests and would bring the United Nations again into position as the supreme authority in international affairs. If this way good may be extracted from the very action by France and British which has roused in some such doubt and criticism.

Ottawa Citizen (Independent Liberal): An international police force should be feasible and could, perhaps, reach the battlefront within a few days, by way of a world-wide airlift, provided the countries now in conflict in the Middle East are willing to accept UN action. An international police force . . . should be acceptable both (Israel and Egypt) if they are serious about a cease-fire.

Winnipeg Tribune (Ind.) In all this dread weekend the contribution of Canada to the crisis has been laudable. It was Canada's L. B. Pearson who proposed that a UN police force be organized and his suggestion has won UN support without a dissenting vote.

. . . If only the UN had listened to earlier years to Canadian proposals for an international UN police force, the present criticism of Britain and France might have been avoided.

Winnipeg Free Press (Ind.-Lib.) Sir Anthony Eden and M. Mollet were most ill-advised to allow their military timetables—already disrupted by United Nations intervention—to override all other considerations of policy. . . . But, though Britain and France have gone ahead with the occupation, they have pledged themselves to withdraw the troops when the United Nations is ready to replace them with an international force.

Vancouver Province (Independent) The decision of the General Assembly to establish an emergency UN military command to intervene in the Middle East to end hostilities is an historic act. The immediate need now is for prompt execution of this decision.

The choice of Canada's Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns as commander of the UN force is an excellent one. . . . The paramount role at the UN taken by our External Affairs Minister Pearson . . . has brought him the gratitude of all Canadians. It was a remarkable performance in diplomacy.

Halifax Chronicle-Herald (Independent) :Canada once more has risen to her widely regarded postwar role as leading peacemaker among nations in sponsoring a resolution providing for an international police force to secure and supervise a cessation of hostilities in the Middle East. . . .

Smiling Israelis Resume Business In Home Towns

The following dispatch was written by a former Canadian Press staff writer now covering the Middle East crisis from Israel.

Written for The Canadian Press

By DONALD GORDON

KARMIYA, Israel (CP)—Smiling Israelis resumed business as usual here Monday, while troops continued to round-up Arab prisoners in the conquered Gaza and Sinai areas.

In Israeli cities and towns the blackout enforced since last week's border attack began was dropped. Troops moved back to their homes and knots of civilians gathered to talk about the campaign.

Along the border roads, police set up roadblocks to check travellers and prevent looting. Other troops swept across open fields and into deserted Arab quarters to capture hiding prisoners. More than 3,000 are contained in three camps.

UNIFORMS DISCARDED

Many of them are clad only in underwear, after discarding their uniforms to avoid capture. The slowdown in the fighting promised the first peace in days for many of the residents of these border "battle zones."

In this trenched and sandbagged town, Maurice Radnitsky, formerly of Montreal, said:

"Scattered sniping continues but most families are moving back to their homes from the trenches. Babies are being brought back too."

In Tel Aviv, an embassy spokesman said Canadians were remaining in Israel, with the number of those leaving or calling off charply. He said appeals to quit the country were continuing to all but essential persons. Evacuations are being taken for sheltering those left in the event of Arab flare-ups.

"It is the duty of the majority of the world's population lives under a dictator" he added.

Dag Hammarskjold Announces Canada and 5 Other Nations Offer Troops for UN Force

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold announced today that six countries have offered troops for an international United Nations police force to watch over a ceasefire in Egypt.

The six are Canada, Colombia, Denmark, Pakistan, Norway and Sweden.

In a report this morning to the General Assembly, Hammarskjold added that other countries were considering participation in the Canadian-proposed force, and he believed "it should be possible to meet quickly at least the most basic need for personnel."

He estimated this at "a few units of battalion strength." Troops of the five "big powers"—members of the Security Council —the United States, the Soviet Union, British, France and Nationalist China—are barred from the force.

ASSEMBLY MEETS

Hammarskjold reported as the assembly prepared for a par Russian move on the Middle East fighting following Britain-French-Israeli refusal to support Moscow's proposal that the U.S. join the Soviet Union in aiding Egypt against Britain, France and Israel.

The U.S. rejected the Russian proposal as "unthinkable," chief delegate Henry Cabot Sadge told the council it "would convert Egypt into a still larger battle field."

Hammarskjold is rounding up the peace machinery under the Canadian resolution the assembly passed Sunday in emergency special session.

The assembly asked the UN to set a plan in 48 hours for a UN force "to secure and supervise the cessation of hostilities."

Hammarskjold said the job of the force should be "to secure cease-fire is being established, to enter Egyptian territory with the consent of the Egyptian government, in order to help maintain quiet during and the withdrawal of non-Egyptian troops."

ISRAEL MAY BALK

He said the force presumably would range over the area from the Suez Canal to the Egypt-Israeli armistice demarcation line. Israel, however, has said she considers the armistice no longer in existence and has given no indication that she will get out of the Sinai Peninsula without a UN force.

The assembly was expected to be called to meet today or Tuesday to consider Hammarskjold's report and consider a resolution on the force's role.

Hammarskjold said that in his view the assembly would want to limit the force on the territory of any country without the government's consent. But he added this did not exclude the possibility that the United Nations force could use such a force to carry out its decisions.

The international force, first proposed by External Affairs Minister Pearson, would be under the command of Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns of Ottawa.

Canada and other delegates favoring the force were obviously hoping Israeli Foreign Minister Golda Meir's scheduled General Assembly session was canceled.

WORK AT NIGHT

Assembly President Rudecinde Ortiga of Chile called off the meeting scheduled for Monday night until meeting time past 10 p.m. and left Tuesday's session date to the assembly. Hammarskjold and his advisers promptly went to work on the UN police force's retirist building to get to work on drafting the force's role.

At the Security Council meeting a Russian demand for the United States to withdraw from intervene with force in the Middle East was voted down. A similar Russian agenda was voted down 4 to 3, with four abstentions.

Voting for the United States, France and Australia voted against it, while China, Cuba, Belgium and Peru abstained. Russia, Yugoslavia and Iran favored adoption.

Speaking against the agenda, U.S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., said the Soviet suggestion was "unthinkable."

Ambassador Lodge said, would be run counter to everything the General Assembly had done. Lodge also said he was done to bring peace to the Middle East.

MAY BE TONED DOWN

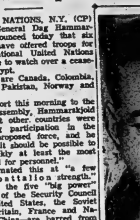
The cancelled assembly session was to have considered a resolution by 19 Asian and African Asian-African group calling for condemnation of Britain, France and Israel for invading Egypt.

Delegates who put their hopes for settlement on the establishment of a UN force said they felt the Asian-African resolution would serve no good purpose and simply provide a forum for further charges and counter-charges.

It was understood some delegates had been working on privately mixings, to dissuade the Asian-African bloc from pressuring the resolution at all, or at least to tone it down.

A hint they might have succeeded came when Djalal Abdoh Etan, spokesman for the group, said they were reconsidering their resolution in view of "developments."

The nearest to a concrete plan for a UN force was taken to be one of the developments to which he referred.



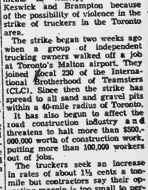
EIGHT OFFER MEN

So far eight countries, including Canada, have expressed willingness to participate in such a force. None of the permanent members of the Security Council —Britain, France, the U.S., Russia and China—would be permitted to take part.

UN officials said countries besides Canada who have agreed to participate are Sweden, Norway, Colombia, Finland, Denmark, Pakistan and New Zealand.

Originally the task force of a 10,000-man force. But with the possibility of a cease-fire before the force goes into action it was believed a lesser command of possibly about 700 men would be sufficient to keep the peace.

Such details would be left to Burns after Hammarskjold delivered his draft outlining the scope and duties of the force.



First miner out of the Cumberland company shaft, foreman Charles Burton is credited with leading others to safety. He lost unconsciousness several times but gave up hope he would reach the surface.

Leave and Days Off Cancelled For Police Officers

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario provincial police headquarters said Monday night all leave and days off have been cancelled at detachments in Whitby, Newmarket, Keswick and Brampton because of the possibility of violence in the strike of truckers in the Toronto area.

The strike began two weeks ago when a group of independent trucking owners walked off a job at Toronto's Malton airport. They want local 230 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (CLC). Since then the strike has spread to all sand and gravel pits within a 50-mile radius of Toronto. It has also begun to affect the road construction industry and a spokesman said about $300,000-600,000 worth of construction work, putting more than 100,000 workers out of jobs.

The truckers seek an increase in rates of about 1½ cents a ton-mile but contractors say their operating margin is too small to permit any increase.

Quebec Sportsmen Will Tender Disabled Veterans Game Dinner

MONTREAL (CP)—The tang of the wilds will be transported to nearly 1,500 disabled veterans in edible form when a group of Quebec sportsmen tender them a game dinner.

Moose, venison, duck, goose and partridge, with wild rice or cranberry sauce, will be served to servicemen of two world wars, most of them bed-ridden.

The veterans' game dinner Nov. 14 is a spontaneous gesture of some provincial sleuths. They said it will turn over their own game bags or bottle up hunting trips to collect a little something special into institution life.

But ordering the table target of a pound of game per guest may be a near impossible. Organizing Chairman Lee Morrow said.

Closing date for receipt of carcasses, rare and fancy, is Nov. 8. "We are not over the hump yet," Mr. Morrow said Nov. 2, "but we are within striking distance. We would probably scrape by now on what we have but we would still like more."

At that time there on hand include 800 pounds of moose meat, 200 pounds of venison, and 100 pounds of wild fowl, mainly geese and ducks.

Fifty pounds of mallards were promised from the West. Because "Quebec isn't real duck country," he explained, "we asked some sportsmen in the more plentiful provinces to lend a hand."

If the worst comes, he said, the sportsmen may accept an offer of quick-frozen lake trout, "although we'd rather not." The all-game affair and the veterans get back every Thursday.

The veterans' dinner, which the group would like to make an annual affair, is being held at the Toronto function inaugurated last year.

Recipients will be patients at the department of veterans affairs hospitals at nearby Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Queen Mary Veterans Hospital and Somerville Lodge.

The main dining hall will handle 300 persons. Others will be served smaller. The bulk will back in at their beds.

Mr. Morrow says a main consideration prompted the project.

"When a lot of us came back from the war, we used to dash out to the DVA hospitals as a matter of course to visit the boys. Few persons do any more. It's a pity and it seems the least we can do to help repay some of the debt we owe these fellows."

Slowly But Surely U.S. Softens Attitude on Anglo-French Intervention in Middle East

WASHINGTON (CP) — Slowly, and with sobering afterthought, the United States is softening its attitude on the Anglo-French intervention in the embattled Middle East.

There still is no outright approval, but official and unofficial Washington is beginning to look in a new light on the British-French decision to step into the Middle East crisis to safeguard the Suez Canal and keep the fighting Israelis and Egyptians beyond rifle-shot length.

The best indication of this is in the two latest U.S. Middle East resolutions adopted by the United Nations, one calling for a UN commission to recommend settlement of the Arab-Israeli dispute and the other proposing a similar body to reopen the Suez as an international waterway.

RECOGNIZES CAUSES

They embody a recognition of the root causes of the Middle East crisis that was absent from the earlier U.S. resolution seeking a cease-fire and gradual withdrawal of invading forces.

Six days ago, when the news of the Anglo-French ultimatum hit Washington, there was first shock, dismay and then anger. For a time, it was almost unpopular to be classed as a citizen of the British Commonwealth.

There were recriminations and deep anger on the part of the state department and the White House, principally at the British leaders because they had taken such a step without informing and consulting Washington.

There was talk of a collapse of the grand alliance between the three big Western powers, and President Eisenhower himself reaffirmed his intention to go to the defence of any Middle East nation whose frontiers were violated.

RETREAT BEGINS

That was Tuesday night. Within 24 hours, Washington began to retreat. Eisenhower went on the air and promised the American people, on the verge of the presidential election, that there would be no U.S. military "involvement" in the present hostilities.

He was critical of the two Western allies but expressed sympathy with their "anxieties" over "grave and repeated provocations." Egypt, he said, had "aggravated" the Middle East situation.

Newspaper editorials and columnists began to lay increasing blame for the Middle East crisis on the vacillations of American foreign policy and the failure of State Secretary Dulles to support Britain and France—and the Israelis — in their troubles with Egypt's President Nasser.

One such criticism came from George F. Kennan, a key figure in the state department through much of the post-war period, who bitterly attacked the Eisenhower administration for demanding that the British, French and Israeli leaders call off their war against Egypt.

ADMITS RESPONSIBILITY

Kennan, chief of the policy planning staff under former State Secretary Dean Acheson, wrote in Washington newspaper that "we bear a heavy measure of responsibility for the desperation" that drove Britain and France into moving into the Middle East.

The influential New York Times, in an editorial Monday entitled "Hope for the Middle East," noted that "in fairness to the three powers concerned it should be recognized, as Washington now seeks willing to do, that their provocation was great."

"Those of us who rightly condemned the appeasement of Hitler in the 1930s should think today of the consequences that might well have followed appeasement of President Nasser of Egypt."

During the social half hour, refreshments were served by the hostesses.

ANNUAL BAZAAR

On Friday evening St. John's Guild, Moneymore, held its annual bazaar and euchre in the Anglican hall, Roslin.

Economic 'Squeeze', One-Two Punch by Jack Frost Causing Trouble in Okanagan Valley

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP) — Many farmers in the Okanagan Valley claim fruit growing here has not been in such a precipitancent since the Earl of Aberdeen started the first commercial orchard at the north end of the 100-mile-long valley in 1892.

The troubles are twofold: an economic "squeeze," and a one-two punch from Jack Frost.

The $30,000,000 British Columbia fruit industry, which grows one-third of the apples produced in Canada, suffered a heavy body blow in the winter of 1949-50 from two months of below-zero temperatures.

SUB-ZERO WEATHER

A near - knockout punch was thrown on the night of Nov. 11 last year when unseasonable five-below weather sent the fruit industry reeling.

R. F. Walrod, general-manager of B.C. Tree Fruits, the growers' central-selling agency, said "this is a catastrophe most people in Canada and even in British Columbia are not aware of."

"We expect the lightest crop this year in the last 20 years," he said, "and we still don't know the full effect of the damage."

Dr. T. H. Anstey, superintendent of the Dominion Experimental Station at Summerland, B.C., said it will take a minimum of 10 years to bring back fruit trees to their status before the November frost.

Damage to late apple varieties alone would mean a 30-per-cent reduction in Delicious apples and up to 70 per cent in Newtowns.

BIG DECLINE

B.C.'s 1956 apple crop is estimated at 4,000,000 bushels compared with 6,405,000 last year and 9,000,000 in 1946, the record year.

Many farmers predict it will be years before the valley can again produce a bumper apple crop.

L. G. Butler of East Kelowna, one of the valley's most prominent farmers, said: "In my 35 years of fruit farming this is the worst situation we've ever run into."

"In 1949-50 I lost a lot of re-planted and patched-up trees. But this last frost took the young, good trees.

"In the 1930s I put in a large number of new trees. By now I should be enjoying the fruits of their production. Instead 75 per cent of these trees will have to be pulled out. I'm too old now to start over again."

The normal life of an apple tree is about 40 years with its peak at about 20. It takes at least 10 years, however, before a new tree will produce worthwhile quantities.

30-PER-CENT LOSS

George Porter, superintendent of the Keloka Ranch here, biggest commercial orchard in Canada, said that as a result of the November frost only half the Keloka trees are commercially fit.

Economically the "squeeze" is attributed mainly to increased labor and transportation costs. Though the cost of fruit to the consumer has gone up, the grower claims he is not getting his share of the increase.

This fall at a number of regional meetings of grower co-operatives, some of the Okanagan's 3,650 fruit farmers demanded a provincial royal commission to investigate diminished net returns to growers.

Last January the B.C. Fruit Growers Association at its annual convention asked for a federal royal commission to inquire into all phases of the fruit industry.

Mr. Walrod says the "depressed state" of the fruit industry is due to new production ratios; to "consumption imbalances" in the United States; and to the "weather cycle."

EASTERN COMPETITION

He said B.C. growers face increasing competition from eastern markets. Quebec marketed only 850,000 bushels of apples annually from 1937 to 1942 but next year it anticipated a 5,000,000-bushel crop. Michigan and Wisconsin were taking increasingly larger shares of the U.S. market. Eastern Canada used to be a major market for B.C. apples but now it was pretty well confined to late varieties.

OKANAGAN ORCHARD

KELOWNA, B.C.—Fruit growers in British Columbia's Okanagan Valley who own orchards similar to this one pictured here near Penticton, B.C., say this year's crop is expected to be the lightest of the last 20 years. The $30,000,000 British Columbia fruit industry, which grows one-third of the apples produced in Canada, suffered a heavy blow in the winter of 1949-50 with two months of below-zero temperatures. One official said "we still don't know the full effect of the damage." This B.C. government photo, taken with the Okanagan mountains as backdrop, shows the orchard in blossom. (CP Photo)

Higher fresh fruit prices and the decline of home-preserving have swung the Canadian housewife to a much larger use of tinned fruit and growers are turning more and more to canners and processors as a market.

Dr. Anstey estimates half the B.C. peach and apricot crop now goes to canneries. He says the percentage of canned fruit to fresh fruit is increasing 10 per cent each year.

Ten years ago B.C.'s fruit growers went into the processing business themselves. Through their central-selling agency, B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd., they bought out three plants that had been making apple juice and two others making evaporated apples. Their organization is known as B.C. Fruit Processors Ltd.

Now it produces half of Canada's apple juice and packs more than 80 per cent of Canada's dried apples. Production in 1955 was valued at $3,108,972.

Where the plants are in full production, 300 persons are employed and goods move to market at a rate of 100-125 carloads a month.

Now not only are growers' "culls" being used, but thousands of tons of low-grade sound apples as well.

PROFITABLE BUSINESS

Since they entered the business, growers have paid for five processing plants costing more than $1,000,000 and have themselves received nearly $3,000,000 in cash payments—all from fruit which at one time was going to waste.

Besides apple juice and dried apples, the plants produce apple jelly, pie fillings from various fruits, apple sauce, vinegar, apricot nectar and "applecot nectar." A blend of apricot and apple juices.

This fall, the Summerland Experimental Farm, using B.C. processors equipment, merchandized a trial run of 1,500 cases of apple cider. Sold in cans at beer prices through provincial liquor stores, the cider was quickly snapped up.

B.C. processors hope to begin commercial production next year, selling both sweet and dry ciders with an alcoholic content of not more than eight per cent.

CLEVELAND HERE WEDNESDAY

When the Cleveland Barons skate out on the ice against the McFarlands in Memorial Arena Wednesday night, take a gander at this youngster "Pie" Ellis. The young man is being talked around the American League as the sensation of the circuit and at the moment he tops the league in goals scored. He whipped home the Baron's only three counters on Sunday—and it won't be too long before he is trotting around in a National Hockey League uniform.

"Pie," his first name is Boris, is of Bulgarian extraction, and was born in the prairie-girt town of Sherridan, Manitoba. He makes his home at present in North Bay.

This is the green-eyed winger's first crack at professional hockey and the way he's been setting the American League afire with his uncanny scoring ability has made him the talk of the circuit. He learned his minor hockey in the northland and for the past three years was an outstanding star with the North Bay Trappers in the Northern Ontario Senior League.

He is a one-sport athlete. Hockey is his one and only athletic love. In the summer time he tools a heavy transport around the North Bay highways and keeps in condition that way. He's big. He stands 6; 11 and tips the scales at 190 pounds. He has a hard, wicked shot and his accuracy is uncanny. He is known as a "hard-nose" player, one who gives no quarter and expects none.

Another star worth watching, is playing coach, Jack Gordon, starting his fifth season with the Barons. He is rated as the best playmaking centre in the league who has more than an average share of goals and assists. He holds the club record with 107 points scored in the 1953-54 season and was named the all-star centre that season previous. He was a member of the "grand-slam" title winners in '52-53 and the Calder Cup team of '53-54.

Bob Barlow, a centre or left winger, is one of the brighter prospects in the Barons' array of young talent. Bob is 21 and comes to the Barons with experience with the Barrie Junior "A" Flyers and the North Bay Senior Trappers.

A graduate of the Hamilton Aerovox Junior "B" squad and later the St. Catharines Teepees, defenceman Ian Robertson moved directly to the Barons without benefit of senior experience. Only 23 years of age, the Barons believe they have a fine defence find in this youngster.

One of the veterans of the club is Freddie Glover, who has had National Hockey League experience. He played Junior "A" with Galt and hopped to the Wings back in '47-48. He has played with Omaha, Indiannapolis, St. Louis and Chicago and came to the Barons in a "swap" deal with the Hawks back in 1953. His pucks a wicked shot, won the goal-scoring title in '50-51 and set a new "sin" record last year with 187 minutes.

The Barons have several promising junior players on their roster, included is whom Art Stratton, who performed here last season with St. Catharines. They look for big things from this husky youngster. Another is Peter "Gorilla" Georgas, who came up from Fort William and the Soo. Then there is Ed McQueen, 21, who played with Barrie before jumping last season to American League company. Another good young prospect is Frank Milne who learned his hockey with the Oakville junior and senior "B" squads before vaulting into the Brown's fold. Ron Morgan, 21, came to Cleveland from the Trail Rivieres team last season after graduating from the Vernon, B.C., junior club.

The Barons' goalie is 22-year-old Marcel Paille who first gained recognition while netminding for the Quebec Citadel junior club. He then went to the Matane seniors and from there to North Bay. In '55-56 he starred with Chicoutami of the Quebec league.

Other youngsters include Danny Poltzani, 21, who moved up from the Barrie Flyers—and who wants to be a race-horse owner, and Gordon Velprava, a Czech youngster who started his hockey out west and landed in Barons in '55-56. He is said to be one of the fastest skaters in the American league.

Veterans of the club include such names as Kennie Hayden, Steve Kraftcheck, Dannie McLellan, Jimmie Moore, Bill Shevtz, Cal Stearns and others.

With the exception of the Philadelphia Rockets, now defunct, who trained here a few years ago, and played exhibition tilts with other loop clubs, the Barons' visit will be the first time an American League club has showed its wares to Belleville fandom. Rated one of the better clubs in the loop, the Barons, at this time of writing, hold down third place, four points behind the league-leading Hershey Bears.

It should be a real hockey treat, one that should go a long way in putting the McFarlands on edge for their all-important clash here on Friday with the Pembroke Lumber Kings.

MINOR HOCKEY

Doug Patterson, OMHA executive, and his crew of mercury workers have a hold forth tonight in the city hall council chambers, starting at eight o'clock. Doug hopes to get matters organized and the table set for a good layout of minor hockey fare this winter. He hopes to again form the southern district league which was so successful last season, with Picton, Belleville, Wellington, Trenton, Napanee, and other district squads entering the fold.

SOFTBALL FESTIVITIES

And if you haven't got your pasteboard for the Belleville District Softball League season-end banquet, scheduled for the Shrine Club come Thursday night, better do so right away. President Cy Barriage has all arrangements finalized with city manager Dennis Herring slated for the guest speaker's job. Champions, individual and collective, will be honored and all-in-all it should be a good evening.

TWO PLAYERS BOUGHT

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A Southern Group announced Monday the conditional purchase of two top players from Chatham Maroons of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A.

Away to Shaky Early Start Champions Won All Games; Big Centre Marks 14 Points

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens were the only National Hockey League team to make a clean sweep of points up for grab last week and along with the unsurprising Canadiens were Jean Beliveau in the top of the scoring parade.

The Montrealers, 1955-56 champions who got away to a shaky start this season, won all three games they played last week. The six points collected move them from fifth place to a tie for third with Boston Bruins.

Beliveau scored two goals and four assists and now has 14 points, two more than Ted Lindsay of Detroit Red Wings.

The Wings split in two games and remained league leaders with 14 points. Toronto Maple Leafs also split two, losing a hotly disputed battle to the Wings, and held on to second place. The Leafs now have 12 points, one more than Boston and Canadiens. The Bruins had the next best record to Canadiens their week's work, winning two and losing one.

New York Rangers dropped two starts and fell to fifth place, with nine points. Chicago Black Hawks scored the first win of the season, but lost two other games and are still in the cellar with three points.

Gordie Howe of the Red Wings counted two assists and, along with Lindsay, dropped a notch. Howe now has 11 points, one more than Ted Sloan of Toronto and Doug Harvey of Montreal.

In sixth place with nine points is Montreal's Maurice (Rocket) Richard, who picked up two goals and two assists in his three games. Tied at eight points are George Armstrong of the Leafs and Bert Olmstead of Montreal. Each scored two goals and one assist last week.

Six players are tied with seven points each and another half dozen with six points.

Beliveau and Dick Duff of Toronto share the goal-scoring lead with six each. Duff has only one assist, leaving him in the seventh-point bracket. Top man with assists is Harvey with 10.

Saskys, Esks in West Final Riders Lose, Win on Points

WINNIPEG (CP) — Saskatchewan Roughriders threw off a 20-year-old jinx to enter the Western Interprovincial Football Union final against Edmonton Eskimos.

Riders took a 19-8 beating from Winnipeg Blue Bombers Monday night in the second game of their two-game, total point semi-final series to round 30-26—their, first playoff triumph over Winnipeg since Confederation the strength of their 2-7 victory in the first game at Regina Saturday.

The play-off-home final gets under way at Regina Saturday. Second and third games are scheduled at Edmonton, Nov. 12 and 17.

"We played it as we had to—close to the vest," said coach Frank Filchock between handshakes in the happy Rider dressing room. "We had them in a hole and they had to gamble. We didn't. Our biggest problem was to keep free of serious injuries. "They played a great game and never gave up. We managed to control the ball when needed."

WIND AGAINST THEM

A downhearted Al Sherman, whose Bomber coaching contract runs out this year, said:

"They've got a solid club. But my boys gave all they could. . . They never quit trying despite the odds against them. I believe we might have come closer if it hadn't been for that strong wind."

The wind, a southeaster which gusted to 31 miles an hour, played havoc with both the kicking and passing. Riders' powerful kicker, Larry Isbell, continually kept his club out of any serious danger with his long kicks. Bombers, forced to do most of their kicking while facing the wind, averaged only 16 yards on eight attempts.

Three players — two Bombers and one Rider—went to the sidelines with injuries in the rugged contest over a field made watery and muddy by five days of rain. Most serious was halfback Glenn McWhinney of Bombers who suffered a fractured dislocation of the neck and was taken to hospital. Bomber quarterback Eagle Day went out of the game after a hard tackle, while Rider guard Ron Atchison suffered an ankle injury in the dying moments of the contest.

SCORE TWO ON RUNS

Despite the adverse conditions and the lopsided score in the opener, a surprisingly-good crowd of 13,348 took in the game.

Bombers' three touchdowns were by Fred Gran on a 28-yard pass from quarterback Eagle Day, a 14-yard run by Day and another 14-yard dash by halfback Buddy Leake. Leake also supplied a convert. The other two—one on the almost-forgotten drop kick—went astray.

Rider's eight points came on a field goal and a single by guard Reg Whitehouse, two singles by Larry Isbell and a safety touch by defensive end Doug Killoh, who nailed Day behind the Winnipeg goal line.

Bombers went behind by four points in "the first quarter, but took a 7-4 lead at the half. They outscored Riders 12-2 in the third quarter to go ahead 19-8, but gave up two singles in the last 15 minutes.

REMEMBER WHEN . . .

Jack Cheshro, one of baseball's great spitball pitchers in the old days, died at Conway, Mass., 25 years ago today. He led National League pitchers while with Pittsburgh in the 1901 and 1902, and in 1904 he won 41 games for the New York Yankees.

Dutchies Lose Another Player

KITCHENER (CP) — Kitchener - Waterloo's injury - ridden Dutchmen learned Monday they will be without another backfield star for Wednesday's sudden death Ontario Rugby Football Union Senior semi - final with Sarnia Golden Bears.

Latest to go was Ron Potter, the defensive half who suffered a shoulder separation in Friday's game with Toronto Beaches. He will be out for the rest of the season.

With only one of his original pass-defenders left—Ed Learn—coach Harvey Johnson faces the prospect of getting quarterback Bob Celeri and halfback Billy Graham to go both ways Wednesday.

Johnson may use junior Art Schmidt of the Kitchener-Waterloo Panthers as a replacement for Potter.

Dutchmen finished the regular season in first place but lost their last two games with second-place Sarnia.

Threatens to Withdraw Team Changes Mind

NEW YORK (AP)—Eng. Gen. Humberto Marles, upset when he and one of his riders were disqualified by an official ruling, threatened to withdraw his Mexican team from further international events in the National Horse Show Monday, but then changed his mind and decided to stay.

The rhubarb caused quite a stir, almost overshadowing Chile's first International Jumping Trophy in the afternoon session.

The fuss started when officials discovered the Mexican team was competing out of order in the Nations Cup Winter Equitation event. Walter B. Devereux, president of the show, informed Marles that he and San Schwan had been disqualified.

After the event, Marles announced he had talked over the situation with Devereux and the latter had decided it was all a misunderstanding.

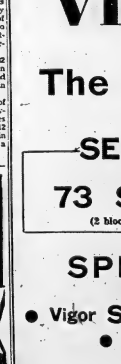
Three Aloueltes Win Title

TORONTO (CP)—Three players from Montreal Alouettes ended up with four of the principal individual titles in the Big Four Football Union.

Official statistics released today following the completion of the regular schedule show that Pat Abbruzzi won the scoring and rushing crowns, quarterback Sam Etcheverry led the passers and end Hal Patterson topped the pass receivers.



Abbruzzi scored a record 20 touchdowns to win the scoring championship with 120 points, a total which broke the previous high of 102 counted by Edgar (Special Delivery) Jones of Hamilton Tiger-Cats in 1950. The 20 touchdowns were one more than the 1955 record of 19 Abbruzzi set last season.

The former Rhode Island State fullback gained 1,062 yards rushing, averaging 5.1 yards on 207 ball-carrying series.

Etcheverry, former University of Denver ace, topped the passers by completing 170 passes in 406 attempts for a total of 4,723 and a winning percentage of .418. His average gain was 10.6 yards which was surpassed only by quarterback Jim Trimble of Hamilton with 11.6 yards. Cicrillo completed 83 passes in 152 attempts for 1,726 yards and a percentage of .546.

Etcheverry threw a record 32 touchdown passes, two more than the previous mark of 30 he and Tom Dublinski of Argos set in 1955.

Patterson, former University of Kansas Star, won the pass-receiving crown with 68 catches for 1,914 yards. He scored 12 touchdowns and his longest gain off a pass was 79 yards in a game against Hamilton.

Canadian Bobby Simpson Named End On Big 4 All-Star Offensive Squad

First Time in Five Seasons Canuck Beats Out Import; Rider Award Well-Deserved

TORONTO (CP)—Bobby Simpson's return to the wars marked the Big Four Football Union this season comes as a notable achievement for a Canadian player in this day of high-priced imports.

The 26-year-old Simpson was picked as one of the ends on The Canadian Press Big Four all-star offensive team, marking the first time in five seasons that a Canadian has been able to beat out an import in that position.

It was a well-deserved reward for the veteran Ottawa Rough Rider player, now in his seventh season with the club. His brilliant pass-catching was a considerable factor in Ottawa's surprising comeback this season which put them in the league playoffs for the first time since 1951.

The absence of Simpson and Montreal Alouettes' spectacular combination of Sam Etcheverry and Hal Patterson were the highlights in the voting for the offensive team. Etcheverry, selected as quarterback for the fourth straight year, and Patterson, picked for the other end position in the offensive lineup and as a halfback on the defensive squad, were the only unanimous choices.

PICK FIVE ALS

Five Montreal players were named to the offensive team along with each from Toronto Argonauts and Ottawa and one from Hamilton Tiger-Cats. It was the fourth successive year that the Alouettes have landed at least five players on this mythical team.

The football writers, sportscasters and coaches in the four cities who picked the teams for CP also chose Alouette guard as defensive lineup. The Tiger-Cats placed four men on this squad, the Argonauts and Ottawa two.

Flying Wing Joey Pal of the Alouettes was the only other Canadian besides Simpson to make all-star status on offense. Four homebrews were named to the defensive team—safety halfback Don Pinbey of Ottawa, halfback Ray Truant of Hamilton and end Jim Miller of Montreal—and Pete Neumann of Hamilton. Guard Vince Scott, a former Argonaut, now rumored as a non-import, also was chosen for the defensive team.

Simpson regained his all-star rating after missing out in 1954 and 1955. He was chosen for the flying wing berth in 1952 and 1953 and in 1951 made the grade as an end.

The offensive team:

Flying Wing—Joey Pal, Montreal.

Half (plunging)—Pat Abbruzzi, Montreal

Half—Cookie Gilchrist, Hamilton

Half—Dick Shatto, Toronto

Quarter — Sam Etcheverry, Montreal

Centre—Tom Hugo, Montreal

Guard—Hal Hayes, Ottawa

Guard — Francis Machinsky, Toronto.

Tackle—Kaye Vaughan, Ottawa

Tackle—Bill Albright, Toronto

End—Hal Patterson, Montreal

End—Bobby Simpson, Ottawa

The defensive team:

Half—Ray Truant, Hamilton

Secondary—Ken Vargo, Ottawa

Secondary — Tom Hugo, Montreal

Guard—Vince Scott, Hamilton

Coaches Debate

The Pass vs. Split-T

Doug Walker, coach of the Montreal Alouettes, who lost the Grey Cup twice to Edmonton Eskimos, sticks to the forward pass as his offensive weapon. Frank Ivy of the Edm. sticks to the Split-T — and why not? Read their reasons in the sports feature —"Split-T vs The Pass" in this week's NEW Star Weekly. The paper that interests all the family.

Swiacki Done With Argos Says Hayman

TORONTO (CP) — Managing director Lew Hayman of Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four Football Union said Monday that chief coach Bill Swiacki will not return to the club in 1957.

He said Swiacki had left him a note saying he had "other plans" for 1957 and had returned to his home at Southbridge, Mass.

Hayman said Swiacki told him in a telephone conversation later that he found it necessary to return home immediately to set up his 1957 plans. The regular Big Four season ended Saturday.

Swiacki signed a two-year contract with the Argos in 1954.

Hayman, former general manager and part owner of Montreal Alouettes, became Argos' managing director last month.

MET BUT CHOKE

He said he has met Swiacki only once about a week ago. "I found him a personable fellow who knows a lot of football."

Hayman said he had planned to sit down with Swiacki and talk over the whole Argos situation. That didn't mean that Swiacki would be fired and didn't mean he would be rehired.

Hayman learned from his home, Swiacki told a reporter that his insurance and real-estate business is his immediate concern. He would not say whether he would stay in football in the United States.

"I had two happy years in Toronto," he said. "I have no rancour, no bitterness for anybody. I am sorry we couldn't give the fans more winning games. But when you're racked with injuries as we were most of the season—and I don't use this as an excuse—it's just impossible, that's all."

Varsity Blues Buck Jinx in Gaels Game

TORONTO (CP) — University of Toronto Blues will be tucking a jinx Saturday when they meet Queen's Golden Gaels in the final league game of the Senior Intercollegiate Football Union. Blues haven't won an engagement in Kingston since 1953.

Only three games have been played on Gaels' home ground since that time but there is the grim reminder of last season's trips to Kingston to dampen any enthusiasm.

Blues could have wrapped up the league title last year in their first visit to Kingston. But they lost 11-10 and the defeat eventually made necessary a playoff. In the playoff, also at Kingston, the Blues were whipped 18-0 as Gaels won their first championship since 1937.

Now Blues again need a victory to win the crown. Gaels can force a playoff with a victory or a tie. Blues emerged from last Saturday's 14-13 win over Montreal's McGill redmen with several minor casualties. But only one—end Burt Kellock—is a definite non-starter, Kellock has a small cast on his injured ankle.

Halfback Ross Woods is nursing a bruised shoulder and half Peter Mahi and centre Pete Copland have bruised ribs. All three are doubtful starters. However, defensive end Gene Chorostecki probably will be back. He missed the McGill game because of a blood clot in his foot.

Three Nations May Withdraw From 1956 Olympic Games

MELBOURNE (AP)—Three nations—The Netherlands, Switzerland and Norway—are considering a withdrawal from the Olympic Games, which open Nov. 22, because of Soviet suppression of the freedom movement in Hungary.

The Netherlands was the first to announce a possible withdrawal. Norway's Olympic committee has delegated two members to "assess the international situation" and reach a decision on whether the nation will enter the Games as planned.

In Switzerland, the Olympic committee has scheduled an emergency session Wednesday to decide whether Swiss athletes should compete against the Russians.

HAPPY PRESS TALK

Konstantine Andrianov, acting Russian chief de mission, was perfectly at ease today at a press conference, which began in dull Russian earnestness and ended in laughter. Speaking through an interpreter, he first told 50 newspapermen:

1. The Melbourne organizers have done a good job.

2. Soviet athletes are sure the Games will help strengthen the ties of friendship between athletes of all countries.

3. Soviet athletes will be allowed to wander about Melbourne, meeting people and making notes about Australia to tell the folks back home.

The laughter began when a reporter asked the average age of the Russians and was told the youngest was 18 and the athletes were 22 or 23 years.

WON'T GIVE OLDEST

"How old is the oldest?" the reporter asked.

Andrianov and his interpreter smiled. Then Andrianov through his interpreter said: "The oldest want to conceal their age. Everybody wants to be young."

Earlier, in a formal statement, Andrianov said the Russian Olympic delegation would comprise 300 athletes, including 44 women, 47 coaches and trainers, nine physicians and 22 officials.

He said other representatives such as judges, masseurs and newspaper men would bring the total to a little over 500.

He said that four per cent of the athletes were from the Soviet armed forces, 60 per cent were students and the rest workers and employees.

MIX POLITICS

Sixty-three Russians now are installed in the Olympic village of Heidelberg. Others are coming by the Soviet ship Georgia due here Thursday, and by chartered American planes from Prague.

The contingent of Russian athletes settled down in Heidelberg Monday and talked confidently of their chances in the Games but from the stone at the mention of politics.

The centre of attraction among the 63 Soviet team members and officials who flew in from Burma was a seven - foot - one Latvian woodchopper named Jam Krumlinsh, who plays centre on the basketball team.

Towering above even the tallest of his teammates, Krumlinsh submitted to a lunch time interview through a boy scout interpreter and predicted Russia would beat the United States for the basketball title.

STRONG MAN POSES

One of the Soviet weightlifters showed his prowess by picking up a boy scout in each hand and easily hoisting them in the air from photographs.

The first group of the vast Russian delegation, largest in the Olympic Games, were large, hardened athletes who appeared pleasant but who talked apprehensively with fulsome glances in the direction of their officials.

Andrianov parried questions concerning the revolution in Hungary. He was asked about a report that Holland was considering withdrawing its team from the Games and planned to push a protest.

"I know of no grounds for a protest," Andrianov answered.

'Evening Peal' Wins Big Race In Australia

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) Evening Peal, the best mare on the Australian race tracks, won the Melbourne Cup, Australia's biggest horse race, at Flemington Track today.

All Australia stopped work to listen to the broadcast of the big two-mile handicap in which most Australians have some sort of financial interest.

Evening Peal, starting 15 to 1 in the betting, won by half a neck from New Zealand favorite, Red Craze, at 7 to 4 with 13-to-2 chance Baracouta half a head away third.

The time of 3:18.5 equalled the Australian record.

Riders Ready For Tiger Cats

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa Rough Riders reported in top condition Monday night for a practice in preparation for their sudden-death Big Four Football semi - final against the Tiger-Cats at Hamilton Wednesday.

Coach Frank Clair gave his Riders a day off Sunday, following their 17-15 win over the Tiger-Cats last week, but drilled the squad hard Monday to work out—without pads—the offensive and defensive plays.

Trainer Fred Peterson said that apart from the usual bruises there was not a single serious injury in the squad.

The cast on Ken Vargo's right hand was removed after Saturday's game. The big centre-linebacker's broken hand has healed perfectly and it is possible Clair may call on him to play on offence Wednesday night. Only Slate insurance is being placed on defence only for the last few weeks of the cast that protected him on snaps.

Speedy Gary Schreiber, petite rookie from Queen's University who missed the last game because of a shoulder injury, also is expected to be back in uniform.

LEAFS PROTEST

MONTREAL (CP) — President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League said Monday Toronto Maple Leafs have advised him they are protesting disallowance of a Toronto goal which would have given Leafs a 2-2 tie Saturday night with Detroit Red Wings.

Big Four Crowds Bigger in 1956

MONTREAL (CP)—With every team showing an increase, average attendance at Big Four Football League games rose by 2,831 during the 1956 season.

Total attendance for the 28 games was 536,168, an average of 19,149 per game, compared with last year's total of 391,647 for 24 games, an average of 16,318.

Montreal Alouettes, who finished in first place, drew the most fans — 152,128. They were followed by Toronto with 143,945; Hamilton with 127,904 and Ottawa with 111,407.

Hamilton showed the greatest increase in average attendance, jumping 4,343 to 18,273 from 13,930. Despite a dismal season, average attendance at Toronto rose to 20,564 from 17,498—a boost of 3,065.

Jap Baseball Much Improved Says President

TOKYO (AP)—It's going to be tougher and tougher for visiting American baseball teams to beat Japanese teams in the future, says National League President Warren Giles, en route home after watching Brooklyn Dodgers lose three, tie one, and squeak past a couple more of the 13 games they have played so far against Japanese opponents.

"The improvement in Japanese baseball the past few years has greatly impressed me," Giles said Monday night.

Giles didn't go overboard, however. He said that in two games which the Dodgers lost, it was because the Dodgers "just weren't hitting a lick."

Senior Grid Records Broken In Unions

TORONTO (CP)—Two all-time senior Canadian football records and one Big Four mark were broken Saturday when the Big Four And Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union completed their regular schedules.

Billy Graham, brilliant halfback with Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen of the ORFU, scored 24 points in Detroit's 42-30 victory over Toronto Beaches to bring his 1956 point total to 157, an all-time Canadian high of 157.

Montreal's Pat Abbruzzi of the Big Four set the season's touchdown total to 20, an all-time record, and his points for the Big Four high.

Abbruzzi ended the regular season 42 points ahead of teammate Hal Patterson who had 78 points.

Don Sutherland of Ottawa Rough Riders was third with 58 points.

Matt Robillard of Sarnia Golden Bears and Bob Cullis of Toronto finished in a second-place tie in the ORFU with 42 points each—all behind Graham.

Ron Stewart of Queen's Golden Gaels had 6 onto his No. 1 spot in the Senior Intercollegiate scoring race with 30 points on five touchdowns. Frank Loftus of the University of Western Ontario Mustangs is second with 24.

Branigan Lost To Providence

PROVIDENCE R.I. (AP)—Veteran defenceman Andy Branigan, who has participated in more than 1,000 games for other teams, player in the American Hockey League for the Providence Reds, for at least seven weeks because of a leg injury.

Branigan has played in 756 American League games.

Quebec League

MONTREAL (CP)—Allan Teal of Quebec Aces moved into sole possession of first place among Quebec Hockey League scorers last week, the league's official statistics showed Monday. He has six goals and 10 assists for 16 points.

Kelly Burnett of Montreal Royals and Marcel Bonin of Quebec, tied with Teal, a week ago, are deadlocked for second place with 15 points.

Orval Tessier of Quebec, Greig Hicks of Chicoutimi and Andre Corriveau of Montreal follow with 13 points. Tessier and Hicks have each scored eight goals, highest in the league.

The fun is continuing tonight and Wednesday, matinee daily.

The Kibitzer

Times are when world champion bridge players look as if they can smell the cards held by their opponents. But they must have had clothespins on their noses in this deal number eight:

	NORTH
	♠A 5 3
	♥K 10 9 4
	♦Q 6 3
	♣K 9 5
WEST		EAST
♠K 10 8 6		♠2
♥J 5		♥K 7 6 3 2
♦10 9 7 5 2		♦A J 8
♣J 8		♣Q 10 7 6
	SOUTH
	♠Q J 9 7 4
	♥A 8
	♦4
	♣A 8 4 4 3

In room one the Swedish team sat north and south when the bids went like this:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 ♥	1 ♠
Pass	1 N-T.	Pass	2 ♣
Pass	3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠

Where the American team in room two sat north and south, this is how the bids were bid:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 ♥	1 ♠
Pass	2 N-T.	Pass	3 ♠
Pass	3 ♣	Pass	4 ♠

Not a great deal of difference in the way both teams reached a game in spades. Look for a peculiar quirk in the manner of the expression of values. But the results were the same.

In each room the opening lead from west was heart jack. In each room the north dummy played the queen. And in each room east refused to cover with the king.

The play from there varied in both rooms. But this is expected wherever there are a number of players who can select from. But in both rooms the contract was defeated two tricks.

What neither team realized until after the bidding ended was that west had a tough trump holding against their contract. Which is likely to defeat any correctly bid set of hands.

One thing the best players have not yet learned. That is how to see through the backs of the cards.

AT THE PARK — Dana Andrews and newcomer to Hollywood films from Latin-America, Linda Cristal have the leading roles in "Comancheros", United Artists' release which opens Thursday at the Park Theatre. This picture, filmed on location in Durango, Mexico, was shot in color and Cinemascope. On the same program is Technicolor "Star of India" starring Cornel Wilde. Both hits are first district showings.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Wednesday, November 7, 1956

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Use caution if you would avoid needless errors and get the most for this day's efforts. Don't be rash or arrogant and don't seek the unreasonable.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Advise to Aries could be helpful to you now. You can advance, some — at least in your occupation and other familiar activities — but don't be disappointed if quick or big returns are not forthcoming immediately.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — You may have to concentrate more than usual to put over clever, bright ideas now, but steady achievement is possible. Just do your best.

June 21 to July 23 (Cancer) — This should be a good day for management and planning —even if not wholly favorable for immediate or showy gains. There are some days which require that you be a self-starter rather than wait for a "push." This is one of them.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Patience, accuracy and faith are needed assets if you would solve immediate problems and plan properly for future action and accomplishment. The day's tasks can move smoothly; it's mostly up to you.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Heed advice to Gemini. Don't lose heart if you don't achieve aims quickly. Do things in your usual efficient manner but not with unwise pressure. Proper planning will get things moving briskly.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Familiar activities, domestic and other personal matters are favored now. Keys are not particularly stimulating but neither are they unfriendly. Much depends on you and what is expected of you.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — The position of Mars in your horoscope suggests that you eliminate red tape and get things done quickly. Fine results are possible now with your clever efforts.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Sensible caution in all things advised. This is no time for extremes, foolish daring in risking assets, income, etc. It can be a productive day but the slow, steady pace will pay off.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Your influences stress patience, calm judgment and a reasonable amount of optimism if you would get over and by barriers possible now. Avoid nervous anxiety; commonsense and cheerfulness will help you to achieve.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) —Your influences are similar to those of most of us now. Extra care, thoughtfulness and commonsense will be your aids. Don't overwork; don't worry.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Artistic and familiar pursuits may be more successful than mechanical and unusual matters now. Judge wisely when considering essentials and non-essentials.

You born today are strong in character, self-willed, very efficient (especially in emergencies) and usually have a charming and magnetic personality. You may be opinionated at times; this can cause others to lose sight of your finer qualities. In friendships and other associations be careful of a tendency to dominate. You have the ability, mental equipment and many talents needed to make marked success.

Birthdates: Marie Curie, co-discoverer of radium.

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma was opening her mail at breakfast, and she said to pop, William, some of these big corporations really go too far.

Maybe that's how they got so far as they have, pop said, and ma said, Here's a form from the Suddin Suds Company for me to fill out either one of 2 spaces. First, whether I am a user of Suddin Suds, and if so, why. And second, whether I am a former user, and if so, why I stopped. They have no right by the world to infringe on my privacy by practically ordering me to fill out such elaborate questionair, she said.

Then dont do it, pop said, and ma said, That's not as simple as it sounds. They've enclosed a stamped envelope for the reply, and it would hardly be honest to use the stamp for my personel use, she said.

Then tear the stamp up, pop said, and ma said, But that would be sheer waist. If everybody made a habit of destroying unused stamps the government would have to make a check to find out why so many stamps went out and so few came back, and the investigation would have to be paid for in higher taxes. Oh, here's something I didn't notice, at the bottom of the form. Well, that's a little diffrent, she said.

What's all that? pop said, and ma said, They offer 2 prizes of a thousand dollers, one for the best answer to each question. William, will you help me fill out a nice anser to why I stopped using Suddin Suds? I mean something that's not absilutely misleeding, without necessarilly explaining that Suddin Suds made my hands ruff and my eyes red, she said.

Pop saying he wouldn't, and he tore up the form so ma couldn't.

Egypt's government radio declared the Moscow radio had interrupted a broadcast to say the Soviet Union "reserves the right to act alone" in order to halt "aggression against Egypt."

APPEALS FOR HELP

Egypt also appealed to the world to help her with volunteers and arms.

Air raid warnings sounded in Cairo late the evening straight day and heavy explosions were reported east and northeast of the capital.

The Egyptian national news agency in a report from a correspondent in Port Said claimed that about 400 civilians were killed fighting the paratroopers who landed in the first assault. The correspondent said the population of the port streamed into the fighting to help Egypt" and "defend Port Said, "accepted early last night, were later rejected by the Egyptians on orders from Cairo."

A later dispatch said the commando troops "are now all ashore and joining up with the Allied forces which landed Monday." It added that the commandos were sent into action "in view of the Egyptian repudiation of the surrender agreement."

An earlier announcement said French paratroopers had completed the capture of Port Said, across from Port Said on the east bank of the canal.

BULGANIN BUSY

The British-French invasion for control of the Suez Canal began Monday with the dropping of parachutists around Port Said, and landings of ample numbers of marods for an end to hostilities against Egypt.

In a lengthy series of moves, Premier Bulganin called on President Eisenhower for U.S. ground State-s-Russian action under the United Nations to bring a halt to the fighting.

Declaring that the fighting "could in the gravest way endanger the third world war," Bulganin urged action "without delay."

The proposal for American-Soviet intervention drew a speedy rejection from the U.S. government as "unthinkable," and later the UN Security Council refused even to debate it.

It was thought this morning that the Russian premier would make a proposal to the General Assembly, meeting in emergency session in New York because of the Middle East crisis.

Bulganin also sent notes to Prime Minister Eden and French Premier Guy Mollet, urging a prompt end against further action against Egypt and saying Russia was determined to "re-establish peace" "by using force."

ROCKET REFERENCE

His messages included references to "more powerful states" and rocket warfare.

Here are the paragraphs from the message to Eden containing the rocket reference:

"In what position would Britain have found herself if the heroic" been attacked by more powerful states possessing every kind of modern destruction?

"And there are countries now which need not a navy or air force to come to the coasts of Britain, but could have used other means, for example, rocketry.

"If rocket weapons had been used against Britain, then Great Power would probably have called this a barbarous action."

The note to Eden concluded: "We hope at this critical moment you will display prudence and direct the corresponding conclusions from this."

RECALL AMBASSADOR

A note from Bulganin to Israel's Premier David Ben-Gurion also disclosed that Russia was recalling her ambassador from Tel Aviv.

Mollet met for four hours with his cabinet before dawn today, and a spokesman announced the operations in Egypt would continue. The French premier also planned to meet later today with Eden.

U.S. SHIPS SENT TO MEDITERRANEAN?

Ordered to break off a visit to the Netherlands, ships of the U.S. Atlantic Fleet's Sixth Task Force No. 8 have left for unrevealed destination, according to a Washington announcement. In the group is the aircraft carrier Antietam, shown taking on fuel when she was in Korean waters. As the result of the Israeli-Egyptian clash, there was speculation that the U.S. Navy vessels had been ordered to join the Sixth Fleet in the Eastern Mediterranean. (Central Press Canadian.)

Belgrade Heads Even Children Fight Russians

BELGRADE (AP) — Hungarian men, women and children threw themselves with renewed fury into heavy fighting against the Russians in stricken Budapest today, informed sources in this Yugoslav capital reported. The fighting was described as about as intense as it was in the first days of the Russian, anti-Communist revolt began Oct. 23.

Informants in President Tito's Independent Communist capital said extremely heavy firing lasted continuously throughout Monday and Monday night and rose in intensity in the daylight hours.

While there appeared to be no hope for the revolution now, there was, the sources said, a prospect that for some time to come Hungary would be in for a period of bitter guerrilla warfare waged by bisolous rebels from strongholds in the interior of the country.

In Budapest, women darted into the streets and threw grenades at Soviet tanks, reports from that capital said, and other women sniped at the Russians from the windows of buildings. Even children were seen handling weapons. The situation was described as one of utter confusion and chaos.

A conviction was growing here that there was little hope for the Russians at baysest - point from the premiership of the revolutionary government, has been liquidated.

U.S. WARNS

Some of the best-informed officials here thought the Russians had several purposes in embarking on the course which Bulganin outlined Monday in messages to Eisenhower, Prime Minister Eden French Premier Guy Mollet and Israeli Premier David Ben-Gurion.

These probable purposes were thought to include a determination to divert world attention to the Middle East and away from the Soviet Army's repressions of anti-Moscow revolts in Hungary; also, a desire to obtain for Soviet power a new role in the Middle East and a wish to demonstrate support for a newly independent country, Egypt, thereby capitalizing on the colonialism issue.

Eisenhower hammered hard on the Hungarian situation in his note to Bulganin, sent two days ago. He said he had been "inexpressibly shocked" by Russia's use of marcive military force to smash Hungary's effort to win freedom from Soviet domination.

The White House statement Monday said all countries should promptly "accept . . . in good faith" the UN resolution of Sunday calling for a Middle East cease-fire and the introduction of a UN force "to stabilize the situation, pending a settlement."

The statement then contained this key declaration:

"Neither Soviet nor any other military forces should now enter the Middle East area except under United Nations mandate. Any such action would be directly contrary to the present resolution of the United Nations which has called for the withdrawal of those foreign forces which are now in Egypt.

"The introduction of new forces under these circumstances would violate the United Nations charter, and it would be the duty of all United Nations members, including the United States, to oppose any such effort."

Mines Minister Requests Greater Share of Taxes

TORONTO (CP)—Mines Minister Kelly Monday night criticized federal government "thunderbuss" anti-inflation measures and demanded a greater provincial share of tax revenues.

In a CBC radio address carried by 12 Ontario stations, he had this to say about federal credit restrictions:

"There is no quarrel with sane, well-considered, sound measures to halt inflation. Perhaps such action was overdue.

"But there is objection to blunderbuss measures which may have the most disastrous effect on the economy of this province."

Mr. Kelly said Ontario's mining boom depends upon the influx of new capital. He asked: "Where are our mine developers going to find it in the light of the present tight money restrictions?"

MONEY MARKETS TIGHT

The credit curbs are also hurting municipalities who must borrow to finance major projects, he said. "As a result of Ottawa direction our municipal bodies find the money markets closed or they find they can borrow only at inordinate rates of interest."

Not only municipalities but also the provincial government and the whole country are hard hit by the federal tax demands, said Mr. Kelly.

The text of Mr. Kelly's speech was released to the press in advance of delivery.

Clifford Ayles Dies on Gallows At Saint John

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Clifford Edward Ayles, died on the gallows early today for the murder of Allison Graves in a payroll holdup last year.

The federal justice department refused Monday to intervene in his sentence.

The 26-year-old native of Athelville, N.B., lost his last court battle Oct. 25 when the Supreme Court of Canada refused to grant leave to appeal his conviction.

He was convicted of murdering Graves, 47-year-old chauffeur for the Saint John Tuberculosis Hospital, Graves died of multiple knife wounds. The hospital business manager, Harold W. Cunningham, 64, was shot in the neck and same close to death.

Mr. Cunningham at the trial identified Ayles as the man who forced his way into a hospital truck in Saint John Oct. 20 last year, Graves was ordered at pistol point to drive to a lonely road where the knifing and shooting occurred.

The assailant escaped with $11,150 in payroll funds and bonds. Ayles, a patient in the tuberculosis hospital and a former engineering student of three Maritime Provinces universities, was arrested Dec. 3 in a tavern at Phoenix, Arizona.

Farmer's Right Under Pipelines Act Studied

TORONTO (CP) — The annual session of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture opens today with its 400 delegates scheduled to hear resolutions on the farmer's rights in relation to the Pipelines Act.

One resolution calls for an amendment to the Pipelines Act to give farmers more protection and more freedom of decision in settling terms under which land may be acquired for gas and oil pipelines.

The federation will also ask its members to approve a joint provincial-country publicity program aimed at informing farmers as to whether they should sign contracts being offered by various companies for property rights for pipelines.

Other resolutions include a request to the federal government to set up a commission to study the spread between wholesale and retail prices of agricultural products and a request for extension of research facilities at the economics department of the Ontario Agricultural College.

QUEEN APPEALS

As the new session opened here, a cabinet spokesman in Paris said French Premier Guy Mollet and Eden would meet "within hours" to discuss the Middle East.

Both governments called special meetings following the notes by Bulganin threatening to use force because of the Anglo-French attacks on Egypt.

The Russian warning created a sensation in the British press, but there was no immediate official comment. Eden summoned his cabinet to a special meeting in advance of the opening of the new session.

The speech from the throne included reference to issues which —in normal times—might have been regarded as vital but which paled into insignificance today in the shadow of the war threat.

The speech said the government plans to submit legislation during this session "for reforming the composition of the House of Lords." There was no elaboration of this point, but there were indications in government circles that the Eden regime might withdraw voting powers in the Upper House from peers who fail to attend its sessions regularly.

A reform in the "composition" could also mean that women might be allowed to sit in the House for the first time in history. Twenty-four women are peers in their own right, through having inherited titles, but lack any representation in the House.

"My ministers will bring forward proposals to amend the law of homicide" and to limit the scope of capital punishment," the speech added.

The exact nature of the proposals was not disclosed. It appeared likely that the government's plans have not yet been finally drawn.

A bill introduced by the Labor party abolishing capital punishment was passed by the House of Commons but killed by the Lords.

"Orders-in-council will be laid before you to provide for the constitution of the new British Caribbean federation," the speech said without elaboration. Plans for the new Caribbean federation, which will have Dominion status, have already been agreed to.

"My ministers, while fostering the traditional and established Commonwealth preferential system, attach great importance to increasing and strengthening economic co-operation in Europe," the speech went on.

"To this end they are examining possible methods for creating in Europe an area within which restrictions on the free exchange of goods, other than foodstuffs, would be progressively removed."

Eden Reports 'Some Shooting' Despite Truce

No Official Word Egypt Has Accepted Cease-Fire

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Eden told the Commons this afternoon that there had been "some shooting" in the Port Said area today despite the cease-fire call in Egypt, and added that he had not yet received any official confirmation that Egypt had accepted the United Nations order.

Eden's statement was in answer to a question by Labor leader Hugh Gaitskell, who asked if cease-fire conditions did or did not exist.

Eden said he did not want to place much emphasis on the seriousness of the shooting in Port Said today—He gave no details.

Almost as he spoke, Cairo radio was heard in a claim that Anglo-French forces had "encircled" Port Said and were continuing their attacks."

Eden repeated an assurance he gave Tuesday: That Britain and France "have not the slightest intention" of moving from the positions they forces had taken up by midnight Tuesday.

He indicated that as far as the Anglo-French forces were concerned, it was a case of "no cease fire stands, unless the troops of the two countries are attacked.

Joseph Grimond, Liberal party leader, asked whether the prime minister had any information about rumors of further threats of aggression by Russia.

Eden said: "I think, on reflection, I would rather not say anything more about this matter just soon. One has to bear in mind whether what one says is helpful or otherwise, and I think I would rather say nothing at the moment."

Eden, whose voice sounded hoarse and who looked tired, gave no clue as to the action Britain intends to take towards the various resolutions confirmed the UN General Assembly in regard to the Middle East emergency.

He said he could not do so because consultations were still going on urgently with the United States, France and the countries of the Commonwealth.

Before the prime minister spoke, Fuel Minister Aubrey Jones told the House of Commons panics in Britain have been instructed to reduce their deliveries to customers by 10 per cent in a move to conserve dwindling supplies from the Middle East. He hoped consumer co-operation would result in saving of rationing machinery.

Many newspapers commented on the possibility of gasoline rationing but the ministry said that it would be wrong to assume at this stage that rationing is imminent.

It was learned today that the Duke of Edinburgh had advised the Queen and the government on the advisability of his returning home in view of the international situation. But both the Queen and the government were reported to have told him they are anxious that he should continue his visits to Australia and New Zealand. The duke is at present in the royal yacht Britannia, off the south coast of New Caledonia sailing for Port Moresby, where he is due Friday.

British reaction to the cease-fire announcement ranged between Socialist claims that it meant a "climb down" for Eden and conservative views that it meant success for his Middle East policy.

These attitudes were mirrored in today's papers, which however are unanimous in welcoming the cease-fire.

THE WEATHER

This cooler, drier air will result in mainly sunny skies over Southern Ontario today, with frost in Central and Northern Ontario tonight.

LOSS $50,000 IN KING EDWARD FIRE AT TORONTO

Two Persons Injured By Two-Hour Blaze

TORONTO (CP) — Two persons were injured and $50,000 worth of damage caused when fire swept through a sixth-floor corridor in the downtown King Edward Hotel.

It lasted two hours and drove more than 200 guests from their rooms.

A fireman said the fire probably started from a cigaret butt dropped among some new furniture being wrapped in cardboard. It was accelerated by a fresh coat of paint in the hallways.

Injured were Mrs. Grace Irwen, 58, of Detroit, who suffered face, hand and leg burns, and Chris Pate, 36, of Hollywood, Calif., suffered from shock.

The blaze was discovered shortly before dawn. Firemen said damage was confined mainly to the corridor with some smoke damage to the rooms.

It was reported police and firemen were pressed to quell first signs of panic among guests, some of whom knotted bed sheets together ready to attempt escape by windows.

The hotel, second largest in Toronto, is located on Yonge-King Street at Victoria Street.

USE AERIAL LADDERS

Two aerial ladders were finally brought into play to reach the upper floors of the hotel, carrying hoses and firemen to the roof. Then they were made ready for the evacuation of guests. This, however, proved to be unnecessary.

The first alarm was given at 3:31 a.m. and the second four minutes later. At one point, about 800 guests were milling about in the hotel's lobby.

F. W. K. Smith and J. R. Sanderson, both of Kitchener, were in a room on the floor where the fire started. They said "we smelled smoke and just stayed in our room until firemen came and got us. As far as we saw there was no panic."

YOUNGEST GUESTS

Youngest to escape the blaze were believed to be the three children of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jewett of Timmins. Jewett smelled smoke and awakened her husband. Mrs. Jewett and Carol Ann, 1½, Sandra, 4, and Debbie, 6.

They said they stayed in their room until smoke became thicker and then took a freight elevator to the ground floor.

Red Satellites Offer Troops For UN Force

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — Two Soviet satellites, Romania and Bulgaria, have offered help to contribute troops to the international force which Dag Hammarskjold, UN Secretary-General, hopes to rush to the Middle East to police the battle area.

This was disclosed as the General Assembly met in the first of two emergency sessions requested by the duty to deal with the Middle East crisis and Soviet military interference in Hungarian affairs.

The major task of the assembly's morning meeting was to speed approval of the UN force and start it moving.

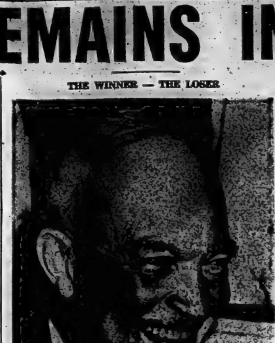
Eisenhower's Election Sends Market Climbing

NEW YORK (AP)—Wall Street responded to President Eisenhower's re-election today with a spirited rally that sent Soviet rails and key issues up as much as $2 a share.

Activity was brisk from the start, and the market's upward surge had appreciable moments after the opening gong.

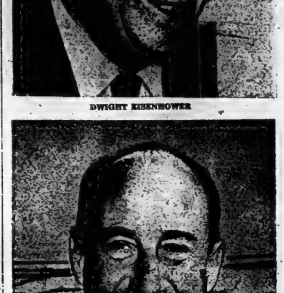
Manchester Guardian Says Canada Assumes Commonwealth Leadership

LONDON (CP)—The Manchester Guardian says Canada has "frankly taken over" the moral leadership of the Commonwealth from Britain during the Middle East crisis.



It says she did so by proposing a United Nations force "without waiting for Britain to agree to it," at a time when British policies were "confused, desperate and close" to forfeiting the confidence of Commonwealth countries.

The Independent Liberal newspaper, which has consistently opposed the Anglo-French-Israeli Middle East policy, reviews the position of each Commonwealth country in turn, and says Canada alone escaped destroying the association only if "we are ready to sit down with our friends and talk with the candor, patience and humility which should always obtain between members of the Commonwealth and which we have for a time relinquished."



Canada's efforts at mediation in the United Nations have been severely forced to briefly by other British newspapers during the crisis, unfavorably with approval or non-committally.

The new leader of Britain's small Liberal party, Joseph Grimmond, has several times referred to the House of Commons to Canada's "sensible" United Nations resolutions, and Tuesday night said in a radio broadcast that Canada had in effect saved Britain's bacon.

Hungarians Still Fighting Overwhelming Soviet Forces

VIENNA (AP) — Reports of continuing bitter fighting by Hungarians against overwhelming Soviet forces still seeped out of Budapest today.

An Italian newspaper claimed it had succeeded in establishing brief contact with a rebel radio transmitter in the battered Hungarian capital and was informed that fighting still raged.

A diplomatic source in Vienna said he had received information that the rebellion was continuing in several sections of Budapest and other parts of Hungary.

Milan's Catholic newspaper Italia said it had received a rebel radio message saying Budapest was still a scene of battle, with many Soviet tanks and artillery weapons shelling parts of the town. The report said resistance centred in the capital's districts of Transtadt and Kelenye.

The Bavarian radio network at Munich quoted a rebel radio broadcast as saying Dunapentele still was in the hands of the insurgents.

Russian tanks and troops launched their attack Sunday to put out the Hungarian bid for independence. All telephone and telegraph communications between Vienna and Budapest still were cut today. A similar communications blackout covered neighboring Romania.

Radio Budapest, voice of the new Soviet - installed Hungarian government, Tuesday night broadcast a pledge of "eternal friendship" with the Soviet Union, on the 39th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution.

Radio Budapest also turned down Western offers of relief supplies, saying "our pride forbids us to accept the imperialist aid." It said assistance was pouring in from Russia and that Romania had promised to send building materials, foods and medicines.

Radio Pecs, a station in Southwestern Hungary now held by the Russians, called for assistance of the population in disarming rebel bands. The Soviet commander there said Russian guns would be turned on any house from which rebels were firing.

Radio Free Europe quoted a broadcast from Rakoczy radio, a rebel transmitter in Southwest Hungary, as saying:

"The Russians demand that we lay down our arms. We won't do it, and if it is necessary we will fight to our last drop of blood."

Other information reaching Vienna said Soviet troops had fired on the Yugoslav legation in Budapest, killing a young diplomat and wounding several members of the legation staff.

A foreign ministry official in New Delhi said Russia's Premier Bulganin had replied to Prime Minister Nehru's message expressing India's concern at developments in Hungary. He said Bulganin blamed "foreign influences" for the Hungarian uprising.

UN headquarters announced that European countries have offered temporary asylum to refugees from Hungary, reporting that an appeal from the UN refugee office in Geneva. The statement said Belgium would take 4,000, Switzerland 2,000, Sweden and The Netherlands 1000 each and France any who wish to go there.

In Ottawa, Canada said it would give priority to refugees from Hungary to enter the country as immigrants.

CHEERING CROWD HEARS PRESIDENT MAKE PLEDGE

Says He Will Work For Peace in World

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower, jubilant over a smashing re-election victory, says he will work with all his strength for "Americans here at home and for peace in the world."

A tumultuous ovation greeted Eisenhower as he appeared at a post-midnight victory rally a few minutes after his opponent, Adlai Stevenson, conceded defeat and sent Eisenhower "warm congratulations."

The 66-year-old president had scored a great triumph, in a career marked by triumphs, by rolling up a sweeping victory over Stevenson than he did in 1952.

His victory hall was made to a wildly cheering crowd of about 2,000 party faithful and to a television and radio audience of millions throughout the continent.

MAKES A PLEDGE

He said he wanted to make a pledge and then went on to say:

"With whatever talents the good God has given me and with whatever strength there is in me, I will continue to work with my associates—to do just one thing: to work for 168,000,000 Americans here at home and for peace in the world."

The president's pledge to continue working for a lasting world peace—the central theme of his campaign—served to underscore the precarious international picture.

Even as he received election returns Tuesday night, Eisenhower kept close watch on overseas developments. About midnight the White House announced that Eisenhower had just received a "very friendly and encouraging" message from French Premier Mollet regarding efforts to halt the shooting in Egypt. That detailed contents of the message were not made public.

JOYOUS SHOUTS

When word of Stevenson's concession reached the crowd, a joyous shout went up. A few minutes later Eisenhower and his party appeared.

Time and again he stepped forward on the stage to acknowledge the applause and cheers. Time aand again both arms went above his head, outstretched in his familiar campaign salute.

At his side was Mrs. Eisenhowers' son and daughter-in-law, and Mrs. Eisenhower's mother.

Nixon, Eisenhower's running-mate, called the election result "a tremendous vote of confidence in Eisenhower's first term and his Republican administration's policies.

With Cards Stacked Against Him, Stevenson Played Bad Hand Poorly

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Adlai Stevenson had some cards stacked against him from the start, but he didn't make the most of the cards he held.

Former president Truman said at the Democratic convention last August that Stevenson was a no loser. This was not quite correct. Stevenson fought as hard as he could, but with what cards the trouble was he really didn't know how.

This was a personal defeat for Stevenson, not for the Democratic party. He won't be the party leader as the close contest between Democrats and Republicans for control of Congress showed.

Perhaps another man, better able to get his ideas across, might have done better than Stevenson. Perhaps not.

Because of the peace and prosperity under President Eisenhower, Stevenson had no issue on which he could base a campaign for change. Stevenson's job was to show a change was needed. He didn't do that across to the voters.

Because people were content, the issues were thin. But they were thin for another reason, too: Democrats and Republicans basically have the same views on domestic and foreign problems and their solutions.

This meant Stevenson had to strain to point up any differences. The strain showed. At times he seemed to be hunting hard to find an issue. For example: His proposal for a test ban, November 5th, at 8 o'clock, in the Community Hall, Frankford. Free will offering for the Blishen homes of the aged.

Defeats Stevenson By Greater Margin Than In 1952

Democrats Will Most Likely Control Senate and House

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP)—For the second time in four years, the United States has called on Dwight Eisenhower to serve as its president in a war-threatened world.

Voters in all parts of the country rallied behind the popular president in Wednesday's election, giving him a personal triumph over his Democratic challenger, Adlai Stevenson, that apparently exceeded his landslide victory over the former Illinois governor in 1952.

With close to three-quarters of the ballots counted overnight, the Republican president's lead extended to 41 states controlling 457 of the 531 votes in the Electoral College. Stevenson led in seven states with 74 electoral votes. Four years ago Eisenhower's electoral margin was 442 to 89.

LOST TWO

Of the nine southern and southbordering states Stevenson won in 1952, the Democratic nominee appeared to have lost two—Louisiana and Kentucky — without making any inroads on the president's solid holdings in other parts of the country.

And, contrary to widespread predictions, the popular vote swung even more strongly to the president. The overnight count showed the president receiving 57.8 per cent of the ballots, compared to the 55.4 per cent he won in 1952.

It was an impressive personal victory for the president, pointed up by the relatively poor showing of his fellow-Republicans bidding for lesser offices.

Four years ago they had captured control of both the Senate and House of Representatives and elected a majority of state governors. Losing congressional control and several governorships in the 1954 off-year elections, they failed to push their losses significantly Wednesday.

KEEP CONTROL

The Democrats, holding a 49-to-47 margin in the outgoing Senate, appeared certain to keep control as they held their own in the 35 contests and threatened to pick up a seat or two.

And in the House of Representatives, which Democrats have controlled 232 to 203, they seemed to be assured of virtually the same margin.

Modern New Library for City Advocated by Ont. Director

The building of a modern new library in Belleville was recommended by Angus Mowat, director of Public Library Service for Ontario. In his appraisal of local library facilities, Mr. Mowat said "Great strides have been made in library service in the past five years. The board is keen, the leadership of Chief Librarian, Miss Olive Delaney, is excellent, book selection is good and public use of the library is increasing at an almost startling rate."

The Toronto director, however, regretted that the service is hampered terribly by the purely physical aspects of the building in which it is housed.

In noting the example of other cities, Mr. Mowat observed "Four and a half million dollars have been spent on the renovation and remodelling of libraries in the past eight years. The modernization of obsolete libraries is a cultural responsibility and a sign we are becoming an adult people. It is high time something is done in Belleville."

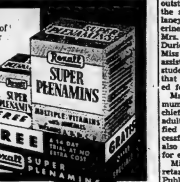
Mr. Mowat's three alternative suggestions include "the building of a split-level addition to the south of the town, with the present leaving the children's service in the present building; removal of the present building and replacement with a modern functional one; or sale of the present building and property and put up a new library on some other site.

BUILD ONE WING

"If the first plan is followed," Mr. Mowat continued, "I suggest that a completely new building be designed for the present property but only one wing be built at present attached to the old building, so that in the course of time the old building can come down and the new wing become part of the new modern structure. In other words, the need will require a complete overall plan on paper, even if only part of the structure can be accomplished."

As an example of the library investments made by many of the small cities of Ontario, Mr. Mowat noted that the mine workers and lumbermen town of Sudbury had contributed $450,000 for their modern library.

In addition to recommending enlarged physical facilities, Mr. Mowat advocated the need of an enlarged staff paid salaries commensurate with those presently received in other cities of comparable size with Class B certification.



Mr. Mowat paid tribute to the outstanding service rendered by the staff members, Miss Olive Delaney, chief librarian; Miss Athelaine Kelley, senior assistant; Mrs. Andrew Hope, Miss Wilma Davis, senior clerical assistant; Miss Colleen Lowe, junior clerical assistant, and part time adult and student assistants. He emphasized that "the staff is still short staffed for the task in hand."

Mr. Mowat defined the minimum staff requirement as "the chief librarian, two senior adult work and one fully qualified children's librarian with successful experience both in the reading facilities sought by the public and serving as a cultural centre."

CLAIMS 5,000 PRISONERS

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel claimed Tuesday it had 5,000 Egyptians were taken prisoner in the Sinai - Gaza Strip campaign while only 20 Israelis fell into Egyptian hands. An Israeli government announcement said 150 Israelis were killed in the fighting. It did not give Egyptian casualties.

V.O.N. One Agency to Benefit From Community Chest Drive

There are seven local agencies that will benefit from the $35,000 objective of the 1956 Belleville Community Chest campaign. One of these organizations is the local branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses, which makes its headquarters in the Kiwanis Centre on Dundas Street.

The Belleville branch has three full-time nurses and one relief. Miss Dorothy Conner, her sister Grace, and Theresa Callaghan are the regular nurses and Mrs. Ethel Neal is called in when extra help get too heavy.

In 1955 the Belleville V. O. N. branch made 3,547 home visits to 218 surgical and medical patients; 1,591 visits to 319 maternity and newborn cases; 217 instruction visits to diabetic patients and also 297 post-natal instruction visits; and 183 other health supervision visits to 51 cases. The grand total for 1955 was 4,945 visits to 469 cases, an increase of 119 visits and 18 cases over the previous year.

Of the total number of visits, 1,104 or 22.3 per cent, were for pay payment for 3,145 visits to 219 patients; no payment for 1,261 visits to 246 other cases. There were 233 visits paid by the Department of Veterans' Affairs for four patients.

The Victorian Order of Nurses for Canada was established by Royal Charter in 1897 and is the only private professional home nursing service with branches from coast to coast. The national office is located in Ottawa.

The Victorian Order Nurse will call at the home of any sick person in the community. She works under the direction of the family physician and makes her visits daily or frequently depending on the needs of the patient and the physician's instructions.

Fees are based on actual costs, but adjustment is made in each case to suit the circumstances of the family. When necessary, the fee is waived. The V. O. N. motto tells in a nut shell who can benefit by her service. "Without fee or regardless of race, color, creed or financial status."

There are over 525 Victorian Order nurses in Canada. All are graduates of accredited training schools. Nurses are given for additional postgraduate training in public health nursing and all nurses are registered in the province in which they are employed.

CONDUCTS CONFERENCES

In some centres the V.O.N. conducts child health conferences, blood pressure examination clinics and provides school nursing service, generalized industrial nursing and expectant mothers' classes. In Belleville, the V.O.N. Branch conducts the Department of Health at the weekly child health conference at the Kiwanis Centre and visits Canniffon-Corbyville School every two years and Bird's Rosary School each week. Instruction to expectant mothers is a part of their everyday work.

Medical and surgical patients include those who require special treatments, dressings, compresses or injections ordered by the family doctor. A Victorian Order nurse is qualified and willing to help those with chronic illness. Those returning home from hospital after an operation or acute illness can be helped over the convalescent period by a member of the V.O.N.

Patients suffering from chronic illness like diabetes, cancer, rheumatism, arthritis or ailments of old age are often happiest at home, where they can receive V.O.N. care.

The service includes maternity instruction before the baby arrives, attendance at home confinements and after-care of the mother and baby. If the baby is born in hospital, the nurse may be called on the mother's return home to demonstrate bathing the baby, to discuss problems of the child's routine and to render any additional care which may be needed.

If the Belleville V.O.N. branch is to continue to give such unselfish and excellent service to the sick in this community they must have your financial support. When a canvasser calls at your door on the night of Monday, November 19, just remember that some day you may require a Victorian Order nurse at your home.

Police Blotter

Theft of 3,000 rounds of .22 calibre ammunition from the Sea Cadet Barracks is being investigated by city police. Entry to the barracks was gained through a rear window which was found broken, following which the intruders smashed a lock on a storeroom door.

City police received a compassionate message from Toronto police asking them to contact relatives of James Little, of Hillcrest or North Park street, whom they said was a patient at St. Michael's Hospital a victim of amnesia.

Provincial police reported the arrest of Frank Quinlin, R. R. 2, Frankford, on a charge of common assault. Quinlin was today remanded before a justice of the peace for court appearance on Thursday.

Witness Appeals Decision of Superior Court

QUEBEC (CP)—Seven judges of the Quebec Court of Appeals Wednesday took under an advisement an appeal by a member of the Jehovah's Witnesses sect to enable his two children to attend a Roman Catholic school without obligation to receive religious instruction.

The appeal was filed by Cajetan Chabot, whose two children were expelled from the Catholic Protestant school in Lamoraindière township, near Amos in Northwestern Quebec, after they refused to take part in religious exercises.

Chabot went to Superior Court in Amos asking that his children be re-admitted to the school and be exempt from the religious studies. Judge Fernand Choquette ruled the school commissioner correctly expelled the children for refusing to take a subject prescribed by the curriculum and dismissed the action.

BOARD FOR MAJORITY

Quebec school law says that in any school district, the religious majority, whether Protestant or Roman Catholic, forms a school board. A dissenting board may be set up by any religious minority group who would then pay taxes to their own board.

If there is no dissenting board, then all people in the area pay taxes to the majority board which must provide education for all children regardless of faith. Chabot, in Lamoraindière, there is a Roman Catholic majority board and only one school in the township.

Lawyer Glen How of Toronto, counsel with Samuel Bard for Chabot, said in forcing the children to take Roman Catholic religious studies in order to attend this school was an infringement on the religious freedom of the Witnesses. It was not within the provincial government's power to destroy freedom of religion, he said.

SAYS HAS POWER

Montreal lawyer Lucien Tremblay, counsel for the Quebec attorney-general's department, said the province has the power to enact laws governing the education system and that the laws under which the children were expelled are valid.

Mr. Tremblay said both the provincial and federal governments make and enforce laws affecting an individual's freedom of religion. Polygamy was forbidden by law but considered proper under some religions.

Israeli Forces Celebrate With Victory Parade

SHERM el SHEIKH, Sinai Peninsula (Reuters)—Israeli forces Tuesday celebrated with a victory parade on a desert battleground at the southern tip of the Sinai Peninsula.

Maj. Moshe Dayan, Israeli commander-in-chief, reviewed the parade which marked the end of one week of war with Egypt and the reopening of the Gulf of Aqaba to Israeli shipping.

Dayan read a message from Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion to officers and men of the 39th Brigade who last Thursday captured Sherm el Sheikh and Ras Nasrani, where the Egyptians had placed heavy coastal artillery to block Israeli shipping in and out of the gulf.

Ben - Gurion's message said: "These have been the most glorious days in the history of our people. All the Sinai Peninsula and the Gaza Strip are occupied by our forces.

"We can sing again the song of Moses, 'who said 'All our enemies wanted to destroy us, but with the help of God we succeeded.'"

MORE EGYPTIANS

Dayan said: "In one week we have broken the might of Egyptian forces on land in Sinai and also in the air and on the seas. We have destroyed three enemy divisions and their supporting armor. During all this operation we have lost only 20 prisoners as against thousands and thousands of Egyptian soldiers now in our hands.

"We owe the battle but we are not intoxicated by our victory. Neither are we tired. On the contrary, we are full of vigor to face future encounters."

FROM ADVANCED LINES

Earlier Tuesday, I looked down from Israeli advance lines in the Sinai Desert on the domes and rooftops of the Suez Canal operation centre and barracks, silhouetted against the dull red glow of fires apparently started by British and French bombs.

Lazy black columns of smoke curled upwards from the burning gleaming white buildings.

Lake Timsah, through which canal shipping passes, appeared to be only a few hundred yards away. A young Israeli lieutenant pointed out a dark brown smudge among the rocks and scrub in the distance on the far land.

"Egyptians," he said and then, to illustrate his point, stood up briefly. There was a whine, he ducked overboard as the officer dropped down again.

"Lousy shots," he said.

The Belleville Bantam League wound up its affairs for this year last Saturday afternoon when the Canadian Legion won the final game of the knock-out competition when they walloped Arsenal by nine goals to one. To be fair, however, it must be reported that were understrength due to several boys on the team being in class required to play basketball that afternoon.

Everett Keller and John Lewis with three goals each led the parade with Dick Thompson bagging two and Don Defoe with one account for the Legion goal while Bruce Osborne was the lone Arsenal counter.

Members of the winning Legion team were: Meens, Hannah, Bristol, Sopka, Zackos, Archer, Seames, Lewis, Thompson, Defoe, E. Keller. Incidentally, the Legion also won the league competition.

In the morning Legion ousted Athletics in the semi-final while Arsenal edged out United.

Belleville Juveniles lost their first game in the Bay of Quinte Juvenile League when Napanee Collegiate beat them by three goals to nothing.

In senior circles the newly formed Campbellford club edged out Belleville Northern in Campbellford by two goals to one. Bill Salter was the Belleville marksman.

The world may think we've forgotten, But to heaven you ascended; Memories are sacred, In our hearts we hold a picture, Which no one can ever take away. And as each day goes passing by We think of you in silent prayer, There is no way to forget you, Your memory we have left, Sadly missed by wife, Ruth and Ross. But someday we'll meet again, Then part we shall never, Until then our work is over And our race well run, Our crowns laid down at Jesus' feet We'll be together forever. — Loving remembered by brother Roy, wife Bertha and family, Toronto.

MOSES. — In loving memory of our dear nephew, Bill Moses, who died November 8th, 1954. Sad and sudden was the call, And hard to bear the pain, Million miles from you he may be, But in our hearts he will remain. — Sadly missed by Aunt Frances, Uncle George, Betty and Tommy.

VINN. — In loving memory of my dear husband, Fred Vinn, who was killed November 7th, 1953.

Sweet memories are all I have, Dear thoughts I hold so true, Sad and sudden was the call, And how I miss his voice and see his smile no one will ever know.

— Ever remembered by Grandmother Vinn, Mother, Brothers, Sisters and Eunice and June.

YORK. — In loving memory of our dear brother, Cecil York, who was killed in action November 8th, 1944. Beautiful memories are all we have left.

Of him we loved dearly and died a hero's death.

His loving smile will never fade, His cheerful ways we can never forget, His memory we will always keep, So sadden on earth the sorrow and pain, Our loved one sleeps, God has taken his soul to heaven to gain.

Death leaves a heartache nothing can heal,
Memories remembered by sister Ruth and brother Cecil.

YORK. — In loving memory of our dear son, Cecil York, who was killed in action November 8th, 1944.

Beautiful memories are all we have left.

Of him we loved dearly and died a hero's death.

His loving smile will never fade, His cheerful ways we can never forget, His memory we will always keep, So sadden on earth the sorrow and pain, Our loved one sleeps, God has taken his soul to heaven to gain.

Death leaves a heartache nothing can heal,
Memories remembered by sister Ruth and brother Cecil.

YORK. — In loving memory of our dear son, Cecil York, who was killed in action November 8th, 1944.

Lovers softly fading, bright memories left behind,
Bring memories dear, our hearts to cheer, dear memories kind.

Though our dear son's grave never sees flowers,
Gone to that land of heavenly bliss, Where the Angels guard his sleeping place.

Though dead in this life, our absence daily prayer,
Is to meet in God our son, in heaven we know is there.

Too deeply loved, though mean many years,
We will always remember your memory dear.

—Mother and Dad.

ALYEA. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Arthur Percy Alyea, who passed away two years ago today, November 7, 1954.

A special place for you,
And they in my heart to live,
As you would want them to,
And I know you may find you,
In heaven with God's saints to dwell,
I will stand once more beside you,
When God calls me home.
You are where I cannot see you,
Where your voice I cannot hear,
Yet I know you will be waiting,
To welcome me when I appear.
— Forever loving and remembered by wife, Sonia Jack, Rex and families.

Welfare Minister Wants Pension Scheme Widened

TORONTO (CP)—Welfare Minister Cecile of Ontario said Tuesday he has proposed that the federal government widen the scope of the federal-provincial old age assistance scheme by raising the maximum income allowed those assisted and decreasing the time the assisted must have been living in Canada.

The minister said in an interview that a recent meeting in Ottawa, he suggested the income limit be raised to $840 from $720 for single persons and to $1,320 from $1,200 for couples.

Old age assistance benefits, unlike pensions, are granted to those between 65 and 70 only after a means test. The new ceiling would allow persons to have an income of $30 a month as well as the $40 a month benefit.

This would affect a substantial number of persons in Ontario" Mr. Cecile said. There are at present 21,000 persons receiving the benefit in the province.

The other proposal, which would allow many immigrants to be included in the plan is that length of residence in Canada be reduced to 10 years from 20 years.

Ontario also made suggestions to the Dominion-provincial conference on immigration to give provincial administrators more freedom of action in doubtful cases and asked that the definition of a totally and permanently disabled person be broadened in order to take in those who have been receiving assistance from municipalities.

Canada's minister for internal affairs, Lester B. Pearson, left, addressing an emergency session of the United Nations General Assembly in New York, proposes immediate establishment of a United Nations police force to secure and supervise cessation of hostilities between Israel and Egypt. At right, U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge urged establishment of special U.N. committees to help peace and reopen Suez canal as an international waterway. The Canadian proposal, in its present form is not acceptable to Britain. (Central Press Canadian).

Suslov Calls on UN to Stop Military Action

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Mikhail Suslov, one of the Soviet Communist party's leading theoreticians, told a mass meeting here Tuesday that the United States' "can and must force the aggressors to stop military action against Egypt."

Suslov, who was making the key-note speech at an October Revolution anniversary meeting, was warmly applauded when he said the Soviet government had demanded the immediate use of sanctions against "the aggressors."

But it was when Suslov (one of the party's secretaries) spoke with pride of Hungary—"Hungary was, is and will be a Socialist state"—that the crowd of 15,000 broke into the loudest applause of the meeting.

Contrary to custom, the British, French and American ambassadors did not attend the meeting. They also decided to boycott today's anniversary celebrations in Moscow's Red Square because of Soviet intervention in Hungary.

Suslov said everybody could see that the Israeli attack was "inspired" by Britain and France. He said militarist circles in Britain and France had organized the armed intervention against Egypt and "challenged the cause of peace."

SEES VICTORY

Suslov, one of the Kremlin's 10 leaders, saw the final victory of socialism throughout the world is "fully ensured."

"Now there is no doubt as to the final outcome of the struggle."

Sunday, Khrushchev and Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev and a member of the Presidium, spoke at the newly-built giant Lenin sports stadium in Moscow.

His address was made in the presence of Khrushchev and other Russian leaders. It was made two hours before the announcement that Britain and France had agreed to a cease-fire in Egypt.

Democrat Wins Senate Seat In Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Democratic Governor Frank J. Lausche won the late Robert A. Taft's old United States Senate seat, handing a Republican sweep in Ohio for President Eisenhower and most state offices.

Unofficial returns indicated that Eisenhower would win Ohio's 25 electoral votes by more than his half-million margin of 1952.

Lausche defeated incumbent Senator George H. Bender, who carried endorsement of the president.

Republican Attorney-General C. William O'Neill trounced Democrat Michael V. DiSalle in the race for governor.

Britain Orders Cut in Oil, Gas Consumption

LONDON (AP)—Britain today ordered an immediate 10-per-cent reduction in domestic oil and gas-oline consumption to space out diminishing supplies from the turbulent Middle East.

Fuel Minister Aubrey Jones announced the decision in the House of Commons. He warned that a full rationing system would be introduced if there were undue delays clearing the Suez Canal and getting damaged Middle East pipelines functioning again.

He added that Britain now is making "considerable purchases" of oil in the United States with dollars.

Police Describe Prison Suicide As 'Clever'

MONTREAL (CP) — Police Tuesday described the prison suicide of 17-year-old boy, who drew a two-year sentence when he was 13, as the "cleverest" in their recollection.

Montreal lawyer Claude Denis flayed a "system that sends a boy to penitentiary at the age of 12" with the result that at the age of 17 he destroys himself with a cleverness that could only have been acquired in that same institution."

Sobbing, the father, who has eight other children, told coroner's court the boy was "never the same" after his two-year sentence for a street assault with a knife.

The inquest returned a verdict of "suicide while of unsound mind."

Police said the boy, who had been held for social welfare reasons on suspicion of immoral conduct, was found hanged Sunday morning with his feet and hands tied. He used a bed sheet and his belt.

They said in answer to a question that belts are taken only from prisoners suspected or convicted of murder.

Democrats Edge Toward Control Of U.S. Senate

WASHINGTON (CP) — The Democrats, badly beaten in the contest for the presidency, moved steadily forward control of the Senate today.

With late returns from Tuesday's election still trickling in, they held 47 seats to the Republicans' 45 in the 96-seat body and held the lead in the four remaining contest.

Republicans needed to overturn at least two of the outstanding races to gain the 48-to-48 deadlock they needed to win control with the help of the tie-breaking vote of Vice-President Nixon, the Senate's presiding officer.

But their prospects appeared bleak.

FOUR STATES UNDECIDED

The four undecided seats were in Oregon, Kentucky, Nevada and North Dakota. None of the trailing Republicans appeared to be making much headway in the slow counting.

In Oregon, where President Eisenhower and his Democratic secretary, Douglas McKay, to battle Democratic Senator Wayne Morse, the; Democrat's lead was building toward the 25,000 mark.

Senator Francis Case of South Dakota was only 2,000 votes behind his Republican challenger, Ken Holum. He was running out of precincts and seemed unable to dent his rival's lead.

CLEMENTS TAKES LEAD

Thurston Mortop, a former-undersecretary of state, appeared headed for victory in the early returns from Kentucky. But Democratic Senator Earle Clements, a powerful vote-getter in his home state, gradually pulled into a 6,000-vote lead and appeared to be holding it.

The Republicans' best chance appeared to be in Nevada, where Democratic Senator Alan Bible was barely 1,000 votes ahead of Clifton Young with 52 of the state's 347 districts to be heard from.

The Democrats need to win only six of the 33 undecided seats in the House of Representatives to regain control. They have won 212 of the 435 house seats to the Republicans' 190—a net Republican gain of five.

Democratic candidates are leading in 20 of the remaining contests to the Republicans' 13.

CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

MIAMI, Okla (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Sel Jenkins of Miami celebrated their 74th wedding anniversary Tuesday by voting. The couple was married Nov. 6, 1882. He is 94 and she is 91. Both said they had "always voted a straight Democratic ticket."

Immigration Much Higher Than Year Ago

OTTAWA (CP)—Number of immigrants landed in Canada in the first nine months of 1956 rose 110,008 from 86,597 in the corresponding period last year, the immigration department announced Tuesday.

Nearly one-half of the increase of 23,402 was accounted for by a sharp rise in immigration from the United Kingdom. Total entries from England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales rose to 34,734 fr m 34,032 a year ago.

Immigration from England increased to 22,926 from 15,539, from Ireland to 4,721 from 2,919, from Scotland to 7,254 from 4,983 and from Wales to 723 from 591.

Immigration from Hungary, never very large, rose to 369 from 329. The figure is expected to register a sharp rise as a result of the government's decision Tuesday to give priority to applications for refugees from Hungary to enter Canada as immigrants.

WILL GIVE PRIORITY

Immigration Minister Pickersgill said Tuesday in a statement that Canada will give priority to applications by refugees from Hungary to enter this country as immigrants. Persons will be eligible for assisted passage loans on the same terms as other immigrants from Europe.

Mr. Pickersgill said the Canadian Immigration Office in Vienna has been instructed to give priority to applications by refugees from Hungary.

Department officials said they have no idea how many Hungarians may come to Canada under the plan. Vienna dispatches estimate that more than 150,000 Hungarians now have escaped to Austria and that the number will grow as more leave Hungary under cover of darkness.

Under the assisted passage plan European immigrants get interest-free loans from the government to cover ocean and inland passage charges and meals. They are required to repay the loans in monthly instalments over a two-year period but the time can be extended if circumstances warrant.

MIDDLE EAST—THE CRUCIAL POINT AT ISSUE

One of the most reasonable defences of the British and French intervention in the Middle East is that advanced by External Affairs Minister Casey of Australia.

Egypt, he says, was the true aggressor only in the technical sense, with the Israeli attack on Egypt, though larger than the usual raid, "a completely understandable kickback" by Israel for years of provocation.

Australia, he continued, supports "in the broad sense" British military action in Egypt as a means of breaking a consistent chain of anti-British events.

That support, that military action, is only justified if the Anglo-French action is, in fact, what these nations say it is—a police action to restore peace in the area and to protect the vital Suez Canal from possible danger.

Yet, in the welter of weekend radio and television commentaries, one man made an observation which was tragically revealing of a complete lack of understanding of the crucial point at issue.

He referred to the question of a possible prior understanding between Israel on the one hand and Britain and France, on the other, as an interesting but inconsequential point.

Far from being inconsequential, it is the key to the whole question.

Suppose two neighbors had a fight and were separated. Suppose one neighbor continually threatened the other, and, occasionally, the two exchanged a few blows. Suppose further that the one who was continually harassed by the police to get into a real brawl with his neighbor, so that the police would have an excuse to step in. Would not that be another interesting point for the police to give long thought to even if the man suggested the fight himself, would it not be strange for the police to agree to the plan, rather than to warn against it?

If the British and French had no prior arrangement with Israel, then those who regard their action as ill-advised, or even as wholly wrong in principle, cannot deny that it can be defended in the broad sense.

But if the Israeli attack on Egypt was arranged as an excuse for action which would settle the Suez Canal dispute, then that arrangement is not in keeping with what we call "British fair play." Saving the Suez Canal is one forthrightly would be one thing; to seek an excuse to do so by double-dealing would be another. It would be the final blow to Britain's prestige.

That that prestige has been high, even amongst those nations which have quarrelled with her, is evident from a statement in the Hindustan Times, a pro-government paper in India. Indian conduct in the past week will have been inexplicable, to western minds. She has denounced the British and French action against Egypt, yet abstained from supporting a United Nations' resolution denouncing Russia's action in Hungary. The Hindustan Times says that the British attack was worse than that of the Russians "for they are the mighty that have so miserably fallen." It is a most revealing commentary. The Hindustan Times expects a higher standard of conduct of oneself and one's friends than one does of one's foes.

That is what makes so alarming the commentator's remark that the question of collusion between Israel, Britain and France is of no real importance. It is the crux of the whole situation.

EXPRESSION OR REPRESSION?

Opinion seems to be divided as to whether it is best to express our emotions freely or to keep them under strict control.

Some people maintain that occasional explosive outbursts help to get rid of injurious thoughts and emotions, which if kept boiling inside with the lid on, would consume us.

Those who advise the free expression of emotions claim that iron self control accomplishes little other than to make us victims of never ending repressions and frustrations.

In mulling over the merits of these contrasting theories, two personalities we have known come to mind as rather extreme representatives of the opposing views.

The first character must have been the originator of the open expression belief. During the hours between rising and retiring his tireless tongue gave complete expression to everything he felt and thought about himself and everybody else.

Whenever anything particularly upset him (which was often) he would rev his tongue to a flying pitch and let out a great deal of all his troubles to the four winds in a torrent of endlessly flowing words. The aftermath of the storm would bring complete relief, enabling him to tackle the next problem with a clear, relaxed mind and better than average efficiency.

This completely indestructible character was one of the most self-contented and best adjusted men we have known.

Now on the other hand there are people who say that outbursts of this nature are highly self-destructive. Anger is man's worst enemy and frequent expressions of temper, they can cause medical support, can cause permanent brain and personality injury.

We also knew a man who appeared to believe that it pays to be relaxed and easy going. We thought on first meeting him that here was the calmest, steadiest and most completely controlled personality we had ever met. He seemed to take everything in his stride and we would regard him as the most imperturbable personality to cross our path were it not for the fact that this quiet, undemonstrative young man with a promising future beckoning was impelled by some trivial worry, (which would have passed quickly), to blow his brains out.

The example of these two rather extreme types might indicate that the advisability of giving vent to our emotions or keeping them under strict control is not as important as having the inner fibre to master our decisive actions and major decisions rather than allowing ourselves to become a victim of them.

Civilized Man Is Tough

By Barry McNeill in the Windsor Star

It is often said nowadays that civilization is making men soft, that sheltered under our 20th century comforts, which shield them from the harshness of a world which still is essentially primitive, makes them less able to cope with life if deprived of them.

But recent events (and nothing happens that proves this school) of thought couldn't be more wrong.

Such a case is that of two men and a woman, three people who forced down in the wild north country where they were isolated for nearly three weeks on a frozen Arctic lake.

Did they perish? On the contrary, they emerged from the ordeal last week in as good physical shape (indeed one of them began, and in the words of Mrs. Gerry Feeley, wife of one of the men, "We took our plight lightheartedly during the first 24 hours and spent a pleasant evening by the lake." There's nonchalance!

The trapped men, Gerry and George Gonzalez, pilot of the plane, set to work and built a log cabin. Indeed they were able to provide the stranded party with food.

* * *

Only a few hours before they had been surrounded on planes by buffets against a harsh world that civilization provides, then they were forced with the same problems that faced their ancestors in the dim past that is the world of the elements or die.

If the trio hadn't been products of a society which for years has had overcome those problems so successfully as they did! We doubt it.

It is true that the Hunters and Mr. Gonzalez were not without a predicament as some have been under similar circumstances! and were not called upon to exercise too much ingenuity or improvise in any great degree. But I suppose for a moment they had been.

Right there before them was their immediate future, the plane whose bits and pieces they could have fashioned into a shelter to survival than even that resourceful group, "The Swiss Family Robinson" did from their wrecked ship. To do this, they would have been able to bring to the shamefaced ingenuity man has acquired over the centuries, oddments of knowledge about many things which science, medicine and industry have given all of us to a greater or lesser degree.

* * *

There would be no waiting around for the unpredictable arrival of inspiration as did early forebears did. Given a few basic materials almost all of us could fashion weapons with which to obtain game for food — fish hooks, spears and knives; with the rough principles of building know-how to even the man who never built a house himself, there would be no need to find a cave or other natural shelter.

It might be argued that modern man's presumed helplessness would become quite evident if he found himself in the wilds with nothing to hand except what nature provides. But this, too, is debatable.

With his knowledge of modern methods and discoveries he would see around him not primitive objects but the stuff from which all kinds of things could be made.

* * *

With the know-how which is the pride of the civilization he built up he would find some way to utilize the apparently useless.

No doubt the end product would be crude and primitive, but it would be there made by the end product of some sort.

Evolution has shown that while sheer brute strength is to some measure necessary to survival, brain power is the over-riding factor.

No one will deny that we live today in at least brainy even though in other respects he may be more puny than those from whom he descended.

With this in mind let us stop preaching the superiority of man but rather his skill, resourcefulness and adaptability which have made him one of the toughest customers the world has seen.

"Get in there and survive."

Winsor Hotel Stables Burned.

Shortly before one o'clock this morning fire was discovered in a barn adjoining the large barn and stables in connection with the Windsor Hotel at the south west corner of Coleman and West Bridge streets, and before the alarm could be checked it moved to a nearby house. The fire was communicated to the a barn owned by H. Howie, Everett Street. When the fire brigade arrived on the scene the barn was all ablaze and the hotel barn had caught fire. Fortunately nothing left but the bare walls of these buildings. The summer residence of Mr. Howie and the house occupied by Mrs. Campbell, Victoria Avenue, escaped with slight damage. The horses were removed to safety. However, the fire has lost two sulkies, harness, grain and numerous articles of considerable value. The stables belonged to the estate of the late Dr. B. S. Williams. The cause of the fire is as yet unknown.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

When a new musical comedy hit arrives on Broadway, it is no time at all before the big names in the entertainment field, famous bands and famous singers male and female, are regaling us over the radio and TV with their own distinctive renditions of the various hit tunes of the Broadway success.

Each band, each name singer, interprets the songs or tunes in their own individual style, and it is usually a little comical to hear and compare the various renderings through which these tunes go. I suppose each band leader and each singer is striving to demonstrate how much better his or her interpretation is than the original on the thriving stage of New York. Oklahoma, Carousel, South Pacific, The King and I produced wonderful airs which were beaten to death by the entertainment industry, and I recall with what astonishment I heard the tunes with their own individuality attended the theatres after months of familiarization on radio and TV.

But there has arrived on Broadway a new show that defies the great name bands and the famous warblers and yodelers of the air. It is My Fair Lady. Its tunes are terrific, but the astonishing record of them proves. But there isn't one tune among them that any of our name bands will dare attempt. They would sooner take a crack at Gilbert and Sullivan than risk doing Lowdy, or even a Little Bit o' Luck. Indeed, the music of My Fair Lady has more resemblance to Gilbert and Sullivan in that very respect that it has a character impossible to separate from the show as a whole.

There is a baffling and frustrating experience for the second-string show business involved in getting the hit tunes of musical success on Broadway which they can't play in on each mike. It is amusing to listen to the recording of the actual show, and try to visualize the different jobs beat stars attempting to horn in.

It may well be that the reason the seats for My Fair Lady are going at $50 and only the privileged, at that, are able to see and hear it, lies in the fact that nobody can do it but those artists on stage.

Baccy Chewing Is Lost Art

Hamilton Spectator

It's no secret that tobacco chewing is just about as lost an art, or amusement, as reading aloud the subtitles of pre-talkie movies. Every year go into a cigar store these days and ask for a package of "chewing" and both the counter will point to the gum display and ask courteously, "Double, or straight?"

The Financial Post noted recently, with surprised affection, that Canada's chewing tobacco production dropped from nearly 20 million pounds in 1945 to little more than one million last year, and predicts that this branch of the industry will disappear within a generation. Even at that there are quite a few of secret chewing going on somewhere.

Chewing tobacco at least is going the way of the more genteel snuff, which was very fashionable in the 18th or eighteenth century. Cuspidors, shiny and ornate, have long since become only fond memories of the eighteenth century. Cuspidors, shiny and ornate, have long since become only fond memories of the eighteenth century.

But in its time, tobacco was cheerfully used by all and sundry, constituted a political advantage. About forty years ago the late Ambassador to Britain carried a portable spittoon about with him. Then came the cigarette.

And Gene Talmadge, the late demagogue Governor of Georgia (U.S.A.), would thrill his gallluses at the more rural political meetings by expectorating neatly at a pot-bellied stove with what a weekly magazine has called tremendous accuracy. His friend and successor in office, Herman, is a more subtle and streamlined version of Daddy. He doesn't touch the stuff, which shows the trend of the times in the world today.

Here at home, one of the endearing features of the old County Council chamber in the Court House was its strategic placement of brass cuspidors. Even before the building was razed last year, they had not been used for their intended purpose, and the county councillors had made this primarily as footlockers.

Mr. Allan F. Stewart, the clerk and treasurer of Wentworth County, fears that most of these receptacles were scrapped, but he intends to search for at least one to display in a room which may be set aside for "some things of

Only One Moon Found in Sky

Baltimore Sun

A three-year search has failed to turn up any new satellites besides the one large, readily visible moon of common acquaintance, so the Army reports, but the search must go on in the possibility of adding to the supply, in the form of a metallic, man-made rocket-launched moon it was natural to wonder whether there might not be one or more similar (but star-made) globules already whizzing unseen in that lower celestial range. Such objects would have raised the question of traffic jams.

This employment report is reassuring, coming as it does from eminent astronomical authorities. However, it only bears out what has been known since poetry began, and man discovered with the unaided imagination long ago that "... Ceres' orbit lies the lonely Moon". the versifiers were saying well before Galileo; and how understanding a writer was Sir Philip Sidney, in his famous lines:

With how sad steps, O moon, thou climb'st the skies!
How silently and with how wan a face!

Shelley, later on, took pity on the moon, asking:

Art thou pale for weariness
Of climbing heaven, and gazing on the earth,
Wandering companionless, . . ?

Soon now will come a companion, or several, all speeding about in unromantic haste. One wonders just what they should carry on the poetic tradition will manage to cope with this literary problem. Well, at least there should prove to be more rhymes for—the flight, night, height, satellite) than for—moon (June, spoon, tune, croon, goon).

historical interest."

But it would be an even better plan to seal a plug of 'baccy and a cuspidor in the cornerstone of the new building. These relics then would not be a temptation to predatory hunters of souvenirs of a fast-fading era in county politics.

A Meal That Sticks to Your Ribs

A meal that is adequate— that supplies not just one or two but all of the elements required for good nutrition—sticks to your ribs, sustains you until next mealtime comes. The elements required for good nutrition are not just carbohydrate (starch, sugar) but carbohydrate plus fat, plus protein plus cellulose (wood fibre, indigestive matter, filler), plus vitamins and minerals.

If instead of an adequate meal you take just tea and toast, coffee and a roll, cakes and syrup or fish and chips you are likely to get an empty feeling or a letdown before next mealtime and resort to candy, a soft drink, gum-chewing, smoking, a stimulant, a quick one at the neighborhood bar, or even a narcotic drug never quite satisfies the craving, which is the demand of the undernourished body for food. When I say undernourished, the term applies whether the body be of underweight or overweight.

I believe the national malnutrition, the nutritional deficiency of well-to-do people who don't know how to feed themselves is the common causative factor of drinking and taking drugs.

A Cree Indian friend once explained that he went on a bout when he "felt the need of a stimulant" or when he "needed to feel better." Both feelings are common in persons with malnutrition.

In fact it seems to me that most acute illnesses or indispositions of the American people today are due to respiratory infection, which is preventable, and most illnesses and indispositions of long duration (chronic) are due to nutritional deficiency, which is preventable. If this view is correct, it follows that most illness requiring medical care and most of the common complaints which lead victims to the use of dangerous pain-killers and habit-forming medicines or narcotics should be ascribed to inanenesse.

Take aspirins, for instance. If you do so as a frequent or regular habit, perhaps you've eaten you've smart enough to choose your own eatsgory. Or take sweets, candies, soft drinks, etc. not even in the attractive form that appeals to the sophisticated portion of the population.

Let's be amiable about it and agree that some of us try to worry along on a namby-pamby type of breakfast just because we are fearless or know unconcerned about nutrition. As for myself, if you fetch a plate of genuine yeast-raised buckwheat pancakes, plenty of maple syrup, butter, plus the nutritional decked pail, yell, "Here, Stupid!" I'll come swimming and the heck with a light breakfast. That is, say once a week, on my day off.

Those who buy the namby-pamby breakfast habit or, worse, the no breakfast habit or, worst, the no breakfast habit can still achieve some degree of regeneration if he or she will use enough self-discipline to hold back the coffee and cigaret until after one or two courses of an adequate breakfast, say fresh fruit or fresh fruit juice and/or an egg or other protein item.

WE LIVE IN OTHERS

We cannot afford to forget that the only thing that remains of our life upon this earth is that which we have created. Even our character, indeed, intangible in form, still lives in the character of others. This fact should inspire us in all that we do.

Deep in the earth are precious substances by which much of the commerce and life of the world is carried on. The miner does not see them in the mine and great plants that refine all into utility. The diamond is polished—and something of the workman remains in every product.

A good Father and Mother must themselves on from generation to generation. Their work' in others lives.

This thought of something living on in others is the most little part upon the stage of life is what gives to us influence and joy in that we may help others with determination and instills a love for noble things.

The records are crowded with the names of those who were not appreciated during their life-time. But each year adds the lustre of all that they left behind. No sincere effort is ever wasted.

A thing of beauty is a joy forever," wrote the poet Keats. Therefore, the more that we can inspire beauty in others, as well as becoming nourished with it ourselves day by day, the more will we love life and learn its real values.

ABSOLUTES

Is there anything in the moral life really established?

There are a lot of people who deny this. They are dead set against what are generally referred to as ethical absolutes. Everything in the moral realm, they contend is relative. A lot of people would like to believe that the law against adultery is established, but just ask yourself if you would like to go on living in a world in which the commandment against adultery had been repealed and as a result every home had been broken up and the things you value most had begun to crumble.

The Bible sets forth absolute moral values, and we had better heed its teachings.

Teachers Take Convention Trip To Smiths Falls

Elementary school children in the city are having a holiday today as teachers take the day off for the annual teachers' convention.

The convention program for Belleville teachers this year took the form of a trip to the Ontario Hospital for Retarded Children at Smiths Falls where they are spending the day, returning to the city this evening.

Ninety teachers made the trip to Smiths Falls in two buses, leaving from Queen Alexandra School at 8:30. Their schedule called for their telephone dinner at a Smiths Falls hotel, before visiting the school this afternoon. L. A. Kells, public schools administrator and inspector for Belleville, accompanied the teachers to Smiths Falls.

National Ballet of Canada Thrilled U.S. Capital City

By R. A. FARQUHARSON
Counsellor, Canadian Embassy, Washington, D.C.

Washington's favorite Canadians are the dancers of the National Ballet of Canada. This year they played fourteen nights in the Carter Barron amphitheatre here which seats 4,500 and despite the fact they competed with the Democratic Convention in Chicago, they drew more columns of space in Washington papers than any ballet has done anywhere. Already Washington is talking about next year's engagement. The editor of one of the three papers who missed Swan Lake, because he had to fly to Chicago, asked Celia France if they would come earlier in the season next year.

I am writing this report so that Canadians in other posts outside Canada, can share some of the pride that the Canadians in Washington had in a great artistic success. In the United States the Canadian Ballet and the Stratford Festival Company have created much interest in Canadian culture and requests are coming in to the Embassy about other cultural developments. For example, the Stratford Festival arranged for an exhibition of Canadian paintings which opened in Louisville, Kentucky October 1 and will tour most of the United States. Embassy officials have been asked to take part in an exhibition of Canadian books in Washington. The requests for Canadian documentary films has more than doubled during the last year.

1957 TOUR PLANNED

I doubt whether there is any realization in Canada or abroad of the importance of the ballet as the principal emissary of Canadian culture in the United States. Next season company's tour will take dancers to Florida, to Texas, to the middle west. Every member of the company is a Canadian and this fact has not been lost in the publicity. There are two former Americans who have taken out Canadian papers.

In everything in the arts except ballet and Shakespeare, Canadians have long been finding a rear guard action to preserve something that is our own. Canadians here are being asked why our country should so suddenly have reached such heights on the classical stage and classical ballet. I wish someone would provide an easy answer. Paul Hume of the Washington Post, who can be a tough critic—witness the letter he received from the President after he had reviewed Margaret Truman's ability as a singer —wrote in advance of the ballet's arrival that the Canadians offered a lesson in how to form a ballet of permanent residents in Washington. Hume saw every Canadian ballet and went back to some two or three times.

MAY BECOME WORLD'S BEST

There was so much interest in the diplomatic corps that the ballet came up for discussion repeatedly at receptions. The daughter of one Commonwealth counsellor went to Toronto attend the ballet school this summer and said that she had selected the National Ballet because she believed that by this time she would be a dancer the Canadian ballet would be the best in the world. Americans from as far away as Florida, flocked to the school making up nearly half the total.

The Indian Ambassador and Mrs. Mehta turned down a dinner engagement to attend the opening performance. The Russian Ambassador and Mrs. Zarubin, who had seen the ballet last year were there again on opening night and went back stage to congratulate Miss Celia France, on the performance. It happened that both the A.P. and U.P. had photographers back stage and the pictures of Mr. Zaroubin with the "twins" —the two 14-year-old Toronto dancers who had made their debut that evening—clinging to each shoulder, made the network of both services that night. It has appeared all over this continent. Mr. Zarubin had an attractive shy expression and his hands clasped together made cut lines on the front page of the New York World Telegram: "Shy Soviet Ambassador Georgi Zaroubin wrings his hands and looks bashful as he chats with . . ." No picture featuring Canadian dancers has ever been as widely distributed.

RUSSIAN VOICES PRAISE

The Russian Ambassador assured his Canadian host that the ballet was good last year and better this year. His Excellency, who has twice seen the Canadian ballet, is looking forward to seeing next year's performance. He is hoping that next year will also bring the Russian ballet to Washington. The Danish ballet is coming soon and Sadler's Wells was here a few months ago, as was also the Ballet Rusee.

This brought point to the paragraph from Jay Carmody's review of the first night performance in the Washington Star. Jay understated by Hollywood or the critic of the year in 1956. He wrote: "Les Sylphides, the opening ballet last night, could not have been more pointedly chosen to show that the corps de ballet of the Canadian company is the most beautifully trained, disciplined and dedicated seen here in a long time."

Carmody also wrote: "Miss Celia France's fairness are a year nearer perfection since they last came to Carter-Barron amphitheatre and they are young enough and intelligent enough to have made excellent use of the year. Their charm as a company is in their perfect balance. Every company is one of a few stars, but bright ones, and of ensemble sparkle." And then Carmody, who is the beloved critic of Washington, added: "Because it is such, said its ideals so palpably high, its ballets are he ones one sees with enjoyment and remembers more vividly than those of more star dotted companies."

NOT BIG-NAME BALLET

Carmody caught the point that came up so often in conversation with hosts, ambassadors and with members of the State Department. This was not a big-name ballet; it was just the kind of ballet everyone enjoyed. Carmody had added in reference to "Offenbach in the Underworld"; "Of all lighthearted ballets this is one of the most irresistible invitation to dance and this is precisely the delightful response it gives to it."

As the representative of the Embassy, I rode with the company to historic Alexandria, on the outskirts of Washington where they were luncheon guests of the Chamber of Commerce. We were in 15 open cars and I was in the lead car with Celia France and the Chamber's able Betty Oliphant, the ballet mistress, who as the teacher behind the scenes is responsible for much of the thorough training which critics constantly note.

MAKES KEY COLLECTION

The dancers were in costume and were welcomed by a group of Alexandria women dressed in the gowns of George Washington's time, when the future first president called Alexandria his home. She is making a collection of civic keys.

I had regretted the trip as a publicity stunt but the dancers so thoroughly enjoyed themselves that I changed my opinion. Members of the Chamber of Commerce were later in a body to the ballet, and were really excited by Swan Lake. The Alexandria Gazette, the oldest daily newspaper in the United States, gave a whole page of pictures in reporting the visit and used more pictures on following days.

It was an exciting ride to and from Alexandria with a police escort both ways and blaring sirens taking us through red lights. I have ridden through red lights in good company but never before but never when mounted high on top of the back of the back seat and never before with attractive dancers clinging to both arms.

EMBASSIES INTERESTED

In advance of the ballet's visit we sent notes to all the Embassies in Washington listing the program dates. We got back a surprising number of letters thanking us for letting them know that the lively Canadians were returning. A good many said they had seen the ballet last year and the whole embassy wanted to see it this year.

My next door neighbor is in the State Department with previous service in Russia. She reports that in the State Department, where officers have seen ballet in the world capitals, the visit of the Canadians has provided a lot of pleasant conversation. She regards the ballet as the best outside of Russia in the world today and definitely rates it above Sadler's Wells.

How one ballet rates with another is, of course, a matter of personal taste. But there is one point on which Canadians here are all agreed and that is that no more attractive group could fly the flag of Canada and fly it they certainly do.

Remember

The last time you were together you didn't have a chance to say goodbye—not a real one.

He was leaving you in that field in Normandy. It was a hot sticky afternoon; little explosions of dust shot out from under your boots when you moved. Somewhere up front you could hear your armor. But for the moment you had inherited a quiet field in Normandy.

Then suddenly a burp gun opened up in the hedgerows.

You dived for cover, and the grass stubble stabbed your chin as you hit the ground. Then you looked on the grass. Somehow you'd never thought of death coming on a bright afternoon. But it did. And things moved fast after that and you moved with them.

You never got a chance to say a real goodbye.

Now, as you kneel here, you don't know how to go about it. What do you say? What do you do? Maybe you knew him better than you'll ever know anybody. But you still don't know what to say.

He was just an ordinary Joe. But that cross makes him seem mighty big.

You leave the cemetery, knowing that you may never see it again. It's a long way to Canada. Yet you know that you'll return to this cemetery a million times. You'll return every time you think of valor, of sacrifice; every time you think of heroism and death, and every time a bugle splits the autumn stillness.

You'll return because part of yourself died that hot afternoon in Normandy. And the part that lives won't let you forget.

Milk Board Plans Nov. 13 Hearing On Local Price

With the Belleville Milk Producers' Association and local Milk distributors having failed to reach an agreement in negotiations with respect to the price of milk to be received by the producers, both bodies have been asked to appear before the Ontario Milk Control Board for arbitration.

The date of the hearing is set for Tuesday, November 13th in Toronto.

Under the existing contract Belleville dairies pay their producers $4.26 per cwt. with surplus milk being paid for at the rate of about $2.50 per cwt. Producers are now asking $4.63 per cwt. Distributors say they have countered with an offer of $4.55.

COSTS HIGHER

Belleville area producers state that since the present wholesale price for milk was established production costs have risen sharply and admit also that costs of the distributor have likewise risen.

At Napanee producers are reported to have asked for $4.31 per cwt. with delivered milk selling at 21 cents per quart. At Kingston and Cobourg producers have received $4.43 per cwt. with the retail price of milk at 22 cents per quart.

At Stirling milk sells for 17 cents per quart, while at Frankford the price is 18 cents.

If producers receive the price of $4.63 which they are asking, it is said milk in Belleville would go to 22 cents per quart, plus another 76 cents more per hundredweight of which producers would get approximately 36 cents.

PRICE CUT AT AYLMER

Last week the Milk Control Board approved a wholesale milk price reduction in the Aylmer district. An announcement by the milk board at Toronto said that the reduction was allowed in order that two dairy plants in the area—Glover's Dairy, and Aylmer Dairy —may compete with over the border sales of cheaper milk.

The dairies had complained that they were unable to meet the prices of a farmer (J. Verdun) who operated a roadside stand and sold milk cheaply for 50 cents.

Under the milk board's new order the farmer will be able to sell at $4.05 per cwt. from the dairies instead of $4.43 as before.

Mr. Verdun's sales gave him a gross of $6.47 per cwt.

Belleville distributors point out that they also are competing with a cash and carry dairy selling milk at a lower figure than the delivered price. They say that besides Verdun's, B'ville is the only major centre in Ontario with a cash and carry dairy.

Stevenson Frankly Confesses Disappointment in Defeat

CHICAGO (AP)—Adlai Stevenson took his second crushing defeat at the hands of Dwight Eisenhower with a smile on his face and a quip on his lips.

It wasn't that it didn't hurt—he frankly confessed his disappointment before a coast-to-coast television audience.

But, he told hundreds of disheartened Stevenson volunteers jammed into a big hotel ballroom here—and millions who watched on their TV sets—"our cause will ultimately prevail."

Would he try for the presidency again?

"I'm a candidate for bed," he responded lightly to the reporter's query.

His more formal note was sounded shortly after midnight when he told hundreds of mournful followers:

"To you who are disappointed tonight, let me confess that I am one. But I am also an exhilarated one, for 'there is radiance, and glory in the darkness, could we but see, and to see, we have only to look.'

A burst of applause welled up. Women wept openly. Men got out their handkerchiefs and blew their noses furiously.

This was a moment such as would only come at the dawn of defeat for a presidential candidate whose followers, minority though they might be, hang on his every word and hold him in esteem.

Stevenson, it may be said now, couldn't whip Eisenhower this year, just as he had known in advance friends the popular wartime general would overwhelm him in 1952.

He breathed outward optimism, up until the end, making the toughest fight he could be a man whose scholarly tastes gave him little taste for some of the tough things he felt he had to say.

But, as he confided to reporters and friends after his concession, he couldn't have beaten Eisenhower anyway, especially after fighting began in the Middle East and the people became convinced that they had to keep a peaceful man in the White House.

After his formal concession he sent a telegram to Eisenhower:

"You have won not only the election but also an expression of the great confidence of the American people. I send you my warm congratulations.

"Tonight we are not Republican or Democrat but Americans."

His comfort, he told his audience, is that the American people made their choice in a vigorous partisan contest, which he said is democracy's life blood.

'Treatment of Burns' Lecture Given to 95 Registered Nurses

"There have been so many advances in the treatment of burns that it is difficult to keep up with the modern methods," said Dr. Donald Scott last evening in a lecture to 95 registered nurses at Belleville and district. Dr. Scott further commented that "interest in the treatment of burns has been stimulated by both World Wars. After the First War, their treatment by tannic acid was in vogue, but it was found that tannic acid was extremely toxic, and caused a certain number of deaths."

BURN UNITS ESTABLISHED

"During the Second War, there were so many badly burned cases from incendiary bombs, and plane crashes that intensive research was begun again on burn treatments. It was during the last war, that the idea of special burn units was born. These are now special treatment centres where patients are handled in a manner expert staff and facilities are available. The burn unit is now in use in England and in the larger Canadian and American Centres. It is, however, its infancy here.

"In a place the size of Belleville, it is obviously impracticable, since the number of badly burned cases, which we would see here, is far from large enough to warrant a specially trained staff with special equipment."

BURN CLASSIFICATIONS

Dr. Scott went on to classify burns according to the agent producing the injury, namely: thermal, electrical, chemical and radioactive. "We will concern ourselves with the thermal type of burn," he said. "Thermal burns may be divided into three degrees according to the depth of skin damage: first degree—involving the superficial layers of the epidermis; second degree—blisters; and third degree—destroying the full thickness of the skin.

"In a first degree burn there is redness and blistering, but since the whole thickness of the outer layer is not destroyed there is healing without skin grafting. Second degree—this is through the outer layer and into the second layer of skin. Skin grafting is usually necessary here.

Third degree—through both of these layers, and in the deeper layers, involving fat, muscles, and bone. Grafting is always necessary and function may be destroyed, due to damage to tendons, nerves, blood vessels, and joints.

EFFECTS OF BURNS

In describing effects of burns on the patient, there is first local tissue damage, secondly, immediate shock, which lasts about 48 hours. After a burn and fluid is beginning to re-enter tissues in the third day, the fluid lost resembles plasma.

The burn also causes loss of water from the tissue cells leading to permanent damage to kidney and liver cells.

Period of toxaemia: this phase begins after the shock phase is passed and continues as long as there are bare areas uncovered by skin.

TREATMENT OF BURNS

Dr. Scott stated "that the treatment of burns is carried out according to the above stages, and is described as follows: immediate treatment of burned areas which consists of things mainly not to do, namely: do not put on apply any dressing or ointment; do not remove burned clothing; have the patient transferred to hospital, and if this is not possible, then it is desirable to apply a paste of baking soda and a few thin layers of gauze.

If a patient is shocked when first seen, this must be treated first, by replacement of lost fluid from the blood. This is accomplished by administration of intravenous and blood transfusion.

Then begins the local treatment of the burn under sterile procedure in the hospital room. The dressings should be thick and if the burn is not soak through, for if that occurs there is more danger of infection. This dressing is left in place for a week and with this method all superficial burned skin will be healed. If the burn has penetrated through the skin into the underlying muscle, the surgeon will resort to the use of skin grafts.

In closing, Dr. Scott stressed the importance of the psychological and the nursing care of patients with burns.

BLOOD TRANSFUSION DEMONSTRATED

Mr. G. Nicholls and Mr. H. Esford of Abbott Laboratories, presented a demonstration of intravenous and blood transfusion therapy.

This lecture is the third in a series of five being presented as an educational program for the registered nurses of this district.

This and That

Going Shopping?

Prominent in the news of most of this continent is the fact that the cost of living index is the highest on record. Every woman knows this through her shopping her money just does not go as far as it used to. Standing behind a woman in a store recently, I heard her say to the clerk: "Everything just everything, is up in price. This little container used to be 29c, now it is 32c." And so it goes.

With almost summer weather still with us, it seems peculiar to see shelves piling up with Christmas pudding, fruit cake, and the ingredients for the homemade kind. Here again you will find it will be a more expensive production. One of the very few items to go down a bit in price has been Grade A large eggs, and this (we are told) may be only temporary.

It is interesting at this time of year to watch the appearance in shops of articles we don't usually buy for ourselves, but buy or receive as gifts. Christmas-time shopping does strange things and it won't be long before women will have "that look" on their faces.

Good Shopping!

There are weeks dedicated to all sorts of things but nobody, as told, this is Cat Week. People have been praised or berated for writing for or about various animals; for ourselves, we can take cats but we would rather leave them alone." They may be individualists and aristocrats, as some maintain, but they certainly are the most self-seeking individualists or aristocrats imaginable! Alfred North Whitehead sums it up when he says "If a dog jumps into your lap, it is because he is fond of you; but if a cat does the same thing, it is because your lap is warmer."

If there is such a thing as a slide-rule to measure the qualifications of those attributes which make up an expert on (international) affairs, T & T wishes sincerely that someone (maybe at the UN) would take a slide-rule to separate the grain from the chaff. We are quite sure that the someone would decide that T & T does not qualify as an international expert, but there can be no slide-rule that can find a differentiation in the heartfelt concern of women around the world for peace. There is no chaff in the grain of the fields of peace, as a woman's column, T & T adds its prayer to the prayers of millions of so-called dark women, of so-called white women; we are all women and the child of our lands is humanity. It seems more and more true that Dr. Albert Schweitzer was so accurate when he warned that it is not A civilization which is at the crossroads, but CIVILIZATION. It is a fine distinction, yet a crucial and possibly fatal one. Women and men are concerned with humanity, with civilization.

The title of the Sermon on the Mount is the issue which even our expert's slide-rule must disclose. It is civilization and not some power hungry dictator's design which is at stake. When our police declare war on gangsterism we support them because society's survival is at stake. All that the British Commonwealth of Nations may decide to do may be neither indivisible nor unanimous nor puritanical but we must decide, and T & T has not lost faith in the Union Jack. We can still remember when the Union Jack but our right to display it was soon be lost if "A Civilization" or atheism's team got our flag. Let us disagree if we must but let us unite to protect that symbol for all its shortcomings which still protects our right to disagree. Let us not do obeisance to civilization lost by being derailed in prejudice, hatred and ancient injustices. Civilization is the issue the only hope of our children.

These are unsettling, tragic and fateful minutes, hours and days so T & T closes today's column in unison with many others of all women—Peace and Justice.

Parkdale Residents Enjoy Hard-Time Dance in New Hall

Parkdale residents enjoyed a happy evening with a hard time dance last Friday in the new hall located on the children's playground.

Although not quite completed, the new hall made fine accommodation for nearly 175 members who put on many hours of hard work into the building under the supervision of Mr. Morry, the building director for Parkdale.

Mr. Morry thanked his fellow workers for the fine strides made towards building the hall in the past and it is expected to be completed in the near future.

Mr. Alex Ross, entertainment chairman, and his committee presented numerous gifts as door prizes.

This was the first evening spent in the new hall and many good times are being looked forward to.

St. George's Guild Bazaar, Tea Gratifyingly Successful

Fine weather brought the thronging crowds to St. George's Guild autumn tea and bazaar yesterday afternoon, held in St. George's chapel, Station street.

The serving, with its attractively arranged guest tables, each with its snow white tea cloth centred with tiny white, yellow and bronze 'mums, and the pretty tea table in the centre cloth, and cornucopia centre of deep rose, and yellow 'mums, flanked by white crystal candelabra holding aloft yellow and green candles, its silver services in all their resplendent gleam, made a pretty picture of welcome.

Receiving at the door were: Mrs. G. Beare, Mrs. B. Shadduck, and welcoming the guests were, Mrs. P. R. Welch, Mrs. W. Pepper and Mrs. G. Bowers.

Mrs. J. B. Clement and Mrs. E. F. Smith, wives of the rectors of Christ church, Mrs. R. Hickey and Mrs. G. G. Wright, presided at the silver services. Those who poured tea during the afternoon included Mrs. W. Parry, Mrs. E. Jones, Mrs. McLeod and Mrs. A. Briens; while making the tea were Mrs. G. Button, Mrs. F. Markle and Mrs. G. Gulliver.

The homecooking table, which had been replete with many samples of the fine art of public luncheonness, was practically sold out when the reporter paid it a visit, and all that remained of apple, lemon, mince and date pies, was one apple pie, one half of an angel cake a few tiny cookies in fairy cases, and some fudge, and little jars of apple jelly, sweet pickles, and cucumber relish. Those involved in the rubber trade were Mrs. G. Collings and Mrs. S. Turner.

The candy table was likewise almost denuded of its sweetmeats, which had included chocolate fudge; peanut brittle; maple creams and chocolates, some in boxes and some in cellophane bags. Besides the candies, there were some pretty African violets; a pot of baby tears; a little begonia and a tiny cacti. Mrs. H. Armstrong had charge with Mrs. Sharpe, Miss A. Docter and Mrs. G. Jenkinson assisting.

"The fancy work, like the other tables, was three deep with customers, and by dint of the elbow method, a view of fancy aprons, in lovely shades of blue, green and yellow, with contrasting prints; and some of organdy, and factory cotton, were noted, both in half aprons, which seem to be the favorite style, and in the all-over pattern. Fancy aprons also 'plus' clothes, little sets of bonnets and mitts, and bibs and bonnets to match in green and yellow, pink and blue, blue and white, and plain blue, held in daisy pattern, in charge were Mrs. R. Clegg, and Mrs. W. Collyer, who were kept busy wrapping and making change. In connection with this was the notion department, popularly known as the white elephant section. There were aprons with matching necklaces, and bracelets; bottles of hand lotion; black jet necklace; little bars of cream, facial and other 'whatnots' have-you.'

At one corner of the fancy work table, some generous-hearted ladies had placed bouquets of white 'mums; heads of solid cabbages, and dark green lettuce, and a few bunches of ornamental oats in gleaming colors of green, red, yellow, silver and bronze, making a pretty spot of color.

"To Mrs. C. Rowbotham, convener, assisted by Mrs. F. Askey, Mrs. B. Coleman, Mrs. M. Quirt, Mrs. Donnely and Mrs. W. Beare and the many others go a well done" for a most successful tea and bazaar.

B.C.I.V.S. Students Outline Aims Of Various Clubs at H-S Meeting

The Collegiate and Vocational Home and School Association held its second meeting of the fall season on Monday evening in the Auditorium.

Organ music, with Mr. C. Templer at the Keyboard, was enjoyed as the parents and teachers assembled.

Mrs. R. G. Williams, president, graciously welcomed all present.

Seated on the platform were the students who had come to represent the various school clubs and to answer questions in regard to the school's co-curricular program.

Andrew Robb, president of the Students' Council, gave a short, informative talk outlining the aims and objects of the council. He explained that there are 18 school clubs, and these can be divided into three parts: service clubs, production clubs, and recreational clubs. The Council meets bi-monthly and is composed of the executive members, the advisers, class presidents and club representatives and any other interested persons. The representatives of the clubs were then introduced.

CLUB'S AIMS

The Keyette club was represented by Ardelle Fuller, who explained that the aim of this group is to serve the school, community and country; to develop initiative and leadership and to foster friendship in the surrounding cities of citizenship. Each year a Keyette trophy is presented to an outstanding athlete of the school. An interesting feature mentioned was that each year the first school in Ontario to organize a Keyett club was B.C.I.

Don Martinson, speaking for the Key Club, stated that it is an international service club and sponsored by the Kiwanis Club. Its aims are those of the Kiwanis and its members pledge themselves to assist whenever called upon.

The Boys' Hi-Y Club was represented by George Casey who told parents that the Hi-Y Club is first of all Christian in character and closely associated with the YMCA, and its aim is to promote a high standard of clean living. Many worthwhile projects were mentioned, which included assisting the YMCA when ever needed.

Heather Lewis, representing the Girls' Hi-Y Club, stressed the same worthy principles as that of looking after the sale of school Christmas cards, and helping needy families at Christmas and Easter.

Pauline Gibson, speaking for the "Elevator," which is the school year-book, told of many items of interest contained therein.

The Girls' Athletic Society was represented by Jane Wallbridge, who gave a brief explanation of the various awards and how they are earned, mentioning that team work and good sportsmanship are the keynotes of this club, and one of the main objects of the society is to raise money for athletic functions within the school.

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

Bob Alexander spoke for the Boys' Athletic Association, stating that sportsmanship and leadership are the main objectives and students are encouraged to participate in sports. Also "Campus Capers" is sponsored each year by the Boys' Athletic and the proceeds help to buy sports equipment. Also, each year, one or two members are chosen to attend the Ontario Athletic training at Lake Couchiching.

Barbara Robb, speaking for the Drama Club, told of the three-act plays usually every second year; but this year, in addition to one-act plays, in which more students will be able to participate. The Drama Club is very much to give students the confidence to speak in public speaking.

Marilyn Huddleston, who represented the Glee Club, stated that it is divided into two parts: a senior and a junior glee club. The main object is to give students who are interested, a chance to use his or her talent and derive much pleasure of enjoyment from so doing. A major musical production is usually put on every second year by the Glee Club, and on the alternate year an evening of music is enjoyed.

Representing the Library Club, Sheila Wilson told how the club trains its members in the duties of a librarian and the care of books, and a new project under consideration for this year is the renting of records.

The Radio Club was represented by Lois Place who told the gathering that for 35 minutes every Saturday afternoon the Radio Club has it's own over at the local radio station and puts on a program of news of various school activities; interviews with students and records, record playing, and musical numbers.

Speaking for the Camera Club, Paul Yanovec explained that they aim to develop an interest in photography, and promote the art of photography.

ART CLUB

Lois Williamson, representing the Art Club, told how members were encouraged in all branches of art, and of the assistance they are giving in numerous ways, among them the designing of posters, scenery and decorations for various school functions.

Lastly, the Stage Crew with Stuart Perry explaining that it is their responsibility to have charge of stage properties. They look after lighting effects, operate hi-fidelity record players, and movie projector, and are paid for these services by those who rent the auditorium.

A question period followed during which questions put to the various clubs were answered by the students.

Mr. Dafoe introduced visiting school inspectors and Mr. Fowler complimented the students for the efficient way in which they had presented the aims and objects of their respective clubs.

The Glee Club, with Mr. Clifford Templer accompanying on the piano, sang several numbers which included: Brahm's Lullaby, Blue Bird of Happiness; Now the Day is Over; Sailing; and Somewhere My Love. These numbers were much enjoyed by all.

The business of the meeting was then resumed. It was announced that the annual banquet will be held in December but that "Open House" would be held in January.

After the meeting adjourned, coffee and cookies, served by the refreshment committee, were enjoyed.

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

PERHAPS YOU DON'T HAVE ENOUGH LIVELY INTERESTS TO TALK ABOUT

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I'm 18 years old, and my problem is that I don't have any dates. Boys just don't call me to ask me out.

I'm not lonesome, because I do go to parties and dances and have a wonderful time. If I have to invite a boy to a dance or a party, I'm never refused. They go with me, but they never call me back to invite me out. I have a pleasant disposition and I'm not very serious-minded and I like everyone. Also, I'm on my first job and I like it very much.

I'm tall—5 ft. 9—and I weigh 132 pounds. But the boys I've invited to parties have all been tall. Maybe you can tell me why I'm losing out on dates. Thanks a lot.

Dear Terry:

First let me ask you if you're making the most of your looks.

For one thing, I'd feel that, even though you're tall, you may be a little on the heavy side. And if your mirror agrees with me, then I'd advise slimming down a bit to look more glamorous.

How about your hair? Have you discovered the most becoming way to wear it? If you think it might be improved on pay a visit to a beauty shop and ask them to style it for you.

Then about your clothes. Do you pick them for style and color that will do the most for your figure and coloring, or do you buy a dress, say, just because you like it? Give a little thought to this, too.

Now let's go over your interests and activities.

That do you like to do best? Things which bring you in contact with others, and that provide an opportunity to meet new people and make new friends, are you inclined to do things by yourself for the most part? Do you belong to any young people's groups in your community? If not, look around and find out what clubs and recreational opportunities there are, pick one or two that appeal to you and become a really active member.

You live near a very big city where I know there are innumerable clubs that a young business woman of your age can join and places she can go for the right sort of good times. Many of these are open to nice young men, too. So look into some of these, as well as these right in your own community. You're near enough to the city so you should be hardship to go there for an evening's recreation. Perhaps it will commend to a job there, which would make it easy enough to stay in town one or two evenings a week.

The more interests you have that you share with others, the more you'll have to talk about with other people, and that's important. Because if you're ever hard-up for something on hand that she enjoys doing is the girl who develops into a person who is a congenial companion, so full of pep and enthusiasm that she appeals to everybody as someone they would like to know—and that goes for the boys as well as the girls.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

NEW HAIRDOS NEED EXTRA GROOMING CARE

Modern by Mme. Qui Vive

For thorough brushing, lift each section of hair and brush from the roots right to the ends.

"The more hair, the more care" is a basic truth of grooming. And women are being reminded of it all over again this season with the longer hair styles in vogue — the bouffant coiffure, the Edwardian hairdo, the classic chignon, the long page boy, and many variations, all long.

These styles fall apart and look untidy unless the extra measure of care they require is taken. But with the following grooming routine, tested by New York's famous Home Beauty Institute, they have more glamour than has been around in years:

"Brush daily and don't be a stroke-counter. Lift each section of hair from the roots and brush out to the end. Continue until the scalp tingles. It may help to hang your head downward and use two brushes, alternating left and right arms to prevent fatigue.

"Brushing does no good unless brushes are clean. They should be washed several times a week in warm (not hot) water with a little household ammonia to loosen soil and dissolve grease. Nylon brushes can go into hot water, of course. Whether you choose nylon or natural bristle depends on the sensitivity of your scalp. Some scalps are too sensitive for nylon.

"Enjoy a weekly pre-shampoo conditioning. Use a non-alcoholic liquid petroleum base hair conditioner like Vaseline hair tonic. Heat a little and you'll be surprised how fast dry hair and scalp will soak it up as you massage in with fingertips. Then wrap a steaming hot Turkish towel around your head turban-style. While you collect shampoo, cream rinse, towels, hair curlers or clips and wash your brush and comb, the hair shafts meanwhile will become more and more pliable. Within half an hour or less, you can shampoo.

"Choice of a shampoo depends on texture of hair. Whatever makes your hair "behave" best is for you. Cream rinse is very helpful in making the hair manageable before setting. And proper setting is all-important in achieving "line." As your professional hair stylist to give you a lesson on the right way to set the longer style he creates for you.

"Your set will last longer if you follow a favorite male grooming practice. Comb combing your hair into place each morning, smooth on a few drops of the petroleum hair tonic. Then dampen the hair with water and comb in place. The oil and water combination will give your new coiffure well-groomed for hours."

"Pet Saving Ideas"

As told to Mary Moore

As I look back over the past nine Wednesdays' columns I am glad I have been stressing economy in them — with your stout help. Thanks to all of you who mailed to me your pet economy hints. This week's is the last in that series — unless you clamour for more. Next week we are going to be slightly on the extravagant side now, for I'm elbow deep in Christmas baking. I've made three 10-lb. batches of different fruit cakes and they are ripening in my refrigerator right now, waiting for my decision on which will be the 1956 fruit cake for this page. I wish I had some of you experts here to help make the selection.

I am giving you D. G.'s breezy letter on how she cuts corners, and a recipe for a savoury meat pie calling for hamburg, the like of which D.'G. requested.

"Dear Mary Moore: When you first praised me "how to feed six people for $60. for one month" I clipped and used a few of the methods, and my family has grown that has become more helpful. Now for my pet saving ideas: If you are buying a house and are in our bracket you must keep food bills around $90. a month (or less) .1) unless you have fruit given to you or raise vegetables in the garden, don't preserve. Sugar and power and time are precious, and one spoiled batch is waste. Besides, most new basements are damp and you have to have the jars in a precious closet. All winter long you can get good "buys" on canned goods at the supermarket .2) Look for the discounts, the scans with the most money off, the deals, the day-old bread, the specials are out in plain sight if you look. 3) We like variety in meat so I have to dress up hamburg in Chili con Carne etc. (and would welcome more ideas, Mary). Buy the meat deals too—so many pounds of this and that for $1. 4) Get into the habit of buying 2 of each. Sometimes you can save 1c but more often it's a bigger saving and you have more supplies on hand when the grocery money runs short. 5) Buy skim milk at 15c qt. with the occasional cream top bottle. Your children will be just as well nourished on skim milk and margarine — the cheapest brands are also vitamin enriched. 6) Look at the eggs. Last week A large were 72c while A small — not too small but not quite so clean — were only 62c . . . I could go on and on but would rather read your column . . . D.G."

Thanks for this help D. G. Here is a

RICE MEAT PIE

One lb. ground beef, 1 cup soft breadcrumbs, 1 chopped onion, 1 beaten egg, 1-3 cup undiluted evaporated milk, 1 teaspoon each salt and chili powder, 3 1-4 cups cooked rice (3-4 cup uncooked), 1 can tomato soup undiluted, 3-4 cup grated cheese. Mix together meat, crumbs, onion, egg, milk and seasonings. Press into buttered 9-inch pie plate, building up the edge. Mix together rice, soup and cheese. Spread over meat filling. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 25 to 30 minutes; sprinkle with a little more cheese or some you have saved out; bake 5 minutes longer. Cut in pie-shaped wedges to serve. Lovely with bright green brussels sprouts and smooth as velvet Hubbard squash.

3 TRIBESMEN KILLED

ADEN (Reuters)—Three tribesmen from the Yemen, the Red Sea kingdom bordering the Aden protectorate, were killed and four wounded in a border clash with Audhali tribesmen from the protectorate, it was reported Sunday.

Rural Women Voice Opinion On Canadian TV

TORONTO (CP)—Rural women of Ontario voiced their opinion of Canadian television in a report released Monday which calls for less drinking, smoking and sexy caressing on the TV screen.

They would like, instead, to see more historical drama using Canadian players, and more special feature programs on traditional celebration days, such as Dominion Day, St. Patrick's and St. Andrew's days.

Mrs. George Wilson of St. Mary's, representative to the provincial radio council from the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario, presented the report to the annual board meeting of the FWIO.

"Because of the ever-increasing influence on our daily lives, it is our responsibility to advise radio and television stations on the type of programs we need," she said. "They welcome it."

The evaluation survey sent out last spring was answered by about one - quarter of the 1,450 Ontario branches. Recommendations made in the survey are to be sent to the Fowler royal commission on broadcasting, the CBC and to the provincial radio council.

Among the recommendation were: A call for more travelogues as aids to social studies to create better international understanding; more book reviews and serials for shut-ins; biographies of famous women and hobby and handicraft demonstrations.

All entertainment should be "short and accurate," the report said, and "advertisements are preferable to licence fees."

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

BRIDE-TO-BE WANTS TO SERVE AN ENGAGEMENT CAKE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My mother and father are planning to give a dinner soon, to announce my engagement. To announce the engagement I'd like to have a quite large engagement-announcement cake brought in just before dessert is served, and then, just before Bob and I cut the cake, have my father rise and propose a toast with the champagne that will be served with the dessert. Would this be a correct procedure? I've never heard of having an engagement cake, but I'd like it, if you approve. And what design would you suggest for this cake?

— Anita R.

Today an engagement cake is sometimes a feature of the engagement-announcement party, whether a dinner or a late-afternoon or buffet party. It is entirely correct procedure that you have in mind . . . the cake is brought in, placed before you and your fiance, your father rises and proposes the toast announcing the engagement, and while the guests are still standing you and your fiance cut the first slice and share it . . . then the ice cream is served while the cake is being served to the guests. Usually the design is two hearts, decorated with roses, or roses and other flowers, the colors generally being but so pastel as the colors used on a wedding cake.

IS IT "CHI-NEECE" OR "CHI-KNEES?"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman

Will you please settle a pronunciation-discussion for us? "A" says that Chinese is pronounced "Chi-niece." "B" says the correct pronunciation is "Chi-knees." Who is right? Is it "niece" or "knees"?

—A and B

"B" is right. It is "knees" . . . Chi-knees.

STIRLING

St. Paul's United Church W.A. Holds Most Successful Tea, Bazaar

STIRLING.—Last Thursday afternoon, a large number of ladies took advantage of the glorious weather and attended the bazaar and tea at St. Paul's United church.

A short program was held in the church with the president, Mrs. Percy Utman in charge, who opened the bazaar with the WA theme song.

Mrs. Russell Stapley, piano accordionist, and her daughter, Mrs. H. West, pianist, contributed "Leaning on the Everlasting Arms."

The devotional was in charge of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, and was based on 'Autumn' with a harvest hymn. Those taking part were, Mrs. Louis Rodgers, Mrs. Roy Eggleton and Miss Gena Spry.

Mrs. Volney Richardson voiced a welcome to all the guests and Mrs. Kenneth Weaver of Mount Pleasant WA, replied.

Miss A. Mikel and Miss A. Chase with Mrs. A. Wiley as accompanist rendered a duet on behalf of Zion United church, 9th concession Murray township.

Mrs. John Carlisle read a selection for Wellman's WA, and Mrs. William Wilkins of St. Paul's WA contributed a vocal selection.

Mrs. Joe Grills of Carmel WA, officially opened the bazaar, followed by the benediction.

ARTISTICALLY DECORATED

The Sunday school rooms were artistically decorated with Hallowe'en yellow and black streamers, Jack O' Lanterns, Maple leaves in their varied colors, which made an attractive spot with matching booths.

The tea table was centred with a "horn of plenty" with fruit overflowing. The small quartet tables were decorated with baskets of fruit and flowers while Hallowe'en' servitties were used.

Mrs. Maurice Bell, Mrs. William Brown and their assistants were in charge of the tea-room while Mrs. Walter Warren and her group of helpers replenished the plates of sandwiches and small cookies.

Those who poured were. Mrs. W. G. Fletcher, Mrs. Percy Utman, Mrs. H. C. Secker, and Mrs. W. H. V. Walker, while a large number were in charge of the serving.

The guests were in attendance from Bethel, Wellmana, and Mount Pleasant on the Rawdon charge; Carmel, Zion, River Valley, also St. Andrew's and St. John's in the village.

Each booth had conveners and their various assistants and they did a thriving business. Over $300 was realized during the afternoon and of course there will be a minimum of expense.

The booths were; candy booth, Mrs. Ed. Warren; home-cooking, Mrs. Alex Bush; aprons, Mrs. R. A. Patterson; country store, Mrs. Leonard Wannamaker; fancy work, Mrs. Earl Eggleton and Mrs. Gordon Brasford. The Queen's cake "sample and recipe" Mrs. Albert Fraser and Mrs. Joe Leury; plano—silver'TD dish, Mrs. Leury; plants and cut flowers, Mrs. Russel Stapley.

The assistants at each booth had a busy session and the bazaar was most successful.

Heated Discussion Expected In Federation on Pipeline

TORONTO (CP)—A lengthy and heated discussion is expected today when the Ontario Federation of Agriculture considers resolutions on the controversial pipeline issue.

Five resolutions touching on various aspects of the farmer's position in dealing with companies seeking land for pipeline routes are scheduled to go to the floor during the second day of the federation's annual meeting.

Main proposal to be aired by almost 250 delegates is a change in the Ontario Pipe Lines Act to improve the farmer's bargaining position in dealings with pipeline companies.

Proposed legislation changes would require companies t complete surveys of proposed pipeline routes, then apply for a government permit before being allowed to approach farmers about acquiring land. Companies would be responsible for all damage to property done in pipeline construction, and would avoid bulking on property including deposits of potentially valuable gravel.

They would be required to use existing rights of way where feasible, and would pay for property on the basis of its real value, or potential value as residential or industrial sites.

All appeals from farmers dissatisfied with proposed pipeline routes would be heard by the Ontario fuels board.

Other proposed resolutions ask that the federation be empowered at the provincial, and county levels to advise farmers on what action they should take on certain company offers, and the use of an OFA "stamp of approval" on those company contracts it approves.

Tuesday, Finance Minister Harris told the convention that prospects for Canadian agriculture during the next five years are bright. But he warned against adoption of policies tending to permanent over-production.

"Nothing can be accomplished in the long run by the promotion or adoption of policies that do not permit economic forces to bring about continuing readjustment," he said.

"We have been through a series adjustment since 1951. That adjustment seems to have about run its course and in my opinion we can look with confidence to the next five years."

Earlier, the federation passed a resolution asking that the federal government publish more detailed reports on Canadian agriculture's economic situation, contending that present reports are misleading to outside groups.

Director of information, Huntly McKay of Toronto, told the meeting the problems of agriculture are treated with "amazingly cold indifference" by outside groups, including labor, industry, white-collar workers and professionals.

DEFEATS

If the voters were dissatisfied, they apparently took it out on rank-and-file Republican candidates. They still liked Ike.

As the campaign started, the chief cause for discontent appeared to be in some agricultural areas, where farmers tended to blame Agriculture Secretary Ezra Benson's flexible price-support system for a falling-off in prices.

The Democrats wooed the farmers vigorously, promising a return to the high, rigid supports offered by Democratic presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman.

None of the farm states switched to Stevenson, but a few ousted Republicans at the congressional level.

ON CIVIL RIGHTS

Republican fears that the civil rights issue would cost them votes in the South also proved groundless. There had been a wave of southern resentment over last year's decision by the United States Supreme Court outlawing racial segregation in public schools.

Although Chief Justice Earl Warren, a former Republican governor of California, was the target of considerable southern abuse, it soon became apparent that the Democrats were split on the issue. Stevenson himself came out strongly in support of the court's decision.

Even though some dissident Democrats threw their support behind third-party candidates in the south, Eisenhower's margins were never in danger. None of the independents polled enough votes to affect the outcome in any state.

Another Democratic argument that got nowhere was the campaign against Vice - President Nixon, whom Stevenson dubbed Eisenhower's "Indo-spanest."

Pointing to Eisenhower's heart attack a year ago and his abdominal surgery last June, Stevenson said in an election-eve broadcast that Nixon would probably be president within the next four years if Eisenhower was re-elected.

TACTICS PAID OFF

The vice-president has been a favorite target of the Democrats' ever since his free-swinging campaigns in the 1952 and 1954 elections. But he did his stumping on a more gentlemanly level this year, and the tactics apparently paid off.

But as the campaign developed, domestic issues faded. Fighting in the Middle East and Nasser's bloodless bid for independence of its Communist rulers riveted attention on foreign affairs.

Stevenson, who earlier had urged the United States to seek an international agreement to ban hydrogen-bomb tests and an alternative to the compulsory draft in building its military strength, turned his fire on State Secretary Dulles.

He argued that Dulles had been guilty of vacillation in his Middle Eastern policy and bore a heavy responsibility for the outbreak of fighting between Israel and Egypt and the subsequent intervention of Britain and France.

HIT PROMISES

And he said Republican election-time promises to liberate Russia's satellites in Eastern Europe had prompted them to futile uprisings in which the U.S. was powerless to assist them.

Eisenhower's campaign slogan had been "peace, prosperity and progress," with the emphasis on "peace." But, as the world situation worsened, Republican campaign strategists reminded the electorate that Eisenhower had fulfilled his 1952 campaign promise to go to Korea, and that the fighting there had subsequently ended.

As a general fighting to keep the peace, they said, the president was needed at a time when war threatened.

And when the votes were counted it appeared that the majority of Americans agreed.

Main minerals in the sand beaches of Australia are titanium and zircon, used in aircraft construction and nuclear research.

OFF TO EUROPE

At RCAF Station Uplands, near Ottawa, a ceremonial sendoff is given No. 445 Squadron, going to Europe for NATO duty with the RCAF's No. 1 Air Division. The first of four CF-100 squadrons heading overseas, No. 445's pilots are flying their aircraft to Marville, France, in operation "Nimble Bat One." These photos depict scenes during the departure ceremonies. (1) Michael Pearson, age 9, wears a look that indicates he'd like to go along in the "Canuck," while his dad shows him the aircraft. F/L L. B. Pearson, his father, is one of the four flight commanders. (2) A squadron CF-100 shows off its new paint job in NATO camouflage colors. Inset is Wing Commander E. G. Ireland, Officer Commanding No. 445, who will lead the squadron overseas. (3) Defence Minister Ralph Campney, accompanied left, by W/C Ireland and Air Marshal C. Roy Slemon, Chief of the Air Staff, makes a final inspection. (4) The over-all scene of the military ceremony.

White's District

WHITE'S DISTRICT.—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rush of Colborne, were Sunday tea guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Rush.

Congratulations and best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Earl Van Alstine (nee Winnifred Saylor), who were married in Trenton on Wednesday, October 31. They will make their home at Bayside.

Mr. and Mrs. Casey Ketcheson were Thursday guests of his mother, Mrs. Manchester Ketcheson on the occasion of her 85th birthday. Mrs. Ketcheson is still quite active and enjoys an occasional motor drive.

Mrs. Walter Jones was a Thursday guest of her daughter, Mrs. William Hunter of Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Ritz and family of Thurlow, were Sunday guests of her mother, Mrs. W. A. Jeffery.

Mr. and Mrs. Casey Ketcheson were Sunday afternoon and evening guests of Mrs. Jack Ketcheson and family of Trenton.

The children in this district had a jolly time on Hallowe'en. They enjoyed the treats but the older people enjoyed the fun of guessing who each visitor was.

Miss Sharon Jeffery was a weekend visitor of her grandmother, Mrs. W. A. Jeffery.

A good number from this district attended the temperance conclave at Bridge Street United church on Sunday evening when Dr. Douglas Wilson of Montreal was guest speaker.

The Rev. Mr. Smalley, field secretary of the Temperance Federation of Toronto, was guest speaker at White's United church on Sunday morning. He gave several fine illustrations of the folly of intemperance.

Light For Living

by PEGGY LIDSTONE
Home Lighting Specialist

Do you use lighting in your home merely to chase away the shadows? Home lighting should be given a much more important role than that!

Dramatically and psychologically, light and colour are the two strongest influences in home decoration. They can induce gaiety . . . add zest to your work . . . bring new charm to your way of living.

You set your own stage, lighting-wise, during the hours when your home is most used. Carefully planned lighting can influence and intensify the pleasant atmosphere of your home.

Kitchen chores become less tedious when your kitchen's working areas are individually lighted. Lamps should be shielded from the eyes, and should reflect onto working surfaces.

Bathroom, when well lighted, are an aid to better grooming. Adequate lighting will help you see into harmful dry skin, and will help you make room-cleaning easier.

Dining room should have fairly strong overhead lighting to bring dramatic sparkle to the table, plus soft surrounding light from a wall bracket or valance. Place the centre fixture directly over the table . . . have the wall bracket six feet above the floor on the nearest wall.

Television should never be viewed in a darkened room. A general lighting will save the eyestrain caused by strong contrast between the screen and the surrounding area. Use floor and table lamps, but be sure the shades do not appear brighter than the screen. Lighted valances and torchères may also be used.

For Lamp Lighting Tips, write to: Peggy Lidstone, c/o Lighting Institute, Canadian General Electric Co. Ltd., 163 Dufferin Street, Toronto.

MOTHER DEAD, CHILDREN EAT RAW MEAT

For at least two or three days, these two little boys looked after themselves while their mother lay dead on the floor of their farm kitchen near Sudbury, Ont. The boys, Johnny and Gordon Smith, ages two and three, punctured milk cans, ate raw meat and spread jam on bread. The mother died of tuberculosis and the children opened tins of jam. They had been left by their father, who did not see the house on fire. He separated from their mother, who did not realize she was dying. (Central Press Canadian).

MEMORY OF SHORT-LIVED FREEDOM

Before the Russians returned to Budapest, a wrecked Soviet tank was on view on the spot where it was wrecked by bombthrowing patriots. Reports from Hungary indicate a grim secrecy to those who fought against them. (Central Press Canadian).

2,000 Luxembourg Students Storm, Set Fire to Soviet Embassy, Lock up Ambassador

LUXEMBOURG (Reuters)—Police Tuesday night dispersed a Soviet embassador to Luxembourg —in full dress uniform—locked in a cellar after 2,000 students had stormed and set fire to the Soviet Embassy.

The students surged on the embassy—then a legation until recently—just as guests were beginning to arrive for a cocktail and caviar party to celebrate today's October Revolution Day.

Ambassador Yvan Milchkik took refuge in the cellar as the demonstrators fired some of the embassy rooms and burned furniture, including a portrait of Mrs. Nikita Khrushchev, wife of the Russian Communist party chief.

Students, joined by other demonstrators protesting against Soviet action in Hungary, stormed into the grounds of the embassy on the outskirts of Luxembourg, after ripping down railings and bursting through police cordons.

FLED TO ATTIC

Inside the embassy, two of the party guests and some of the 70-strong embassy staff barricaded themselves in the attic with beds and heavy cupboards.

Furniture was hurled from the windows and set alight and flames enveloped a car in the grounds.

Then the brigade was called. Demonstrators flung dishes full of cocktail snacks through the windows.

Meanwhile, demonstrations against the Russian action in Hungary were reported from other world capitals.

In Brussels, 8,000 students battled police. Some 40 demonstrators and 20 policemen were injured, four of them seriously.

About 10,000 persons marched through Bonn, Germany. Strong police forces guarded the Russian embassy as 1,500 youths staged a demonstration.

Democratic Gov. and Whole State Ticket Elected in Mich.

DETROIT (AP) President Eisenhower won handily in Michigan, but did Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams swept back into office most and possibility his complaints of the state ticket Tuesday.

The Williams performance was the most lustrous of the meteoric political career that lifted him from the ranks of the unknown eight years ago and landed him in the governor's chair a record five straight times.

It was certain to attract national attention to the 45-year-old heir to a tollettries forbune who is said to have designs on the White House in 1960, perhaps by way of the U.S. Senate in 1958.

Running against a strong Republican side for Eisenhower, Williams scored under Democrat Mayor Albert E. Cobo, the Republican nominee and previously up-ended in 1952 the late Governor Kim Sigler.

And he did it largely by crushing Cobo in his home territory of Detroit and Wayne County where the United Auto Workers (UAW) vote is concentrated. The latest returns for president and governor:

With 4,497 precincts of 5,171 reporting, Eisenhower 1,480,252, Adlai E. Stevenson, 1,215,542.

With 4,432 precincts reporting, Williams 1,477,103, Cobo 1,191,107.

The latest count on other state races:

For lieutenant governor—with 4,422 precincts reporting, Philip Hart, Democrat, 1,283,451; Clarence Reid, Republican, 1,221,808.

For secretary of state—4,419 precincts, James Hare, Democrat, 1,344,026; John Martin Jr., Republican, 1,240,615.

For attorney general—4,382 precincts, Thomas M. Kavanagh, Democrat, 1,335,484; Richard van Dusen, Republican, 1,248,635.

For state treasurer—4,382 precincts, Sanford Brown, Democrat, 1,328,239; Frances Paddeldt, Republican, 1,221,471.

Although Williams jumped into the lead right off the bat and widened his margin—slowly at first and then by a whoosh — Cobo was reluctant to concede defeat, holding off until about 4 a.m.

Then he went on the radio to say it was "obvious" he could not overtake Williams, who was ahead 200,000 votes at the time with over two-thirds of the returns in.

It was an overwhelming approval to the one constitutional amendment to be considered.

The proposition would bar from eligibility for Senate and House of Representatives seats persons less than 21 years of age, persons convicted of subversion and persons convicted of a felony involving breach of the public trust.

Williams displayed crushing strength in Detroit and Wayne County, a traditional Democratic stronghold where he was expected to do well, but showed strength outstate that surprised many political observers.

He carried at least 17 outstate counties, and when all returns were in it was possible the figure might rise to 20 or more.

Eisenhower Wins New York State By 1,500,000

NEW YORK (AP) — President Eisenhower piled up a plurality of approximately 1,500,000 votes over Adlai Stevenson in winning New York state's 45 electoral votes.

The Republican also gained a seat in the United States Senate as Attorney-General Jacob K. Javits defeated Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York, City, the Democratic-Liberal candidate, by some 450,000.

Returns from 11,128 of the state's 11,132 election districts, with traditionally Democratic New York City complete, gave:

For president—Eisenhower 4,-318,614; Stevenson 2,742,258.

For the Senate—Javits 3,700,-372; Wagner 3,250,000.

SUCCESSOR CHOSEN

Javits will succeed the retiring Democratic senator, Herbert H. Lehman.

Wagner had aspired to follow in the footsteps of his father, the late Senator Robert F. Wagner, sponsor of the Wagner labor relations law and other New Deal legislation under President Roosevelt.

Unofficial returns indicated that voters in the state approved a $100,000,000 bond issue for highway construction but defeated a $100,000,000 bond issue to encourage private construction of middle-income housing.

TWO JOIN UNESCO

NEW DELHI (AP) — Morocco and Tunisia, French protectorates in troubled North Africa, were admitted today into UNESCO. They brought membership in United Nations Educational and Cultural Organization to 78. No opposition was voiced. On a motion by the United Kingdom, Nigeria was admitted to month.

NORMAL OR BETTER THAN THAT FOR MOST OF CANADA

Warm weather will be enjoyed in most of Canada for some time yet, according to the weather bureau's 30-day forecast. The West is to have normal temperatures, the East above normal. Rainfall, however, will be heavy if the long-range forecast is right. (Central Press Canadian).

Unification of Canadian Labor Moving Ahead Swiftly

OTTAWA (CP) — Unification of a big segment of Canadian labor is moving ahead swiftly.

Provincial and local organizations formerly tied to one or an other of Canada's two largest labor congresses are acting a fast pace in merging individually, following the amalgamation of the two congresses at the top.

Most of the one-time rival provincial federations of labor are expected to be wedded before the end of the year. In more than half of the local areas where there have been competing labor councils, unity already has been attained.

Canadian Labor Congress officials figure that by early 1957 there will have been unification of just about all the provincial and city organizations affiliated with the Trades and Labor Congress or the Canadian Congress of Labor before their 1,000,000-member bookings last spring.

This will mean that by far the preponderance of organized Canadian labor will have joined forces. The total working force is about 5,700,000 but only about one-fifth of this is organized.

Main groups still outside the unification picture are the 100,000-member Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor in Quebec and the independent Railway Brotherhoods of the running trades, with some 40,000 members. The CCCL is expected to associate itself with the big congress next summer — though retaining its identity—but it is not expected as likely that the rail brotherhoods will do this for perhaps some years.

Among the provincial federations, Newfoundland set the pace in getting former affiliates of the TLC and CCL together. The TLC had a Canadian liberty; the CCL had none. At the TLC federation's convention in July, it brought in delegates from CCL locals and opened up provincial offices in them. All are in a CLC federation.

Alberta federations of the two old congresses merged in September, with the officers of the two former groups sharing the top posts in the new body.

Manitoba has had just one provincial federation—TLC — and it invited delegates from former CCL unions to a convention this month.

In Saskatchewan, the TLC and CCL affiliates are holding a merger convention starting Nov. 14, and top officials have agreed to a division of offices between the two. Probable president of the united federation is Lloyd Gardiner, who has headed the CCL's federation.

Similar splits have been made for merger conventions in British Columbia starting Nov. 14 and Nova Scotia starting Nov. 19. The Nova Scotia meeting will lack representation from the province's largest union — the 10,000-member Mine Workers of America — which was dropped from the CCL last December after international president John L. Lewis cut off its dues payments to the congress.

The Canadian UMW membership and the congress both are unhappy about the move and CLC officials are hopeful some way will be found to bring the UMW back into the fold.

In New Brunswick, a merger convention is to be held early in 1957, likely ahead of the single organization in Whitehorse. CLC vice-president who also is president of the former TLC New Brunswick federation.

Prince Edward Island has had no provincial federation but the local labor councils in Charlottetown and Summerside have got together and are regarded as the voice of P. E. I. labor.

Ontario and Quebec have been moving more slowly than the other provinces, largely because of the greater membership involved. Both have unity committees set up for liaison between the former TLC and CCL groups and it is expected the get-together will be both provincial will take place early in 1957.

In the case of local councils, there have been 21 amalgamations out of a total of 36 possibilities with the TLC and CCL both had organizations. These include such points as Victoria, Kingston, Hamilton, Calgary, Winnipeg, Vancouver, Toronto and Saskatoon. Winnipeg had a three - way operation. The 12,000 - member Greater Winnipeg Labor Council is the two former congresses, and OSU secretary-treasurer Bob Hunter will be trade executive secretary of the United Winnipeg Council.

Sadler's Wells Ballet Cancels Moscow Visit

LONDON (Reuters)—The Royal Opera House announced today that all of the Sadler's Wells Ballet to Moscow has been cancelled.

Bolshoi Ballet is now here in return for one by Moscow's Bolshoi Ballet Company, here last summer.

Meanwhile, a spokesman said the Foreign office will not be represented at the Soviet Embassy's reception tonight on the anniversary of Russia's 1917 revolution "in view of recent events."

It was announced in Paris today no representatives of the United States, Britain or France would attend a reception to be given at the Soviet embassy there in mark the 39th anniversary of the October Revolution.

Zhukov Says Russian Troops Ready to Join Force to Stop Invasion of Egypt

LONDON (AP) — Russia's defence minister in Moscow today called on the United Nations to crush the Anglo-French-Israeli invasion of Egypt and said Russian troops are ready to join any force set up for the purpose.

Marshal Georgi Zhukov's statement, broadcast by Moscow radio, was made several hours after Britain and France had announced conditional acceptance of a UN cease-fire order. He made no reference to the cease-fire in urging the use of force by the UN against the invaders.

Speaking before a mass rally in Moscow's Red Square celebrating the 39th anniversary of the October Revolution, the wartime Soviet hero said:

"The Soviet Union calls upon the United Nations resolutely to stop the armed aggression of Britain, France and Israel against Egypt and actively to support the Arab peoples in their struggle for freedom and independence.

READY TO MOVE

"As regards the Soviet Union, she is prepared, in accordance with a UN decision, to take a real part with her armed forces in the liquidation of this aggression."

Zhukov's speech renewed demands for intervention in Egypt voiced two days ago by Premier Bulganin. It saddled to emphasize, however, that Russia would not step into the fighting without UN backing.

Notes by Bulganin to Britain and France had left some observers in doubt as to the latter's point. There had been some fears that Russia would intervene by air to give fighting or send "volunteers" on an unofficial basis.

In the same speech Zhukov defended the use of Soviet troops to put down the uprising in Hungary.

"The Patriots of people's Hungary, together with the Soviet Army units summoned by the aid of the Hungarian workers' and peasants' government, has resolutely put an end to the reaction and fascism in Hungary," he said.

Following Zhukov's speech, Russian army, navy and air force units marched through the square for 21 minutes in a mass display of military might.

Arab Raiders Attempt to Blow Up Israel Bridge

TEL AVIV (AP)—Arab raiders attempted to blow up a bridge in Israel territory today near the junction of the Lebanon and Syrian borders, Israeli military headquarters said. The bridge was slightly damaged.

It was the first hostile activity on the northern frontier in recent weeks.

The Israeli communique did not say from where the raiders were thought to have come.

Quiet prevailed on all other sectors.

Death Agony of Port Said Seen From Air by Writer

Editor's Note: The following story was written Tuesday by the correspondent who accompanied the combined British press.

By T. F. THOMPSON

PORT SAID (Reuters)—Three plumes of smoke climbed into the sky in a sunny sky, a grim corona of fire twinkling at their heart, as they records the death agony of Port Said.

As I write I am flying directly over the town looking down to where Royal Marine commandos are locked in a fierce house to house struggle with its Egyptian defenders.

Among the clouds and feluccas I can see leading craft chugging busily ashore with reinforcements.

I have witnessed the whole awesome operation from seaward.

It could have been avoided. Monday night the governor of the town sent word he was willing to surrender and save the lives of civilians. But Nasser ordered him to fight on.

I wish to God he had not. I shall never forget to my dying day what I have just witnessed.

Banking over terra-cotta colored geometrically laid out suburbs, are huge thousands of terrified Egyptians fleeing along the Eki Maritime Canal. Women with babies, men dragging children, old people with crutches are all pouring along to escape from the stricken town and the battle as we roared low over their heads. They were barrage already so frightened they did not even see us. They were running — anywhere to get away.

I saw them packing into little boats—hundreds, in boats meant for only dozens. Some capsized in the water. Others fortunate enough to be on board seemed to be paddling with their hands getting on because the boats were already in a sinking condition.

I came over the Allied invasion fleet. There were scores of ships scattered over the rough blue sea like iron filings at random on a blue and white table cloth.

My heart almost stopped as I caught my first glimpse of Port Said dead ahead. There were three main areas of fire, marked the Shell Oil refineries were burning was described.

We flew directly over an area near the seafront, perhaps an area of a square, where only two bricks were in use. Every brick had been on top of each other here. Not one single brick in a wall of what was a residential area were smoulderling black rectangles.

Somewhere between the three main areas of the fires burning unheeded and unattended are the little commandos battling with determined Egyptian resistance. They came ashore after navy and rocket fighters of the RAF had put down a carefully selective

Christmas-Theme Stamps Studied By Postal Experts

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal postage experts are considering the idea of Christmas-theme stamps, but it's a touchy subject.

Post office officials can't say when, if ever, they will appear. They are faced with the problem of choosing a theme that will please everyone.

"In countries of predominantly one religion the religious theme would be no problem," says L. J. Mills, the man largely responsible for the issuing of new stamps in Canada.

"In France, for example, religious stamps are not uncommon."

SEE IS PUZZLE

Overshadowing even this problem is the size of stamps.

"It's difficult to get a suitable design that can be reduced to stamp size and still tell a story," says Mr. Mills, director of financial services in the post office department, says the idea has not been dropped.

"The matter has been given very serious thought and is still very much an active project."

Supporters of the child's "Crusade for Children" campaign have urged the introduction of Canadian stamps depicting the holy season.

SEEK SIMPLE THEME

Mr. Mills, an Anglican who personally thinks it's a "wonderful idea," said it is a matter of his-ideas," said it is a matter of his-ideas," said it is a matter of his-ideas

Three Million Christmas Trees Will Be Exported in Early Dec.

SAINT JOHN, N. B. (CP)—With the nip of autumn still in the air, exporters are well ahead on arrangements to meet the traditional United States demand for Christmas trees.

Hundreds of railway boxcars will rumble across the border in early December, carrying more than 1,000,000 of the Yuletide symbols as far south as Miami.

The trade is worth about $2,000,000 to New Brunswick cutters and things look good this year, say the exporters.

"The supply is on quality," says Everett Trites of Fredericton, president of the year-old New Brunswick Christmas Tree Producers Association. "The cutters are beginning to realize they can get as much money for fewer trees of better quality."

CAREFUL CUTTING

"Eventually," Mr. Trites prophesies, "the careless cutter is going to find himself out of business."

An educational program undertaken by the producers' association in its first year of operation to stress the importance of quality "has passed out pretty good."

Quality has become ever more important since New Brunswick cutters face stiff competition from other provinces for the United States market. Most New Brunswick trees go to the U. S. especially New England, with comparatively few sought by Montreal and Ottawa dealers.

Shippers send out anywhere from 10 to 70 carloads each. The railway cars hold about 2,000 trees. Only a few trees go by truck.

The trees come from farmers reducing their forest acreage and giants of the industry like the J. Hofert Co. (Marritime) Ltd. which predicts this year's shipments will "perhaps be higher" than last year's record 3,000,000 trees.

The Canadian National Railways is even more optimistic. A spokesman said the CNR expects to move about 4,500,000 trees from the province.

The Canadian Pacific Railway estimates its shipments will reach 540,000 trees moving over their lines, most to the United States. This would ring the total to about 3,000,000 trees.

Canada exported more than 12,000,000 trees last year, earning cutters $3,630,000.

PACK B.C. APPLES

Mechanization plays a vital part in British Columbia's Okanagan Valley fruit industry but it still takes human hands to wrap and pack the fruit. The two girls in this B.C. government photo are packing the fruit in boxes. Machines in the valley's 40 packing-houses empty the fruit from farmers' boxes, polish it and sort it as to size and then deliver it to the packers. (CP Photo.)

Machines Play Vital Part In Growing and Packing of Apples in Okanagan Valley

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP) — Machines play a vital part in the Okanagan Valley fruit industry, from the tractor-operated hole-digger for young trees to the peeler that peels and cores 30 apples a minute for apple sauce.

Though the increase in modern equipment has helped growers to lower costs of production, it also has its inconvenient side.

For instance, when the over-efficient bees finish the job of pollenizing fruit blossoms, there usually are too many apples on the trees. So that fruit may "size" to large juicy apples, each tree must be thinned so the apples are six to eight inches apart.

COSTLY OPERATION

Before the Second World War the valley's 1,100,000 apple trees were thinned by hand and several hundred people were employed to do the job. This operation alone cost 10 per cent of the total value of the crop.

Now, however, a blossom-thinning spray is used. It is applied in May before pollenization so that in a five-flower cluster, all blossoms except the centre of king bloom are killed.

This tractor - powered spraying can be done by one man. Furthermore, insect and fungus spray guns which formerly required up to four men now have been perfected so that a single operator handles them.

Even irrigation has been simplified. It formerly was a ditch system requiring the attention of a number of men. Now it is done with portable aluminum pipe with sprinkler attachments. There is a saving on both manpower and precious water.

As a result of machine improvements of the last 10 years, a farmer with 20 acres now can look after his own thinning, spraying and irrigating.

When the picking season arrives, however, a lot more help is needed. Fruit must be picked at correct maturity or it loses its "shelf life." And that's where the rub comes.

LACK OF PICKERS

Formerly there were enough thinners, sprayers and irrigators on hand to do the picking but now picking help is hard to come by.

L. G. Butler, East Kelowna orchardist, said the "construction and development boom in the rest of British Columbia is nothing but a curse to us." Hundreds of pickers used to come from the coast each summer to pick fruit. Few do now.

Although an experienced picker can pick from 140 to 220 boxes a day, "green" pickers are lucky to hit 85. Wages, at a basic rate of 12 cents a box, compare unfavorably with what can be obtained from industry in other sections of the province.

For the last two years the valley closed its high schools for two or three weeks and also appealed to stores to allow their help to pick fruit. But the picker shortage remained.

The greatest amount of mechanization is found in the valley's 40 packinghouses where machines empty fruit from the farmers' boxes, polish it and segregate it as to size. It still takes human hands to sort the fruit, however, sending only perfect apples to market and diverting the culls to processing plants.

Despite some lowered costs from the use of more modern machinery, farmers claim cost factors beyond their control are pushing up fruit prices. They cite unionized packinghouse labor, increased transportation costs and higher retail and wholesale markups as the reason.

H. P. Walsh, general manager of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd., central selling agency for the province's 3,650 fruit farmers, said physical costs of handling apples total $3.52 a bushel box before anything is available to the producer. In October, a box of McIntosh "fancy" sold for about $4.40 in Vancouver and Calgary stores.

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma was talking to pop about different subjects, especially how much everything costs her in the market so matter how little she buys, and she said, Do you know, William, I think I'll withdraw from the Wednesday afternoon bridge game, and Maud Hews thinks so too.

Maud thinks you'll withdraw? pop said, and ma said, No, she thinks she'll stay out with me. The other 2 players have started to talk about each other behind their backs and Maud and I are of the mutual opinion that when women begin to indulge in backbiting criticism, it's time to get up another bridge game in a more friendly atmosphere. Dont you agree, William? she said.

A hundred and 50 per cent, pop said, and ma said, So do I. It started last week when we met at Blantch Hipple's. Bertha Cornbread was the first to leave, and as soon as her back had disappeared Blantch started in on her with all 21 guns going. Then this afternoon we had the game here, and the moment Blantch left, Bertha tore into her, tooth and nale, and didn't leave a rag unturned, ma said.

It's a woman's werld, pop said, and ma said, Maud and I agreed afterwards that it was a mutual case of the pot and the kettle both crying black. We both expressed the undivided opinion that Bertha Cornbread never had a thought in her life that rose above clothes and money, and Blantch Hipple hasn't a bone in her head that isn't utterly selfish. So we are seriously considering avoiding their critical company. Dont you think we are right, William? she said. 99 per cent, yes mam, pop said.

Being the end of the subject.

Polio-Stricken Vic Wertz Made AL Comeback-of-Year

NEW YORK (AP)—Vic Wertz, whose recovery from a sometimes crippling disease gave renewed hope to similarly-afflicted thousands, was named American League comeback-of-the-year in 1956.

Wertz, who fell victim to polio in Aug. 1955, received the votes of 105 of the 313 members of the Baseball Writers Association of America participating in the annual Associated Press poll.

The Cleveland first baseman regained his position as one of the game's outstanding sluggers last season by walloping 32 home runs and driving in 106 runs. He led the Indians in both departments and was second in the league in honours and third in RBI's.

BATTED .284

Wertz, although he batted only .284 last season picked up the power slack caused by the slumps of Al Rosen, Al Smith and Bobby Avila. He played in 136 of the Indians' 155 games, was sidelined briefly with a pulled leg muscle. Vic's polio attack shocked the baseball world. He is a strapping fellow, 6 feet tall and weighs 195 pounds.

After only two weeks in a hospital, however, Wertz returned to his home in Detroit. His recovery was quick and in March he reported to Cleveland's spring training quarters in reasonably good shape.

"I'm lucky I had the non-paralytic type of polio," he said. "I just hope I have a good year to help others they can fight their way back.

"People can beat this thing if they catch it in time. The most important thing is to check with their doctors right away if they get the symptoms."

Wertz is 31-year-old and a native of York, Pa.

Vic has a lifetime batting average of .278 with 190 home runs and 823 runs batted in. He started for Cleveland in the 1954 world series against the Giants, batting .500 while collecting eight hits in 16 times at bat.

Predicts All Marks Broken At Olympics

MELBOURNE (AP) — Franz Stampf, former Oxford University coach who prepared Roger Bannister for the first four-minute mile, forecast Tuesday that if the weather is good all Olympic track and field records except the broad jump will be broken at the Games here Nov. 22-Dec. 8.

He excluded the broad jump because, he said, "there are no jumpers comparable with Jesse Owens, who set the record in 1936." Owens' mark is 26 feet, 5 3-8 inches.

Stampf gave Lon Laady, Australia's world champion miler, a chance of winning both the 5,000 metres and 1,500 metres. "He has a capacity for recovery greater than I have seen in any other man."

Northern Electric Hockey League

The Northern Electric Interdepartmental hockey league got under way last week-end with the Indians downing the Hornets 5-2 while Barons thumped the Flyers 6-4.

Dave Jones and Pukancsik each tallied a goal and two assists to pace the Indians attack. T. Soule, Don Barclay and Creegan also scored. Totten and H. Wardhaugh were the Hornet goalmen.

The Barons rode to victory on the four-goal effort of E. Barrett and another trio of markers by Philp. They each added an assist to their total points while Day netted the other goal. Martin had four helpers with Day getting two and J. Barrett one.

Reeves fired a hat-trick goal for the Flyers with R. Hatfield getting one and two assists. Dowd Bone picked up a goal and assist with York helping on one.

We've Heard Just About Everything Now

WHITBY (CP) — Enthusiastic hockey players here recently volunteered to play without pay to help the club obtain a player's release.

Wren Blair, manager of Whitby Dunlops of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A Eastern Group, recalled the incident. He said Whitby recently was awarded player Ted O'Connor by Hamilton Bulldogs on the condition Whitby pay Windsor $1,000 for his release, Said Blair:

"About two weeks ago the players came to us and offered to forego their pay for a couple of games and pool it to help the club towards buying O'Connor's release. In lieu of that, they offered to play a couple of exhibition games later in the season to raise the money."

He said the play-without-pay offer was turned down but the exhibition games might be arranged.

Campbell Has No Word of Leafs Protest

MONTREAL (CP) — President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League said Tuesday he has heard nothing from Toronto Maple Leafs since they filed notice of protest by wire over disallowance of a goal in a game last Saturday night.

Campbell said he telegraphed back to the Leafs Sunday asking them to supply proof and other necessary information. He also asked Detroit Red Wings if they acknowledged or denied the validity of the Toronto claim. He has not heard from Detroit.

Reports from the officials who worked the game have been received but the nature of the reports were not disclosed.

The disputed goal, disallowed by the referee, was scored as the game ended. Leafs claimed the puck entered the net "in time," just before the goal light flashed and siren sounded. The Wings claimed it didn't. The goal, if allowed, would have given Leafs a 3-2 tie.

'Rare Treat' Wins Rich Garden Stakes

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — Rare Treat, four-year-old filly owned by George M. Widener, survived a foul claim to win the $61,500 Vineland Handicap at Garden State Park Tuesday by a nose over Calumet Farm's Amoret.

The Hyrnke-Rare perfume filly, allowed to go off at 13 to 1 by the election day crowd of 28,494, moved into contention in the stretch and under the forceful handling of jockey Ray Milkmon outlasted Amoret, ridden by the United States' leading jockey, Willie Hartack.

Hartack lodged a claim of foul against Milkmoen and Rare Treat, but the stewards ruled that C. T. Chenery's Manotick came out on third place, forcing the latter into Amoret Rare Treat paid its backers the tidy sum of $26.40, $15.40 and $8.80 across the board.

The winner was timed in 1:43.3 for the 1-1/16-mile closing day feature. The Widener establishment received $42,900 for its victory, with Amoret earning $10,000 second money for Calumet and Manotick $5,000 for the Chenery Stable.

Announce New Way To Shrink Painful Piles
Science Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids
Toronto, Ont. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain. Thousands have been relieved—without resort to surgery.
In case hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' examinations.
Pain was relieved promptly. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.
And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!
In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.
All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—the discovery of a famous scientific laboratory. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for hemorrhoid troubles in all parts of the body.
This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Don't Look Now But The Red Wings Could Be The Club To Beat For Cup

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

CLEVELAND TONIGHT, PEMBROKE FRIDAY

The Pembroke Lumber Kings, a big, tough gang of hockeys, make their Belleville debut against the McFarlands Friday night. The Kings from Harry Moore's adopted hellwich hundred are only a 5-3 defeat last Saturday night after that successful display against the Whitby Dunlops, but the Mose men by no means disgraced and are fully confident they can put that one back come fish-day evening.

But Coach Guidolin is not telling the Kings short. He knows their capabilities and that they will be a hard nut to crack on Belleville ice. He has shaken up his lines and the story has it there will be one or two new faces trot out there when the teams take the ice.

The McFarlands, though showing plenty of pep, fire and fight, haven't been world-beaters thus far in the scoring column and Manager Percy Denyes is out to remedy the situation as soon as possible. This is not meant to depreciate the fine work of opposing goalies but the inability thus far of the Macs to score consistently cannot be blamed altogether on the work of the enemy goaltenders.

And a little temper curbing won't come amiss either. Some of the boys "flipped their lids" last Friday against Whitby, the most of it provoked. Hockey-wise old pros are taking the fallest advantage of this wacky one-referee-two linesmen system. That was seen to fall advantage last Friday.

This department was warned of the weakness of the single-referee system while covering the Kitchener Dutchmen-McFarlands return exhibition tilt in Kitchener a few weeks ago.

Len Taylor, sports editor of the Kitchener Record and a hockey senior "A" expert, said, "I just simply can't work. You fellows down east will be sorry before Christmas," he said. "We tried it here in Western Ontario, quickly got wise and experienced its weaknesses and as quickly reverted to the two-referee set-up."

It is reported that it works well or has worked well in other centres of the Eastern League, but there has been considerable room for improvement in the refereeing at any of the games played in Memorial Arena.

We broached the matter to Ontario Hockey Association president Frank Buckland when he called last Saturday morning with reference to the Maurice Benoit incident. "It is the one referee league," he said. "It is a matter for leagues to settle themselves. The OHA has nothing to do with it."

He was right. The Eastern Senior "A" moguls voted unanimously for the one-referee system. And just to save a few measly bucks. The referee gets the regular senior "A" fee, while the local linesmen get a five-dollar bill for ten bucks worth of abuse. The linesmen, outside of calling offsides have as much power on the ice as a gay nineties automobile.

And don't forget the majority of the linesmen are showing fine sportsmanship by "working" these games for the home teams. We know not a few who can line their exchequers far more handsomely by officiating at other league games.

Veteran hockey players know too well the powers and limitations of the linesmen. They know they cannot report anything to the referee outside of an infraction that calls for a major penalty. And a lot of hockey-wise players are taking advantage of the referee's "blind side."

Tonight the Cleveland Barons tangle with the McFarlands in an exhibition tussle at Memorial Arena which should be a tidy puck tidbit for fandom, and a fine rehearsal for the Macs for that all-important league game with the Pembroke Kings Friday night.

One of those typographical error gremlins crept into the Cleveland Barons-McFarlands hockey ad yesterday. It read: "Season tickets now useable for this game." It should have read: "Season tickets NOT useable for this game."

UNBEATEN

The students of Tweed High School and a lot of the loyal burghers of the village, too, are mighty proud of this year's football club. The young gridiron gladiators wearing the maroon sweaters proudly point to a seasonal record unmatched and the fact their goal-line has been crossed but once by enemy invaders.

The Tweedsters have racked up 140 points in seven games, an average of 20, while they have had but seven points recorded against them, a touchdown and two singles.

They have swept aside all opposition on their march to various titles thus far and on Saturday night their gridiron guns at Whitby Collegiate's starry pupils for the COSSA senior "B" championship. They won the COSSA Bay of Quinte crown by walloping Albert College 21-2 at Belleville October 20 and a few days later smeared the Central Hastings High School title by defeating Madoc High School 17-1.

A good crowd of Tweed's faithful will likely be on hand at Albert College field when Tweed and Whitby schools clash for the COSSA championship. More punch to their pigskin.

'Bold Ruler' Finishes Last

NEW YORK (AP)—The Bohemia Stable's Ambehaving hauled off the $96,150 Remsen Stakes as the favored Bold Ruler came in last in a field of 11 at Jamaica Tuesday.

Fourth in the recent $219,210 Garden State Stakes, Ambehaving rushed up in the stretch, overtook Missile near the final sixteenth of a mile, and skipped under the finish line a 2½-length winner.

Missile, who had taken the lead after three quarters of a mile, got second place by 1½ lengths over Flatlands, who went off at 70 to 1.

The winner, a brown son of Amberto-Dustrifoe by Keeping Reward, was second choice of the big election day crowd of 60,318, and paid $13.60, $7.10 and $5.20. Missile returned $7.80 and $6.10, while Flatlands paid $17.80 to show.

REMEMBER WHEN . . .

Jumping Johnny Gaudes of St. Boniface, Man., won the Canadian bantamweight boxing crown 18 years ago tonight at Toronto by defeating champion Baby Yack of Toronto in 10 rounds. A slashing right hook gave the Manitoba fighter his third victory over Yack, the first two having been non-title bouts.

BARONS DOWN WHITBY

WHITBY (CP) — Cleveland Baron of the American Hockey League edged Whitby Dunlops of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A Eastern Group 5-4 Tuesday night.

Hab's Coach Does Not Think Club Will Pulverize League; Meet Maple Leafs Tonight

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Wondering about the chances of Montreal Canadiens running away with the National Hockey League race? You don't have to consult the self-styled experts—just ask Montreal coach Toe Blake.

He says:

"Chicago Black Hawks are in a New York league all by themselves. But outside of that it's pretty hard to gauge our chances at this point. Barring injuries, as we've had, Detroit could be the team to beat."

It was obvious Blake does not expect Canadiens to pulverize the opposition as they did last season when in capturing the league crown they won handily. Furthermore, he was thinking Tuesday night that Wings with both could well finish on top.

Last season Montreal finished first, 24 points ahead of the second-place Wings. Canadiens won 13 games, tied 10 and lost only seven.

Blake moved Canadiens into Toronto Tuesday to prepare them for a game against the Maple Leafs tonight. In tonight's other engagement, Boston Bruins, tied for third place with Canadiens take on the fifth-spot Rangers at Boston.

Canadiens continued to patch up their holes Tuesday as Coach Blake announced that Detroit would be the team to beat.

Ottawa Whips Pembroke 5-1 Dutchmen Measure Mercs 6-4

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Pembroke - Waterloo Dutchmen are in the move. They surged into second place in the Western division of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series Tuesday night by defeating the last-place Mercurys 6-4 in Queen Elizabeth Memorial Arena.

The win moved Dutchmen from fourth place in the five-team league to second place, one point behind the leading Stratford Indians. Chatham Maroons and Windsor Bulldogs are tied for third place.

In other provincial action, Ottawa Canadiens, a well - conditioned team that is attracting exhibition matches between the senior and junior series, maintained their unbeaten record in the eastern division as they defeated Pembroke Lumber Kings 5-1 at Pembroke.

North Bay Trappers strengthened their domination of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association southern group when they regained their four-point leadership by turning back Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Greyhounds 3-1.

STAGED COMEBACK

At Owen Sound, Dutchmen were hard-pressed for their victory after running a 5-0 lead in the first. The winners scored four times in the first seven minutes. Mercurys held Dutchmen under steady pressure for most of the final periods.

Jim Taylor and Cecil Desbarge paced Kitchener with two goals. Joe Hogan and Fred Knox each added one. Tommy Wilson, Harry Kazarian, Ed Louttit and Arnold Smith were snipers for the losers.

At Pembroke, Bill Carter passed the Canadiens with two goals. Nick Dumouchelle, Ralph Black, Strom and Gerry Wilson scored the winners. Jack Giesebrecht tipped Ken Campbell's shooting drive in the net in the first period to spoil Gilles Boisvert's shutout.

Carter got both first period goals, firing in from close in front for his first and twice the puck deflect in off him for the second.

At North Bay George Gosselin led the way for Trappers with two goals while Art Stratton, former St. Catharines junior star added the clincher with less than two minutes left in the final period. Trappers had a two-man advantage at the time.

Veteran Pete Morock snipped the lone Sault goal early in the second period.

Local Fans May 'Get in' On Riders

Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—A plan to incorporate Ottawa Rough Riders and sell shares to local fans is expected to be announced before the end of the year, perhaps in a month.

Club president Sam Berger, recognizing that Big Four football is becoming Big Business, said Tuesday he is preparing the details of the plan to sell shares in the club for $25 apiece. He hoped incorporation would be made before the start of the 1957 season.

Berger, the club's lawyer, said in an interview the present intention is to incorporate the club under Ontario laws with a capitalization of between $200,000 and $300,000."

Shareholders would be limited to 200 shares or an investment of $5,000.

"We don't want any individual to acquire control of the club," Berger said. "We want to keep the club a community affair."

NO OUTSIDE SALES

Shares would be sold only to residents of Ottawa and district. Purchasers would elect their own board of directors to manage the club. Some thought is being given to hiring a full - time salaried manager.

At present, the club is owned and operated by a group of 15 Ottawa sportsmen on a non-profit basis.

The club franchise in the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union, now held by club directors James P. McCarthy, D. Wes Bowen and E. K. Emerson as trustees, would become the property of the incorporated club.

Berger announced the plan at a quarterback club luncheon before the Rough Riders boarded a train for Hamilton en route to meet the Tiger-Cats today in a sudden-death semi-final playoff.

The club this year operated on a budget of about $325,000 and started the season with an accumulated deficit of about $35,000 from past seasons. Most of the deficit likely will be wiped out by income from a big boost in attendance this year, to a record of $310,000.

Ten Americans Named to 1956 Senior ORFU All-Star Squad

Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Ten Americans have been named to the 1956 all-star team of the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union.

London Lords, who finished the regular season in last place, and the first-place Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen each placed four men on the team, chosen for The Canadian Press by coaches and sportswriters in the league cities. Sarnia Golden Bears had three men on the squad and Toronto Beaches two.
